ST. LOUISAN TELLS HOW SWINDLERS GOT HIS $41,000

William E. Ebert, 55, Was Promised $20,000 Profit on Loan to Sharper at Springfield, Ill.

REJECTED BANK'S WARNING OF FRAUD

Borrowed $26,000 to Make Quick Turnover—Confidence Men Approached Him Through Realty Deal

Swindled out of $41,000 in cash, which he turned over to confidence men at Springfield, Ill., yesterday in spite of the urgent warning of a friendly banker, William E. Ebert, consulting engineer of 7111 Waterman avenue, returned to his home last night.

The swindle included the usual chance acquaintance, a pretense of interest in a real estate deal and finally a fortuitous meeting with a "big man in the financial world." Then, in a whirlwind finish, the "financier" let Ebert see him "make a killing" in the stock market, gave the victim a chance to invest and was on his way with the money.

After Springfield detectives, who had been advised by underworld informants that Ebert was to be swindled had convinced him that he was the victim of a confidence game yesterday afternoon, he made a statement in which he set forth the details of the deal.

Tells Story of Swindle.

"On Oct. 7, while in Chicago on a business trip," he said, "I met a man in the Forty-second street railroad station who introduced himself as John W. Miller. He said he was on his way to St. Louis to purchase a home there for a client. We made the trip together and when I left him that night at Hotel Statler, I volunteered to show him around the city.

"The next day we had luncheon at the City Club and then I drove him around. During the afternoon I showed him my house and after he had looked at it he said it was satisfactory, as far as he was concerned, for his client. I asked $20,000 for it, but he wanted to trade in some property in Springfield as part payment.

"He suggested that we go to Springfield for the purpose of inspecting this property. This we did last Thursday. It was owned by Miller's friend and it appeared satisfactory. The prospective purchaser of my house was not in Springfield, I was told, but he was represented by a man named Clark, an attorney, who had a check for $10,000 which he said was his client's earnest money.

"I agreed to take the Springfield property for $3000 in trade, so Clark left us and Miller and I went to the Lincoln Hotel, where he had a room.

Enter the "Big Financier."

"While we were at luncheon Miller saw a man whom he said he had met in Chicago. He said he could not remember the man's name but recalled that 'Judge Baker' of Chicago had said he was a good man to know, and a big stock manipulator.

"Miller approached the stranger and introduced himself. The stranger told Miller he could not talk as his auditor was watching him, but said that he would go up to Miller's room. He came to the room a short time later and introduced himself as R. J. Haines. He explained that his auditor had some business in Springfield and that during this period, he, Haines, would be at leisure.

"During the conversation he referred to 'Judge Baker' and said that although the 'Judge' had been land poor, he had helped him make enough on the stock market to pay all his mortgages. Haines then changed the subject and showed us a letter from his company which said he would be suspended within 60 days.

"He explained that he represented a stock exchange bureau and had been accused of revealing business secrets. He said that he lived in Buffalo, N. Y., that his wife was an invalid and that he did not know what he was going to do after his suspension.

"He satisfied us that he was on the square by exhibiting a bond to his company for $50,000 and by showing the letter of suspension. He said he was sent by his company to bid on some stock and suggested that we submit a bid, too.

How the Fraud Was Managed.

"Then he took out 10 $100 bills and told Miller to go to a stock exchange (which later proved to be

Man, Who Killed His Child To End Suffering, Freed

Englishman Drowned Daughter, 3, Who Developed Gangrene—Judge Says He Did It for Love.

By the Associated Press.

CHESTER, England, Oct. 22. — Albert Davies, laborer, who confessed that he killed his three-year-old invalid daughter because he loved her so much he could not bear to see her suffer, was acquitted by a jury in the Court of Assizes here today.

Evidence showed the child had been in hospitals for treatment for tuberculosis, that afterward she had been operated on for appendicitis and that later she contracted measles and pneumonia and became infected with gangrene. Davies told how he had watched the child suffer until he could bear it no longer and finally took her into the bathroom and drowned her.

Judge Granson, in his charge to the jury, said that one thing stood out above all others and this was that if Davies did take the life of his child he did so because he was actuated by love and sympathy. Previously Judge Granson had said:

"It is a matter which gives food for thought, when one considers that had this poor child been an animal instead of a human being, so far from there being anything blameworthy in this man's action in putting an end to the child's suffering, he would actually have been liable to punishment had he not done it."

WOMAN REPORTS $5000 HOLDUP BY TWO MEN

Mrs. Naomi Rogers Says She Was Stopped in Street and Robbed of Jewelry.

Mrs Naomi Rogers of 5190 Raymond avenue, a widow, was robbed of jewelry valued at $5000 by two young men as she was on her way home late last night, she reported to police. The loss was insured.

Mrs. Rogers had been visiting friends on Grand avenue and alighted from a street car at Clarendon avenue shortly before 11 o'clock. Walking north on Clarendon she was stopped by the men near Raymond avenue.

"One of them said, 'hand over your rings' and started to get rough," Mrs. Rogers related.

She listed her loss as a platinum bar pin, valued at $800; three diamond rings worth $3700 and a sapphire ring valued at $500.

YESTERDAY HOTTEST EVER KNOWN HERE AFTER OCT. 18

Temperature, 85.2 Degrees Sets New Record for This Season of Year.

The highest temperature on record in St. Louis for any day later in the year than Oct. 18, was reached shortly after 3 p. m. yesterday, with an official reading of 85.2 degrees.

As the temperature was 54 at 5 a. m., the mean for the day was the average of 54 and 85, or 69.5 degrees. The mean temperature for the entire month of October, over the period beginning with 1873, is 58.7 degrees.

LAW VIOLATOR TO STAY IN U. S.

U. S. Court Rules Alien's Deportation Is Not Warranted.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—Violation of prohibition and narcotic laws does not constitute a sufficiently grave display of moral turpitude to warrant the deportation of an alien, the United States Court of Appeals decided in the case of Nicholas Skrmeta of Savannah, Ga.

The decision was announced here today.

80 HURT IN CRASH OF FOOTBALL SEATS

Stand at Richmond, Va., Gives Way When Spectators Rise to Cheer Brilliant Run.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 22. — More than 80 persons were injured, perhaps 15 of them seriously, and many others received minor cuts and bruises when a section of the stands at Mayo Island Park crashed here today as the spectators stood in their seats to cheer a brilliant run by Barnes, Virginia Military Institute halfback, in the football game with Maryland.

Cries were heard as the stands began to waver, then toppled with a crash.

The football game, which Maryland won 10 to 6, was halted for 20 minutes, while firemen, police and ambulances were sent to the scene to remove the injured. Eager spectators who rushed forward were held in check by rapidly formed police lines and order was maintained.

The stands, reserved for the Maryland supporters, began to break in front, then the tiers in the rear, from five to fifteen feet above the ground, collapsed, throwing several hundred persons violently to the ground. The seats caved in slowly, row after row breaking and sending the occupants sliding to the ground. About 12 rows of 25 seats broke away altogether.

GIRL KILLS HERSELF AS DID HER SECRET JAPANESE HUSBAND

Oriental, Secretly Wed to Former Missouri Girl, Committed Suicide to Shield Her.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Lillian Beatrice Idi Ashby, 18-year-old widow of Bill Idi, the Japanese who ended his life 18 months ago when she begged him to free her from a secret marriage, killed herself with gas at her parents' home Thursday.

The girl, who had marritd Ashby a few months after Idi's death, separated from her husband last December and returned to her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Arch McDonald.

Bill Idi spent his last minutes writing letters to the girl who feared to let the world know of her love for him.

The body of the girl was taken to the former home of the family at Vandalia, Mo., for burial. The body of Bill Idi was found slumped over the love letters, the writing of which had occupied his dying moments. In his pocket were the letters from the girl begging him to free her.

ACTRESS GETS LIFE INCOME

Josie Collins Named in Will of Late Frank Curzon.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Josie Collins, daughter of the famous Lottie Collins, and popular figure on the London and New York stage for many years, particularly during the war-time period, today found herself heiress to a substantial sum in the will of the late Frank Curzon, widely known theatrical promoter and race horse owner.

Miss Collins, who is now Lady Robert Innes-Ker, will get an income of £20,000 for life from the estate of Mr. Curzon, whose life ambition was realized when his horse, Call Boy, won the Derby only a month before Curzon's death.

TAX OFFICIAL ASKS UTILITIES TO HIRE FRIEND AS LAWYER

Commissioner C. M. Danuser Recommends Attorney T. C. Owen to Plead Cases Before Himself.

LATTER INDICTED IN BENTON COUNTY

Both of Them Admit That Their Letters 'Maybe Did Look Sort of Funny'—Governor Silent.

C. M. Danuser, recent appointee of Gov. Baker to the State Tax Commission, has been writing to public utility corporations in Missouri recommending that his friend, T. C. Owen, an attorney of Warrensburg, be employed to represent them before the commission in matters affecting the amount of taxes which they are to be assessed, and upon which, as a commissioner, Danuser is required to pass.

In most cases the utilities first have received a letter from Owen, applying for employment, reminding the utilities that the Tax Commission now originates all assessments of their property and implying, hence, the need of a representative acquainted with the commission and skilled in practice before it. In conclusion, Owen in each case refers the utility to Commissioner Danuser as a man who can vouch for his ability and integrity.

In some cases utilities have inquired of Commissioner Danuser about Owen. In others Danuser has voluntarily dispatched letters recommending Owen, without having received an inquiry.

Danuser's Recommendations.

In the letters Danuser has said that he knew Owen when Owen was a member of the school board in Warsaw, where Danuser in 1922 was employed as Superintendent of Schools. He said he found Owen to be a competent attorney, a high-class citizen and a good neighbor, and thoroughly fitted to represent the utility before the commission. In some cases, Danuser has assured the utility that Owen knew personally all the members of the Tax Commission and the Board of Equalization as well.

A Post-Dispatch reporter who sought Owen at his home in Warrensburg gained the ready admission that he had applied widely among utilities for employment and had asked Danuser to write letters to the utilities. To an inquiry of whether he did not think it a delicate matter to ask a commissioner to recommend any particular attorney to appear before him in his official capacity, Owen replied:

"I guess may be it did look sort of funny. I won't do it any more."

To the same question, Danuser replied at first that he had only stated in his letters his confidence in Owen's ability. He was reminded that he also had assured some utilities that Owen "knew personally all the members of the commission and the Board of Equalization."

Admits It Might Look Bad.

He admitted that he had added that to several letters and then said:

"Now that I think it over, I realize I probably should not have written such letters, as they might be misconstrued and look bad. I would not let my recommendation influence me in passing on a valuation before the Tax Commission."

The reporter who visited Owen at Warrensburg also was informed that Owen was under indictment in Benton County for acts connected with his law practice.

One charge is that he diverted to his own uses $878.85 of money sent to him by a client for the discharge of an obligation. Another is that he obtained $233.27 from a client under false pretenses, and the third perjury in connection with the second.

This Surprises Danuser.

Danuser appeared surprised when informed of the indictments against Owen. He said that he had not known of them when he wrote the letters recommending Owen for employment before the Tax Commission. Owen, he said, had represented one small company before the commission, but that was previous to any letters Danuser had written recommending him.

Gov. Baker was asked for his view of the propriety of the letters written by Danuser, who recently was raised by the Governor from a field agent for the commission to Commissioner. The Governor replied that he had no knowledge of the matter, could not be expected to have any knowledge and had no comment to make.

SIDENER CLEARS SERVICE CAR MEN IN FUND INQUIRY

Says Agreement Was for Fee for Lawyer Contingent on Passage of Desired Legislation.

ALDERMANIC BOARD TO INVESTIGATE

Acts at Request of Herman C. Waldman, Member Falsely Accused of Signing Agreement.

The special investigating committee of the Board of Aldermen will meet at 4 p. m. tomorrow to begin its inquiry into the contingent agreement by which $1200 was to be paid by the service car drivers, as a legal fee and expense money, only in the event that legislation desired by the drivers was passed by the aldermen.

An inquiry by Circuit-Attorney Sidener, virtually completed yesterday, resulted in his conclusion that no crime had been consummated, and that there was nothing to be presented to the Grand Jury, though, as the Circuit Attorney expressed it, the participants in the agreement had been "skating on rather thin ice."

Waldman Requests Inquiry.

The aldermen, however, will proceed with their inquiry, which was requested by Alderman Herman C. Waldman of the Twenty-eighth Ward. Waldman was incorrectly charged, by the first man who made the contingent agreement known, with being one of its signers. The signers, as made known yesterday, were Mort Rosenblatt, head of an automobile mortgage concern, and Alderman Waldman's son-in-law; H. G. Cohen, who is Rosenblatt's attorney, and who was to receive the $1200 fee and expense money; George Keller and Victor Crouch, service car drivers.

Waldman is the author of the only pending bill for regulating service cars. This bill, introduced a few weeks ago, and supported by the Automobile Club and Safety Council, is opposed by an apparent majority of the drivers, because of its requirement that each driver furnish a $3000 bond to the city, for indemnifying passengers and others.

Drivers Split Into Factions.

The drivers, it has developed, split into two factions last summer, and $300, which had been raised toward the $1200 total, was withdrawn from the National City Bank June 27, and was paid back to the contributors. The written agreement remained in the bank, and is still there, having been examined by Circuit Attorney Sidener and his assistant, Andrew C. Maroney, a veteran of the Folk boodle prosecutions.

Sidener yesterday declined to give out the text of the agreement, on the ground that he had not completed his inquiry. He said photostatic copies had been made and probably would be given to the newspapers tomorrow. He gave his version of the purport of the agreement and the names of the signers.

Besides the agreement filed with the National City Bank, it was learned yesterday, there was another written agreement between Rosenblatt, who acted as trustee for the fund, and Cohen, guaranteeing the lawyer his fee in the event that the services specified, in obtaining legislation and otherwise, were performed to the satisfaction of the drivers.

According to the story told at the Circuit Attorney's office by the various participants, and related to the Post-Dispatch yesterday by the Circuit Attorney and by Alderman Waldman, who said he got the facts by questioning his son-in-law, the escrow agreement originated in a talk between Rosenblatt and Keller, in Rosenblatt's office last spring. Rosenblatt had made loans to Keller and other service car men and received periodical payments from them.

Second Agreement Drafted.

Keller said the service car drivers had been paying lawyers fees for various services, and had not been getting satisfactory results. Rosenblatt suggested that they employ his lawyer, Cohen, and he brought about a meeting between Keller and Cohen. Cohen wished to be assured of his fee, and it was agreed that Rosenblatt should be trustee of a fund to be raised. An agreement was drawn up, that Rosenblatt should pay the money to Cohen when certain services, legis-

MOROCCAN BANDITS KIDNAP FOUR CITIZENS OF FRANCE

Relatives of Resident French General Seized in Automobile, Taken to Mountains.

By the Associated Press.

RABAT, Morocco, Oct. 22.—A band of marauding Moors, today swept down from the mountain fastness of the middle Atlas range on to the plains of Southern Morocco and captured four members of the family of Theodore Steeg, French Resident-General of Morocco.

It was reported that the four kidnaped persons are being held for ransom. Those kidnaped were Mr. and Mrs. Yves Steeg, nephew and niece of the Resident-General, and Mr. and Mrs. Jean Maillet who are distantly related to him. It is believed that they have been carried into the mountains.

The Steeg and Maillet couples had been motoring along the foot of the Atlas range on a hunting trip. Their automobile, bullet-riddled, was recovered. Two hunting dogs were found dead in the bottom of the automobile with their throats slit.

NAVY YARD BARS RED CROSS

Admiral Plunkett Forbids Solicitation Among Low-Paid Workers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Declaring the solicitation of contributions would be "an imposition" on the 3000 low-paid civilian workers in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, Rear Admiral Charles J. Plunkett, commandant, has barred the gates of the yard to the Red Cross annual roll call.

When informed today that the Brooklyn chapter had asked John Barton Payne, national chairman, to appeal to the Navy Department from Admiral Plunkett's refusal, the navy yard commandant said he would lay his side of the controversy before Secretary Wilbur. Admiral Plunkett explained that he had given an emphatic "no" when a Red Cross representative made "peremptory demands" that he permit the roll call to be taken in the yard.

TORNADO FUND PAST $900,000

Total Nearly Doubles Original Sum Sought by Red Cross.

The St. Louis Red Cross fund for the tornado victims passed the $900,000 mark yesterday. The original sum asked by the Red Cross was $500,000.

An additional check for $619.40 from employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad lines in St. Louis, makes a total contribution of $4,981.60 from officers and employes of this company. Red Cross Chapters in other towns sent $494.41.

Borah's Horse Is "Governor."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—"Governor" is what Senator Borah of Idaho has decided to call the new horse recently given to him with the name of "Al Smith." Senator Borah, who finds his new mount a worthy successor of "Jester," which he rode for years, says he doesn't think it right to call the horse "Al."

ONE YEAR IN JAIL FOR RUSZNAK FOR $5 'FIXING' GRAFT

Professional Bondsman Also Fined $100—Jury Votes Maximum Penalty on One Ballot.

The maximum punishment of a year in jail and $100 fine assessed yesterday by a jury in Judge Butler's division of the Court of Criminal Correction against Louis Rusznak, first grafting bondsman ever convicted in St. Louis, followed a trial at which several tricks of bondsmen were brought to light.

Charged technically with embezzlement by bailee, Rusznak was convicted of having taken $5 from a Police Court defendant under the promise that he ould "fix" the case.

So complete was the State's case against Rusznak that the jury agreed on his guilt on the first ballot and fixed the maximum sentence after 20 minutes' deliberation, Charles E. Kling, 3124 South Compton avenue, foreman of the jury, told attaches of the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

Rusznak was defended by Oliver T. Remmers, Chairman of the Republican City Central Committee, and Ernest Green, President of the Missouri State Bar Association. They filed motion for a new trial and Rusznak was released on $1500 bond. The motion will be argued before Judge Butler Nov. 8.

The prosecution of Rusznak was instituted after a Post-Dispatch reporter placed information he had obtained from Police Judge Beck before Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer. The Prosecuting Attorney promptly issued a warrant against Rusznak based on affidavits Judge Beck had obtained from witnesses in the case.

Witness Denies Alibi Story.

Strongest of the developments in the trial which contributed to Rusznak's conviction was the unexpected testimony that he and Sam Arky, a notorious trickster and defaulting professional bondsman, had attempted to arrange an alibi. Charles Goldberg, a clothing merchant of Belleville, told the Court under oath that Rusznak and Arky had asked him to testify in Rusznak's behalf. Instead, Goldberg, when called to the stand, flatly contradicted the alibi to which Rusznak had sworn a few minutes before. He said Rusznak was not with him in Belleville on July 12, a statement Rusznak had made to explain why he could not have been "fixing" a case in the Municipal Courts Building in St. Louis that morning.

The Rusznak case began on July

440 NICARAGUANS KILLED IN FIGHTING WITH U. S. MARINES SINCE LAST MAY 15

Official Record of 10 Engagements Also Lists 200 Wounded — Figures Are Probably Too Low.

BLOODY RESULTS OF INTERVENTION

Spread of Insurrection Seems to Discount State Department Stories of Peace Except for Bandits.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. — The bloody fruits of American armed intervention in Nicaragua on behalf of one of the factions in a civil war are daily becoming more apparent. A compilation made here today from official sources discloses that since May 15, when the United States Marines and the Marine-officered native constabulary undertook a joint campaign against the insurrectionists, at least 440 Nicaraguans have been killed and more than 200 wounded in 10 engagements.

In addition to these fatalities among the insurgent troops that Secretary of State Kellogg persists in describing as "nothing more than common outlaws" five Marines and four members of the constabulary have been killed and one Marine seriously wounded.

When these figures were laid before a spokesman of the State Department this afternoon, the reply was made that the department, in the absence of an official total of its own, would not undertake to dispute their essential accuracy. The information was added that the pursuit of the "bandits" by the Marines and constabulary had been hampered of late by heavy rains, but would undoubtedly be pressed vigorously with the coming of the dry season in December.

Official Record of Engagements.

The "battles" of which official record has been made, from reports of the United States Marines, are as follows:

May 15-16—La Paz Centro, where 14 Nicaraguans and two United States Marines, including Capt. Richard B. Jackson, were killed and an unreported number of Nicaraguans wounded.

July 16—Ocotal, where more than 300 Nicaraguans were killed and more than 100 wounded, mainly by the dropping of bombs from American airplanes. One Marine was killed.

July 26—San Fernando, where six Nicaraguans were killed and 15 to 20 wounded, and one Marine was wounded.

July 27—Twenty Nicaraguans killed or wounded in the pursuit by United States airplanes of fugitives from the battle of San Fernando.

Aug. 16—Two Nicaraguans killed near the norther border.

Sept. 3—Telepaneca, where five Nicaraguans were killed or wounded.

Sept. 8.—Sananto, where five Nicaraguans were killed.

Sept. 19—Telpaneca, where 20 Nicaraguans were killed, 50 wounded and two Marines killed.

Sept. 21—A further unreported number of casualties among Nicaraguans at Telpaneca.

Oct. 9—Sixty-seven Nicaraguans killed or wounded and four members of the constabulary killed.

The figures include only casualties which have been officially reported. Undoubtedly there have been many others.

Stimson Said Civil War Was Over.

Such is the condition to which the American intervention, beginning last December, has led. Repeated engagements have taken place since Col. Henry L. Stimson, who was sent to Nicaragua as a peace commissioner by President Coolidge, announced that the civil war was ended, and no fewer than 400 Nicaraguans have been killed since the State Department declared that the only armed opposition to the Government forces remaining in the field was a handful of men—50 men—led by the rebel, Sandino.

The department holds to the view, for publication, that this opposition consists only of "bandits," who are without political standing in either the Liberal or the Conservative faction of Nicaragua. In support of this position it points to the peace agreement engineered by Col. Stimson, under which the Liberal Gen. Moncado,

HOPE TO FORCE SINCLAIR AND FALL TO TAKE STAND

Prosecutors Shaping Case to That End — Defense Not Decided Whether They Will Testify.

IMPORTANT RULING DUE TOMORROW

Judge to Decide Whether Evidence Taken by Senate Committee May Be Used at Trial.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A long drawn out and bitter legal battle, with Albert B. Fall's possible course a matter of wide speculation, is developing in the oil conspiracy trial in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Those following the hearing growing out of the lease of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair would not be surprised if Fall should undertake another dramatic move such as that in midweek when he appealed to Justice Siddons to admit evidence which he said was vital to his defense.

Whether Fall will take the witness stand irrespective of advice of his counsel is one question generally discussed. Counsel for the former interior secretary declare that the question of their client's testifying has not been determined.

Fall Nervous, Sinclair Calm.

Fall, who is in poor health, has been nervous since the beginning of the trial last Monday and has had apparent difficulty in sitting quietly through the sharp encouters between counsel and the hearing of testimony.

Sinclair's demeanor has been in rather sharp contrast. He has displayed little nervousness; has followed every move in the case with the greatest attention, and frequently has volunteered suggestions to his counsel. He has not decided whether he will take the stand.

Government oil counsel hope to force both of the defendants to the witness chair and with that end in view have been successful in excluding on cross-examination evidence which they hold Fall is the most competent person to give to the two women and ten men on the jury.

Long Trial Likely.

Thus far only a small number of the army of witnesses the government has summoned has taken the stand and it may be ten days or two weeks before the presentation of the prosecution's case is concluded. The defense will call 40 or more witnesses after the government rests.

Upon the resumption of the trial Monday, Justice Siddons is expected to decide whether the Government may place before the jury parts of the testimony which Sinclair and Fall gave before the Senate Oil Investigating Committee. If the Government is successful in this move, as it was in the Fall-Doheny trial last year, the presentation of its case will be simplified to some extent. If it fails there may be difficulty in refuting some of the contentions set up by defense counsel in the outline of the case to the jury.

Points for the Prosecution.

Besides developing for the jury the fact that Teapot Dome was set aside as a naval reserve under a policy calling for preserving oil for the navy in the ground, the prosecution has shown that Fall was instrumental in having control of this and other naval reserves turned over to the Interior Department, then leased the Wyoming field without competitive bidding and in a secret manner.

The Government also has offered evidence to combat the defense's contention that the imminent danger of drainage caused Fall to turn the reserve over to Sinclair for development under a plan calling for furnishing tanks at the Seaboard in which to store the Government's royalty oil from the reserve.

12 last, when George Morgan, a soldier at Jefferson Barracks, then employed as an ice man, appeared in the corridor of the Municipal Courts Building. He was charged with operating an automobile without a state or city license. His failure to have a city license brought him to Police Court, the other charge coming up later in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Morgan entered the building with his employer, John Hales, an ice dealer, who had accompanied him. Morgan testified he was accused in the corridor by Rusznak, who asked him: "What's your trouble?" Morgan asserted he told Rusznak his trouble and that Rusznak replied, "Give me $5. I can fix it up. Don't worry. Go on back to work." Morgan said he borrowed $5 from Hales and gave it to Rusznak, believing Rusznak was a "fixer," and could get him off.

The city license case came up in Police Judge Beck's court and Morgan was fined $10 and costs by default. Rusznak had not "fixed" it and there was no evidence to show that he had even tried such a thing. "Fixers," according to Judge Beck's testimony at depositions in the case, often pretend to have influence where they have none, to delude ignorant defendants into paying them money.

Morgan testified that a few days after paying Rusznak the first $5 he paid him another $5 to get him off on the State license charge in the Court of Criminal Correction. It happened that the Prosecuting Attorney's ofice did not deem the offense worth issuing a warrant for, and so Morgan's case there was settled anyway. Rusznak saw no one in the Prosecuting Attorney's office about the case.

An attachment was issued for the arrest of Morgan to bring him into Police Court. He had joined the army meanwhile and after an interlude Morgan showed up of his own accord, word having been left with his wife that he was wanted. He went before Judge Beck to explain why he had failed to appear on the city license charge.

Morgan told Judge Beck of his dealings with Rusznak. Officers had recovered one of Rusznak's cards which the bondsman had left with Morgan. Judge Beck had Morgan make an affidavit to his story and also had the iceman, Hales, called in. Hales also made affidavit that he had seen Morgan pay the money to Rusznak.

Judge Beck informed a Post-Dispatch reporter of this evidence and the reporter placed the case before Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer. The prosecutor issued a warrant charging Rusznak with embezzlement by bailee.

Rusznak engaged Remmers and Green as counsel. They explained in a lengthy statement given to the Post-Dispatch that they had been recommended to Rusznak and he had employed them as his attorneys. Remmers and Green said they were convinced of Rusznak's innocence and were defending him on the principle that "a man is innocent until proved guilty."

In depositions taken before the trial, the iceman, Hales, changed his story. He said he did not know Rusznak and had named him because Municipal Courts building attaches had told him Rusznak was the man who took Morgan's $5. He repeated this story on the witness stand at the trial.

Morgan stuck to his story, however, and Hales got in trouble with the court over two failures to appear in answer to subpenas. After the trial Hales was sentenced to 10 days in jail by Judge Butler for failure to be in court Oct. 20 when warned he must appear.

Rusznak at the trial relied upon sweeping denials and an alibi. He denied ever seeing Morgan before and said that on July 12 he had gone to Belleville in the morning to visit his friend, Charles Goldberg. He said he had stayed with Goldberg in Belleville until 2 o'clock that afternoon and then had driven with him to St. Louis.

Rusznak's counsel were flabbergasted when Goldberg got on the stand and denied everything Rusznak had said. Goldberg asserted: "I wasn't with Rusznak in Belleville that day. I came to St. Louis in the morning to shop. I bought things at the Carleton Dry Goods Co. and the Rawlings Sporting Goods Co." He produced dated sales slips from these houses to prove his statements.

Then the witness added: "I saw Ruscznak last Monday. He and a man named Sam came to see me in Belleville. They tried to get me to come over here and testify that Rusznak was with me that day."

At a conference with Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer after the trial Goldberg said the "man named Sam" was Sam Arky, and that Arky and Rusznak had offered to pay his "expenses" if he would be an alibi witness for Rusznak.

"Sam Arky took me to lunch yesterday," Goldberg told the Prosecuting Attorney, "but he didn't say anything about my expenses. So I thought I was double crossed. I decided to tell the truth."

Attorney Green was not in court yesterday. Attorney Remmers, who made the only closing argument for Rusznak, said Green was busy attending an executive meeting of the State Bar Association.

New St. Louis Maternity Hospital

MATERNITY HOSPITAL CORNERSTONE LAID

New Eight-Story Building Will Have $650,000 Fund for Research.

The cornerstone of the new $650,000 Maternity Hospital, which brings to St. Louis a $650,000 endowment for research, was laid yesterday by Mrs. Benoist Carton, president of the Board of Directors.

An eight-story building of up-to-date hospital architecture, it adjoins Barnes Hospital on the east in the Washington University group. The top floor is given over to a solarium, and the third is taken up by the research laboratory. The research fund is the gift of the General Education Fund of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Of its 104 beds, 52 are free or part-pay, under direction of Washington University School of Medicine. The private rooms are open to members of the St. Louis Gynecological Society.

Attached to Medical School.

"A hospital's primary aim is perfect care for its patients," remarked Dean Marriott of the School of Medicine, who presided at the dedication. "Some hospitals, however, desire, in addition, to render outside service. For that reason, the directors, wishing to render the greatest possible service to humanity, decided the hospital should become attached to a medical school, in a group which includes also Barnes Hospital and the Children's Hospital.

"In a hospital used for the purposes of study, it is essential that the care of each case be model in every respect. If we teach good medicine, the practice here must be good, for we teach by example and not by precept.

Findings Free to World.

"It is proposed that here a group of men will devote their entire time to the causes of serious complications of motherhood. Their findings will be broadcast free to the whole world, and may be of value none of us can estimate.

"Because of the fact that other departments of this medical school have demonstrated valuable work in the advance of scientific medicine, the General Education Board has made a gift of $650,000 to support this research. This is a gift from outside St. Louis, actuated solely in recognition of previous accomplishment right here in St. Louis."

Mrs. Carton told of the financial progress of the institution from small beginnings, and Dr. Frederick J. Taussig, chief of the medical staff, related it was the child of a union between the old Maternity Hospital, established in 1919, and the obstetric service of Washington University.

"Who knows," he said, "what secrets may not be uncovered in the future within these walls, and what happiness may not come to the human race as a result of these discoveries?"

DWIGHT F. DAVIS IS MENTIONED TO SUCCEED HERRICK

Despite State Department Denials Washington Expects Retirement of Ambassador to France.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Despite denials today from the State Department that Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France, had informed President Coolidge that he desired to be relieved of his post as soon as convenient to the administration, Washington was still unconvinced that Herrick would not retire in the near future.

Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis, Secretary of War since 1925, is regarded as Herrick's most likely successor. The other candidates mentioned are former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania and Henry P. Fletcher, now Ambassador to Italy.

Herrick Is 73.

Since Ambassador Herrick returned from France in midsummer he has undergone two operations. His recovery has been comparatively slow and it is said that in view of his general condition he had decided to terminate his diplomatic career and retire to his farm in Ohio. He was 73 years old this month.

State Department officials said today that Herrick was recuperating from his illness and was expected in Washington within the next few weeks. These officials stated that they had received no intimation that Herrick would resign, but on the contrary, had been impressed by indications that he wished to return to Paris to continue negotiations with the French regarding the debt settlement and the tariff.

A Cleveland, O., dispatch quotes Parmley Herrick, son of the Ambassador, as saying of his father: "He is in splendid shape and expects to return to Paris about the first of the year."

It is probable that no announcement will be made of Herrick's decision until his successor is selected. It is unofficially assumed here that Herrick may return to Paris to wind up his affairs.

Davis Mentioned.

Secretary Davis' name has been mentioned recently every time a major diplomatic change has been thought imminent. He is independently wealthy—a prerequisite so far as the Paris assignment is concerned—and is said to have long desired a diplomatic appointment. His political and personal friends have already made representations in his behalf at the White House for the Paris post, but there is no indication with what success.

Davis is 48 years old and the youngest member of the cabinet. Before his appointment as Secretary of War, he was assistant Secretary under Weeks. He was a member of the War Finance Corporation from 1921 to 1923. In St. Louis he had a long record of public service. During the war he rose from captain in the fifth Missouri Infantry to Lieutenant-Colonel. At present he is making an official inspection tour of the Mississippi river flood regions.

Pepper and Fletcher.

Former Senator Pepper is also considered an available candidate. He too is independently wealthy and is said to have diplomatic aspirations. Pepper was retired from the Senate when he lost the Republican primary contest against Senator-elect William S. Vare. Pepper has always had the support of the Mellon political machine in Pennsylvania and it is assumed that this organization would support him for the Ambassadorship.

Ambassador Fletcher, now stationed at Rome, has been in the diplomatic service since 1901. His appointment to Paris would be a logical promotion.

440 Nicaraguans Killed In Fighting With Marines

who had been warring against the forces of President Diaz, retired from the field. This agreement provides that a presidential election suprvised by the United States shall be held in October, 1928.

In Revolt Against Marines.

Coincidentally with the publication of the consolidated reports of Nicaraguan losses since May 15, a news dispatch was received from Managua which makes it difficult to accept the explanation of the State Department that the condition in Nicaragua is merely one of "banditry." Reports from Government sources published in the Managua papers were quoted to the effect that Northern Nicaragua is in a state of insurrection against the marines.

The bands under Salgado and Sandino, Liberal Generals, who refused to accept the Stimson agreement, were said to be increasing, and the people in the affected areas were described as giving the rebels aid and comfort. Mining engineers who had been forced to leave Northern Nicaragua were quoted as saying that the natives in that section had turned against the Americans.

The first official explanation was that the American Marines were sent into Nicaragua to protect Americans and their interests during the fighting between the forces of Adolfo Diaz, the president recognized by the department, and the liberal claimant, Juan B. Sacasa, who had been recognized by Mexico. At first we were said to be neutral between Diaz and Sacasa. It quickly became apparent that this neutrality consisted in aiding Diaz. Neutral zones were laid out in such a manner as to hamper the Sacasa forces, and the use of the Government railway to transport troops and munitions was permitted to Diaz and denied to Sacasa. Subsequently it developed that the United States had authorized the sale of arms to Diaz.

One Reason After Another.

At different times, as one position after another became untenable, the State Department or the President announced various reasons for our intervention. The statement that we were there to protect Americans lost color when it was shown (as published in the Post-Dispatch) that outside of the Marines there were only 362 Americans in the country. Another explanation was that British and Italian interests had asked for protection and that we were obliged under the Monroe doctrine to furnish it.

Then it was said that the United States was acting to protect its right to build a canal across Nicaragua, and then, by Secretary of State Kellogg before the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, that the United States desired to prevent the use of Latin-America as a base for Bolshevist operations against the United States.

The action of the United States was the subject of bitter denunciation by Senator Norris and others in the Senate. A demand for a thorough investigation will be made soon after the new Congress assembles in December.

State Department Warns Chamorro He Won't Be Recognized.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Formal warning has been given to Emiliano Chamorro, former President of Nicaragua, that in the event he should be elected President at the coming Nicaraguan general elections, he would not be recognized by the United States.

The warning is contained in a communication handed to Gen. Chamorro when he called today at the State Department.

The communication follows:

"On Jan. 1, 1929, the Government of the United States will be confronted by the necessity of deciding whether it can consistently recognize the incoming administration in Nicaragua as the constitutional government of that country.

"In these circumstances and in view of the reports that Gen. Chamorro contemplates becoming a candidate for the presidency of Nicaragua in the 1928 elections, the Government of the United States has no choice but to point out that it regards Gen. Chamorro as ineligible under the provisions of the Nicaraguan constitution to the office of President of Nicaragua during any part of the term commencing Jan. 1, 1929.

"Article 104 of the Nicaraguan constitution provides that: 'No citizen who holds the office of President, either as the duly elected incumbent or accidentally, shall be eligible to the office of President or Vice President for the next term.'

"Gen. Chamorro unquestionably held the office of President de facto from Jan. 17 to Oct. 30, 1926, thus bringing himself within the prohibition of article 104 of the constitution and article 2 of the general treaty of peace and amity of Feb. 7, 1923, thus making it impossible for the Government of the United States to regard him as eligible to the office of President of Nicaragua for the term beginning Jan. 1, 1929, or to recognize him as the constitutional President of Nicaragua if he should claim or attempt to occupy the office during any part of said term."

BILLY SUNDAY VISITS BIRGER IN HIS CELL

Evangelist and Condemned Gangster Greet Each Other Like Old Friends.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Oct. 22.—The Rev. Billy Sunday today visited Charlie Birger, under sentence of death for the murder of Joe Adams, in the Franklin County jail at Benton.

Birger greeted the Evangelist with a cheery, "Hello, Sunday. You are heavier than you were 19 years ago, when I heard you preach at Danville."

"You heard me in Danville?" Sunday asked.

"Yes, I had $1.20, and I put 20 cents of it in the collection plate."

"Charlie, if you had hit the trail up there at Danville, you wouldn't be in all this trouble,' the evangelist said, grasping the hand of the condemned gang leader.

"I guess that's right," Birger replied.

The two visited for a half hour, during which Birger did most of the talking, reciting his version of the beginning of the gang warfare.

LINDBERGH TO END TOUR OF U. S. TODAY

Flight to New York From Philadelphia Is Last Hop of 22,000-Mile Trip.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at the Philadelphia city airport at 1:40 p. m. today, the last stopping place in his trans-continental tour. Tomorrow he flies to New York where the tour began three months ago.

Col. Lindbergh until tonight had never seen the motion picture of his historic flight. He was the city's guest at a banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford. During the evening motion pictures giving a complete record of his hopoff and his reception in various cities in Europe, were thrown on the screen. Lindbergh watched the scenes with great interest.

Col. Lindbergh's tour of the United States, under the auspices of the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics, began in New York City July 20. It was undertaken to encourage popular interest in aeronautics, particularly in the air mail service.

Visits to 82 Cities.

In the three months, Col. Lindbergh flew 22,350 air line miles with a flying time of 260 hours. He visited 82 cities, in 13 of which he made only "touch stops."

Col. Lindbergh was accompanied by a Department of Commerce plane, carrying representatives of the department and of the fund. During the tour each plane performed perfectly. There were no overhauls, no forced landings, no delays because of mechanical difficulties.

There was only one slip in the prearranged schedule. Extremely bad fog in July prevented Col. Lindbergh's landing on time in Portland, Me. The "Spirit of St. Louis" could have been landed, although probably not at the airport, but Lindbergh declined to do this, inasmuch as it involved leaving his ship unguarded in a strange field.

Used Original Motor.

Col. Lindbergh made his tour of the United States in a Ryan monoplane with the original Wright Whirlwind motor in which he flew from San Diego to New York and from New York to Paris.

The Post-Dispatch of Friday, October 21, with 88 pages, carrying 570 columns of paid advertising, established a World's Record for a regular week-day issue of any newspaper published in any of the leading cities.

This is the fifth time in three years that the St. Louis Post-Dispatch has established a world's record in volume of advertising and number of pages.

In no sense have these records been made through "special edition" efforts. The remarkable volume of advertising in each instance was due to the normal demand of local and national advertisers.

DRY AGENTS KEEP SICK MAN IN JAIL 17 DAYS ILLEGALLY

Charles Kinney, 60, With Half-Pint in His Pocket, Was All They Could Find, So They Arrested Him.

PRISONER FREED, OFFICERS SCORED

"Under Cover" Sleuth Had Sent Them to "Bar" and Offender Had His Liquor in Yard.

An "undercover" dry agent, imported from the East, has been uncovered in St. Louis after leading prohibition agents on wild goose chases and being responsible, indirectly, for keeping a sick man in jail for 17 days, without authority of law.

Things began to happen with the coming of the gumshoe man—a middle-aged Greek, whose name appears on the Government payroll as Gust West. West came from the East, exact locality not divulged. His specialty was snooping around Greek restaurants and bootblack stands, but he broadened his activities here to take in virtually everything.

He had no difficulty in buying liquor, to judge by the sworn affidavits he filed with the United States Commissioner to obtain search warrants, but regular prohibition agents who went out to execute the search warrants were flabbergasted.

Information Unreliable.

The Eastern agent, in his affidavits, had given the addresses and descriptions of buildings where he said the Volstead act was being violated. The regulars found that Carr Square existed where Mr. West had sworn a bootlegger had his place of business; that a bank was operating downtown where West had seen a "blind tiger," and that a large South St. Louis rolling mill occupied the ground where West had made a "buy" for evidence.

In still another affidavit, West had detailed how he went to the third-floor kitchen of a South St. Louis roominghouse, and a white woman there had dispatched a Negro woman to Room 108 to get him a half pint. The regulars raided the place and discovered neither the third-floor kitchen nor Room 108 existed.

Naturally, no arrests resulted in these cases.

In another case, West swore he had purchased liquor at a saloon at 35 South Twentieth street, operated by a Mrs. Margaret Leoni. The follow-up agents raided the place and found no contraband. In the back yard, however, was a 60-year-old man, Charles Kinney. A half pint of alleged whisky bulged from his pocket. Kinney said he had purchased it elsewhere.

Prisoner Jailed Oct. 5.

The agents, perhaps tired of investigating West's affidavits without result, arrested Kinney, who being unable to furnish $100 bond, was placed in City Jail on Oct. 5.

There he languished, tormented by a sore in his left leg, which he had when arrested. When medica treatment became imperative yesterday, Jailer Primavesi notifie the United States Marshal abou the "forgotten" prisoner. Th Marshal notified Commissioner At kins, and Atkins ordered Kinne brought immediately before him.

Learning that Kinney had n connection with the saloon, a that the search warrant cove the saloon premises only, and n Kinney's hip pocket, Commissio er Atkins promptly discharged t prisoner, and criticised the proh bition agents for arresting t man without authority.

"I'm a stranger in town and g confused as to directions," We explained to Chief Prohibiti Agent Dillon, when called to a count for his "mistakes."

Millionaire Who Perished in Auto Fumes

nonexistent) and buy the stock on a two-point margin. Miller came back after a while with a credit memorandum for the so-called exchange, setting forth the transaction.

"Later Miller went back to the exchange (he said) and returned with $3000 in currency and a credit memo for $60,000. Haines indorsed the memo and returned it to Miller, together with a $10,000 check, with instructions to buy some other stock. He told Miller that if the teller refused to accept the credit memo because it was indorsed only by Haines, he was to invest only the $10,000 check.

"Miller came back with a receipt for the total amount, $73,000. Later he was sent back to the exchange to determine how this second transaction turned out, and he came back accompanied by another man, who said his name was Rose.

"Rose had a brief-case containing at least $15,000 in currency, and a statement, or credit memo, for $60,000. Rose told Haines that he could not turn over money to the amount of the credit memo until Haines had got the memo indorsed by his auditor.

Promises $20,000 Profit.

"Haines protested that he would lose his position if the auditor indorsed the memo and told us he would have to get $60,000 in cash by Saturday night or he would lose his job. He telegraphed his brother in New York, who, he said, was an importer, but the brother replied that all he could raise was $10,000.

"Haines then suggested that if Miller and I would help him out with loans we would be able to share in the profit he was going to make on the deal. He said that if I would put up $41,000 I would make a clear profit of $20,000. Miller was to go to Chicago and get $7500 and Haines was to furnish $11,500 to make up the rest of the $60,000."

Disregards Bank's Warning.

In a supplemental statement to the police, Ebert said he drew $15,000 from the bank and borrowed $26,000. The money was forwarded by draft to the Ridgeley-Farmers Bank in Springfield and when Ebert went to draw it yesterday, he was warned by the teller, who told him the police had been informed by underworld tipsters that Ebert was dealing with confidence men.

Ebert brushed aside the advice and drew the money.

"Saturday morning," he continued, "Haines, Miller and I met at the Palmer Hotel, where we put the money in a brief case. Miller and I, with Miller carrying the brief case, went to the Illinois Central station, and Miller took a taxicab, explaining that he was going down to the exchange and square up.

"I returned to the hotel and there was stopped by a detective, who questioned me as to my business in Springfield. He accompanied me to the police station, where I was convinced after some time that I was the victim of confidence men."

Watching Detectives Eluded.

Besides advising the bank of the tip on the confidence men, Chief of Police Underwood, it was announced, had gone so far as to have two detectives shadow Ebert, with instructions to keep him out of the hands of swindlers, if possible. Somehow Ebert evaded them.

Ebert is about 55 years old and has two sons. His office is at 714 Victoria Building. His wife, formerly a practicing lawyer, is the daughter of former Judge M. B. Greensfelder of Clayton.

Springfield detectives remarked yesterday that the details of the swindle of Ebert were reminiscent of the work of the Chapple Moran gang, which formerly operated in Central and Southern Illinois. Moran, the leader of the gang, is now under a charge in the Federal Court of swindling Mayor Frank of Okawville of $40,000 in a stock deal which began with an inquiry about real estate.

NEGROES PLAN $70,000 GOLF CLUB IN COUNTY

Course Architect From San Francisco Draws Up Plans —350 Members Sought.

A group of St. Louis Negroes this week will begin an effort to raise $70,000 with which to establish a country club for themselves, with a clubhouse, golf course, tennis courts and swimming pool.

Their effort has been stimulated by a white golf course constructor, S. C. Hardin, who recently came to St. Louis from San Francisco. He has fostered a temporary organization with the following officers: Dr. W. H. A. Barrett of 4313 Enright avenue, physician practicing in East St. Louis, president; Eugene Robinson, barber, 3000 Lawton avenue, treasurer, and F. R. Roberson, architect, secretary.

This group believes sufficient Negroes can be induced to pay $150 initiation fee and $25 a year dues to undertake construction. They have announced membership would be limited to 350. Two sites are under consideration—one comprising about 55 acres near Bellefontaine road, two miles northwest of Chain of Rocks park; the other, about 50 acres on Getty road, one mile north of the St. Charles road, near Kinloch, a village chiefly of Negroes.

If the money is raised, it is proposed to build one wing of a clubhouse to cost about $20,000, to spend about $30,000 to acquire the land and to apply whatever is left toward a nine-hole golf course. The project has been named the Fairview Country Club. Offices have been established at 417 People's Building, 11 North Jefferson avenue.

WOMAN LEAPS FROM BRIDGE

Mrs. Ada T. Shockley Kills Self at Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Ada T. Shockley, 50 years old, of Grandview, Mo., jumped to her death in the Missouri River from the center span of the A-S-B bridge, late this afternoon.

The woman, whose death plunge was seen by a passing motorist, was identified tonight through notes to relatives, found in a pocketbook she left on the bridge. Mrs. Shockley had long been subject to spells of depression. Wallace Good, a son-in-law who lives here, told police.

AUTO GAS KILLS COL. JOE MILLER, 101 RANCH OWNER

Noted Showman Found Asphyxiated by Carbon Monoxide in Garage at Home Near Ponca City.,

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PONCA CITY, Ok., Oct. 22. — Col. Joe Miller, 59 years old, part owner of the noted 101 ranch near here, and the eldest of three brothers of Wild West show fame, was found dead in his garage near here yesterday, asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas from his automobile. The motor of the car was running and the doors of the garage closed.

Col. Miller and his brothers were reared in the saddle on the ranch established by their father in 1879. It was at the ranch that the rodeo, now popular in many parts of the country, was perfected.

Despite the work of experts in stock raising and soil conservation the ranch has retained its Western atmosphere and has been the camping ground of noted writers who found color for novels and magazine articles. It also has been the setting for several Wild West motion pictures.

Col. Miller, a native of Crab Orchard, Ky., came to old Indian Territory with his father and mother, Col. Geo. W. Miller and wife in 1871. The family came to Springfield, Mo., then the end of the railroad, with the intention of traveling in a covered wagon to California.

A Native of Kentucky.

Northeastern Indian territory so appealed to the elder Miller that he decided to stop there as a ranchman, leasing lands from the Indians. The trip from Springfield was made in a covered wagon. They family lived for several years at Baxter Springs, Kan.

Joe Miller grew up as a companion of his father in the cattle business, making trips as a lad in driving cattle northward from Texas to the end of the railroad in Kansas. The father made the deal whereby the Ponca Indians obtained their reservation, immediately south of Ponca City, and Joe Miller was with the Indians on the trek to this locality.

The father established a cattle ranch in the area west of Ponca City, and put up the first barbed wire fence in the Cherokee Strip. At this time the family lived at Winfield, Kan., with Joe Miller participating with his father in all the activities. Followng the opening of the Cherokee strip in 1893, the father established the nucleus for the present 101 ranch, so designating it because of his cattle brand.

The father died in 1902, and since then the ranch has extended under the three brothers, Joe, Zack and George, until it now comprised 101,000 acres.

Directed Ranch and Show.

Col. Joe Miller directed the general activities of the ranch and was also the head of the Wild West show, which was put on the road again three years ago, after being out of business 10 years.

Col. Joe Miller had been married twice. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Verlin Miller; their infant son, Will Brooks Miller, and three children by his first marriage, George W., Joseph Jr. and Mrs. Alice Miller Barth, all of this city. The mother of the Miller brothers died about 15 years ago. The widow and son now are at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Col. Miller was a thirty-second degree Mason, a Shriner and a Knight Templar. Interment will be beside his mother in the Ponca City cemetery.

Finds Queen Victoria Aided Chicago Library

Committee Appointed by Mayor to Hunt British Propaganda, Strikes Surprise.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A committee named by Mayor Thompson to make a search of the Chicago Public Library for traces of the British lion reposing in the far recesses of its forest of stacks, today learned with considerable surprise that Queen Victoria helped to found the library after the fire of 1871.

The committee, headed by U. J. "Sport" Herrmann has been asked to look through history texts in the library to discover if they contain anti-American or pro-British statements and today it was learned that after the disastrous Chicago fire English contributors sent 7000 volumes to Chicago to start a new library.

Some of these old volumes still remain in the library and in one of them Queen Victoria wrote:

"Presented to the city of Chicago toward the formation of a public library after the fire of 1871, as a mark of English sympathy, by Her Majesty, Queen Victoria."

Other contributors were Lord Alfred Tennyson, William E. Gladstone and Thomas Carlyle. The committee which is intent on thumbing through histories has not indicated whether it will pay any heed to these old volumes, which upon their arrival here from England were stored for a time in a water tank until a building was erected to house them.

Mayor Thompson's war on King George, which now has extended into the library will be resumed next Monday, when the trial of William McAndrew, suspended Superintendent of Schools, is resumed before the School Board.

SIDENER CLEARS SERVICE CAR MEN IN FUND INQUIRY

lative and otherwise, had been performed to the drivers' satisfaction. This agreement was retained by Cohen.

The escrow agreement, fixing a legal fee of $1000 and $200 expense money, was then drawn up, and three copies were made and signed. One copy was placed in the National City Bank May 5 with $300, the first installment of the money, and all that was ever raised. It was understood with the bank that, to withdraw the money, both the other copies of the agreement must be turned in. These copies were kept by Rosenbatt and Keller.

Keller has stated, and Waldman quotes Rosenblatt as saying, that some of the money—the $200 expense portion, as Waldman understands it—was to go to Keller, to reimburse him for his loss of time in assisting Cohen with the bill and other matters.

Money Refunded to Drivers.

Dissension arose among the drivers, and in June Keller told Rosenblatt that there would be difficulty in completing the fund agreed upon with Cohen. Rosenblatt said the money could be paid back if the drivers wished it, and on June 27 the copies of the agreement held by Rosenblatt and Keller were turned in at the bank, and the money was refunded to Keller. The bank kept the three copies as its receipt for the money.

Until the text of the agreement is made public, it will not be known exactly just, what services Cohen was to perform for the $1000 fee. But the Circuit Attorney is informed that, besides work in connection with legislation, Cohen was to perfect a union of the drivers, and was to get certain permits for them from the State authorities of Missouri and Illinois, the latter being needed in connection with service to East Side race tracks.

Waldman, who was elected to the board in November, 1924, and again last April, said yesterday that he had been interested, since his term began, in legislation for service car regulation, because of the Safety Council's desire for such regulation. An attorney for the Safety Council worked with him in drawing up the bill, he said.

"This present bill, which I introduced at the beginning of the session this fall, was in course of preparation by me last spring," Waldman said. "But Cohen never talked with me about it, nor did my son-in-law, Rosenblatt. Nothing was ever said to me by Rosenblatt or anyone else about the agreement filed with the National City Bank, and I never knew such an agreement existed until the fact came out in the hearing before the legislative committee, two days ago.

"I feel that I have been persecuted because of my endeavor to get service car legislation. Men have called me up with abusive and threatening messages, and I have told them to come and talk with me in person, but they have not done so. I have begun to have a like experience since I have worked on the matter of an ordinance to fix the requirements of bondsmen. I feel that Andrew Uttendorfer of the service car organization, who falsely charged that my name was on the agreement, and Alderman Neu, have treated me very unfairly."

Caused Heated Session.

At Thursday's meeting of the legislative committee, when an angry controversy arose between Waldman on one side and Alderman Neu and Uttendorfer, on the other, Chairman Eilers asked Uttendorfer whether any fund had been raised for the purpose of obtaining legislation.

"I don't think that has anything to do with this matter," Alderman Waldman objected. Eilers curtly told Waldman to "shut up," as he was not a member of the committee, and proceeded with the questioning which brought out the existence of the written agreement. This, Waldman now says, was his first ascertainment of that fact.

When Uttendorfer charged that Waldman's name was on the agreement, Waldman at once challenged him to go to the bank, saying he would show that, if his name was there it was a forgery. He invited reporters to go along. Waldman, it proved, was correct in asserting that he had not signed the agreement.

Circuit Attorney Sidener, with Maroney agreeing, said after his questioning of the parties to the agreement:

"There is no indication on the surface of anything illegal. The men were skating on rather thin ice, but nothing has been shown on which the grand jury could act."

Maroney supplemented this by saying, "This agreement, on its face and from the statements of the parties, was for a contingent fee. Cohen was to get $1000, and $200 expense money, if he could perform certain services, and nothing if he could not."

The special investigation committee of the Board of Aldermen consists of Aldermen Kuhs of the First Ward, Wiehe of the Fifth, Fett of the Eleventh, Kraleman of the Twenty-second and Krueger of the Twenty-fourth.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN IS KILLED BY AUTO

Laundry Mark on Victim's Clothes "W. J. Carter"—Driver Held for Coroner.

An unidentified man was killed by an automobile in front of 1945 Morgan street last night. A laundry mark on his clothes bore the name "W. J. Carter."

The automobile was driven by William McGillicuddy of 3332A Franklin avenue, a clerk, who told police the man stepped into the path of his machine as he was attempting to pass another automobile. He was held for the Coroner.

The man died at City Hospital shortly after his arrival there. He was shabbily dressed, 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighed about 190 pounds and apparently was about 45 years old.

Policeman, Another Man and Woman Injured by Automobiles.

Harry Milburn, 53 years old, a clerk, was severely injured when struck by a speeding automobile which failed to stop, as he was crossing St. Louis avenue, at Abner place, last night. Milburn, who lives at 2929 Abner place, suffered skull injury and a fractured wrist.

Police Sergeant Fred Wardle of Wyoming Street Station, was seriuosly injured last night when run down by an automobile while crossing at Jefferson avenue and Utah street. He suffered skull injury and fractured right hip. Warren M. Underwood of 3914A Iowa street, driver of the machine, was arrested.

Mrs. Rose Bitzer, 63 years old, of 3531 Michigan avenue, suffered several fractured ribs when struck by an automobile driven by Harry Hurzeler of 3828 South Broadway.

Dean of Journalism School and Miss Sara Lockwood Meet in Utah.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 22. —Walter Williams, dean of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri and Miss Sara Lawrence Lockwood, assistant professor of journalism at the university, were married this afternoon at the home of the bride's cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Sherman Brown Nehf.

The Rev. Dr. William Paden of the First Presbyterian church performed the ceremony.

Dean Williams was returning from the Orient and met Miss Lockwood here. They will return to Columbia early next week.

Dr. Nehf is head of the English department at the University of Utah.

Mrs. John F. Rhodes, a daughter of Dr. Williams by his first wife, lives in Kansas City. His son is Edwin Moss William. A second son, Walter Jr., died.

Miss Lockwood was graduated from the journalism school in Columbia in 1913 and engaged in newspaper work in Missouri and Oklahoma, before being connected with the university. She also was a reporter and special writer for the Philadelphia Public Ledger. In the last six years she has been assistant professor of journalism, the first woman to hold such a position in the journalism school at Missouri.

On leave of absence from the university, Miss Lockwood spent the last three months on the Honolulu Star Bulletin. She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Jane Duncan Lockwood of Columbia. She is grand president of Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalistic fraternity, a member of Chi Omega, national social sorority, and Kappa Tau Alpha, honorary journalistic society.

Dr. Williams spent the summer and early fall in the Orient and Hawaii, in the interests of Pan-Pacific relations.

Dean Williams, who is 63 years old, is known internationally because of his long and widespread experience in journalism. He was president for North America of the International Press Congress at Berne, Switzerland, in 1902 and organizer of the World Press Parliament at St. Louis in 1904. He was first president of the Press Congress of the World, and of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

AUDITORIUM FUND NOT ENOUGH; MORE BONDS PROPOSED

Comproller's Refusal to Pay for Site With Plaza Money, as Planned, Raises Question.

COST OF THE LAND WILL BE $900,000

This Will Leave Only $4,100,000 With Which to Build Projected $6,000,000 Civic Center.

It may become necessary to submit a new bond issue item to the voters of St. Louis, to pay for completion of the projected Municipal Auditorium, as the result of a new question as to the sufficiency of funds for it. Advisability of a new bond election for various things not covered by the 1923 issue has been under consideration for several months.

Land for the auditorium site is being paid for from the $5,000,000 auditorium item of the 1923 bonds, although the Board of Public Service and the architects, the Memorial Plaza Commission, had counted on using all of this money for construction. They expected the site would be purchased under the $6,000,000 Memorial Plaza item.

This new question, which may delay consummation of the badly needed auditorium project, was brought to public attention in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, following issuance of a report on status of bond accounts. These were the first accounts showing expenditures for the auditorium site, which thus far have amounted to $229,350 for five lots.

Won't Be Able to Finish Job.

"We will not have enough money to finish the auditorium, if the site is charged to this item," declared President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service. He had said last spring that the construction cost might run as high as $6,000,000, and it was suggested at that time that a new bond issue would be needed, but recently it had been believed the $5,000,000 would suffice.

Kinsey had announced some time ago that payment for the sites of the auditorium and plaza would be made from the plaza fund only, and the architects had this in mind in preparing their design. The various features of space and equipment they provided for have been regarded as necessary by the Convention Bureau and other interests urging speed in building the auditorium as a civic center and convention place.

The Comptroller's office has decided that the audtitorium site must be paid for with auditorium bond money and the plaza site with plaza money. It handles all land purchases. The bond-issue ordinance provided the $5,000,000 item for the auditorium erection and site, and the $6,000,000 item for the plaza site acquisition and erection thereon of a war memorial. As a matter of convenience, since the sites are adjacent, the City Law Departmet included both in the one condemnation suit now pending for the land.

Wherever possible, lots in the two sites are being purchased outright by the Comptroller's office. Thus, nearly one-third of the plaza area has been acquired already, at a cost of $1,160,398, besides the five auditorium lots.

Comptroller's Office Explains.

Assistant Comptroller Cunningham, who said the present method of charging expenditures for the lots would be continued as the only correct one, estimated aggregate cost of the auditorium site as $900,000. This would leave $4,100,000 of the present fund available for construction. In Cunningham's opinion, the plaza bond item will be just about big enough to buy all of that site, and it is doubtful if anything will be left for erection of the war memorial. Cost of property in this downtown section has soared since the bond schedule was drafted in 1922.

Kinsey, who was surprised to learn of the Comptroller's method of charging the site purchases, expressed the belief that it would be legal to charge the auditorium land to the plaza fund. The City Counselor has not been asked for an opinion by offiicals, but it has been pointed out at his office that the ordinance authorizing purchase of the plaza named among the city blocks which could be acquired those on which the auditorium is to stand. No one has moved yet to change the situation.

The Board of Public Service and Memorial Plaza Commission will be ready to start building the auditorium whenever the site is available, the plans havng been prepared. The Comptroller's office, while it is continuing its efforts to buy the site outright, fears that some of the lots may not be obtainable without condemnation, which would take at least two years. There has been $43,253 paid out of the auditorium fund towards the plans, and this item has a balance of $4,727,396 unexpended.

No Money for Decorations.

No funds have been provided for developing and decorating the plaza. Originally it was proposed to spend $1,000,000 of the item on the memorial, but no definite provision has been made for this. It was pointed out last spring that a benefit district surrounding the plaza would have to be created in the condemnation, and property therein assessed a portion of the plaza cost to be fixed by the condemnation commissioners.

Beyond Mankind!

To define nature is difficult—to describe it is more so—but to admire it is acknowledgment of our appreciation of it.

Artists strive to reproduce its beauties on canvas—writers attempt to depict it in words—neither have ever achieved the magnificent grandeur and wonders which only your own eyes can unfold.

Go out into the woods where the hand of man has not yet touched its original beauties—look at the trees and think—pick the wild flowers and wonder—gather the multi-colored leaves and marvel at the wondrous power that controls all these.

Truly the works of the Creator surpass all understanding!

MORE THAN 150 TESTIFY IN LIQUOR INQUIRY AT QUINCY

Federal Grand Jury Is Expected to Report Indictments for East Side Conspiracy Tuesday.,

TALE OF PETTY GRAFT UNFOLDED

Bootleggers and Home Brewers Tell of Being Preyed Upon by Illinois Justice and Constables.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 22.—The Federal grand jury investigating protection of a whisky ring for graft in Madison County, before which there appeared in Quincy this week more than 150 Madison County witnesses, is expected in a report next Tuesday to return more than 20 indictments, charging conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act.

Madison County, across the river from St. Louis and immediately north of East St. Louis, long has been a source of supply of bootleg whisky for St. Louis and vicinity. The Federal Government in the last year concentrated forces there in an effort to dry up the county, making innumerable raids and arrests, and destroying many stills.

Among the witnesses were homebrewers, bootleggers and moonshiners, who came to tell how they were preyed upon by some city and township officers for protection money. The grand jury also called three constables, a Justice of the Peace and a deputy sheriff, who gained immunity from prosecution by their appearance as witnesses for the Government.

Tale of Petty Graft.

The witnesses were so numerous that the first part of the week was devoted to interviewing them, after which they were taken before the grand jury. In the interviews, conducted by District Attorney Provine and his assistants, Marks Alexander and Mrs. Gertrude B. Warner, a sordid tale of petty graft in the protection of Madison County bootleggers and moonshiners was unfolded, and it was shown that even murder was resorted to so as to prevent interference with a big ring of moonshiners. But the murder was a State case and will not be touched upon by the grand jury in its report.

The murder referred to in the interviews was that of Ohmer Hockett, a deputy constable, and John Balke, postoffice employe, both of Edwardsville, who were slain, presumably by moonshiners, on Horseshoe Lake, Madison County, the latter part of January, 1926. Their bodies were discovered, after a week's search by prohibition agents, buried near a farm on which were vats containing 100,000 gallons of whisky mash.

Murder Unsolved.

Although it was known by Madison County authorities that a St. Louis gunman and moonshiner had this farm under lease, no indictment was returned and the murder has gone unsolved as far as Madison County authorities are concerned.

Mrs. Dora Hockett, widow of the slain deputy constable, was a grand jury witness. She told in her interview with investigators that a friendly moonshiner had told her a week before her husband's body was found that he and Balke were being held captive by the moonshiners on Horseshoe Lake and that former Sheriff Deimling, to whom she appealed, in an effort to avert the murder, sent her from his office with the remark that her husband was no good and had eloped with another woman.

This murder did much to impress Federal officials with the need of a thorough investigation of notorious conditions in Madison County, and a year ago, as told exclusively in the Post-Dispatch, Victor J. Dowd, of the Chicago Prohibition Bureau of Investigation, was assigned to the work.

$100,000 Paid for Protection.

With the aid of several assistants Dowd broke into the whisky ring, and when it was observed that the Government meant business, a number of bootleggers, moonshiners and retired saloonkeepers ran to cover and offered themselves as witnesses.

The Government is not depending entirely on this kind of testimony. A reputable Alton resident told the investigators that in that city alone it was estimated about $100,000 was paid in 1926 by bootleggers for protection against arrest, and that observers estimated additional hundreds of thousands of dollars protection graft in violation of the Volstead Act and state laws had been collected by some town and county officers over a period of five years.

Different methods of collection were employed. The investigators were told that a certain police magistrate and a Justice of the Peace were so bold as to accompany a deputy constable or other officer of the court to place where liquor was sold and would wait outside in an automobile while collections were made, their purpose in accompanying the collector being to impress the law vio-

Gallstone Troubles Explained

Kansas City Doctor Gives Good Advice to Sufferers From Gallstones of the Liver

Gallstone sufferers, especially those whose suffering has about driven them to an operation will welcome the joyous news that a large percentage of cases of this painful, health destroying disease may now be successfully treated without surgery.

To Dr. E. E. Paddock, a Kansas City physician, who for 30 years has specialized in the treatment of diseases of the gall bladder, gall ducts and the liver, belongs the credit for a remarkable home medical treatment that sufferers the country over declare has brought relief and has made hundreds of operations unnecessary.

According to Dr. Paddock, surgery is resorted to in many cases where medical treatment would be effective. It is Dr. Paddock's claim the knife should be used only in emergency cases, and that surgery removes only the effect—the cause remaining—unless medical treatment is taken to correct the trouble. Dr. Paddock is a strong advocate of the use of medicines to escape the necessity and danger of an operation. His book fully explains his method of treatment and offers convincing evidence of its efficiency.

Anyone who is afflicted or who is suspicious of any catarrhal inflammation and infection of the gall bladder or gall ducts associated with gallstones of the liver, should send for Dr. Paddock's booklet, "The Liver and Gall Bladder." A copy will be sent free and postpaid to any who request it. In this booklet the Doctor tells the story of his long experience in treating catarrhal conditions associated with gallstones of the liver with medicine. He explains the symptoms by which the disease may be recognized before it reaches an acute stage — and why these symptoms, unheeded, may cause indescribable suffering and ill health. Just fill in and mail the coupon below and the booklet will be sent free and without any obligation whatsoever Send for it today.

HOW $5000 WAS USED IN GETTING CONTRACTS

St. Louis Firm's Agent Demonstrated Value of Tile to St. Cloud (Minn.) Officials

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 22. — J. V. Conrad, to whom the Evens & Howard Fire Brick Co., of St. Louis sent $5000 in 1919 to be spent in getting specification of Evens & Howard material on a municipal contract here, is known here as a representative of the St. Louis company.

Dispatches from Washington Friday stated that the Federal Board of Tax Appeals had ordered the Evens & Howard company to include the $5000 in its income tax return for that year. The board held that it was not deductible as an expense, no vouchers appearing to disclose the use made of it.

Conrad came to St. Cloud in 1919 to urge the City Commission to specify tile instead of concrete on a $376,000 municipal sewer project. The commission was skeptical. Conrad offered to take the Mayor, one commissioner and the city engineer to Chicago to permit them to inspect tile sewers. The three city officials went and stayed a week.

The sewer contract eventually was let to Gedney and Murphy, contractors, who used Evens & Howard tile. The St. Louis firm made no sale direct to the city.

FUNERAL OF JOHN S. STARK TO BE AT 2 P. M. TODAY

Founder of Music Company Was Early Exponent of "Ragtime" Compositions.

Funeral services for John Stillwell Stark, founder and president of the Stark Music Co., 3804 Laclede avenue, who died Friday at his home, 7360 Maple avenue, of infirmities of age, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from an undertaking establishment at 4234 Manchester avenue. Interment will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mr. Stark, who was 86 years old, was born in Shelby County, Ky. He came to Missouri in a covered wagon as a youth, later going to Indiana. During the Civil War he served with Indiana troops, returning to Missouri at the close of the conflict. Talented as a musician and writer of light verse, he engaged in the music publishing business at Sedalia, Mo., until 1901, when he moved his company to St. Louis. Mr. Stark was among the first exponents of "ragtime." The "Maple Leaf Rag," an early ragtime composition, was published by the Stark company.

Mr. Stark is survived by two sons, W. P. and E. J. Stark, associated in the Stark concern, and a daughter, Mrs. James Stanley of New York City.

lator with the presence of the court.

A certain sum, based on the estimated volume of business of bootleggers, was levied. In one instance, it has been told, a Justice of the Peace suspected that a home-brew vendor operating a sandwich shop was doing a greater volume of business than she reported, whereupon the Justice would go daily to the place to munch sandwiches for hours at a time so as to observe the volume of trade.

Certain deputy constables, it has been told, made a practice of entertaining girl friends at roadhouses and other places at the expense of the owners. After dining and drinking they would mark on the check, "Charge it to your old man." Several of these girls appeared before the grand jury.

But life was not always easy sailing for the collectors. Certain of them, about three years ago, went to Frank Hackethal's roadhouse and were beaten by gangsters and kicked into the road when they spoke of protection money. Hackethal's place was frequented at that time by Egan gangsters from St. Louis, and Hackethal now is in Leavenworth Prison with them for the Staunton mail robbery.

To Continue Investigation.

One collector for a certain Constable who has been named was called "Bill the Boob," for the reason that he was used when tribute was levied against moonshiners. This is a hazardous venture, and so "Bill the Boob" was taken on these trips. When the moonshiners' plant hove in sight the automobile was parked at a safe distance and "Bill" was sent alone to enter and make an investigation. If "Bill" came out without harm, the Constable, usually accompanied by a Justice of the Peace, would enter. Sometimes "Bill" was beaten and thrown out, and sometimes he came out on the run. In these instances the others passed the place up. Even the moonshiners looked upon "Bill" as a boob, and one of them at Quincy told the Post-Dispatch correspondent that "Bill" would have been slain long ago had the moonshiners not had compassion on him for being such a numbskull.

It is not likely that this grand jury will reach suspected big grafters whom Dowd had hoped to land in his net, but the investigation will be continued in Madison County until after the trial of those expected to be indicted in Tuesday's report.

RULES FOR COMMISSIONERS

Judge Hartmann Upholds Appointments in Des Peres Suit.

Circuit Judge Hartmann yesterday overruled a motion for the city to set aside his appointment of three commissioners in the condemnation suit for a right of way for seven miles of the River Des Peres Drainage works running from Forest Park to the Mississippi River. Although the suit was filed Oct. 28, 1924, the commissioners — Oliver T. Remmers, George T. Kollas and George Diepenbrock—were not appointed until last Sept. 8.

Assistant City Counselor Harry Richards contended that the city was not ready for commissioners because service had not yet been obtained on all necessary property owners named in the suit. It will be the duty of the commissioners, whose compensation is $5 a day, to appraise the value of the property needed for the improvement.

(hereinafter referred to as the Company)
by this 5-Purpose Endowment Life Insurance Policy insures the life of said insured and provides benefits for the five purposes herein set forth as follows:

PURPOSE No. 1—LIFE INSURANCE

If the death of the Insured occurs from any cause while this policy is in force the Company will pay to the Beneficiary named above on receipt at its Home Office in the City of Chicago of due proof of such death, and due proof of the interest of claimant the sum of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Provided, however, that if such death occurs during the first six months of this policy the amount so payable shall be limited to FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

PURPOSE No. 2—ENDOWMENT PAYABLE AT AGE 65

If the Insured be living and all premiums shall have been duly paid this policy will mature for its face amount, less indebtedness if any, and become payable as an endowment to the Insured or legal owner and holder hereof upon surrender of this policy, and release of all claims hereunder at the end of the policy year nearest to age 65 of the Insured, which date is the end of the endowment period and this contract shall thereupon cease.

PURPOSE No. 3—DOUBLE INSURANCE FOR ACCIDENTAL DEATH

If the Insured during the premium paying period of this policy, and before attaining the age of 65 years, and while no premium is in default on this policy, shall sustain bodily injury resulting directly from external, violent and accidental means (suicide, sane or insane, not included) exclusively and independently of all other causes, and if such bodily injury within ninety days of the event causing the accident shall result in the death of the Insured, the Company will pay to the Beneficiary including the amount payable under the Life Insurance Benefit as shown above TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS.

This benefit is subject to the additional provisions on the second page hereof, relating to accidental death. It does not cover any accidental bodily injury caused or contributed to by sickness or disease, or cover war risk, or disappearance, or loss suffered while riding or being in or on any aerial conveyance, or any submarine.

PURPOSE No. 4—TOTAL AND PERMANENT DISABILITY

Whenever the Company receives due proof that the Insured, after the premiums for one full year shall have been paid hereunder and before default in the payment of any subsequent premium on this policy and before the anniversary of this policy on which the age of the Insured at nearest birthday is 65 years, has become totally and permanently disabled by reason either of accidental injury or sickness so as to be prevented necessarily and continuously from engaging in any occupation whatsoever for remuneration or profit, then the Company will waive payment of all premiums becoming due subsequent to the receipt of such proof during the continuance of such total and permanent disability. This benefit is subject to the additional provisions on the second page hereof relating to total and permanent disability. Guaranteed Cash and Loan Values and all other privileges provided in the policy shall be the same as if such waived premiums had been paid as they became due and in any settlement of the policy the Company will not deduct any premiums so waived.

PURPOSE No. 5—GUARANTEED CASH, LOAN, PAID-UP ENDOWMENT INSURANCE AND PURE ENDOWMENT VALUES

This policy provides Cash, Loan, Paid-Up Endowment Insurance, and Pure Endowment Values. This benefit enables the Insured:
A—To convert the Policy into cash as provided.
B—To borrow on the Policy as provided.
C—To cease paying premiums and receive paid-up Endowment Insurance as provided.
D—To cease paying premiums and receive extended Insurance and Pure Endowment as provided.
The specific amounts of such Values are set forth in the Table of Guaranteed Values on Page 3.

A 5-Purpose Policy

Standard Endowment Life Insurance To Serve Five Vital Purposes

This Policy is the newest and broadest protection of its kind ever issued! It is called the President Hamilton Special Endowment Policy—named after our President, Isaac Miller Hamilton. It is the result of his long study and inspiration and his earnest desire to supply low cost Endowment Insurance to suit the purse of everybody. It was especially created to combine FIVE BROAD PURPOSES IN ONE POLICY—and at the lowest known cost.

The President Hamilton Special Policy is Standard Endowment Life Insurance. You do not have to exchange it for any other form of policy at any time. The premium remains the same throughout the life of the Policy. The Policy is written at the rate for your age at the present time. The cost does not increase as you grow older.

Remember, this is Endowment Life Insurance You do not have to die to win. If you are living when the Policy matures THE FACE AMOUNT WILL BE PAID TO YOU. If you die before the Policy matures the face amount of the Policy will be paid to your beneficiary.

Thus this Policy protects your beneficiary in the event of your death from any cause whatsoever, including sickness as well as accidents, and also provides you with an endowment fund for old age.

Also note that this Policy pays DOUBLE in the event of accidental death as stated. This feature is extremely important when you consider the tremendous increase in recent years in deaths by accident. Insurance statistics indicate that accidents now constitute about 12 per cent of the total number of deaths from every cause, including old age.

Read the policy! Note its liberal provisions.

This Special 5-Purpose Policy Provides:

NOTE: The benefits stated below are based on a $1,000.00 Policy. If you want a $2,000.00 or $3,000.00 Policy multiply all benefits proportionately.

Purpose No. 1. LIFE INSURANCE:
$1,000.00 payable to your beneficiary in the event of your death from any cause whatsoever, excepting suicide $500.00 if death occurs during the first six months.

Purpose No. 2. ENDOWMENT:
The full amount of the Endowment ($1,000.00) payable to you in cash at age 65. If you die before the endowment is payable, the face amount of the policy is payable to your beneficiary.

Purpose No. 3. DOUBLE INSURANCE FOR ACCIDENTAL DEATH:
Double the face amount of the policy, or $2,000.00 payable in case of accidental death at any time during the life of the policy, as stated.

Purpose No. 4. TOTAL AND PERMANENT DISABILITY:
In case you become Totally and Permanently Disabled, either by injury or sickness, as stated, the premiums payable on this policy will be waived by the Company and the insurance will remain in full force exactly as if the premiums were regularly paid.

Purpose No. 5. GUARANTEED CASH, LOAN, PAID-UP ENDOWMENT INSURANCE AND PURE ENDOWMENT VALUES:
These valuable provisions in this Special Policy enable you:
A—to convert the Policy into cash as stated,
B—to borrow on the Policy as stated,
C—to cease paying premiums and receive paid-up Endowment Insurance, as stated,
D—to cease paying premiums and receive extended Insurance and Pure Endowment, as stated.

ALL IRELAND MOURNS DEATH OF CARDINAL

Primate's Funeral to Start Monday—Body to Lie in State Until Friday.

By the Associated Press.

CARLINGSFORD, Irish Free State, Oct. 22.—All Ireland, North and South, is plunged in grief and mourning by the death of Patrick Cardinal O'Donnell, Primate of Ireland since 1925, when he succeeded the late Cardinal Logue.

Cardinal O'Donnell died here today after an illness of several weeks, which developed into pneumonia. He was 71 years of age.

Windows are shuttered and all the houses and blinds drawn, and the dismal day, with a continuous downpour of rain, seemed the proper setting for the sad event. So many messages of condolence have been received, that the post-office staff had to be increased to handle them. Governor-General Timothy Healy wired:

"I am stunned by the news, which will affect all Ireland."

The Duke of Abercorn, Governor of Northern Ireland and Viscount Craigavon, the Northern Premier, also telegraphed deep regrets and sympathy.

Funeral Monday.

The cardinal at first had made light of his illness and had sought to conceal it. After pneumonia developed, he seemed to pass through the crisis successfully, but the influential condition continued for so long a period that his strength could not withstand the strain, and his end came with unexpected suddenness at 11:05 o'clock.

The first stage of the funeral Monday will consist of the removal of the body by road to Armagh, to lie in state until Friday morning, when burial with his predecessors in the primacy will take place. Nearly all the members of the hierarchy are now in Rome for the Irish College tercentenary and they are certain to hasten their departure in order to be present at the obsequies.

Was Youngest Bishop.

Cardinal O'Donnell was born in Kilraine, Glenties, County Donegal, in 1856. For some years he was the youngest bishop in the church, having been appointed Bishop of Raphoe by Pope Leo XIII when he was 32. He had previously been a professor of theology in St. Patrick's College at Maynooth.

He was an ardent supporter of home rule and the trusted adviser of the Irish parliamentary leaders from Parnell to Redmond. His prominence in the home rule movement was marekd by his selection as chairman of the national convention in 1897. When Premier Lloyd George in 1917 attempted a solution of the Irish question and set up a convention of all parties to debate it, Bishop O'Donnell was one of its members.

TWO HELD FOR LIQUOR SALE

Former Druggist and Clerk Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Frank Bressie, who formerly owned a drug store at 4901 Page boulevard, and Gerald Stanley, his clerk, yesterday were bound over to the Federal grand jury by Commissioner Atkins, charged with sale and possession of liquor.

When prohibition agents testified at a preliminary hearing Oct. 14 that they caught Bressie bootlegging June 21, Bressie set up the defense that he couldn't have been bootlegging then, as traffic policemen had consumed the last of his liquor some weeks before. Bressie asserted traffic policemen had "mooched" about $2000 worth of liquor from him.

U. S. WEATHER REPORT WRONG, SAYS PROPHET

Herbert Janvrin Browne Insists August, 1927, Was Coldest in History.

Washington Bureau,
21-22 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Herbert Janvrin Browne, long-range weather forecaster, who predicted last year that 1927 would be a "year without a summer," continued his attack on the United States Weather Bureau with a letter today to W. M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, in which he declared the Department should publicly announce that last August was the coolest August ever recorded.

Browne charged the Weather Bureau, under its director, Charles F. Marvin, had conducted "continued propaganda against long-range weather forecasting," merely to defend the "obsolete and fossilized meterology" of the Bureau.

"In this prostitution of public office to selfish propaganda, there are scores of instances in which the purpose has been so plain as to expose its author in the Weather Bureau and its fuglemen outside the service to merited ridicule and contempt," Brown wrote.

(A fugleman is a well-drilled soldier placed in front of a company as a guide.)

"Let me offer a single glaring example," he continued. "The month of August, 1927, was for the United States as a whole the coldest August ever recorded. Only four states showed temperatures above normal, as follows: Florida, Texas, Washington and Oregon. All the others showed mean temperature deficits, generally of an unusual order.

"The Weather Bureau never has hesitated to exploit to the fullest extent every straw of wind and weather which would fit its book, but when it came to a discussion of August weather, it dodged the fundamental fact—the one of greatest public interest—that the month for the whole United States broke all records."

Browne stated the recent official weather and crop reports had made incorrect and misleading statements when they first said normal warm weather prevailed in most sections west of the Rocky Mountains, and later that August was markedly cool for the season except in the South and the more Western States. After quoting excerpts from these reports, Browne concluded:

"Here was the opportunity to name the four states which alone showed above normal temperatures and to go on record with the plain statement that for the United States as a whole, it was the coldest August ever recorded."

SUPREME COURT ISSUES WRIT IN RAIL TAX SUITS

Corporation Assessment Records of State Commission Will Be Reviewed.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 22.—The State SupremeC ourt today issued writs of certiorari in three suits filed by railroad companies against the State Tax Commission, attacking the constitutionality of the Missouri corporation franehise tax law, and ordered the three cases be set for hearing at the April term of court en banc.

The writs bring the corporation franchise tax assessment records of the Tax Commission before the Supreme Court for review. Thes uits were filed by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co., the St. Louis-San francisco Railroad Co. and the Kansas City, Clinton & Springfield Railroad Co., the latter operated by the Frisco.

The separates uits attack the corporation franchise tax law on the ground of alleged discrimination between corporations and the imposing of double taxation on the property of corporations. The tax amounts to 50 cents on each $1000 of outstanding eapital stock and surplus, and produces approximately $1,5000,000 in revenue annually for the State.

In computing the franchase assessment, the Tax Commission has construed "surplus" as the value of all of the property of the corporation, in excess of its capital stock, without deduction of any bonded debts or other liabilities of the corporation.

DENIES LEAVING CITY TO AVOID HIS CREDITORS

Frank Harris Also Disputes Wife's Charge of Gambling—Says He'll Pay All He Owes.

Frank Harris, whose wife has advertised in newspapers that she will no longer be responsible for his debts, asserting that her action was due to his gambling proclivity, has denied to the Post-Dispatch t at he gambled and denied his wife's statement that he left the city Tuesday to avoid creditors who were trying to take away their coffee shop at 923 Hamilton boulevard.

"I didn't leave town, but am staying at my mother's, at 5762 Kennerly avenue," Harris said. "I don't gamble and I'm not running away from creditors. I'll pay all I owe. My wife won't sell the store, though, like she says. It is hers and I was only working for her."

Mrs. Harris, who is staying at 942 Beech street, likewise had said the shop was hers and that her husband only helped her there.

At Last! The Wonderful PORCELAIN Washer-Dryer

See its amazing performance NOW

Have you seen the New ABC SPINNER?

This wonderful washer-dryer is here now—the most sensational improvement in ten years—the labor saver that women have waited for.

Imagine a washer with a beautiful four-square tub of PORCELAIN! Lustrous, smooth and wearless—almost indestructible. Made just like a fine bathtub or kitchen sink. Easy to keep clean and sanitary, simply by wiping dry with a cloth.

Picture a SPINNING Dryer of PORCELAIN, built right into the washer. Glossy, smooth and seamless. Simple to operate. Safe for clothes. Spins away the suds and rinse water like magic.

The ABC SPINNER washes one tubful of clothes while it dries another tubful for the line. Double action. No waiting. It will do twice the work or finish your washing in half the time required with an ordinary washer.

Try It FREE

Phone now for an ABC SPINNER to test with your own washing right at home. Let this modern washer-dryer convince you that its extraordinary special features are really all we claim. You be the judge. Remember, this marvel washer-dryer costs no more than an ordinary washer alone.

LAWYERS' YELLS DELAY TRIAL OF PETLURA SLAYER

Counsel for Both Sides Shout and Bellow Insults at Each Other in Paris Courtroom.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Courtesy and legal formality were thrown to the winds today in the trial of Samuel Schwartzbard, Russian watchmaker, for the assassination of Gen. Simon Petlura, former head of the state army of Ukrainia.

Henri Torres, chief of counsel for Schwartzbard, and Cesare Campinchi, representing the Petlura family, renewed their word-battle of yesterday with such ferocity that at times the trial degenerated into something resembling a street brawl. At the apex of their unusual and seemingly extra-legal debate, half the jury was laughing, the other half was perceptibly annoyed and the Chief Justice could not make himself heard above the din.

Both attorneys indulged in a bellowing contest and hurled insults, working themselves into great heat.

Witnesses who managed to get the proverbial "word in edgeways," gave testimony to show that Petlura was really not an anti-Semitic. In fact, Alexander Dotzenko, one of the witnesses, said Petlura was truly a friend of the Jews. Dotzenko, a squat, flat-faced young Slav, modestly deschribed himself as "a historian," a man of letters and at present assistant to a stonemason."

"Yes, yes, he massacred them," Schwartzbard shouted when Dotzenko spoke of Petlura's friendship for Jews.

A new note, perceived in increasing allusions to bad faith, was heard in the trial today. It was sounded by Prosecuting Attorney Reynaud, and was repeated several times.

"Schwartzbard," he said once, "could have killed Petlura in Warsaw, but he knew Polish justice was too severe. He was afraid to risk his head there. At Paris he felt he could hope for an acquittal."

Schwartzbard answered this by saying, "I took the first possible chance that seemed to guarantee success."

EXPLAINS FRANKING MISUSE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 22.—Advices from Atlanta, Ga., have shown that the misuse of the franking privilege was the work of an "irresponsible clerk," former Congressman William D. Upshaw said today in connection with the complaint that he had abused the right. Retracting a previous statement that the complaint was the work of enemies in the prohibition fight, Upshaw, here on a lecture tour, said he had learned from his sister that the clerk, unknown to her, had sent out about 75 circulars, franking the letters.

The circular was in the interest of a good citizenship magazine which Upshaw edited before entering Congress eight years ago, and which he discontinued shortly after his election.

SMALL NET CHANGES IN WEEK-END COTTON TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Early advances in the cotton market, attributed to week-end covering and trade buying, were followed by reactions in late trading today under Southern selling and liquidation. December contracts sold off from 19.75c to 19.51c, and closed at 19.60c, the general market closing steady, net 3 points lower ot 3 points higher.

The market opened steady at an advance of 9 to 15 points, active months selling about 16 to 20 points net higher in early trade on covering by recent sellers and buying believed to be partly for trade account.

March sold up to 19.97c, but demand seemed to taper off at these figures and the market weakened later under renewed Southern selling, or hedging and liquidation. March sold off to 19.75c, about 6 points below yesterday's closing quotations, but stiffened up 5 or 6 points from the lowest on renewed covering. Except for some early trade buying and the Southern hedging later, business was attributed largely to evening up of accounts for over the week-end and orders appeared to be well divided.

A favorable weather map may have encouraged some of the selling in the forenoon, but the falling off in the volume of business was regarded by local brokers as indicating a well liquidated market, and a disposition to await the showing of the census report on ginning prior to Oct. 18, scheduled for Tuesday.

Reports from the Southwest estimating that 86 per cent of the Texas crop had been picked and ginned came in for comment in connection with the probable showing of the ginning figures next week.

Private cables reported hedging and liquidation absorbed by trade calling and covering at the decline in the Liverpool market.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 133,230 bales, against 153,645 last year.

Futures closed steady, 3 points lower to 5 higher; December, 19.60c to 19.63c; January, 19.65c to 19.70c; March, 19.81c to 19.84c; May, 20.01c to 20.03c; July, 19.85c to 19.90c. Spot quiet; middling, 20c.

NEW ISSUES AMONG LONDON FAVORITES

Special to Post-Dispatch and New York Post.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of the Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in financial review says:

"The recent slight weakening of the French franc is a reminder that 1928 is a year of elections in France, Germany and the United States. It is not believed that our election will take place before the spring of 1929, but whenever it does occur the uncertainty of results will be enormously increased by the proposed votes for women aged 21 or over.

"On shorter views the monetary prospects show little change and one sees in points like the Reichsbank lowering its buying price for gold a continuance of the general co-operation of the central banks to work for steadiness of money rates. This in turn gives confidence to markets, but the disposition is still to acquire shares in new industries or the luxury industries rather than in these big undertakings formerly constituting our key industry and the foundation of our big export trade.

"Speculative tendencies are prompted also by conditions described, and it is believed that a moderate part of the great increase in our bankers' loans are traceable to the stock exchange.

Disposition to Acquire Oils.

"In spite of the weakness in oil shares, there is some disposition to acquire them now. There is also a quiet but gradual increase in the acquirement of American securities, but not those at extravagantly high prices.

"Schroder's Quarterly Review raises an ingenious point as to the priority of the reparations payments over the remittances abroad by Germany of the service of her post-war external borrowings, both for states and industrials. The Review maintains that clauses in the Dawes plan bear the interpretation that such loan services have prior claim over reparations regarding exchange facilities.

"The point is interesting and impossible to dogmatize, but Capel Court considers that the framers of the Dawes plan intended to place great power and latitude with those responsible for maintaining German currency stability.

"It contends further that if the principle were laid down that ordinary debt services except the Dawes loan had precedence over reparation payments, then excessive external borrowing might result.

No Change in Rubber Restriction.

"The Colonial Office announces that there will be no change in the terms of the rubber restriction scheme for Nov. 1, but the Government's territories concerned have been asked to overhaul the present working regulations."

Industrial and Financial Briefs

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

Commercial failures in the United States this week took a jump to 410 from 328 the week before and compares with 431 a year ago, R. G. Dun & Co. reports.

Bayuk Cigar Co. earned $9.72 a share on the common stock in nine months this year against $6.55 a share in the corresponding 1926 period.

Net earnings of subsidiaries of American Power & Light Co. for the year ended Sept. 30, were $2,671,648 larger than the year before, reaching $28,078,515. Gross earnings gained $4,532,471.

Automotive Parts and Accessory business has gone into the final quarter with volume well sustained for this time of year, the Motor and Accessory Manufacturers' Association reports. September sales were only slightly below August and October appeared to be holding fairly close to the September level.

Stockholders of record Oct. 31 of the Atlantic Coast Line Co., a holding company, its principal asset being 27.03 per cent of Atlantic Coast Line Railroad stock, will be offered 58,800 shares at par value, $50, through approval of the issue by the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the basis of one share of new stock for each three shares now held. Proceeds from the additional stock will be applied chiefly against the purchase of $3,718,200 of the railroad company's stock under the latter's recent offer, giving stockholders the right to subscribe to additional railroad stock at $100 a share to the extent of 20 per cent of their holdings.

Aluminum sheets and coils have been reduced 1½ to 2¼ cents a pound in base gauges by the Aluminum Co. of America.

General Outdoor Advertising Co. earned $3.50 a share on the common stock in nine months this year, against $3.36 in the same period of 1926.

Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. has placed in operation at Pueblo its new No. 16 open hearth furnace, built at a cost of $250,000 to supply 5000 tons of steel monthly for the new structural steel mill.

Weekly Review of Metal Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Inactivity on the part of consumers and easiness of prices covering many products continued to feature the steel market during the week. The latter was said to be one of the main disturbing influences with the belief that consumers will not contract to any extent for deliveries over the last quarter of the year until there is a definite sign of stability. Some mills did report demand covering a wide variety of steel products, but the buying was largely in small lots.

Pig iron was unsettled and price concessions were offered in some instances. Business was small.

Business in copper was quiet. European demand, which had been moderately active, was checked by an advance in the export price. Few inquiries are reported from home consumers who are now generally disposed to confine purchases to immediate requirements. Leading products continue to hold firm at 13¼c por electrolytic, delivered in Connecticut Valley, although there are rumors of price shading for small lots, mostly by second hands.

After reacting early in the week, tin prices rallied. Business was not active at any time.

Producers reported a satisfactory volume of business in the lead market, with consuming activity centering in the November position. Prices were slightly easier as a result of the lower level abroad.

Zinc turned easy and prices were again established at practically the low of the year. Business was fair.

Some consuming demand was reported for antimony in a spot position. But this was not active. Prices displayed little charge.

Lighter receipts in cattle the past week effected no material change in prices. Bulls advanced 25c, beef cows declined a quarter, best beef steers sold strong and other classes were generally steady. Top in beef steers was $15.50, paid for heavy steers weighing 1565 pounds and a consignment of long yearlings of 1056 pounds average. Bulk of sales of native beeves was $10.25 to $14.75. Kansas and Oklahoma steers were somewhat under 60 cars, top $10.70 on Kansas grassers, bulk of sales at $7.60 to $10. Butcher steers and heifers with the possible exception of some of the medium and plain heifers sold steady, top for straight heifers $12.65, top mixed $12.50. Odd head ranged upward to $14 and $14.25, bulk of all $7.50 to $12. Top beef cows made $9.25 and $9.50, bulk best $8 to $8.75, bulk of available flesh $6.25 to $7.50. Bulk of cutter cows went at $5.25 to $5.75, canners mostly $4.50 to $5. Nine cars of Texas cows went at $4.85 to $7.50. Bulls encountered an active inquiry and top bolognas made $7, bulk decent kinds at $6.25 to $6.75, plain and inferior grades $5 to $6. Beef animals registered as high as $8.50, bulk $7 to $7.75. Stocker and feeder steers bulked at $6.25 to $9 for the week, top feeders at $10. Prices were full steady except for she stock, bulk of cows going at $5.50 with $6.25 top and stock heifers selling mainly at $6.50 to $7. Good and choice veal calves closed the week at $15.50, first cuts $12.50 to $13 and throwouts and heavy calves from $6 to $12. Heavy calves continued in slow demand at no material change in price, however. Canner yearlings went at $5.25 to $5.75 for the week, bulk around $5.50.

Hog Demand Limited.

Listless trading with prices almost continuously on the down-grade characterized the local hog market the past week. Light hogs, 160 to 180 pounds, were the most affected, there being more than the demand called for. Heavy and extreme heavy hogs that were well finished were very scarce and show the least loss. The demand was limited from all sources with the exception of one day. And that day was Wednesday. The market opened steady with the previous day, and improved as the day progressed. It did not last long however as the next day the market was again lower. Friday the market trend was lower. Today, however, the market remained steady. High top for the week $11.85 was paid in the first session. The top today was $11.60. Hogs 160 pounds and up closed the period 35c to 60c lower. Top only shows 25c decline. The clearance for the week was fair. Bulk of all desirable hogs sold for the week at $11.15 to $11.75. Pigs and light lights closed the period unevenly 25c to 65c lower. Light pigs 120 pounds and down, and pigs weighing 140 to 160 pounds bore the brunt of the decline. Bulk of pigs 100 to 130 pounds sold at $10 to $10.50, of 130 to 150 pounds, $10.50 to $11. Packing sows held fairly well up until the latter sessions. The market then dropped sharply. Most sows closed the period 50c to 75c lower with spots $1 and more off. Top sows at the close made $10.05 as to $10.60 a week ago. Bulk $9.50 to $10 as to $10.50 a week ago. Stags sold mainly at $8 to $9. Receipts were approximately 59,448 as against 57,216 the previous week and 70,545 the corresponding time last year. Quality averaged fair to good.

Lamb Receipts Lighter.

Receipts of sheep and lambs the past week were somewhat lighter than the same period last week, and a good deal lighter than the corresponding time last year. Quality was fair to good. A fairly good demand combined with a curtailed supply, had a somewhat buoyant influence on the lamb trade the past period. The movement was much better than the previous week, and fat lambs closed the period mostly 25c to 50c higher than last Saturday. Other classes continued moderate in supplies and the demand was not brisk enough to change values. Trading usually ruled fairly active; practically none of the slowness, which characterized the previous week's trade, was apparent last week. City butchers bought a limited number, the bulk, however, going to packers. Top lambs cashed at $13.50, bulk $13.00 to $13.25. Plain to medium grades cashed at $10.50 to $12.50. Culls and skips sold principally at $5.50 to $8.50, a few culls sold to city butchers at $9.00. Best light ewes brought $5.50, weightier grades down to $4.50, cull sheep $1.00 to $4.00. A few wethers were on sale the past week and they cashed at steady prices. One deck of choice Western yearlings brought $11.50 and one deck of Southern wethers fair to good quality, $6.50. Odd lots cashed at various prices ranging from $2.25 to $8.50. Quotations slaughter stock: Good to choice spring lambs, $12.75 to $13.50; medium to good, $11.50 to $12.75; plain to medium, $10.50 to $11.50; cull and common, $8.00 to $10.00; good to choice yearling wethers, $10.00 to $11.50; medium to good, $9.00 to $10.00; plain to medium, $8.00 to $9.00; cull and common, $7.00 to $8.00. Good to choice aged Western wethers, $8.00 to $9.00; good fat Southern kinds, $7.00 to $8.00. Thin to fair kinds, $4.00 to $6.50. Good to choice mutton ewes, $4.50 to $5.50; plain to good, $4.00 to $4.50; choppers and bucks $3.00 to $3.50; canners, $1.00 to $2.50. Fat goats, $2.00 to $3.50; fair to good kids, $4.00 to $7.00; thin to fair kids, $1.50 to $3.00.

Horses and Mules.

The market held steady the past week on fat cotton mules of all sizes and good young mare mules with size and quality sold well even if a little green. Any other green mule, however, sold lower, with medium horse mules and plain kinds around $10 per head under the previous week. Good big mules with lots of quality sold as high as $225 in a few cases.

Trading in horses was rather slack, due largely to the poor class of offerings available. There were buyers here for good chunks and work horses of 1400 to 1500 lbs., but very few of this class on the market. A falling off of demand from Southern territory restricted the outlet on smooth-mouthed kinds.

WHEAT FUTURES BREAK THROUGH SEASON'S LOWS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Onward rush of Canadian wheat intensified today and all deliveries of wheat broke again through the season's low-price record. Corn values, however, turned upward, helped by estimates that 1,000,000 bu of corn had been taken for export.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ⅝c to ¾c net lower, with corn showing ¼c to ⅝c advance, oats at ⅛c to ⅜c gain and provisions varying from 30c decline to a rise of 10c.

It was reported that country wheat arrivals in Canada yesterday had overtopped any previous figures for a single day. The aggregate was 6,489,000 bu, against 3,522,000 bu a year ago. In addition the market was bearishly affected by a Canadian forecast that ideal weather for threshing would prevail over Sunday, and by trade gossip that the maximum weight of the Canadian crop had not yet been felt.

Accentuating wheat market weakness were reports of welcome general rain in Argentina, together with an official estimate that Argentina had seeded 400,000 more acres of wheat than a year ago. Besides, revised world crop estimates today placed the yield of wheat in 33 countries at 3,024,000,000 bu, compared with 2,830,000,000 bu last year. On the other hand, Liverpool wheat quotations today were relatively firm and there was talk current that breaks in wheat values on this side of the Atlantic had brought about considerable export business in flour.

Corn prices showed a decided upward trend throughout the day owing largely to persistent talk of corn export business. Continental Europe was said to have bought new crop United States corn today, and a cargo was also said to have been purchased for December shipment to Liverpool. Assertions were also made that about 1,000,000 bu of export corn had been worked from the Southwest and that it was expected much more would follow.

Oats were swayed by the action of corn.

Provisions were easier, sympathizing with hogs and grain.

GRAINS IRREGULAR ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, Oct. 22.—Wheat futures closed lower after an irregular course on the local market at week-end session. Expectation of favorable threshing weather in Canada was late influence. Corn finished unchanged to higher.

In the local cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was fairly steady, offerings being scarce. Demand was slow, except for a few orders for good country run No. 2. No. 3 was offered at $1.34. Hard wheat supply also was light, prices being unchanged. There was a limited demand for country run No. 2 hard at $1.27. There was bought 5000 bushels No. 2 hard out of elevator today at $1.25¾ basis, 10,000 bushels No. 2 hard 11½ per cent protein late yesterday at $1.29 to arrive, and 5000 bushels to basis 13c over Kansas City December price delivered. Corn was steady to 2c lower, demand showing marked improvement. Supplies were cleaned up closely. Cash prices are on a favorable buying basis. Elevators again active buyers, taking 25 cars good yellow to go to store. Glucose interests and shippers bought more or less freely of the under grades. Oats were ½c lower and a good demand prevailed at the decline. Moderate offerings were cleaned up.

Report of increasing country deliveries of wheat in Canada and reports of general rains in Argentina along with official estimate that the area seeded to wheat this year in Argentina is 400,000 acres more than last year, affected wheat prices. Corn was helped, largely by reports that 1,000,000 bushels of corn had been sold of late for export.

Wheat opened a fraction higher and improved a little in immediately subsequent trade. Winnipeg was ½c to ¾c lower early and Liverpool closed [illegible] higher. There was probably some evening up locally after the week's movement. Corn also was improved in price.

Reported indications of liberal export business in flour had some bullish influence as did also an upward trend in corn.

December hard wheat opened at $1.22¾, December corn 82⅛@⅜c and May corn 89¼c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 39,200 bushels, compared with 65,800 bushels a week ago and 134,400 last year, included 81 cars local and 15 through; corn receipts, which were 112,000 bushels, compared with 60,200 bushels a week ago and 50,300 last year, included 57 cars local and 1 through; oats receipts, which were 52,000 bushels, compared with 58,000 bushels a week ago and 54,000 a year ago, included 19 cars local and 7 cars through. Hay receipts included 46 cars local and 1 through.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 2333 cars of wheat, compared with 9120 a week ago and 3115 a year ago. Minneapolis receiving 455, Duluth 461 and Winnipeg 1417.

Clearances were 108,000 bushels of wheat, 9000 bushels of rye, 48,000 bbls. of flour and 324,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

Primary receipts of wheat were lighter than a week ago and heavier than last year; corn receipts were heavier than a week ago and heavier than last year; oats receipts were heavier than a week ago and heavier than last year; corn shipments were heavier than a week ago and heavier than last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 2,101,000 bushels, compared with 2,201,000 a week ago and 1,456,000 last year; corn receipts were 1,204,000 bushels, compared with 649,000 a week ago and 1,359,000 last year; oats receipts were 520,000 bushels, compared with 502,000 a week ago and [illegible] last year; wheat shipments were 1,667,000 bushels, compared with 2,080,000 a week ago and [illegible] last year; corn shipments were 349,000 a week ago and 269,000 last year; oats shipments were 419,000 bushels, compared with 385,000 a week ago and [illegible] last year.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Sales of cash grain made on the Exchange Saturday were as follows:

Wheat—No. 2 hard wheat, $1.27; No. 3 mixed wheat, $1.2[illegible]

Corn—No. 2 mixed corn 81c; No. 2 yellow corn 83c; No. 3 yellow corn 81c; No. 4 yellow corn 79½c; No. 6 yellow corn 74c; sample grade yellow corn 71c; No. 2 white corn 82c; No. 3 white corn 80¼c; No. 4 white corn 78c.

STOCKS AND MONEY DOWN PAST WEEK

Record Brokers' Loans Considered Factor in Late Market Though Big Offerings of Bonds Thought Played Part in Week's Increase.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"The stock market displayed a definite downward trend the past week despite an easier money market, exploding the myth that if money rates go down stocks must stay up. As a matter of fact the market was unsettled and weak from the opening gong on Monday and at the close on Friday a feverish decline was in progress. A recovery in prices on Tuesday apparently was nothing more than a short rally in a major decline. The decline was started, undoubtedly, by persistent and aggressive bear attacks, evidenced by the fact that the leading high priced industrials were the greatest sufferers. There still is enough uncertainty in the market to make bear traders wary of attacking closely held specialties. That these attacks frightened a large number of long accounts into liquidation was generally conceded although this did not show in the brokers' loan account.

Record Brokers' Loans.

"The increase in brokers' loans for the week of almost $40,000,000, bringing the total up to the largest figures on record, was responsible for the acute weakness that developed in the market on Friday. A little thought on the subject, however, would probably have saved many traders from hasty action. The increase was unexpected and therefore confusing. In analyzing the brokers' loan account, the tremendous increase in new stock and bond offerings must be taken into consideration. Since Oct. 1 new bond offerings have aggregated almost $400,000,000. This week several large issues were floated and it is beginning to be whispered that the investment market has once again become a little congested.

Theory as to Big Loans.

"In connection with the increase in brokers' loans a unique theory is offered by one economist who contends that when there is a great deal of short selling going on loans always increase. He says that whereas in the ordinary transaction between buyer and seller only one loan is needed, in the matter of a short sale two loans are necessary. Supposing that all three parties to a short sale are speculators, the original owner of the stock must maintain his loans, even though he has loaned his shares and the purchaser of the short stock uses borrowed money. All three must maintain their obligations until the stock is covered and the transaction cleaned up. If this is the case, the significant point in the brokers' loans figures probably would be their reflection to some extent of increased bear account, which temporarily offsets genuine liquidation.

Money Plentiful.

"Money this week was plentiful. Call loans on the stock exchange declined from 4 to 3½ per cent and in the outside market money could be had at 3 per cent. In the same week last year call loans were quoted at 4 per cent, but by December they had advanced to 6 per cent. The outlook this year continues to be for easy money, according to one of the largest lenders on the exchange, the National Bank of Commerce. Although borrowings for crop moving and for seasonal industrial and commercial purposes have expanded in accordance with their usual course, the effect has been hardly noticed at this center.

German Loan at 5½ Per Cent.

"Several large loans that have been on the fire for months came to market this week. Among them were the $47,000,000 loan to Poland, the $66,000,000 loan to the New York Power Corporation and $40,000,000 to the Edison Electric Illuminating. An interesting foreign loan was the $20,000,000 financing of the Commerz und Privat Bank, Berlin, because it established German loans here on a new low basis, 5½ per cent. It is said that a great deal of money has been released for investment through the payment of loans and mortgages to banks by farmers. An announcement was made that the United States Treasury is preparing for new financing in November in connection with the retirement of the remaining Second Liberty Loan 4¼s. The financing probably will be between $250,000,000 and $500,000,000.

Record Price for Seat.

"An interesting development of the week was the sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat at $270,000, a new high record price.

Autumn Expansion Under Expectations.

"According to the National Bank of Commerce, autumn expansion to mid-October has been less than was expected and less than normal if comparison be made with the corresponding seasons of the last three years. Yet trade is in fair volume and a critical consideration of the underlying factors which determine the course of business fails to disclose any cause for lack of confidence in the outlook."

WEEK'S NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Total stock sales, 1,426,400 shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Further unsettlement in prices took place in todays' stock market. Several of the high-priced specialties collapsed four to nearly 10 points, while net declines of one to three points were quite common among the popular rails and industrials. So great was the flood of offerings that the ticker was again 25 minutes late in printing the final quotation. Total sales ran close to one and one-half million shares.

Liquidation of weakened marginal accounts was an important factor in today's selling. Heretofore, the declines had not assumed sufficient proportions to impair the speculative position of the majority of traders, large and small, but with many issues selling 10 to 30 points below their year's highs, prices were within the range where many margin calls were necessary. There were no business developments overnight to influence the price movements, which are being governed, at least temporarily, by conditions within rather than without the market.

Some Violent Changes.

Extreme violence characterized the fluctuations in some of the so-called "Blue Chip" issues. Baldwin Locomotive, which has been rather inactive since the Fisher & Cutten interests announced they had acquired a majority interest in the open market, broke six and one-half points to 241½, but a drive against the "short" interest forced it up to 252¾ in the last few minutes of trading, the stock closing just below that level for a net gain of four and one-quarter points. Houston, which dropped from 167¼ to 151 yesterday, broke still further to 141½ today, closing fractionally above that level.

Case threshing broke 9 points and rallied 1 and American Express, Dupont, Goodrich Rubber, International Harvester, National Lead, Sloss-Sheffield, Universal Pipe preferred and Wright Aero all closed 4 or more points lower.

U. S. Steel common at 138, General Motors at 125¼, General Electric at 123⅝, Woolworth at 172¼, New York Central at 156½, Atchison at 184, Union Pacific at 185¼ and Erie common at 62⅝, all touched new lows on the current decline. Final quotations, in most cases, were around the low levels of the day, although week-end short covering was apparent in a few issues.

New Lows for Year.

New low levels for the year were established by about a doben issues, including Lackawanna and Lehigh Valley railroads, Advance Rumely common and preferred, American Beet Sugar common and preferred, American Ship & Commerce, Cuban-American Sugar, Cuban-Dominican Sugar, Great Western Sugar, Interational Combustion, Lima Locomotive, Manati Sugar, Marine preferred, Punta Alegre Sugar, Superior Steel, United Cigar Stores, Westinghouse Air Brake and White Eagle Oil.

A few issues moved against the current trend. Dodge Bros. preferred rallied more than a point, and moderate gains were recorded by American Linseed, American Sugar Refining, Philadelphia Company, Pressed Steel Car and Western Maryland common.

A further drop of 2 cents a bushel in wheat prices featured the day's commodity markets. Cotton, sugar and coffee moved within a fairly narrow range, and showed little net change on the day.

Foreign Exchange Steady.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading. Sterling cables were quoted around the year's high of $4.87 7-31, and French francs held just under 3.92½ cents.

The weekly clearing house statement showed a deficit in reserve of $43,583,650, as against excess reserve of $77,347,050 last week. Aggregate reserve was $580,736,000. The detailed statement of actual conditions this day showed mixed changes. Loans, discounts and investments increased $10,020,000 and net demand deposits $39,606,000. Cash in own vaults dropped $911,000; reserve in the Federal Reserve Bank of member banks $115,617,000 and time deposits $4,507,000.

CLEARINGS, MONEY AND SILVER

The St. Louis Clearing House Association reported clearings for Oct. 22, 1927, $21,000,000; corresponding day last year, $18,000,000; this year $5,952,000,000; corresponding period last year $6,271,600,000. Report of debits for October 1927 were: Debits to individual accounts, $28,400,000; total to date, $7,117,300,000; debits to bank and bankers' accounts, $19,700,000; total to date, $4,390,800,000; combined debits were $11,508,100,000; total to date to individual and bank and bankers' accounts $48,100,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Bar silver, 56⅝c; Mexican dollars, 43c.

Drygoods Market Review.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The gray cloth market was exceptionally quiet today, few sales being reported. Quotations were unchanged in the coarse yarn and fine goods sections. Calcutta cables were unchanged to 4 pence firmer, while buyers in the New York market were able to cover at last prices, subject to 5 and 10 point shadings. Various mills have made spring 1928 gingham prices which average one-half cent to 1½ cents above a year ago. Raw silk touched a new low for recent years at Yokohama and importers here reduced their lists 5 cents on an average.

3 BILLION IN STOCK VALUE WIPED OUT

Industrial and Railroad Averages Reached Record High Prices a Few Weeks Ago—Week of Sharp Reactions on Change.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Pronounced reactionary tendencies developed in nearly all speculative markets this week.

Prices of leading stocks broke 10 to 30 points, wiping out billions of dollars in quoted values, in a series of swift and almost uninterrupted reactions. Prices, which obviously had been greatly inflated, were being brought more in line with current business conditions and future trade prospects, heretofore largely disregarded as market factors. Easy money, the bulwark of the recent advance, had disappeared as a market influence.

Railroad and industrial stock averages lost between one and two points each. But the rails were still 15 points and the industrials 25 points above the year's lows. An unexpected increase of nearly $40,000,000 in brokers' loans this week, bringing the total to a new high record just below $3,500,000,000, also was a disturbing speculative factor, although it was accounted for largely by new bond financing, which has totaled nearly $500,000,000 in the last fortnight.

Drop of 3 Billion.

Wall Street observers, surveying the effects a week of sharp reactions in the stock market, estimated that three billion dollars in quoted values have been wiped out since the industrial and railroad averages established their record high prices a few weeks ago. Five of the leading industrial shares alone have lost nearly three quarters of a billion dollars and five of the leading rails over $180,000,000. The total number of stocks listed is nearly 1100.

The following table illustrates the extreme decline in 10 of the leading industrials and railroad issues, and the aggregate loss in market value of the stocks outstanding.

Wheat futures lost about 8 cents a bushel, dropping to new low levels for the season, on selling influenced by the continued lack of export demand, increased Canadian shipments and the increase in the visible supplies of the commodity. Other grains reacted in sympahty. Cotton broke about $6.50 a bale, largely on Southern hedge selling against the rapid marketing of the crop.

In the foreign exchange market, British and German currencies rose to new high levels for the year.

Several attempts were made by speculators for the advance to bring about a resumption of the upward movement, but they all proved futile, although a few individual issues were marked up to record high levels.

Call loans went down to 3½ per cent, duplicating the low level of the year, with "outside funds" available at 3¼, but time loans hardened slightly.

Steel Shares Sold.

Steel shares sold rather freely after the publication of the report of the Republic Iron and Steel Co. third-quarter earnings of which were not much more than one-third of those of the corresponding period last year. Gulf States also had a poor report. U. S. Steel common sold down more than 20 points from its recent high and Bethlehem had practically canceled all the gain which followed the first general buying of the stock in anticipation of an early resumption of dividends.

General Motors was traded in enormous volume, selling down about 14 points from the year high for the present issue. Hudson sold off sharply early in the week but rallied later on the publication of an excellent nine months report, one of the few bright spots of the week.

Chemical shares were weak on disappointing earnings and fears of increased foreign competition as a result of the formation of a new European chemical trust. Houston Oil broke 14 points in one day after publication of nine months report, but most of the other issues tended upward on better trade news. American Tobacco issues showed independent strength.

Rails yielded with the industrials, although intervals of strength developed in the Missouri Pacific issues on the appointment of a committee of directors to take up the question of back dividends and in Wabash common on reports of buying by Lackawanna interests. Lehigh Valley, Erie common and Chesapeake & Ohio were hard hit in Friday's reaction.

NEW ORK, Oct. 22.—Further nsettlement in prices took place n todays' stock market. Several f the high-priced specialties colapsed four to nearly 10 points, hile net declines of one to three oints were quite common among he popular rails and industrials. o great was the flood of offerings hat the ticker was again 25 mintes late in printing the final quoation. Total sales ran close to one nd one-half million shares.

Liquidation of weakened marginal accounts was an important factor in today's selling. Heretofore, the declines had not assumed sufficient proportions to impair the speculative position of the majority of traders, large and small, but with many issues selling 10 to 30 points below their year's highs, prices were within the range where many margin calls were necessary. There were no business developments overnight to influence the price movements, which are being governed, at least temporarily, by conditions within rather than without the market.

Some Violent Changes.

Extreme violence characterized the fluctuations in some of the so-called "Blue Chip" issues. Baldwin Locomotive, which has been rather inactive since the Fisher & Cutten interests announced they had acquired a majority interest in the open market, broke six and one-half points to 241½, but a drive against the "short" interest forced it up to 252¾ in the last few minutes of trading, the stock closing just below that level for a net gain of four and one-quarter points. Houston, which dropped from 167¼ to 151 yesterday, broke still further to 141½ today, closing fractionally above that level.

Case threshing broke 9 points and rallied 1 and American Express, Dupont, Goodrich Rubber, International Harvester, National Lead, Sloss-Sheffield, Universal Pipe preferred and Wright Aero all closed 4 or more points lower.

U. S. Steel common at 138, General Motors at 125¼, General Electric at 123¾, Woolworth at 172¼, New York Central at 156½, Atchison at 184, Union Pacific at 185¼ and Erie common at 62⅝, all touched new lows on the current decline. Final quotations, in most cases, were around the low levels of the day, although week-end short covering was apparent in a few issues.

New Lows for Year.

New low levels for the year were established by about a doben issues, including Lackawanna and Lehigh Valley railroads, Advance Rumely common and preferred, American Beet Sugar common and preferred, American Ship & Commerce, Cuban-American Sugar, Cuban-Dominican Sugar, Great Western Sugar, Interational Combustion, Lima Locomotive, Manati Sugar, Marine preferred, Punta Alegre Sugar, Superior Steel, United Cigar Stores, Westinghouse Air Brake and White Eagle Oil.

A few issues moved against the current trend. Dodge Bros. preferred rallied more than a point, and moderate gains were recorded by American Linseed, American Sugar Refining, Philadelphia Company, Pressed Steel Car and Western Maryland common.

A further drop of 2 cents a bushel in wheat prices featured the day's commodity markets. Cotton, sugar and coffee moved within a fairly narrow range, and showed little net change on the day.

Foreign Exchange Steady.

Foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading. Sterling cables were quoted around the year's high of $4.87 7-31, and French francs held just under 3.92½ cents.

The weekly clearing house statement showed a deficit in reserve of $43,583,650, as against excess reserve of $77,347,050 last week. Aggregate reserve was $580,736,000. The detailed statement of actual conditions this day showed mixed changes. Loans, discounts and investments increased $10,030,000 and net demand deposits $39,606,000. Cash in own vaults dropped $911,000; reserve in the Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $115,617,000 and time deposits, $4,507,000.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The raw and refined sugar markets were closed today and in absence of definite news from Cuba relative to the restriction of the new crop, trading in raw sugar futures was again in small proportions.

The undertone, however, was steady, probably influenced by the recent steadiness of the spot market and final prices were unchanged to two points higher on covering and a little trade support. Approximate sales 5000 tons. December closed 2.92; January 2.95; March 2.80; May 2.87; July 2.96; September 3.03.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $5,284,000; previous day sales, $12,169,000; week ago, $5,211,000; year ago, $7,215,000. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,728,774,000, compared with $2,352,513,000 same period year ago and $2,904,934,000 same period two years ago.

Quotations on Liberty Bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar, that is, for instance, a sale printed $99.24 means $99 and twenty-four thirty-seconds of a dollar and not $99.24.

BOND PRICES AFFECTED BY WEEK'S OFFERINGS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The influx of nearly $265,000,000 in new issues, the second highest weekly total of the year, combined with week-end realizing, pressed quotations fractionally lower in today's bond market. Nevertheless, there were a number of issues which displayed marked resistance to selling and in some instances material advances were recorded.

Chesapeake 5s were susceptible to profit-taking, declining to 99⅝ after selling at par in earlier dealings. Peoria & Eastern income 4s and a few other liens fell back a point or more. New York, Lackawanna & Western 4½s jumped to 106⅛, the highest of the year, a net gain of more than 2 points, and St. Paul general 4s and Canadian Pacific 4s also sold at peak price levels.

Dodge Bros. 6s continued to rally from their recent sinking spell, getting up to 85 again, then easing a trifle. International Paper convertible 6s fell back in the face of a slight gain in the price of the stock.

Public utility mortgages attracted little attention. The recent demand for New York traction issues appeared for the moment to have run its course.

Irregularity characterized the foreign group, in which there were no outstanding features. German obligations showed some improvement, but Italian and French bonds were heavy.

United States Government securities were in slight demand, but prices were firm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—All post-war records for foreign loans have been broken this month with more than $250,000,000 of flotations to date, the Department of Commerce announced. The record month of last year was October with $173,890,000. The bulk of foreign offerings thus far this month have centered around German, Polish and Brazilian issues. The record month for all time was October, 1916, when flotations aggregated $372,736,000, of which $300,000,000 went to England and the rest in other war loans.

Ontario will award $24,000,000 of bonds next Wednesday. It is the biggest municipal borrower next week, when awards by 69 communities will total $41,412,062.

Other large borrowers next week, according to the Bond Buyer, include Chicago park district, $4,000,000; Porto Rico, $2,000,000; Cook County, Ill., $7,200,000; Greensboro, N. C., $1,905,000, and Harris County (Texas) navigation district, $1,250,000.

MORE ACTIVE CURB LIST RECOVERS SOME OF LOSS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—After a feeble rally from a generally lower opening, renewed pressure was effective in producing a decidedly downward trend on the Curb Exchange today. There was early strength in Franklin Manufacturing, which rose 1¾ points, Johns Manville, Reo Motors and Bancitaly Corporation. The improvement was soon canceled, however, when a lack of nearby support was shown in some of the higher priced securities.

The widest declines included a 4½-point drop in Tubize Artificial Silk, Royal Baking Powder, off 5 points, Procter & Gamble, down 3, and Fajardo Sugar, off 5 points.

Apart from these declines, the offerings in other sections were well absorbed and prices at no time developed any acute weakness. In the closing period a fairly steady tone was in evidence, with some of the more active shares recovering part of early recessions.

Public utility shares were in supply at moderate recessions. United Gas Improvement yielded 1¾ points, to 105, and American Gas sold off 1¾ points.

Vacuum Oil was in demand at a gain of a point early, while Imperial Oil declined 1⅝ points to 58½. Humble and Prairie Oil closed higher.

Marine Preferred Lower.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The preferred stock of the International Mercantile Marine Co. dropped 1⅝ points on the New York Stock Exchange today, following the injunction proceedings in Jersey City against the recapitalization of the company. The issue sold at $33.50 a share, the lowest price of the year, against a year's high above $55.

LOCAL BANK STOCKS HIGHER PAST WEEK

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Oct. 22.—Both stock and bond trading on the local market the past week exceeded the business of previous six days. Sheffield Steel was leader in volume of trade in stock list while United Railway 4s featured the other section. The steel company stock rose more than two points. Rice Stix and Wagner Electric were other comparatively more active shares. International Shoe showed net gain of seven points.

National Bank of Commerce which gained more than five points to high for week of 160, featured that group. First National Bank sold at 303. St. Louis Union Trust was bid 415.

German Youth Opera Composer

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Erwin Dressel, 18 years old, is probably the youngest contemporaneous composer to have an opera accepted for production by a large opera house. His opera, entitled "Poor Columbus," soon will be brought out by the Prussian State opera at Cassel. Dressel is orchestra conductor at the municipal theater of Hanover. He first attracted nation-wide attention when, at the age of only 14, he composed the incidental music to Shakspeare's "As You Like It" for the State theater at Berlin.

FRIENDS CHEER EARL CARROLL ON HIS RETURN TO BROADWAY

Paroled Producer Says He Will Continue Revues if He Resumes Theatrical Work.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Tears streaming from his eyes, Earl Carroll came back today to Broadway, scene of both his rise and fall.

On the train that brought him from Atlanta penitentiary, where he had just completed the minimum part of a year's sentence for perjury, the producer had been unable to tell what his feeling about re-entering his former haunts was.

"How do you feel about getting back to Broadway?" a reported asked him.

"I really don't know," he replied with a vague gesture. "I haven't grasped it yet. I'm still back there in Atlanta. I haven't waked up."

But when the train came into the Pennsylvania Station and Carroll was greeted by scores of cheering friends, among them many actresses who had taken part in his productions and who kissed him fervently, the theatrical man gave definite evidence of his emotions.

He stumbled to the platform weeping openly and mumbling, "Oh, I'm so glad to be back, I'm so glad to be back."

$35,000 Fire at Dewey, Ill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 22.—The grain elevator and lumber yard of J. M. Jones at Dewey, east of here, were destroyed by fire early today with a loss of $35,000. The fire departments of Champaign and Rantoul were called to extinglish the flames.

Warning to the Public Regarding Health

Don't Accept Some Imitation Claimed To Be Just As Good

HERE IT IS!

MILLER'S HERB EXTRACT HERB JUICE
PRICE $1.10

When a druggist asks you to try some substitute it is because he makes more money. He knows the imitation is not as good, but merely wants to make extra profit off of you, even though you sacrifice your health.

This preparation has already proven beneficial and satisfactory to millions of sufferers. Demand it. Your health is at stake! Authorities claim that constipation is the direct cause of stomach disorders and numerous other complaints of the human system. Hundreds have testified that they suffered with constipation, indigestion, gas on stomach, coated tongue, no appetite, no vitality and general run-down condition, but by the aid of this marvelous cleanser, eliminating the poisonous waste matter from the system, through its free action on the bowels, they now owe their good health to its use and once more enjoy hearty meals without any ill effects and no longer suffer with the most common ailment of the day, constipation.

If you want to enjoy good health, you must free yourself from the clutches of constipation. You can do this by using Herb Extract, known as Herb Juice. Out of more than a million bottles sold during the past year under absolute guarantee, less than half a dozen bottles were returned—a record probably never before equaled by any other medicine. Every family should have a bottle of this herb tonic laxative handy for use whenever the first sign of constipation appears for it is said to be nature's most effective tonic laxative and intestinal cleanser. For children same as adults. Pleasant to take, yet very effective. Try it once. It insures health. Get the original and genuine as shown above; results guaranteed. Now sold by leading druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere.

Waits 15 Years To Eat Fried Onions

"For 15 years everything I ate turned sour in my stomach. Even a drink of water often made me sick. I suffered from gas and had dizzy spells all the time. It was common for me to go for days without a bowel movement. But since taking Adlerika, I feel like a new woman. I eat anything I want now, even fried onions. I sleep better and my nervousness is almost all gone. My weight has increased 18 pounds. Now I do all my own housework and life is worth living again. In my case, Adlerika has been wonderful."—Mrs. L. L. Branton.

As gently and naturally as taking a drink of water, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowels, bringing quick relief from gas bloating, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation.

The very FIRST dose of Adlerika often brings out astonishing amounts of old waste matter from the intestinal canal. The poisonous matter may have been in the intestines a long time, causing gas, headache, sleeplessness and many other symptoms. A treatment of just a FEW weeks with Adlerika often brings great permanent improvement in cases of so-called stomach trouble.

What Doctors Say

Dr. H. Louis Shoub, New York, states: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing action, tends to check the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. J. Lancaster, a physician of over a quarter century's experience, says: "In the treatment of gastro-intestinal disorders, Adlerika has no equal."

J. E. Puckett writes: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. Carl Weschcke, graduate of Heidelberg University, Germany, first perfected Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleansers known to science with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements.

Many physicians recognize Adlerika as the one dependable remedy for gas, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation. Unlike most medicines it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika may bring out poisonous, gas-forming matter which you would never believe was in your system.

No matter what you have tried for the bowels and stomach, Adlerika will surprise you.

ROTARY OFFERS PRIZE FOR BOY SCOUT SHOW

Chest of Supplies Will Be Given to Troop Excelling at Merit Badge Exhibit.

A troop duffel chest, containing $50 worth of scout supplies and equipment, will be presented by the Rotary Club of St. Louis to the Boy Scout troop which contributes most to the success of the third annual Boy Scout merit badge exposition, to be held at the Coliseum next Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, the Rotary Club announced Friday.

Other prizes, including a wrist watch to the scout selling the most tickets, and a scout diary to every boy who sells his quota of 10, also will be awarded by the club. In addition, Clarence Howard, president of the St. Louis scouts, will give a flag to the prize booth.

To win the duffel chest a troop must do exceptional work in all phases of the exhibit, selling tickets, conducting a prize-winning booth and participating in the activities which will take place in the arena. The prize was won last year by Troop 88, which not only had charge of the prize-winning booth of the show, but also sold the most tickets of any troop in the city and took a major part in the arena performance.

Seventy of the 76 merit badges given as honor awards by the organization will be dramatized by the scouts in the exposition. Each badge has been assigned to one or two troops, who will be assisted by a rotary Club member. The subjects range through the arts, trades and sciences, from sculpture and bee keeping to astronomy and bridge building. More than 6000 boys will participate in the various events, either in the booths or the drum and bugle corps contests, dramatizations of the scout principles and demonstrations of the organization's work in the arena.

SCOUT NOTES

North District.

Troop 30 has issued a challenge to Troops 162, 172, 206 and 243 for a contest based on progress in passing scout tests. The events will start Nov. 1, and continue until Feb. 1. Scoutmaster Simons of Troop 3 will be the official supervisor of the contest.

Troop 121, of the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, will renew its activities next Tuesday evening. The Troop Committee will attend the meeting and outline a new policy in the troop program.

Elmer Nickel has been promoted to Senior Patrol Leader of Troop 88, Ralph Beals has become scribe, and Herbert Dill has been elected patrol leader of the Owls. The troop drum and bugle corps is to play at the Merit Badge Exposition. A hike was taken yesterday.

The scouts of Troop 3 are on a 14-mile hike to Falling Springs, Ill., today, under the leadership of Committeeman Anderson. The tickets for the Merit Badge exhibi have been issued, and a numbe of sales made.

Two hikes, both under the direction of new Senior Patrol Leader Ray Mollitor, have been taken by Troop 23 in the last two weeks. Scoutmaster Usher has promised the scouts a present if the troop makes a success of its cycling exhibit at the coming Merit Badge show. Three new boys have come into the troop, George Pierce and Melvin Schlanger having been accepted and passed their Tenderfoot tests, and Lloyd Hildebrandt having been transferred from another troop. Scout Joseph Duddy has passed his second-class tests.

A series of scouting slides, entitled "Boy Power," were shown to the scouts of Troop 92 of the Church of the Redeemer, a week ago Friday evening. The Rev. Mr. Duckworth, pastor of the church, spoke on the activities illustrated by the slides. The troop's new assistant scoutmaster, Eagle Scout James Beeley, with 43 merit badges, also was introduced to the scouts. His brother, Merit Badge Scout Raymond Beeley, is junior assistant of the troop.

Suburban District.

The scouts of Central 1, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Schwalbert, performed scouting missionary work last Wednesday evening by giving a demonstration of what scouting stands for at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Stoede School, in the school district adjoining their own. A demonstration of first aid and bandaging also was given. Field Executive Leavitt spoke, and the association took under advisement the possibility of organizing a troop at the school.

Fourteen boys have been registered in a new troop, St. Charles 2, which has been organized at the Immanuel Lutheran Church at St. Charles. E. Siedrass is scoutmaster, and the Rev. Frederic Niedner, pastor of the church, chairman of the Troop Committee.

The scouts of Troop 186 cooked supper out of doors last Friday evening, before the regular meeting was held. Drills, patrol meetings, and a council fire followed. The troop has the Weather badge at the coming Merit Badge Exposition.

Jack McGuire was elected officer of the day at the meeting of Kirkwood 3 a week ago Friday evening. After the meeting, a committee of three boys was appointed to arrange a program for the next week. The troop drum and bugle corps practiced for a half hour, under the direction of Instructor Buechner.

The Troop Committee of Webster Groves 9 has offered three prizes to the scouts selling the most tickets to the coming Merit Badge Exposition. The four patrols were reorganized as the Ram, Eagle, Raven, and Parrot, and plans were laid for an inter-patrol contest, to be started in the near future.

Twenty-six scouts of Webster Groves 1 participated in a hare and hounds race at a meeting last Monday evening, to officially open the winter's program. Two patrols, acting as hares, left the church at 6 o'clock, to be followed 10 minutes later by the remainder of the troop, as hounds. The race ended in a camp, where supper was prepared and eaten. The leadership of this troop, the oldest in the county, has been taken over by George Wolfe, a graduate of Iowa State University, who has succeeded former Scoutmaster Utrecht. Utrecht is now Outdoor Member of the Troop Committee. Eagle Scout Russell Holbrook, a former member of the troop, who has just returned from Dartmouth College, has become assistant scoutmaster. Scout Achilles is junior assistant, Scout Thompson is Senior Patrol Leader, and Scout Utrecht is scribe.

South District.

Troop 41 was the guest of the Brotherhood of Immanuel Congregational Church last Monday evening. Scoutmaster Roseman, three committeemen and 18 scouts attended and enjoyed an entertainment, with plenty of "eats." The scouts participated in the program.

Twenty-two scouts, R. Leiber and M. Baxley and Scoutmaster Reiter spent Saturday evening and Sunday at Grimsley, about two miles south of Cliff Cave, at the club of Committeeman Mosner. A council fire was held Saturday evening, after which a story, song or a riddle was told by each and every scout. Taps were blown at 9:30. Sunday was devoted to different scout games, a hike to Cliff Cave and passing tests. After inspection of camp, a special meeting, lasting only a few minutes, closed the program.

Eagle Scout Carl Dobbins of Troop 180 has joined Troop 109, the blind troop located at the Missouri School for the Blind, as junior assistant scoutmaster. Scout Dobbins expects to help Scoutmaster McDonnell with the test passing and hikes of the troop.

E. C. Allen has taken over Troop 41 temporarily, as Scoutmaster Roseman will be unable to be present for the next month.

Troop 217 of the Southampton Presbyterian Church was visited last Friday night by Assistant Field Executive Laemmli, who spoke on the merit badge exhibit.

Troop 42 of the Dr. Fry Memorial M. E. Church had as a visitor last Friday night Assistant Field Executive Laemmli from scout headquarters, who gave the troop a talk on the coming merit badge exposition, to be held in the Coliseum Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Troop 118 of the Chouteau School is being reorganized under the new scoutmaster, Phoenix. Definite plans for the winter activities were made last Friday night.

CATHOLIC FUND FOR SEMINARY $1,591,177

Unreported Pledges Expected to Increase Sum to Exceed Goal of $2,000,000.

The Catholic Junior Seminary campaign has brought in pledges totaling $1,591,177, with many parishes still unreported, and indications are the $2,000,000 goal will be exceeded.

Many of the city parishes will hold their final campaign workers' meetings today. It is a rare case where the parish has not reached its quota, even those which were in the tornado area. Rural and suburban parishes likewise have gone over the top.

Most of the money raised will be used to build a new junior seminary. The remainder will be spent for a home for the McBride High School teachers and for a school for Negroes.

St. Louisans who contributed $1000 or more to the Junior Seminary Fund in the preliminary or special gifts solicitation that preceded the general parish solicitation were:

$50,000: Mrs. Theresa Kulage.

$15,000: "Anonymous Friend."

FUNERAL OF FORMER HEAD OF ST. LOUIS CALEDONIAN SOCIETY

The funeral of John W. Dick, a manufacturers' agent here for years, who died of diabetes Wednesday at the home of a daughter in Little Rock, Ark., was held Friday afternoon from an undertaking establishment at 3621 Olive street. Burial was in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Mr. Dick, who resided of late at 2216 Blendon place, became ill 10 days ago and was taekn to Little Rock.

He was born at Newarthill, Lanarkshire, Scotland, 77 years ago, on Sept. 26, 1850, and came here in 1871, getting work as a dry goods salesman. Later he owned the St. Louis Corset Co. For several years he was president of the Caledonian Society, for a long period secretary of the Burns Club and during the Louisiana Purchase Exposition head of the Burns Cottage Association.

Three daughters survive—Mrs. Philip Neamer of Little Rock, Mrs. Alfred Brown of Chicago and Mrs. F. A. Henninger Jr. of Johnstown, Pa. Their mother died in 1909. His first wife died years ago.

Question: Why do underweight children need and realize so much benefit from emulsified cod-liver oil?

Answer: Because it provides a vitamin-rich food that nourishes efficiently and helps thin children put on weight. It's known worldwide as

SCOTT'S EMULSION

FREEZONE

Corns Lift Off

Drop "Freezone" on that old, bothersome corn. Instantly it stops aching; then shortly you lift that sore, touchy corn right off with your fingers.

You'll laugh, really! It is so easy and doesn't hurt one bit! It works like a charm, every time.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store, and is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and calluses.—Try it!

MOTHER

A Cross, Feverish Child is Bilious, Constipated

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Fig Syrup," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless, "fruity laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

Coach Mike Walker's Eleven Flashes Versatile Attack and Staunch Defense in Winning.

By Gerald Holland.

Favored teams won the opening games of the Public High School Football League at the dedication of the new stadium at Kingshighway boulevard and St. Louis avenue yesterday. Central, despite the fact that its practice program was upset by the tornado, defeated Cleveland, last year's champions, in the first contest, 12 to 0. Roosevelt ran away from the inexperienced Beaumont High team, to win, 41—0.

A crowd of nearly 8000 persons half the capacity of the new concrete bowl, attended the doubleheader.

Cleveland lost three regulars through injuries in bowing to Central, the most serious of which was a broken leg suffered by Halfback Braznell. Vogt, an end, also carried a bad leg injury to the bench after the first play of the game Cole, a lineman, received a hard blow on the head in scrimmage which may keep him out of action for a time.

Chicago's Aerial Attack Proves Effective and Team Wins Over Penn, 13 to 7

Easterners Prove Dangerous Only in Final Period, After Lucky Break Nets Touchdown—55,000 See Contest at Stagg Field.

By Charles W. Dunkley
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 22.—Amos Alonzo Stagg, dean of America's football coaches, saw his dream of 30 years crowned with success today when his maroon-jerseyed warriors conquered Penn, 13 to 7, before 55,000 spectators.

The victory avenged, at least for this 64-year-old football teacher, a string of defeats Pennsylvania has handed his team. Over a period of 29 years, the teams had battled six times with Chicago always being trampled under the losing end of the score, except back in 1899 when the Maroons tied their Eastern foes.

Stagg, the "old man" of the gridiron, sent an inspired crew of footballers against Pennsylvania. There was deceptiveness and trickery in the Chicago attack in advancing the ball through the line, and Stagg's backfield aces passed and passed and passed until the bewildered Pennsylvanians became dizzy under the barrage. It was the first time in the memory of the oldest Maroon admirer that Stagg, the conservative in football, sent forth a team equipped with so effective a forward pass attack.

Break Aids Easterners.

The Maroons outplayed, outsmarted and out-gamed Pennsylvania for three periods, and had the game safely stowed away before the Pennsylvanians even became dangerous.

The invaders with their courage bolstered as the results of a break that put them in position to score in the closing seconds of the third period, exploded their dynamite in the fourth period in a desperate passing attack and looked something like the Penn teams of previous years.

The alert defense of Chicago, however, checked the Pennsylvania marches before the Easterners became a genuine menace. The Maroons intercepted their aerial shots three times in the fourth period when it appeared that Pennsylvania might come from behind, and win or at least tie the score.

The vaunted hidden ball tricks of the invaders were fruitless. The defense of the Chicago line being so tight that Wascolonis, Penns' big fullback was the only invader to pierce it, and then only once for a gain of five yards early in the game.

Lineup and Summary

Chicago (13)	Pos.	Pennsylvania (7)

Score by periods:

Chicago	0	7	6	0—13
Pennsylvania	0	0	7	0— 7

Chicago scoring: Touchdowns—Mendenhall, Aanderson. Point after touchdown—McDonough. Pennsylvania scoring: Touchdown—Murphy. Point after touchdown—Penn awarded point when Chicago was offside after Wascolonis' failure. Officials—Referee, Ghee, Dartmouth; umpire, Thorpe, Columbia; field judge, Eckles, W. & J.; head linesman, Hackett, West Point.

Maroons Use Triple Pass.

Chicago, threatening and dangerous from the very first play until the last, scored a touchdown in the second period and another in the third by beautiful passing. Starting from the Penn 47-yard line in the second period, Stagg showed the Easterners some hidden ball formations of his own, when Leyers who had replaced Burgess at fullback for Chicago, gained 12

Brown Bud Victor Over Whiskery by Length and Half in Maryland Stake

Johnson's Three-Year-Old Star Gets Off Fifth, but Takes an Early Lead and Holds It Throughout in Race Valued at $16,050 to the Winner.

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 22.—Frederick H. Johnson's crack 3-year-old, Brown Bud, by Brown Price II-June Rose, steered by Jockey Chick Lang and carrying 123 pounds, won the Maryland handicap $15,000 added at a mile and quarter. He beat H. P. Whitney's Whiskery by a length and a half. E. B. McLean's Jock ran third. There were nine star 3-year-old starters.

Brown Bud got off fifth, but immediately assumed the lead. He maintained a head lead over Jock until the turn out of the back stretch, then pulled away to two lengths. Jock weakened in the stretch and Whiskery came through the field from eighth position in the stretch to get up and beat Jock by a head. Buddy Bauer raced well for a half mile and then eased up as though tiring.

The winner ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 4-5, and paid $6.90. He netted his owners $16,050.

The Selima Stakes with $10,000 added, for 2-year-olds, was won by Walter M. Jefford's Bateau. Twitter finished second and Spy Glass third. The last two are owned by H. P. Whitney. There were ten starters. Twitter broke on top and was not overtaken by Bateau, which was racing close up in second place, until the home stretch was reached. Here Bateau came to the front and drew away to win by eight lengths. The start was poor and Glade was left flat-footed. The winner ran the mile in 1:39 3-5. She paid $7.50 and netted her owner $9835.

Texas League to Have 10 Clubs For Next Year

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22.—By unanimous vote of the Texas League owners, meeting here tonight Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Ok., were admitted to the Texas League, making a 10-club baseball league.

Doak Roberts, president of the Texas League, was re-elected for a five-year term.

CHESS MASTERS PLAY 14TH DRAWN GAME

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 22.—The fourteenth drawn game was recorded here tonight in the world's chess championship contest.

Jose R. Capablanca, Cuba, the champion, and Alexander Alekhine, the Russian challenger, playing in the nineteenth game, agreed to a draw after 21 moves.

The game was played in the most orthodox manner without advantage to either and the end came after queens were exchanged.

Penn State Beats Syracuse U. for First Time, 9-6

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 22. — Fighting desperately to overcome the football jinx which has forced defeat at the hands of Syracuse University at every previous meeting, Penn State succeeded today by downing the Orange, undefeated so far this season, 9 to 6.

Scoreless until the final period the Pennsylvanians opened that session with a touchdown. A placement kick in the last few minutes of play by Captain Roepke, gave State its victory.

WABASH ELEVEN DEFEATS COLGATE, 7-0

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Wabash nosed out Colgate, 7 to 0, today. Weist scored the lone touchdown in the third period, after a burning attack by the Indiana eleven. Colgate's fourth-quarter assault, assisted by a blocked punt, brought the ball to the Wabash four-yard line, but the final whistle saved a possible tally.

ROSS YOUNGS, FORMER GIANT STAR, IS DEAD

Outfielder Was Forced to Quit New York Club Because of Illness During 1926 Campaign.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 22.—Ross Youngs, former outfield star of the New York Giants, died here tonight.

Youngs came to San Antonio from New York in the midst of the 1926 baseball season and went to hospital suffering from Bright's disease.

His recovery was very slow and physicians said he could never play ball again, although the star himself was optimistic. His condition finally became so good that he was allowed to return to his home late this summer, but a relapse sent him back to the hospital Oct. 19.

Youngs was a star football, basketball, baseball and track man at West Texas Military Academy and began to play semi-pro baseball after his graduation. His history as a professional began in 1916, when he signed as an infielder with the Houston club of the Texas League. Houston farmed him to Sherman of the old Western Association, where he made a fine record. The New York Nationals purchased him for a stiff price and farmed him to Rochester of the International League. That was in the spring of 1917 and Youngs was shifted to the outfield, where he made good. He hit above .300 and the Giants gave him a permanent berth in right field.

CUTHBERT WINS OVER MASCART IN PARIS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Johnny Cuthbert, featherweight champion of England, and holder of the Lord Landsdale belt, defeated Edouard Mascart, French featherweight, in a 12-round contest tonight on points. Cuthbert made a chopping block of the Frenchman after the fifth round.

The fighters met at the featherweight limit. The entire proceeds ere donated to the fund for the expenses of the French Olympic team which is going to Amsterdam next year.

BRILLIANT PASS ATTACK GIVES BEARS THREE SCORES

Whittler Tosses Ball 40 Yards to Lohrding in Second Period — Higgins' Men Lead at Half 14-7.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 22.—A hard line-plunging team met a brilliant forward-passing eleven when Kansas and Washington battled here this afternoon and these two plans of football offensive were waged through four exciting periods in a game that ended 21 to 21.

It was the ninth meeting in football between the two schools and the tie must have been nearly as sweet to Washington as a victory, for it marked the second time in history that the Bears had held a Jayhawker eleven on even terms. Kansas has won the seven other games.

The last Washington team to appear on the Kansas field prior to today went down to an 83 to 0 defeat but it was an altogether different Bear eleven that fought off a seeming Jayhawker victory to emerge in the late moments of the game with a tie.

Kansas had power from the start to rip the Washington line, and also inserted successful forward passes when they helped. But Washington, in the strong right arms of Bickel and Whittler, disclosed a threat that was to cause Kansas much worry and finally offset the slashing rushes of the Jayhawker backs.

Credit to Goal Kickers.

Credit must go to the lads who place-kicked those all-important goals after touchdowns. A miss of any one of the six attempts would have meant defeat, but three times did Edgar Schmidt, sophomore fullback of Kansas, boot the ball from placement for those precious points, and twice did Collins of Washington make placement goals good and once did Whittler, the Washington fullback.

The story of the battle is shown vividly in the statistics, which discloses that Kansas made 212 yards from scrimmage, exclusive of forward passes, to 82 for Washington, while Washington gained 218 yards on forward passes to 45 yards for Kansas.

The Washington passes were exceptional for length, the first pass that placed the Bears in scoring distance being a 40-yard heave by Whittler to Lohrding, who raced on 17 yards more to the Kansas three-yard line, and the pass that scored the final and tying touchdown going for 23 yards from Bickel to Libman.

Kansas Twice in Lead.

The game was a great one from the spectators' standpoint as the fortune of battle favored first one team and then the other in dramatic sequence.

Kansas scored first in the opening period; Washington collected two touchdowns in the second period to finish the half with a 14 to 7 lead; Kansas came back in the third period to push over two touchdowns in quick order and take the lead, 21 to 14; then Washington made its final march and score to tie the count.

Kansas made many costly fumbles, the total being seven, but the breaks on intercepted passes and penalties at crucial times were about even.

Washington displayed no consistent ground gainer as did Kansas in Cooper, Shannon and Edgar Schmidt, but Kansas had no passers like Bickel and Whittler.

The tie battle left Kansas and Washington on an equal footing in more ways than one, as each team now has won one, lost one and tied one Missouri Valley Conference game this season.

How Game Was Played.

ILLINOIS OPENS ITS BIG TEN SEASON WITH 7 TO 6 VICTORY

Nowack's Place Kick For Extra Point Downs Northwestern

Lewis Fails in Try for Field Goal After Touchdown—Defeat Is First for Purple in Western Conference Game Since 1925.

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 22.—The hopes of Northwestern for a renewal of its Western conference football championship sank before the invading Illini today when Coach Bob Zuppke's 1927 Big Ten debut brought Illinois a victory over the Purple, 7 to 6.

It was the first conference defeat for Northwestern since Stagg's Chicago Maroons won from Northwester in mid-season of 1925, and the first defeat Coach Dick Hanley has tasted since he entered the western conference coaching ranks.

An accurately aimed place kick from the toe of Albert Nowack, Pana, Ill., junior, who played tackle for the Illini, was the margin of the alert Illinois superiority over the equally alert Wildcats. Tiny Lewis, Northwestern's big fullback who scored the Purple's touchdown, missed his try for goal.

Both Score in Second Period.

Both scores came in the second period and both teams called upon their tactics to cross the goal line.

Thereafter Northwestern tried desperately to score by passing but the Illini kept the receivers well covered, and Northwestern completed only four out of ten attempts, in the third and fourth periods.

The scoring opportunity for Northwestern came early in the second period, due to the great superiority of Lewis' punts over Mills' kicks. A 65-yard punt by Lewis put the ball on Illinois' one-yard line. Mills' punt reached only to the 15-yard line, aided by some clever dodging on the part of Captain Vic Gustafson of Northwestern.

Haas passed to Waldo Fisher for a 12-yard gain and Lewis plunged over from the three-yard line on the first try.

Then, with Dwight Stuessy of Woodstock, Ill., replacing Bair French at quarter for Illinois, the Illini unleashed their overhead drive in earnest. Stuessy passed twice across the Northwestern goal line into the arms of Walter Jolley, who had just gone in at end.

Illinois Makes 13 First Downs.

The third period opened discouragingly for Northwestern when Gustafson's fumble gave Illinois the ball on Northwestern's 20-yard line but the Purple resisted the Illini's attacks and the punting duel was resumed, this time Walker having the better of Calderwood in the change of kickers. Zuppke's surprise, saved for the final period, was Jud Timm, who went in at halfback and opened up the air attack again. Northwestern broke it up and came back with the same type of play, but neither team could score.

The one-point margin of victory for Illinois was not quite as impressive as the Illini's advantage in ground gained, as the invaders made 13 first downs to Northwestern's 10.

The Northwestern attack, except for the unsuccessful forward passes, folded up in the second half when Tiny Lewis was hurt in the the second play of the third period and had to leave the game with a sprained ankle. Calderwood, who replaced him, kicked high and poorly, and none of the other Purple ball carriers could break through the Illinois line.

MRS. HERBERT PULITZER BUYING HORSES FOR 1928 RACING SEASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer will join Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, Mrs. Payne Whitney and Mrs. H. C. Phipps, among other women, who race horses, next season.

Two yearling colts, one of which cost $12,000 and the other $10,000, are now on their way from England to this country on board the Steamship Minnetonka. Foundation Stone, a coming 4-year-old, will follow them in a few days. These three will form the nucleus of Mrs. Pulitzer's stable. The horses will be trained by Max Hirsch.

Foundation Stone has won more than $10,000 in stakes and purses in England, where he raced in the colors of Herbert Pulitzer, one of the owners of the New York World. He maintains a stable abroad under the direction of Sam Darling, the famous trainer. Mr. Pulitzer's colors, which also are registered in this country, are "dark blue with crimson cross sashes, blue cap and crimson hoops."

One of the yearlings now on the way here is named Tipperary. He is by Comrade—Silver tip. Comrade is a French stallion, winner in his day of the Grand Prix and Arc D'Triomphe.

The other yearling also is choicely bred by Jack Daw—Forfaria. The dam has earned the reputation in England of producing only winners.

WRAY'S COLUMN

What's in a Name.

THE split in the Valley Conference, caused by the seccession of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas Aggies and Iowa State, seems likely to develop into a question as to the right of the remnants of the conference to retain the original conference name.

There's absolutely "nothing in a name" for, no matter what official designation is given the six state institutions retiring, they will undoubtedly inherit the popular nickname of the "Big Six." Fans already have hung that short and simple moniker on the sextette.

If the four remaining schools, Washington, Drake, Oklahoma Aggies and Grinnell, desire to continue as the "Missouri Valley Conference," they have the legal right. But this title, as concerns both groups is today a misnomer.

The Original Five.

AS a matter of fact the "Missouri Valley Conference" had been expanded to a degree where its name no longer applied. Several of the institutions could not come under the "Missouri Valley" description.

The original conference was formed in 1907 and consisted of Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Washington University. This fairly represented the cities reasonably adjacent to the Missouri Valley.

Changes and additions to the original circuit built it up to a ten-school organization, of which the units no longer were sympathetic or even equal.

The division into two groups was natural and will be for the best interests of all concerned. Names are nominal; the rose by any other name will be just as sweet.

Are We Growing Larger?

ONE notices today where Mickey Walker, once a welterweight, is matched to fight Mike McTigue, only recently light heavyweight champion of the world.

Walker has not grown so large. He still, by hard work, could approximate the welterweight limit, but the tendency of all little fellows to get into the higher weights, where the big money lies, is still going forward.

The corpulent bank rolls, however, are not sufficient to explain to the steady increase in class limits that has been going forward for the last 30 years. Here is a comparison of the changes that have taken place in weight schedules within quarter of a century:

	Old. Limit.	*New Limit.
Flyweight	105	112
Bantam	116	118
Feather	122	126
Light	133	135
Welter	142	147
Middle	154	160
Light heavy	175	175
Heavy	154 and up	175 and up

*Old limit weights usually were ringside. New limit weights eight hours before the fight!

Some Difference.

THE greatest discrepancy between the new and the old scale lies in the weighing-in time. Under the old system, the fighter had to scale his poundage just before going into the ring. That was done to make certain his weight was normal and not a forced ont. Under the new plan, whereby eight hours elapse between the weigh-in and the fight, the delay enables a boxer to put on from three to five pounds and regain all his strength, after a strenuous drying out to make the low limit.

The new plan is the better and the more humane. No weak fighters are sent into the ring by this system. But it adds to the actual weight differences between the various classes to a considerable degree.

For example, a genuine bantam weighing naturally, in training, about 113 pounds, is matched with a light featherweight. The normal difference in their weights might be ten pounds. But the eight hours time gives the feather a chance to train down for the weight-in and then eat his way back into strength before fight time. It makes a difference of ten pounds too much for any little fellow to concede.

Blame Terry McGovern.

TERRY McGovern was one of the first to start the scale-raising impulse. Terry, as a bantam, won great fame and the title. But high living and natural growth soon sent him out of this class. He fought as a bantam many fights in which he was pounds above the bantam limit, getting by because he was champion.

Finally he could not train down to the bantam limit at all, so, without relinquishing the bantam title he went after the featherweight crown and won that, as well. Soon he was fighting at 126 as a featherweight, when the limit was 122 ringside. Later on he won an alleged lightweight championship from Joe Gans.

It was champions like Terry who, being in popular demand by promoters, were allowed to fudge on the weights, laid the foundations for the uplift in the scale of the various classes.

The fact that they have remained at the higher figure seems to lend color to the view that the present weights are better than the old ones. There are more fighters in all classes today perhaps because the new scale of weights makes it possible. Perhaps we are going bigger as a race.

Make Him Fight.

THE prospect of another Dempsey-Tunney fight is so great that today most persons feel assured that the "third annual contest" between the rivals will be the feature, next September, regardless of how the eliminations turn out.

Dempsey is a historic, in pugilistic stature. But that doesn't alter the fact that being a defeated man twice, he must prove his right to face Tunney again by fighting the winner of the winter eliminations. If only to prove that everything is on-the-up-and-up in the fight world, Dempsey should be made to battle at least one elimination, whether he wishes to or not.

Because Dempsey had Tunney on the floor does not in itself make him the best opponent. Sharkey, Heeney and Godfrey are men to be reckoned with. Dempsey should meet the survivor, as between these men. Then his claim to a third fight with Tunney will be beyond dispute.

Most of us would like to see Dempsey take on, in order, Sharkey, Godfrey and Heeney, and then come to grips with the champion.

It would not only "make" the title fight, it would make Dempsey. One would almost be tempted to give Dempsey an even chance to beat the champion if he would fit himself in such a manner. He couldn't accomplish it, unless he was a real fighter. And that, after all, is what the public deserves at the hands of Rickard—the proved best opponent for Tunney of all candidates in the field.

Only by beating the leaders in detail, can the best man be determined.

WEBSTER HIGH OUTCLASSED BY LOUISVILLE, 33-6

Visitors Have Little Trouble Scoring Against Lighter and Younger Foes in Annual Game.

Displaying college weight and speed, Male High School of Louisville, Ky., swamped Webster Groves High School, 33 to 6, on the Webster Field yesterday afternoon. Had the Kentuckians shown more consistency in their play, the score would have been much greater, for the invading backs ran through Webster's line frequently for 30 or 40 yards gain.

It took Louisville only a few minutes to show its offensive power. Streicher returned the kick-off to his 30-yard line, where Webster held for a down. On the next play, White, with splendid interference ran through the Webster team 70 yards to score the first touchdown. Sprauer, of Coach Thompson's invading crew blocked Harvey Miller's attempted punt, shortly after the second kick-off and fell on the ball behind Webster's goal line. White's drop-kick made the score 13 to 0, before Webster could snap out of its bewilderment.

The Male second team was unable to penetrate Webster's defense, but beginning the second half the victors renewed their rampaging. Ed McDevitt picked an opening and sprinted 40 yards for the third touchdown. A short time later Kirwan, on a fake play, tore off 20 yards and White carried the ball over. White made his place-kick good and the score stood 26 to 0.

Webster scored its first touchdown of the season and the second to be made against Louisville, when Harvey Miller returning a punt from his 30-yard line, made Webster's only score. The remarkable running of Charley Baer, who scored a touchdown previously to Miller's dash, was the outstanding performance in the closing minutes of the game.

helped things along a bit further by snaring Moffatt's pass for another gain that put the ball within a yard of the third touchdown. Lang, replacing Saussele, went over and Moffatt's kick was good.

Beaumont fumbled on its 20-yard line and recovered behind its goal line for a safety early in the third quarter to boost the Roosevelt total to 28 points.

Ted Sauselle, all-star quarterback last year, crossed the line with the final two touchdowns of the game in the same period. Beaumont fumbled on its 10-yard line to pave the way for the first, and Moffatt threw a pass to Saussele at the goal line. Saussele scored the last touchdown without assistance on a sprint from midfield. He counted the extra point on Moffatt's pass.

De Oro Defeats Hoppe in Match

Wins Handicap Contest by Score of 504 to 705 in 748 Innings.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Alfredo De Oro won his handicap three-cushion billiard match against Willie Hoppe tonight when he ran his total for 12 blocks up to 504 points. Hoppe, who gave away 18 points in each of the 12 blocks, finished with 705 and needed 720 points to win.

The entire match ran 748 innings. Hoppe won the eleventh block, 78 to 42, in 66 innings. The final block ended in the fifty-seventh inning, with De Oro scoring 42 to Hoppe's 52.

WITTMER STARS AS PRINCETON DOWNS CORNELL

Tigers Win 21-10 in First Football Game Played Between Institutions in 20 Years.

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Flashing an attack of brilliant power and versatility featured by the thrusts of a 175-pound sophomore halfback, Ed Wittmer, Princeton scored a thrilling victory over Cornell today, 21 to 10, in the first football game between these ancient rivals in 20 years.

A record-breaking Cornell crowd of 32,000 saw the Ithacans outplayed and outrushed and decisively defeated in a see-saw struggle after they had passed and kicked their way into the lead twice during the first half. The Tigers, packing the greater punch and exhibiting a more alert defense, took the lead near the close of the second period and held it to the end.

Cornell provided the most spectacular setting of its gridiron history for the renewal of relations with old Nassau but a curly-haired stocky young Tiger, Ed Wittmer of Pittsburg, furnished the fireworks on the playing field.

Wittmer Proves Star.

Wittmer, a flash around the ends, battering-ram through the line and a ball-hawk on the defense, scored only one of Princeton's three touchdowns but his line plunging, passing and receiving contributed largely to the advances which enabled Mike Miles and Phil Strubing to tally the others. Earl Baruch, skillful kicker and passer, gave Wittmer excellent support but it was the latter who bore the brunt of the Tiger attack from start to finish.

Wittmer not only gained consistently through the big red line but his alertness on defense kept the Ithacans from completing their best advance of the game with a touchdown in the third period and again taking the lead. At this stage, Princeton was clinging tenaciously to a slim four-point lead, 14-10, as the red-shirted warriors swept some 60 yards down the field, mixing passes and off-tackle thrusts nicely in a drive that reached the Tiger 3-yard line. Cornell had three chances to make that small distance, but a center buck failed, then the roving Wittmer batted down two successive passes over the line by Balderston to turn back the Ithacans and give Princeton the ball on downs.

Anderson Kicks Goal.

This was the climax of Cornell's offensive efforts, which in the first half had produced a touchdown, on two passes, and a field goal from the 16-yard line by John Anderson, stalwart tackle.

Throughout most of the last two periods, Princeton carried the fight into Cornell territory, settling the issue with a spectacular 75-yard advance to score in the fourth period. Except for a 15-yard pass by Baruch to Moeser, most of this distance was gained by Wittmer but Miles plunged the four yards that put the ball behind Cornell's goal line after a third touchdown.

Lebanon Valley Defeats Brown

Galbert Stars as Minor Eleven Upsets Form, Winning Over the Bear, 13-12.

By the Associated Press.

Lebanon Valley, classed a minor football eleven led by a super-star, Charles M. Gelbert at halfback, staged the biggest upset Brown Stadium has witnessed in many a day by defeating the Bear, 13 to 12, this afternoon. Three long forwards, for a total of 81 yards, thrown by Gelbert in the last minute of play to Pierson, Hendricks and Bendigo, the last-named carrying the ball over, cheated Brown of a 12-7 victory.

Randall scored the first touchdown at the start of the second quarter, after a march half the length of the field. A little later Lebanon duplicated, Gelbert making the final plunge. Pierson kicked the goal for what later proved the deciding point. Brown marched 74 yards in the third period, Lawrence carrying the ball over.

WHAT AILS US?

WHY be the times so flat and stale,
And life a dreary waste?
We have no brown October ale,
Nor eke a dark-brown taste.

Why is our life devoid of glee
And former pleasures fled?
No brown October ale have we,
Nor yellow, pink or red.

Why do we madly pull our hair?
Why do we weep and wail?
Of any color whatso'er,
We've no October ale.

Neglected hangs the empty pot
Upon the rusty nail.
We gaze at it and murmur
"What!
No brown October ale?"

Quite So.

"One good turn deserves another," said the October leaf as it turned from a golden yellow to dark red.

October is just about the grandest little month in the year. It marks the ending of baseball and hay fever season and the beginning of the football, bowling and billiard season.

October is the month for touring, detouring and fishing. It is the finest month in the year for vacations because so few people know it. You can practically have the whole place to yourself.

Jack Frost makes his appearance along about the first of October. If he sees his shadow he goes back into his bee vee dees and doesn't show up again for two weeks.

October comes in on a September rain check and goes out in a blaze of Jack o' lanterns on Halloween.

CHICAGO TRIUMPHS OVER PENNSYLVANIA

yards on two deceptive pivot plays through tackle.

Then the Maroons opened up with passing, shots from Anderson to Mendenhall going for 14 yards, with Mendenhall tearing to Penn's 21-yard line before he was checked.

Then to make the situation more confusing the Maroons started some triple passing. Leyers took the ball from center and feinted a plunge at the line, but instead turned and passed the ball back 10 yards to Mendenhall, who, in turn, shot it forward to Anderson, who was brought down on Penn's six-yard line. After cracking center for a yard, Mendenhall was given the ball a second time and crashed through left tackle for a touchdown. McDonough kicked goal for the extra point.

More Passes Effective.

Triple passing also contributed to Chicago's second marker. McDonough running from punt formation around Penn's left end for a 12 yard gain on Chicago's 46 yard line. After trying two plays at the line, the Maroons started triple passing. Leyers passed 15 yards back to Anderson who rifled the ball to Priess, the latter going to Penn's four yard line.

Failing in three attempts at the line, the Maroons yanked another trick out of the bag. This time it was a lateral pass, McDonough to Anderson, with Anderson sprinting across the goal line. McDonough's try for the extra point was blocked.

Penn's touchdown, scored in the third period, was the result of a break, brought by the marvelous punting of Murphy, the Penn kicker. After Penn had failed to advance, Murphy punted, the ball going out of bounds a foot from the Chicago goal line.

McDonough, kicking from behind his own goal line, booted the ball almost straight up in the air, and it bounded back to within a yard from Chicago's goal. On the first play Murphy smashed through the line for a touchdown. Wascolonis' try for goal was low, but the Maroons were off-side and Penn was awarded the point.

Principia Wins Over Western Eleven, 12-6

Tackle Weinheimer Picks Up Fumbled Pass and Scores Winning Touchdown.

The Principia Academy football team defeated the Western Military Academy eleven, 12 to 6, in a game on the Western field at Alton, Ill., yesterday afternoon. Each team scored a touchdown in the third quarter while Principia counted its second touchdown in the final period. More than 1000 persons consisting of all students from Western, the entire Principia boys' contingent and Principia Dad's Day followers witnessed the contest.

There were many fumbles in the opening half of the game, Western having the advantage. Western was strong on offensive play during most of the first quarter. There were four fumbles in this period. Neither team was able to get within scoring distance.

Western made two first downs in the second quarter. Principia began to show a better offense, but Western put up a stone-wall defense in this period, especially near the end. Western had the ball on the Principia one-yard line but lost on the fourth down. The whistle ended the half as Richardson started to kick out for Principia.

Smiley Scores Touchdown.

The Western team marched up the field toward the Principia goal in the third quarter. Bob Smiley, Western quarter, carried the ball over for the first touchdown. The goal kick by Capt. Murphy was too low. Principia then opened up a series of plays and reversed matters. McLaren, Academy end, received the kickoff and ran 23 yards. Halfback Power added 25 more yards. Bomhoff, another academy back, raced around right end for a touchdown. McLaren's kick was blocked.

Both teams resorted to forward passes in the fourth quarter. Western had the ball on its own 25-yard line and attempted a forward pass but the passer was rushed and did not get the ball away and fumbled it. Weinheimer, the big Principia tackle picked it up and ran 12 yards for the winning touchdown. Richardson missed goal.

COE HANDS ST. LOUIS U. FIRST DEFEAT, 7-0, AS RESULT OF FUMBLE

Breaks Beat Billikens, Who Make 16 First Downs to Visitors' Six

Mathews' Men Make Drive After Drive Into Rivals' Territory, Only to Lose the Ball—Coe Inside St. Louis' 25-Yard Line Only Twice.

By Jack Alexander

Those pesky little things called "breaks" nullified a good exhibition of ground gaining and plastered the first defeat of the season on the St. Louis University Billikens yesterday at Sportsman's Park. The score was 7 to 0 and the winning team was that of Coe College, leading educational institution of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

An unknown in these parts prior to yesterday's appearance, Coe now stands in the minds of 6000 Billiken followers for a three-letter word meaning defeat.

The "breaks" of the game overcame the superior strength of the locals, who scored 16 first downs from scrimmage to the visitors' six. The most important twist of fortune came in the second quarter, when Left End Brookhart of Coe, charging in to stop a ball carrier, ran head-on into the ball itself which had bounced off the halfback's hands. One enemy was near Brookhart but the others had gone in other directions so all he had to do was to shake off one bewildered back and run 35 yards through a clear field to score the only touchdown of the game.

Only two other times did Coe have possession of the ball inside the Billiken 25-yard line, once in the third, once in the fourth quarter.

The Billiken story reads something like this: First quarter—Lintzenich missed a drop kick from the 22-yard line and a little later the ball was lost inside the Coe 10-yard line on an intercepted pass; again a long pass put the ball near the goal but an ineligible man was ruled to have touched it and the ball was given to Coe. And so on.

Billikens Smash Coe Line.

St. Louis U. started off in great style after receiving the kickoff and soon worked the ball into a position for a drop kick, which Joe Lintzenich barely missed from the 23-yard line, the ball flying a bit wide of the posts. The enemy punted out of danger but Dirnberger put the local team in scoring position again by cutting through tackle and running 40 yards for the longest and prettiest run of the game. This offensive effort came to naught when someone fumbled near the 25-yard line and a Coe man recovered.

Halfback Bird ran 20 yards on the first play but for a third time Coe's goal was in peril when Lintzenich intercepted a pass and ran it back 28 yards. Four bucks through the line put the ball on the 8-yard line. Again the Billikens were repulsed when a Coe man intercepted a pass.

Still undiscouraged, the Billikens opened up a fourth drive at the enemy posts, after taking the punt, when Jordan heaved a long pass to Daubner, who caught the ball on the 20-yard line and carried it again to the 8-yard line. The officials took a hand here and awarded the ball to Coe because before Daubner had caught the ball it had been touched by a Billiken back who had not been standing five yards back of the line of scrimmage at the inception of the play. That ended the first quarter.

Fumble Results in Touchdown.

The second quarter went along in a normal exchange of punts until the aforementioned fumble occurred which gave Brookhart his opportunity to score the touchdown, and the remainder of the period was uneventful. Altogether the two quarters had proved encouraging to the crowd, which looked forward to seeing the one touchdown advantage erased in quick fashion in the next half.

But Coe opened up with its first heavy artillery and starting near midfield, made two first downs and placed the ball on the Billiken 22-yard line for the first time. A 15-yard penalty took the edge off the advance and a little later Flynn grabbed a Coe pass and ran it to his 30-yard line. Here Bill Parilla entered the game and carried the ball past the 50-yard line and Lintzenich placed a beautiful punt out of bounds at Coe's 5-yard line.

More Fruitless Drives.

The Billikens then started their fifth bid for a score. Frisbee's punt carried to his 45-yard line and Jordan plunged to the 25-yard line in two shots. Three 5-yard penalties against Coe put the ball on the 8-yard line. But Parilla fumbled and Coe recovered, and when Frisbee attempted to punt out, Lintzenich took a running start and blocked the kick but again Coe recovered the ball. It was then on the 6-yard line.

Frisbee got off a successful kick, after which St. Louis opened its sixth drive, Parilla running back the punt to the 30-yard line, from where Lintzenich picked up 12 yards and a short pass from Jordan to Flynn placed the ball on the 13-yard line as the quarter ended.

The Billikens were unable to make their distance at the start of the last quarter and lost possession of the ball. Their first "break" came when Eddie Davidson recovered a Coe fumble on the 14-yard line but for the second time Coe held for downs and Frisbee kicked far over the safety man's head, the ball rolling near the other end of the field.

Apparently, at least to onlookers, this was the turning point of the game. The Billikens seemed jinxed when they were working well and when things came their way they showed a tendency to boot them. together a pretty discouraging state of affairs.

Coe Line Holds.

Coe came on headlong now and worked the ball far into Billiken territory, but the Billiken line held for downs and the Mathews machine started for the seventh time to grind out yardage. The attempt, after netting 35 yards, was temporarily halted when Langlas intercepted a pass, but went on after the interruption and measured enough yardage to place the ball on Coe's 12-yard line. It was a thrilling effort in the face of tough odds, but was doomed to the same failure as its predecessors. The Billikens lost the ball on downs.

Another of Coe's punts sailed past the safety man and rolled clear down to the Billiken 14-yard line.

The timekeeper had drawn his pistol, but the yardage machine instinctively started again to produce yardage and the eighth and last St. Louis effort to score ended when the enemy grabbed a long forward pass on his own 20-yard line.

It was a hard game to lose and with a more equal division of the luck of the game, the Billikens would have won. At least Mathews proved that he has a powerful squad of ground gainers and heads-up interference.

NOTRE DAME BEATS INDIANA TEAM, 19 TO 6

Hoosiers First to Score, but Attack of Flanagan, Niemic, Collins and Dahman Brings Victory.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 22.—A driving, plunging Notre Dame team came to Indiana University today to beat one of the hardest fighting elevens developed here in years, by a 19-to-6 count. It was a case of too much Christy Flanagan, last year's all-America selection. Flanagan was ably supported offensively by Fullback Collins and Halfback Dahman and when Flanagan was out of the lineup it was Niemec who bore the brunt of the attack for Knute Rockne's eleven. His booting, too, was a revelation, several of them being good for from 45 to 60 yards.

Indiana, after a spurt in the first six minutes of play, when it scored a touchdown on a 40-yard dash by Rhynehart, backed down the field stubornly before a fierce attack which in the early play was centered on the line.

The results of that battering showed later in the game when the line's strength was slipping fast. On two occasions the defeated team rose to the heights. One was when Rhynehart made his dash for a touchdown and the other was when the team held in the fourth period with the ball within two feet of the goal. The Crimson suffered greatly from poor punting, at time the boots being good for only 15 or 20 yards.

An adverse wind was partly responsible. But neither Balay nor Harrell were up to their usual form.

Starts Second Eleven.

Following custom, Coach Knute Rockne started his second or defensive team, while Flanagan, Collins and others studied Indiana's brand from the bench. Coach Pat Page met the maneuver, however, by withholding most of Indiana's strength. Winning the toss, Indiana kicked off and smothered Notre Dame's bid for advance down the field. Halfback Rhynehart made eight yards on the Crimson's second play, and with the ball on the 40-yard line he followed with a drive through the line, shook off a couple of Notre Dame hands and dashed to the goal. Garrison's try for a point by a place kick was blocked.

Leo Diegel Ties McLeod With 295

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Fred McLeod of Columbia Club here and Leo Diegel of Fenimore, N. Y., tied today for the Middle Atlantic open golf championship with 295 for 72 holes. There will be an 18-hole play-off tomorrow.

Willie Leach, Overbrook, Pa., finished behind McLeod and Diegel, who is the defending champion, with 297. George Voigt, Washington amateur, had 298 and Tommy Armour of Congressional Club, the United States open champion, 209.

Both McLeod and Diegel sank 10-foot puts on the final green to tie. Diegel, who had 154 for yesterday's 36 holes, scored a 70 on his morning round today, one under par, and 71 in the afternoon. McLeod made 76 and 73, after shooting 146 yesterday.

Washington's Long Passes Bring Tie With Kansas

opening kickoff, only to have Rawdon intercept a pass on the Washington 17-yard line. An exchange of punts followed and Kansas took the ball in midfield. Again plunges by Shannon and Lyman, who had replaced Cooper, took the ball to the 17-yard line, only to have Propernick fumble but recover on the 28-yard line. Eddie Ash was sent in for Captain Hamilton and Harold Schmidt for Shannon and on the first play, Ash passed to Schmidt for a 20-yard gain. Edgar Schmidt was rushed in for Propernick. Ash passed over the goal line to this same Edgar for the touchdown and Schmidt kicked goal.

Things looked dark for Washington but the Bears had plenty of forward passes up their sleeves.

Bears Pass for 57 Yards.

The march for the first Washington touchdown began from the Bear 20-yard line, following Lyman's punt over the goal line. Bickel passed to Duncan for 20 yards and then Whittler made his sensational toss to Lohrding that netted 57 yards. With three yards to go, two plunges by Whittler and one by Bickel worked the ball to the one-foot line and then Whittler crashed over, and later kicked goal.

The Bears soon took the ball on the 46-yard line after Lyman had punted. A pass from Bickel to Millard netted 13 yards and the march went right on until a final bullet pass from Bickel to Axe let Axe dodge around the Kansas right end some 10 yards to a touchdown. Collins kicked goal.

Bickel fumbled the Kansas kickoff and Shannon recovered for Kansas on the Washington 43-yard line. Cooper made nine yards through tackle, Washington was penalized five yards, Hamilton passed to Cooper for 17 yards and Washington drew another five-yard penalty. Three downs later Cooper punched through for a score and Edgar Schmidt again kicked goal.

Kansas came right back again. After the kickoff, the Bears chose to pass from their 20-yard line. Hamilton intercepted the pass, fumbled it, but Edgar Schmidt recovered for Kansas on the 50-yard line. Shannon reeled off 10 yards on the first play and then Cooper carried the ball three successive times off tackle to place it on the Bear six-yard line. Washington drew a penalty, placing the ball on the one-yard line, and Cooper needed onl yone dive for the touchdown. Schmidt's trusty booting toe functioned again and Kansas led, 21 to 14.

In the fourth period Kansas threatened three times, once when McMillan intercepted a pass on the Washington 41-yard line, again when Shannon nabbed a Bear pass on the 31-yard line, and also when Lyman intercepted still another Washington pass on the 47-yard line. Penalties and Washington fight kept the Jayhawkers back, however.

Washington finally started from her own five-yard line for the tying touchdown. Two passes by Bickel to Whittler totaled 25 yards, a pass by Bickel to Libman added 27 yards, Millard ran left end for nine yards, and then Bickel passed to Libman 23 yards away on the goal line for the score. Collins, with a tie or defeat hinging on his try for point, booted the ball squarely over the uprights, and scoring was over for the day.

Kirkwood Beats Clayton, 13 to 0

Largely through the skillful running of Left Halfback Freddie Puff, Kirkwood High, put over a 12-to-0 victory on Clayton in a St. Louis County High School League game at Kirkwood yesterday afternoon. Puff got loose on an end run in the first quarter and reeled off a 35-yard run for a touchdown. In the second quarter he repeated his performance, again going around end for 35 yards and a touchdown. These were the only scores of the game.

Quarterback Klein was the defensive star for Kirkwood and Capt. McGrath stood out in Clayton's play.

Cooper Gets 141 Score to Lead in Oklahoma 'Open'

Los Angeles Star Counts 69, Two Over Record, for Second 18 Holes.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Oct. 22.—Playing superb golf, Harry Cooper of Los Angeles conquered the Lakeside Golf and Country Club course here today in 141 strokes to lead a classy field of professionals at the end of the first 36 holes of play of the Oklahoma City open tournament.

Cooper, who was runner-up to Tommy Armour in the 1927 national open, waged a battle of his own with his putter during the morning round and when he got it under control, after luncheon, he negotiated the final 18 holes in 69 strokes—just two shots above the course record.

Cooper Gets an Eagle.

Even with par for the morning round, Harry came back in the afternoon to down the old man by three shots. An eagle two on the 295-yard seventh hole offset a pair of sixes that showed up on his card when the ball refused to drop for him on short putts. Cooper had a 35-37 for his par 72 on the first round and a 33-36 for his 69 in the afternoon.

John Golden of Patterson, N. J., and Al Espinosa, winner of the Oklahoma City open last year, were next to Cooper with 145's. Bill Mehlhorn of New York, Horton Smith, a youngster from Jefferson City, Mo., and Albert Alcroft of Youngstown, O., each turned in cards of 146 at the half-way mark. Clarence Clarke of Tulsa, who drove his way to victory in the pro-amateur event yesterday, needed 147 today. Waldo Crowder of Shreveport, La., turned in a card of 148. Harold Long of Oklahoma City, Dick Grout, Okmulgee, Ok., State champion, and Jock Hutchison each had a card of 149.

Sarazen Far Back.

Gene Sarazen, New York, who was one of the outstanding favorites to win the $100 first prize money, found the going tough. He played before a big gallery and was out in 80 shots and took 74 in for a total of 154.

Tomorrow the scene shifts to the Oklahoma City Country Club where the final 36 holes will be played.

PRIZES AWARDED TO WINNERS IN MIDLAND VALLEY WOMEN'S GOLF

Mrs. A. F. Eisenbeiss won the F. C. Jobe trophy and the Chairman's tournament, which brought to a close the golf season for the Midland Valley County Club women.

Prizes were awarded to the following winners:

Championship—Virginia Pep.
Class A—Mrs. W. J. Filer.
Class B—Jennie Crowder.

Mrs. M. J. Isler won the prize for the best ringer score of the season. Mrs. C. P. Daniel won the prize for lowering handicap during the season.

Mrs. A. P. Eisenbeiss won the putting championship, in addition to the Jobe trophy.

Prize for low net score of 18 holes went to Mrs. M. J. Isler and Mrs. C. P. Daniel.

Mrs. Isler won the prize for fewest putts for 18 holes.

Mrs. Edgar Gengenbach won the prize for the nine-hole event and Mrs. Henry McQuade was winner of the prize for the fewest putts on nine holes.

Mrs. M. L. Newberry won the blind-hole event.

MISSOURI LOSES TO S. M. U. BY 32 TO 9 SCORE

Mustangs Outplay Tigers Throughout and Make Good Use of Forward Pass Attack.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22.—University of Missouri hopes for an undefeated conference season went glimmering in a sweltering Southern twilight here this afternoon, ground underfoot by Ray Morrison's Southern Methodist University Mustangs, 32 to 9. The game was played in Fair Park Stadium before a crowd of approximately 12,000. It was the final event of the Texas State Fair.

With the thermometer hovering almost up to the 90 mark, the Tigers were handicapped by heat as well as injuries, and the limping stellar backfield of Missouri cripples, called into the fray as a last resort by Coach Gwinn Henry, found itself almost impotent against the fast dashing ponies. The Flamank to Clark touchdown pass, which two weeks ago turned back Nebraska when Missouri scored a single touchdown, again delivered a touchdown today, but it was only one touchdown, against five which the ponies scored with their baffling passes and their magnificent sweeps of interference around the Missouri ends.

Tigers Are Outplayed.

The Tigers were outplayed almost from the start. In the first period the Mustangs scored one touchdown and paved the way for another to be counted at the opening of the second frame. Then came a third and Flamank, Clark, Lucas and the other injured Missourians who had started the afternoon on the bench rushed into the fray. They loosed everything they had—smashes at the line, long and short forward passes, lateral tosses, and all the rest, but aside from the one Flamank-Clark counter, they were helpless after they passed the middle of the field.

The crowning Missouri humiliation of the first half came on the final play of the second quarter, when Schaerdel snatched Flamank's lateral pass from the air and raced 40 yards unimpeded for a touchdown. It was the only break of that character of the afternoon, however. The other Mustang counters, after a Missouri fumble had paved the way for the first one early in the first quarter, were either scored on long end runs or long passes, or else the ball was placed in position for scoring by those spectacular tactics.

The heat-logged Tigers were unable to deliver. The Clark-Flamank aggregation went out in despair when the Tiger coaches found it would not work, and substitutes tried their hands again, but all to no avail. Not until late in the final period, when a Missouri attack had been halted by a fumble on the Mustang two-yard line, were the Missourians really dangerous, and then a bad pass from the Southern Methodist University center, which forced Reid, attempting to punt from behind the goal, to ground the ball, gave the Tigers their remaining two points.

This Combination Works.

If the Flamank-Clark pass could not deliver, there was one that could—Mann to Dawson, and it was that Mustang pair that accounted for most of the Texans' gains.

ILLINOIS OPENS ITS BIG TEN SEASON WITH 7 TO 6 VICTORY

Nowack's Place Kick For Extra Point Downs Northwestern

Lewis Fails in Try for Field Goal After Touchdown—Defeat Is First for Purple in Western Conference Game Since 1925.

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 22.—The hopes of Northwestern for a renewal of its Western conference football championship sank before the invading Illini today when Coach Bob Zuppke's 1927 Big Ten debut brought Illinois a victory over the Purple, 7 to 6.

It was the first conference defeat for Northwestern since Stagg's Chicago Maroons won from Northwester in mid-season of 1925, and the first defeat Coach Dick Hanley has tasted since he entered the western conference coaching ranks.

An accurately aimed place kick from the toe of Albert Nowack, Pana, Ill., junior, who played tackle for the Illini, was the margin of the alert Illinois superiority over the equally alert Wildcats. Tiny Lewis, Northwestern's big fullback who scored the Purple's touchdown, missed his try for goal.

Both Score in Second Period.

Both scores came in the second period and both teams called upon their tactics to cross the goal line.

Thereafter Northwestern tried desperately to score by passing but the Illini kept the receivers well covered, and Northwestern completed only four out of ten attempts, in the third and fourth periods.

The scoring opportunity for Northwestern came early in the second period, due to the great superiority of Lewis' punts over Mills' kicks. A 65-yard punt by Lewis put the ball on Illinois' one-yard line. Mills' punt reached only to the 15-yard line, aided by some clever dodging on the part of Captain Vic Gustafson of Northwestern.

Haas passed to Waldo Fisher for a 12-yard gain and Lewis plunged over from the three-yard line on the first try.

Then, with Dwight Stuessy of Woodstock, Ill., replacing Bair French at quarter for Illinois, the Illini unleashed their overhead drive in earnest. Stuessy passed twice across the Northwestern goal line into the arms of Walter Jolley, who had just gone in at end.

Illinois Makes 13 First Downs.

The third period opened discouragingly for Northwestern when Gustafson's fumble gave Illinois the ball on Northwestern's 20-yard line but the Purple resisted the Illini's attacks and the punting duel was resumed, this time Walker having the better of Calderwood in the change of kickers. Zuppke's surprise, saved for the final period, was Jud Timm, who went in at halfback and opened up the air attack again. Northwestern broke it up and came back with the same type of play, but neither team could score.

The one-point margin of victory for Illinois was not quite as impressive as the Illini's advantage in ground gained, as the invaders made 13 first downs to Northwestern's 10.

The Northwestern attack, except for the unsuccessful forward passes, folded up in the second half when Tiny Lewis was hurt in the the second play of the third period and had to leave the game with a sprained ankle. Calderwood, who replaced him, kicked high and poorly, and none of the other Purple ball carriers could break through the Illinois line.

MRS. HERBERT PULITZER BUYING HORSES FOR 1928 RACING SEASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer will join Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, Mrs. Payne Whitney and Mrs. H. C. Phipps, among other women, who race horses, next season.

Two yearling colts, one of which cost $12,000 and the other $10,000, are now on their way from England to this country on board the Steamship Minnetonka. Foundation Stone, a coming 4-year-old, will follow them in a few days. These three will form the nucleus of Mrs. Pulitzer's stable. The horses will be trained by Max Hirsch.

Foundation Stone has won more than $10,000 in stakes and purses in England, where he raced in the colors of Herbert Pulitzer, one of the owners of the New York World. He maintains a stable abroad under the direction of Sam Darling, the famous trainer. Mr. Pulitzer's colors, which also are registered in this country, are "dark blue with crimson cross sashes, blue cap and crimson hoops."

One of the yearlings now on the way here is named Tipperary. He is by Comrade—Silver tip. Comrade is a French stallion, winner in his day of the Grand Prix and Arc D'Triomphe.

The other yearling also is choicely bred by Jack Daw—Forfaria. The dam has earned the reputation in England of producing only winners.

WRAY'S COLUMN

What's in a Name.

THE split in the Valley Conference, caused by the secession of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas Aggies and Iowa State, seems likely to develop into a question as to the right of the remnants of the conference to retain the original conference name.

There's absolutely "nothing in a name" for, no matter what official designation is given the six state institutions retiring, they will undoubtedly inherit the popular nickname of the "Big Six." Fans already have hung that short and simple moniker on the sextette.

If the four remaining schools, Washington, Drake, Oklahoma Aggies and Grinnell, desire to continue as the "Missouri Valley Conference," they have the legal right. But this title, as concerns both groups is today a misnomer.

The Original Five.

AS a matter of fact the "Missouri Valley Conference" had been expanded to a degree where its name no longer applied. Several of the institutions could not come under the "Missouri Valley" description.

The original conference was formed in 1907 and consisted of Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Washington University. This fairly represented the cities reasonably adjacent to the Missouri Valley.

Changes and additions to the original circuit built it up to a ten-school organization, of which the units no longer were sympathetic or even equal.

The division into two groups was natural and will be for the best interests of all concerned. Names are nominal; the rose by any other name will be just as sweet.

• • •

Are We Growing Larger?

ONE notices today where Mickey Walker, once a welterweight, is matched to fight Mike McTigue, only recently light heavyweight champion of the world.

Walker has not grown so large. He still, by hard work, could approximate the welterweight limit, but the tendency of all little fellows to get into the higher weights, where the big money lies, is still going forward.

The corpulent bank rolls, however, are not sufficient to explain to the steady increase in class limits that has been going forward for the last 30 years. Here is a comparison of the changes that have taken place in weight schedules within quarter of a century:

	Old. Limit.	*New Limit.
Flyweight	105	112
Bantam	116	118
Feather	122	126
Light	133	135
Welter	142	147
Middle	154	160
Light heavy	175	175
Heavy	154 and up	175 and up

*Old limit weights usually were ringside. New limit weights eight hours before the fight!

Some Difference.

THE greatest discrepancy between the new and the old scale lies in the weighing-in time. Under the old system, the fighter had to scale his poundage just before going into the ring. That was done to make certain his weight was normal and not a forced ont. Under the new plan, whereby eight hours elapse between the weigh-in and the fight, the delay enables a boxer to put on from three to five pounds and regain all his strength, after a strenuous drying out to make the low limit.

The new plan is the better and the more humane. No weak fighters are sent into the ring by this system. But it adds to the actual weight differences between the various classes to a considerable degree.

For example, a genuine bantam weighing naturally, in training, about 113 pounds, is matched with a light featherweight. The normal difference in their weights might be ten pounds. But the eight hours time gives the feather a chance to train down for the weight-in and then eat his way back into strength before fight time. It makes a difference of ten pounds too much for any little fellow to concede.

Blame Terry McGovern.

TERRY McGovern was one of the first to start the scale-raising impulse. Terry, as a bantam, won great fame and the title. But high living and natural growth soon sent him out of this class. He fought as a bantam many fights in which he was pounds above the bantam limit, getting by because he was champion.

Finally he could not train down to the bantam limit at all, so, without relinquishing the bantam title he went after the featherweight crown and won that, as well. Soon he was fighting at 126 as a featherweight, when the limit was 122 ringside. Later on he won an alleged lightweight championship from Joe Gans.

It was champions like Terry who, being in popular demand by promoters, were allowed to fudge on the weights, laid the foundations for the uplift in the scale of the various classes.

The fact that they have remained at the higher figure seems to lend color to the view that the present weights are better than the old ones. There are more fighters in all classes today perhaps because the new scale of weights makes it possible. Perhaps we are going bigger as a race.

Make Him Fight.

THE prospect of another Dempsey-Tunney fight is so great that today most persons feel assured that the "third annual contest" between the rivals will be the feature, next September, regardless of how the eliminations turn out.

Dempsey is a historic, in pugilistic stature. But that doesn't alter the fact that being a defeated man twice, he must prove his right to face Tunney again by fighting the winner of the winter eliminations. If only to prove that everything is on-the-up-and-up in the fight world, Dempsey should be made to battle at least one elimination, whether he wishes to or not.

Because Dempsey had Tunney on the floor does not in itself make him the best opponent. Sharkey, Heeney and Godfrey are men to be reckoned with. Dempsey should meet the survivor, as between these men. Then his claim to a third fight with Tunney will be beyond dispute.

Most of us would like to see Dempsey take on, in order, Sharkey, Godfrey and Heeney, and then come to grips with the champion.

It would not only "make" the title fight, it would make Dempsey. One would almost be tempted to give Dempsey an even chance to beat the champion if he would fit himself in such a manner. He couldn't accomplish it, unless he was a real fighter. And that, after all, is what the public deserves at the hands of Rickard—the proved best opponent for Tunney of all candidates in the field.

Only by beating the leaders in detail, can the best man be determined.

WEBSTER HIGH OUTCLASSED BY LOUISVILLE, 33-6

Visitors Have Little Trouble Scoring Against Lighter and Younger Foes in Annual Game.

Displaying college weight and speed, Male High School of Louisville, Ky., swamped Webster Groves High School, 33 to 6, on the Webster Field yesterday afternoon. Had the Kentuckians shown more consistency in their play, the score would have been much greater, for the invading backs ran through Webster's line frequently for 30 or 40 yards gain.

It took Louisville only a few minutes to show its offensive power. Streicher returned the kick-off to his 30-yard line, where Webster held for a down. On the next play, White, with splendid interference ran through the Webster team 70 yards to score the first touchdown. Sprauer, of Coach Thompson's invading crew blocked Harvey Miller's attempted punt, shortly after the second kick-off and fell on the ball behind Webster's goal line. White's drop-kick made the score 13 to 0, before Webster could snap out of its bewilderment.

The Male second team was unable to penetrate Webster's defense, but beginning the second half the victors renewed their rampaging. Ed McDevitt picked an opening and sprinted 40 yards for the third touchdown. A short time later Kirwan, on a fake play, tore off 20 yards and White carried the ball over. White made his place-kick good and the score stood 26 to 0.

Webster scored its first touchdown of the season and the second to be made against Louisville, when Harvey Miller returning a punt from his 30-yard line, made Webster's only score. The remarkable running of Charley Baer, who scored a touchdown previously to Miller's dash, was the outstanding performance in the closing minutes of the game.

helped things along a bit further by snaring Moffatt's pass for another gain that put the ball within a yard of the third touchdown. Lang, replacing Saussele, went over and Moffatt's kick was good.

Beaumont fumbled on its 20-yard line and recovered behind its goal line for a safety early in the third quarter to boost the Roosevelt total to 28 points.

Ted Sauselle, all-star quarterback last year, crossed the line with the final two touchdowns of the game in the same period. Beaumont fumbled on its 10-yard line to pave the way for the first, and Moffatt threw a pass to Saussele at the goal line. Saussele scored the last touchdown without assistance on a sprint from midfield. He counted the extra point on Moffatt's pass.

De Oro Defeats Hoppe in Match

Wins Handicap Contest by Score of 504 to 705 in 748 Innings.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Alfredo De Oro won his handicap three-cushion billiard match against Willie Hoppe tonight when he ran his total for 12 blocks up to 504 points. Hoppe, who gave away 18 points in each of the 12 blocks, finished with 705 and needed 720 points to win.

The entire match ran 748 innings. Hoppe won the eleventh block, 78 to 42, in 66 innings. The final block ended in the fifty-seventh inning, with De Oro scoring 42 to Hoppe's 52.

WITTMER STARS AS PRINCETON DOWNS CORNELL

Tigers Win 21-10 in First Football Game Played Between Institutions in 20 Years.

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Flashing an attack of brilliant power and versatility featured by the thrusts of a 175-pound sophomore halfback, Ed Wittmer, Princeton scored a thrilling victory over Cornell today, 21 to 10, in the first football game between these ancient rivals in 20 years.

A record-breaking Cornell crowd of 32,000 saw the Ithacans outplayed and outrushed and decisively defeated in a see-saw struggle after they had passed and kicked their way into the lead twice during the first half. The Tigers, packing the greater punch and exhibiting a more alert defense, took the lead near the close of the second period and held it to the end.

Cornell provided the most spectacular setting of its gridiron history for the renewal of relations with old Nassau but a curly-haired stocky young Tiger, Ed Wittmer of Pittsburg, furnished the fireworks on the playing field.

Wittmer Proves Star.

Wittmer, a flash around the ends, battering-ram through the line and a ball-hawk on the defense, scored only one of Princeton's three touchdowns but his line plunging, passing and receiving contributed largely to the advances which enabled Mike Miles and Phil Strubing to tally the others. Earl Baruch, skillful kicker and passer, gave Wittmer excellent support but it was the latter who bore the brunt of the Tiger attack from start to finish.

Wittmer not only gained consistently through the big red line but his alertness on defense kept the Ithacans from completing their best advance of the game with a touchdown in the third period and again taking the lead. At this stage, Princeton was clinging tenaciously to a slim four-point lead, 14-10, as the red-shirted warriors swept some 60 yards down the field, mixing passes and off-tackle thrusts nicely in a drive that reached the Tiger 3-yard line. Cornell had three chances to make that small distance, but a center buck failed, then the roving Wittmer batted down two successive passes over the line by Balderston to turn back the Ithacans and give Princeton the ball on downs.

Anderson Kicks Goal.

This was the climax of Cornell's offensive efforts, which in the first half had produced a touchdown, on two passes, and a field goal from the 16-yard line by John Anderson, stalwart tackle.

Throughout most of the last two periods, Princeton carried the fight into Cornell territory, settling the issue with a spectacular 75-yard advance to score in the fourth period. Except for a 15-yard pass by Baruch to Moeser, most of this distance was gained by Wittmer but Miles plunged the four yards that put the ball behind Cornell's goal line after a third touchdown.

Lebanon Valley Defeats Brown

Galbert Stars as Minor Eleven Upsets Form, Winning Over the Bear, 13-12.

By the Associated Press.

Lebanon Valley, classed a minor football eleven led by a super-star, Charles M. Gelbert at halfback, staged the biggest upset Brown Stadium has witnessed in many a day by defeating the Bear, 13 to 12, this afternoon. Three long forwards, for a total of 81 yards, thrown by Gelbert in the last minute of play to Pierson, Hendricks and Bendigo, the last-named carrying the ball over, cheated Brown of a 12-7 victory.

Randall scored the first touchdown at the start of the second quarter, after a march half the length of the field. A little later Lebanon duplicated, Gelbert making the final plunge. Pierson kicked the goal for what later proved the deciding point. Brown marched 74 yards in the third period, Lawrence carrying the ball over.

WHAT AILS US?

WHY be the times so flat and stale,
And life a dreary waste?
We have no brown October ale,
Nor eke a dark-brown taste.

Why is our life devoid of glee
And former pleasures fled?
No brown October ale have we,
Nor yellow, pink or red.

Why do we madly pull our hair?
Why do we weep and wail?
Of any color whatso'er,
We've no October ale.

Neglected hangs the empty pot
Upon the rusty nail.
We gaze at it and murmur
"What!
No brown October ale?"

Quite So.

"One good turn deserves another," said the October leaf as it turned from a golden yellow to dark red.

October is just about the grandest little month in the year. It marks the ending of baseball and hay fever season and the beginning of the football, bowling and billiard season.

October is the month for touring, detouring and fishing. It is the finest month in the year for vacations because so few people know it. You can practically have the whole place to yourself.

Jack Frost makes his appearance along about the first of October. If he sees his shadow he goes back into his bee vee dees and doesn't show up again for two weeks.

October comes in on a September rain check and goes out in a blaze of Jack o' lanterns on Halloween.

yards on two deceptive pivot plays through tackle.

Then the Maroons opened up with passing, shots from Anderson to Mendenhall going for 14 yards, with Mendenhall tearing to Penn's 21-yard line before he was checked.

Then to make the situation more confusing the Maroons started some triple passing. Leyers took the ball from center and feinted a plunge at the line, but instead turned and passed the ball back 10 yards to Mendenhall, who, in turn, shot it forward to Anderson, who was brought down on Penn's six-yard line. After cracking center for a yard, Mendenhall was given the ball a second time and crashed through left tackle for a touchdown. McDonough kicked goal for the extra point.

More Passes Effective.

Triple passing also contributed to Chicago's second marker. McDonough running from punt formation around Penn's left end for a 12 yard gain on Chicago's 46 yard line. After trying two plays at the line, the Maroons started triple passing. Leyers passed 15 yards back to Anderson who rifled the ball to Priess, the latter going to Penn's four yard line.

Failing in three attempts at the line, the Maroons yanked another trick out of the bag. This time it was a lateral pass, McDonough to Anderson, with Anderson sprinting across the goal line. McDonough's try for the extra point was blocked.

Penn's touchdown, scored in the third period, was the result of a break, brought by the marvelous punting of Murphy, the Penn kicker. After Penn had failed to advance, Murphy punted, the ball going out of bounds a foot from the Chicago goal line.

McDonough, kicking from behind his own goal line, booted the ball almost straight up in the air, and it bounded back to within a yard from Chicago's goal. On the first play Murphy smashed through the line for a touchdown. Wascolonis' try for goal was low, but the Maroons were off-side and Penn was awarded the point.

Principia Wins Over Western Eleven, 12-6

Tackle Weinheimer Picks Up Fumbled Pass and Scores Winning Touchdown.

The Principia Academy football team defeated the Western Military Academy eleven, 12 to 6, in a game on the Western field at Alton, Ill., yesterday afternoon. Each team scored a touchdown in the third quarter while Principia counted its second touchdown in the final period. More than 1000 persons consisting of all students from Western, the entire Principia boys' contingent and Principia Dad's Day followers witnessed the contest.

There were many fumbles in the opening half of the game, Western having the advantage. Western was strong on offensive play during most of the first quarter. There were four fumbles in this period. Neither team was able to get within scoring distance.

Western made two first downs in the second quarter. Principia began to show a better offense, but Western put up a stone-wall defense in this period, especially near the end. Western had the ball on the Principia one-yard line but lost on the fourth down. The whistle ended the half as Richardson started to kick out for Principia.

Smiley Scores Touchdown.

The Western team marched up the field toward the Principia goal in the third quarter. Bob Smiley, Western quarter, carried the ball over for the first touchdown. The goal kick by Capt. Murphy was too low. Principia then opened up a series of plays and reversed matters. McLaren, Academy end, received the kickoff and ran [illegible] yards. Halfback Power added [illegible] more yards. Bomhoff, another academy back, raced around right end for a touchdown. McLaren's kick was blocked.

Both teams resorted to forward passes in the fourth quarter. Western had the ball on its own 25-yard line and attempted a forward pass but the passer was rushed and did not get the ball away and fumbled it. Weinheimer, the big Principia tackle picked it up and ran [illegible] yards for the winning touchdown. Richardson missed goal.

COE HANDS ST. LOUIS U. FIRST DEFEAT, 7-0, AS RESULT OF FUMBLE

Breaks Beat Billikens, Who Make 16 First Downs to Visitors' Six

Mathews' Men Make Drive After Drive Into Rivals' Territory, Only to Lose the Ball—Coe Inside St. Louis' 25-Yard Line Only Twice.

By Jack Alexander

Those pesky little things called "breaks" nullified a good exhibition of ground gaining and plastered the first defeat of the season on the St. Louis University Billikens yesterday at Sportsman's Park. The score was 7 to 0 and the winning team was that of Coe College, leading educational institution of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

An unknown in these parts prior to yesterday's appearance, Coe now stands in the minds of 6000 Billiken followers for a three-letter word meaning defeat.

The "breaks" of the game overcame the superior strength of the locals, who scored 16 first downs from scrimmage to the visitors' six. The most important twist of fortune came in the second quarter, when Left End Brookhart of Coe, charging in to stop a ball carrier, ran head-on into the ball itself which had bounced off the halfback's hands. One enemy was near Brookhart but the others had gone in other directions so all he had to do was to shake off one bewildered back and run 35 yards through a clear field to score the only touchdown of the game.

Only two other times did Coe have possession of the ball inside the Billiken 25-yard line, once in the third, once in the fourth quarter.

The Billiken story reads something like this: First quarter—Lintzenich missed a drop kick from the 22-yard line and a little later the ball was lost inside the Coe 10-yard line on an intercepted pass; again a long pass put the ball near the goal but an ineligible man was ruled to have touched it and the ball was given to Coe. And so on.

Billikens Smash Coe Line.

St. Louis U. started off in great style after receiving the kickoff and soon worked the ball into a position for a drop kick, which Joe Lintzenich barely missed from the 23-yard line, the ball flying a bit wide of the posts. The enemy punted out of danger but Dirnberger put the local team in scoring position again by cutting through tackle and running 40 yards for the longest and prettiest run of the game. This offensive effort came to naught when someone fumbled near the 25-yard line and a Coe man recovered.

Halfback Bird ran 20 yards on the first play but for a third time Coe's goal was in peril when Lintzenich intercepted a pass and ran it back 28 yards. Four bucks through the line put the ball on the 8-yard line. Again the Billikens were repulsed when a Coe man intercepted a pass.

Still undiscouraged, the Billikens opened up a fourth drive at the enemy posts, after taking the punt, when Jordan heaved a long pass to Daubner, who caught the ball on the 20-yard line and carried it again to the 8-yard line. The officials took a hand here and awarded the ball to Coe because before Daubner had caught the ball it had been touched by a Billiken back who had not been standing five yards back of the line of scrimmage at the inception of the play. That ended the first quarter.

Fumble Results in Touchdown.

The second quarter went along in a normal exchange of punts until the aforementioned fumble occurred which gave Brookhart his opportunity to score the touchdown, and the remainder of the period was uneventful. Altogether the two quarters had proved encouraging to the crowd, which looked forward to seeing the one touchdown advantage erased in quick fashion in the next half.

But Coe opened up with its first heavy artillery and starting near midfield, made two first downs and placed the ball on the Billiken 22-yard line for the first time. A 15-yard penalty took the edge off the advance and a little later Flynn grabbed a Coe pass and ran it to his 30-yard line. Here Bill Parilla entered the game and carried the ball past the 50-yard line and Lintzenich placed a beautiful punt out of bounds at Coe's 5-yard line.

More Fruitless Drives.

The Billikens then started their fifth bid for a score. Frisbee's punt carried to his 45-yard line and Jordan plunged to the 25-yard line in two shots. Three 5-yard penalties against Coe put the ball on the 8-yard line. But Parilla fumbled and Coe recovered, and when Frisbee attempted to punt out, Lintzenich took a running start and blocked the kick but again Coe recovered the ball. It was then on the 6-yard line.

Frisbee got off a successful kick, after which St. Louis opened its sixth drive, Parilla running back the punt to the 30-yard line, from where Lintzenich picked up 12 yards and a short pass from Jordan to Flynn placed the ball on the 13-yard line as the quarter ended.

The Billikens were unable to make their distance at the start of the last quarter and lost possession of the ball. Their first "break" came when Eddie Davidson recovered a Coe fumble on the 17-yard line but for the second time Coe held for downs and Frisbee kicked far over the safety man's head, the ball rolling near the other end of the field.

Apparently, at least to onlookers, this was the turning point of the game. The Billikens seemed jinxed when they were working well and when things came their way they showed a tendency to boot them. A together a pretty discouraging state of affairs.

Coe Line Holds.

Coe came on headlong now and worked the ball far into Billiken territory, but the Billiken line held for downs and the Mathews machine started for the seventh time to grind out yardage. The attempt, after netting 35 yards, was temporarily halted when Langlas intercepted a pass, but went on after the interruption and measured enough yardage to place the ball on Coe's 12-yard line. It was a thrilling effort in the face of tough odds, but was doomed to the same failure as its predecessors. The Billikens lost the ball on downs.

Another of Coe's punts sailed past the safety man and rolled clear down to the Billiken 14-yard line.

The timekeeper had drawn his pistol, but the yardage machine instinctively started again to produce yardage and the eighth and last St. Louis effort to score ended when the enemy grabbed a long forward pass on his own 20-yard line.

It was a hard game to lose and with a more equal division of the luck of the game, the Billikens would have won. At least Mathews proved that he has a powerful squad of ground gainers and heads-up interference.

NOTRE DAME BEATS INDIANA TEAM, 19 TO 6

Hoosiers First to Score, but Attack of Flanagan, Niemic, Collins and Dahman Brings Victory.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 22.—A driving, plunging Notre Dame team came to Indiana University today to beat one of the hardest fighting elevens developed here in years, by a 19-to-6 count. It was a case of too much Christy Flanagan, last year's all-America selection. Flanagan was ably supported offensively by Fullback Collins and Halfback Dahman and when Flanagan was out of the lineup it was Niemec who bore the brunt of the attack for Knute Rockne's eleven. His booting, too, was a revelation, several of them being good for from 45 to 60 yards.

Indiana, after a spurt in the first six minutes of play, when it scored a touchdown on a 40-yard dash by Rhynehart, backed down the field stubornly before a fierce attack which in the early play was centered on the line.

The results of that battering showed later in the game when the line's strength was slipping fast. On two occasions the defeated team rose to the heights. One was when Rhynehart made his dash for a touchdown and the other was when the team held in the fourth period with the ball within two feet of the goal. The Crimson suffered greatly from poor punting, at time the boots being good for only 15 or 20 yards.

An adverse wind was partly responsible. But neither Balay nor Harrell were up to their usual form.

Starts Second Eleven.

Following custom, Coach Knute Rockne started his second or defensive team, while Flanagan, Collins and others studied Indiana's brand from the bench. Coach Pat Page met the maneuver, however, by withholding most of Indiana's strength. Winning the toss, Indiana kicked off and smothered Notre Dame's bid for advance down the field. Halfback Rhynehart made eight yards on the Crimson's second play, and with the ball on the 40-yard line he followed with a drive through the line, shook off a couple of Notre Dame hands and dashed to the goal. Garrison's try for a point by a place kick was blocked.

Leo Diegel Ties McLeod With 295

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Fred McLeod of Columbia Club here and Leo Diegel of Fenimore, N. Y., tied today for the Middle Atlantic open golf championship with 295 for 72 holes. There will be an 18-hole play-off tomorrow.

Willie Leach, Overbrook, Pa., finished behind McLeod and Diegel, who is the defending champion, with 297. George Voigt, Washington amateur, had 298 and Tommy Armour of Congressional Club, the United States open champion, 299.

Both McLeod and Diegel sank 10-foot puts on the final green to tie. Diegel, who had 154 for yesterday's 36 holes, scored a 70 on his morning round today, one under par, and 71 in the afternoon. McLeod made 76 and 73, after shooting 146 yesterday.

Washington's Long Passes Bring Tie With Kansas

opening kickoff, only to have Rawdon intercept a pass on the Washington 17-yard line. An exchange of punts followed and Kansas took the ball in midfield. Again plunges by Shannon and Lyman, who had replaced Cooper, took the ball to the 17-yard line, only to have Propernick fumble but recover on the 28-yard line. Eddie Ash was sent in for Captain Hamilton and Harold Schmidt for Shannon and on the first play, Ash passed to Schmidt for a 20-yard gain. Edgar Schmidt was rushed in for Propernick. Ash passed over the goal line to this same Edgar for the touchdown and Schmidt kicked goal.

Things looked dark for Washington but the Bears had plenty of forward passes up their sleeves.

Bears Pass for 57 Yards.

The march for the first Washington touchdown began from the Bear 20-yard line, following Lyman's punt over the goal line. Bickel passed to Duncan for 20 yards and then Whittler made his sensational toss to Lohrding that netted 57 yards. With three yards to go, two plunges by Whittler and one by Bickel worked the ball to the one-foot line and then Whittler crashed over, and later kicked goal.

The Bears soon took the ball on the 46-yard line after Lyman had punted. A pass from Bickel to Millard netted 13 yards and the march went right on until a final bullet pass from Bickel to Axe let Axe dodge around the Kansas right end some 10 yards to a touchdown. Collins kicked goal.

Bickel fumbled the Kansas kickoff and Shannon recovered for Kansas on the Washington 43-yard line. Cooper made nine yards through tackle, Washington was penalized five yards, Hamilton passed to Cooper for 17 yards and Washington drew another five-yard penalty. Three downs later Cooper punched through for a score and Edgar Schmidt again kicked goal.

Kansas came right back again. After the kickoff, the Bears chose to pass from their 20-yard line. Hamilton intercepted the pass, fumbled it, but Edgar Schmidt recovered for Kansas on the 50-yard line. Shannon reeled off 10 yards on the first play and then Cooper carried the ball three successive times off tackle to place it on the Bear six-yard line. Washington drew a penalty, placing the ball on the one-yard line, and Cooper needed onl yone dive for the touchdown. Schmidt's trusty booting toe functioned again and Kansas led, 21 to 14.

In the fourth period Kansas threatened three times, once when McMillan intercepted a pass on the Washington 41-yard line, again when Shannon nabbed a Bear pass on the 31-yard line, and also when Lyman intercepted still another Washington pass on the 47-yard line. Penalties and Washington fight kept the Jayhawkers back, however.

Washington finally started from her own five-yard line for the tying touchdown. Two passes by Bickel to Whittler totaled 25 yards, a pass by Bickel to Libman added 27 yards, Millard ran left end for nine yards, and then Bickel passed to Libman 23 yards away on the goal line for the score. Collins, with a tie or defeat hinging on his try for point, booted the ball squarely over the uprights, and scoring was over for the day.

Kirkwood Beats Clayton, 13 to 0

Largely through the skillful running of Left Halfback Freddie Puff, Kirkwood High, put over a 12-to-0 victory on Clayton in a St. Louis County High School League game at Kirkwood yesterday afternoon. Puff got loose on an end run in the first quarter and reeled off a 35-yard run for a touchdown. In the second quarter he repeated his performance, again going around end for 35 yards and a touchdown. These were the only scores of the game.

Quarterback Klein was the defensive star for Kirkwood and Capt. McGrath stood out in Clayton's play.

Cooper Gets 141 Score to Lead in Oklahoma 'Open'

Los Angeles Star Counts 69, Two Over Record, for Second 18 Holes.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Oct. 22.—Playing superb golf, Harry Cooper of Los Angeles conquered the Lakeside Golf and Country Club course here today in 141 strokes to lead a classy field of professionals at the end of the first 36 holes of play of the Oklahoma City open tournament.

Cooper, who was runner-up to Tommy Armour in the 1927 national open, waged a battle of his own with his putter during the morning round and when he got it under control, after luncheon, he negotiated the final 18 holes in 69 strokes—just two shots above the course record.

Cooper Gets an Eagle.

Even with par for the morning round, Harry came back in the afternoon to down the old man by three shots. An eagle two on the 295-yard seventh hole offset a pair of sixes that showed up on his card when the ball refused to drop for him on short putts. Cooper had a 35-37 for his par 72 on the first round and a 33-36 for his 69 in the afternoon.

John Golden of Patterson, N. J., and Al Espinosa, winner of the Oklahoma City open last year, were next to Cooper with 145's. Bill Mehlhorn of New York, Horton Smith, a youngster from Jefferson City, Mo., and Albert Alcroft of Youngstown, O., each turned in cards of 146 at the half-way mark. Clarence Clarke of Tulsa, who drove his way to victory in the pro-amateur event yesterday, needed 147 today. Waldo Crowder of Shreveport, La., turned in a card of 148. Harold Long of Oklahoma City, Dick Grout, Okmulgee, Ok., State champion, and Jock Hutchison each had a card of 149.

Sarazen Far Back.

Gene Sarazen, New York, who was one of the outstanding favorites to win the $100 first prize money, found the going tough. He played before a big gallery and was out in 80 shots and took 74 in for a total of 154.

Tomorrow the scene shifts to the Oklahoma City Country Club where the final 36 holes will be played.

PRIZES AWARDED TO WINNERS IN MIDLAND VALLEY WOMEN'S GOLF

Mrs. A. F. Eisenbeiss won the F. C. Jobe trophy and the Chairman's tournament, which brought to a close the golf season for the Midland Valley County Club women.

Prizes were awarded to the following winners:

Class A—Mrs. W. J. Filer.
Class B—Jennie Crowder.

Mrs. M. J. Isler won the prize for the best ringer score of the season. Mrs. C. P. Daniel won the prize for lowering handicap during the season.

Mrs. A. P. Eisenbeiss won the putting championship, in addition to the Jobe trophy.

Prize for low net score of 18 holes went to Mrs. M. J. Isler and Mrs. C. P. Daniel.

Mrs. Isler won the prize for fewest putts for 18 holes.

Mrs. Edgar Gengenbach won the prize for the nine-hole event and Mrs. Henry McQuade was winner of the prize for the fewest putts on nine holes.

Mrs. M. L. Newberry won the blind-hole event.

MISSOURI LOSES TO S. M. U. BY 32 TO 9 SCORE

Mustangs Outplay Tigers Throughout and Make Good Use of Forward Pass Attack.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22.—University of Missouri hopes for an undefeated conference season went glimmering in a sweltering Southern twilight here this afternoon, ground underfoot by Ray Morrison's Southern Methodist University Mustangs, 32 to 9. The game was played in Fair Park Stadium before a crowd of approximately 12,000. It was the final event of the Texas State Fair.

With the thermometer hovering almost up to the 90 mark, the Tigers were handicapped by heat as well as injuries, and the limping stellar backfield of Missouri cripples, called into the fray as a last resort by Coach Gwinn Henry, found itself almost impotent against the fast dashing ponies. The Flamank to Clark touchdown pass, which two weeks ago turned back Nebraska when Missouri scored a single touchdown, again delivered a touchdown today, but it was only one touchdown, against five which the ponies scored with their baffling passes and their magnificent sweeps of interference around the Missouri ends.

Tigers Are Outplayed.

The Tigers were outplayed almost from the start. In the first period the Mustangs scored one touchdown and paved the way for another to be counted at the opening of the second frame. Then came a third and Flamank, Clark, Lucas and the other injured Missourians who had started the afternoon on the bench rushed into the fray. They loosed everything they had—smashes at the line, long and short forward passes, lateral tosses, and all the rest, but aside from the one Flamank-Clark counter, they were helpless after they passed the middle of the field.

The crowning Missouri humiliation of the first half came on the final play of the second quarter, when Schaerdel snatched Flamank's lateral pass from the air and raced 40 yards unimpeded for a touchdown. It was the only break of that character of the afternoon, however. The other Mustang counters, after a Missouri fumble had paved the way for the first one early in the first quarter, were either scored on long end runs or long passes, or else the ball was placed in position for scoring by those spectacular tactics.

The heat-logged Tigers were unable to deliver. The Clark-Flamank aggregation went out in despair when the Tiger coaches found it would not work, and substitutes tried their hands again, but all to no avail. Not until late in the final period, when a Missouri attack had been halted by a fumble on the Mustang two-yard line, were the Missourians really dangerous, and then a bad pass from the Southern Methodist University center, which forced Reid, attempting to punt from behind the goal, to ground the ball, gave the Tigers their remaining two points.

This Combination Works.

If the Flamank-Clark pass could not deliver, there was one that could—Mann to Dawson, and it was that Mustang pair that accounted for most of the Texans' gains.

WHALEN'S HORSES SCORE DOUBLE IN RACES AT CREVE COEUR TRACK

TRIPLETT WINS BY 12 LENGTHS OVER WAR BOY

Favorites Account for Majority of Events—Lucent Gains Victory in the Feature.

W. J. Whalen scored a double with his horses, at Creve Coeur yesterday, when Triplett accounted for the second and Lucent came back strongly to win the fifth and feature race over the one-mile route.

Lucent defeated Famine, Irish Pat and three other starters including Mississippi. Owing to the weird riding efforts of some of the jockeys, Lucent was easily the best under D. Hardy, and won with much to spare. Lucent was the favorite paying $7 for a $2 contribution.

A crowd of nearly 6000 persons attended.

Triplett was incidentally the easiest and most decisive winner of the meeting, scoring by a margin of twelve lengths at the termination of the about six furlong dash. War Boy finished in second position, slightly in advance of Tim O'Brien, an outsider. Triplett was backed down to odds on conditions, and his backers receiving only $3.80 for a $2 contribution.

Two Jockeys Are Banned.

Jockey H. White who rode Pickens, in the first race, was banished from the track after the race, after he had incurred the displeasure of the stewards and other track officials. Another jockey, A. Swift, was asked to refrain from accepting any more mounts and has taken his departure. Swift incurred the wrath of the stewards for using illegal tactics while riding Lady Le Band Friday.

Carmi Belle, with McCabe up, sprinted away into a decisive early lead and keeping it all the way, came away in the stretch run to win easing up, in the opener. Her price was $4.40 for a $2 investment. Cluricaune was second, while Touch Down managed to beat the four other starters for third money.

Another Favorite Wins.

Another favorite scored in the third race, a dash of five-eighths in which Carl Drake's Randal's Royal, with Jockey Charlie Eames aboard, was winner. Randal's Royal was backed overwhelmingly and paid only $2.80 for $2. Coney Island, a long shot, finished in second place, while Ponce just managed to gain a head decision over Garr for third.

In the fourth race Whirlwind showed a sudden return to form and was the winner in a furlong dash over Polycarp and Colonel Winn. Polycarp was the favorite. Whirlwind paid $7 for $2.

Nervous Abit won the sixth race in a hard drive with Macedonian. No Equal finished third. Nervous Abie was the favorite, paying off $3.60 for $2.

Sandy Hatch, unable to keep up in early part, improved position with a loss of ground on the turns and, coming strongly through stretch, took command and drew out. Agnes Call raced close up from the start, although able to shake off the others, could not withstand the winner. Sun Dance, also prominent throughout, made a game finish to outstay Bottom Dollar. Latter saved ground and held on well, despite bleeding. Blue Darter, away slowly, closed a big gap before tiring. Coohoogan showed fine speed to the stretch.

$2 mutuels paid: Sandy Hatch, win, $3.20, place $2.80, show $2.40; Agnes Call, place $4.20, show $3.60; Sun Dance, show $7.80.

*Field.

Hiram, rated on the pace from the start, benefited by being on the inside, and after being passed by Nick Cullop, came again under superior handling to wear latter down. Nick Cullop, taken back slightly after three furlongs, slipped between the leaders to reach front in stretch and under a stronger finish might have lasted. Martie Flynn moved up fast on last turn and finished gamely. Miss Furbelow made a fast finish. Petruchio quit badly in last three-sixteenths. Old Fellow away slowly and always far back.

$2 mutuels paid: Hiram, win $7.80, place $5, show $3.40; Nick Cullop, place $7, show $5.60; Martie Flynn, show, $4.40.

*Field.

Babe K. rated in front from start, disposed of Princess Darrell easily and, meeting Sunday Clothes' challenge, was slowly drawing out. Sunday Clothes, forced back due to spill early part, raced up fast in back stretch and tired after nearing lead in stretch. Abstract raced improved, forwardly all the way, tiring in the drive. Bolivar Bond finished fast. Princess Darrell crossed her field rather sharply in first quarter and had speed for six furlongs. Valence was in a tangle when she fell when racing forwardly at end of first three-sixteenths. Willies Maid appeared to stumble when she lost her rider rounding first turn.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Babe B., win $10.40, place $5.20, show $4.20; Sunday Clothes, place $5.60, show $4.60; Abstract, show $16.40.

FIFTH RACE, $5000 added, The Fort Thomas Handicap, 2-year-olds, 6 furlongs: Start good for all but Typhoon; easily place, driving. Went to post at 4:08; at post 3 minutes. aIsland Farm Entry.

Wisdom under strong restraint first quarter raced into a long lead without apparent severe effort on the turns and holding on well won as if much the best. Happy Time under hard driving in vein endeavor to keep up first three quarters was taken up on the last turn and did the stretch gamely when urged hard. Charlie Bergin lost much ground on the stretch turn and outstayed Goldhandle. Latter closed fast. Golden Racket and Mickey D. bumped sharply several times in the drive. Typhoon was as good as left.

$2 mutuels paid:

Wisdom, win $8.00; place $3.80; show $3.20. Happy Time place $2.80; show $2.60. Charlie Bergin, show, $4.00.

DOWN the STRETCH

Big Value.

PROVIDED there are ten starters in the Latonia Championship to be run Oct. 29 the race will have a value of $36,770, of which the winner will get approximately $28,000. Some of the entrants are expected to arrive at Latonia for the classic next week. Bostonian and Whiskery, both owned by H. P. Whitney, will be shipped Tuesday. Valorous, owned by James Cox Brady, and Rip Rap, recently purchased by Mrs. L. Viau, will also make the trip. Brown Bud and Brown Flash, from F. Johnson's stable, are expected Wednesday. Jockey L. McDermott will have the leg up on one of Johnson's horses while Ray Workman will ride either Whiskery or Bostonian.

Jockey Vic Peterson's 30-day suspension will be lifted Monday and he will accept mounts at Arlington. Peterson was suspended by the stewards of the Fairmount Jockey Club for rough riding. He has been at his home in Buehl, Idaho, during his suspension.

• • •

Frank Coltiletti, crack Eastern rider, announced that he will ride free lance during the 1928 season. Coltiletti is under contract to William R. Coe and will finish out the year with that establishment.

Bedwell Retires Pair.

BULLETIN and Cudgeller, H. G. Bedwell's good horses, have been sent to Bedwell's farm near Laurel, Md., to be retired for the season. Bulletin is one of the best overnight handicap sprinters in the country and raced at Fairmount during the spring meeting. Cudgeller also raced at Fairmount during the spring.

Rex Roma, racing in E. T. Roberts' silks, set a new record price for the Arlington meeting when he won the seventh race Friday and paid $189.02 for $2 to win. Place tickets called for $46.58. Rex Roma ran a fine race to defeat Toscnnelli and Carom. He raced well up from the start and won by a length.

• • •

On the same card at Arlington Jockey Hurst Philpot won the first four races with the horses Gossoon, Civility, Prince Tii Til and Sir John K. The only race Philpot had to put his mount to a hard drive to win was the first. He came from far back to land Gossoon in front of Panola by a neck.

Haltermen Busy.

FIVE horses were claimed out of the six races at Empire City Friday. Mrs. Louise Viau took Inca out of the first race for $3000, James Ritchie claimed Drawing Board for $4000. Pete Reilly took Black Bart for $3000 and D. Komie claimed Alletache for $2500. To fill the stall in his stable vacated when Inca was claimed by Mrs. Viau, A. Hanley claimed Sly Polly in the third race for $2000.

• • •

Enthusiastic Edward which showed promise of developing into a fairly good colt last spring but which went amiss shortly before the running of the Kentucky Derby, has been sold to Mode Nichol by T. P. Hayes, acting for J. W. Corrigan, for $1000. Enthusiastic Edward is an English bred colt and was imported to this country as a yearling. He was sold to Corrigan for $8000 at the Saratoga Sales.

CHICAGO BEATS OSMAND LENGTH AT ARLINGTON

Sande's Mount, After Making the Pace, Tires in the Run Through the Stretch and Finishes Second.

By the Associated Press.

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago Oct. 22.—Chicago, four-year-old gelding owned by F. M. Grabner and ridden by Earl Pool, captured the $15,000 American National handicap at a mile and an eighth and set a new track record of 1:50 4-5 before a crowd of 25,000 turf fans here this afternoon.

Osmand, odds-on favorite, with Earl Sande in the saddle, finished second and Yeddo, coupled with Handy Mandy, was third.

Osmand broke on top and, closely followed by Yeddo, set the pace to the middle of the home stretch.

Chicago, racing in fourth position moved into second place at the stretch turn, then came with a rush to take command in the last sixteenth and win driving by one length. Osmand finished one length ahead of Yeddo. Handy Mandy was fourth.

The race was worth $12,140 net to the owner of the winner and Chicago paid $6.72 straight in the mutuels.

VASHON HIGH DEFEATS DOUGLASS GRID TEAM OF COLUMBIA, 6-0

Vashon, the new Negro high school, defeated Douglass high of Columbia, Mo., yesterday in their football game at Stars' park by a score of 6 to 0. Pearson crossed the line for a touchdown in the last quarter. The locals lost an extra point when the crowd rushed out on the field after the touchdown.

While the visiting team put up a strong defense, Vashon made many long runs. Freelon, captain of the Douglass squad, McDonald and Buckner, starred for the visitors while Donahue and Pearson shone for the St. Louis eleven.

The lineups:

Black Panther Wins Handicap

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, N. Y., Oct. 22.—W. J. Salmon's Black Panther landed first money in the New Rochelle handicap, which featured the race program here today. Black Panther broke well but got into trouble just before the turn into the stretch and Jockey Maiben had to take him up. However, Black Panther was so much the best that he fairly ran away to win by three lengths. Premier was second by a head over Herodian.

The race was worth $3860 net.

New York Giants Win.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—The powerful New York Giants pounded their way to a 13 to 0 victory over the Frankford Yellow-Jackets in a National League football game here today. The setback knocked the Jackets from fourth place in the league standing, which they shared with the Giants at post time.

ERBE RETURNS TO BEN MILLER LINEUP TODAY

Lou Ahrens, Another Hold-out, Comes Back to Wellston for Soccer Double-Header at Sportsman's Park.

By Dent McSkimming.

With two outstanding star players in the lineups after a "hold-out" siege, the teams of the St. Louis Soccer League will engage in the second double-header of the season at Sportsman's Park this afternoon. Tom Erbe, considered by many the best fullback in St. Louis, will return to the Ben Miller lineup, and Lou Ahrens will appear at inside right for the Wellston against the Morgans in the opening game. Play starts at 2 p. m.

A further effort to discover promising young talent will be made today, especially by John Marre, who controls the Tabler team. In their game against the Ben Millers, the second half of the double-header, the Tablers will receive a real test, for Billy Foley's club appears to be stronger than last season, when they won the city championship. Foley has a problem to solve today. He must choose between Schweppe, Crow, Tracy and Heidenry for his halfback line. Heidenry is a very promising youngster who played his first game as a Ben Miller last Sunday. He showed so much skill as to warrant another chance to win a regular job.

Hennessy at Center.

Joe Hennessy will continue to play center forward for the Millers in the absence of Jimmy Dunn, who is recovering from a severe illness. Benny Nash, who was handicapped by an injured hand last Sunday, is read yto give an improved effort today, the wound having healed.

Manager Brady of the Wellstons will introduce a new halfback against the Morgans, in O'Connell, who was the mainstay in the strong defense of the Finan team of the Sherman Park group of the Municipal League last season.

Harry McCarthy will continue to give youngsters an opportunity to shine in the forward line of the Morgans.

Robert "Ribby" Murphy will referee both games.

Jockey Root in Hospital After Latonia Spill

His Horse, Violence, and Willie's Maid Fall—Wisdom Wins Feature.

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 22.—Today's racing was marred by a bad spill in the fourth event in which Willie's Maid, with Jockey A. Tryon and Valence, with Jockey Tommy Root, were caught in a jam while rounding the first turn and both boys were badly shaken up. Jockey Tryon was able to walk off the track limping badly, while Jockey Root was trampled upon by Valence and was sent to the hospital for further examination.

The fifth race, the Fort Thomas Handicap, at six furlongs, feature of the day, brought out ten good 2-year-olds and saw R. S. Clark's Wisdom returned the winner by a length and a half over Happy Time, followed by Charlie Bergin a length behind, for third money. The winner was rated in front at the start and was given a hustling ride by Jockey D. Smith. The winner's time for the six furlongs was 1:13 3-5, and she paid his supporters $8 for $2.

LINCOLN HIGH BEATS CHICAGO TEAM AT EAST ST. LOUIS, 7-6

Lincoln High School (Negro) of East St. Louis gave Wendell Phillips High (Negro) of Chicago its first defeat of the season yesterday afternoon at New National Park, East St. Louis, 7 to 6.

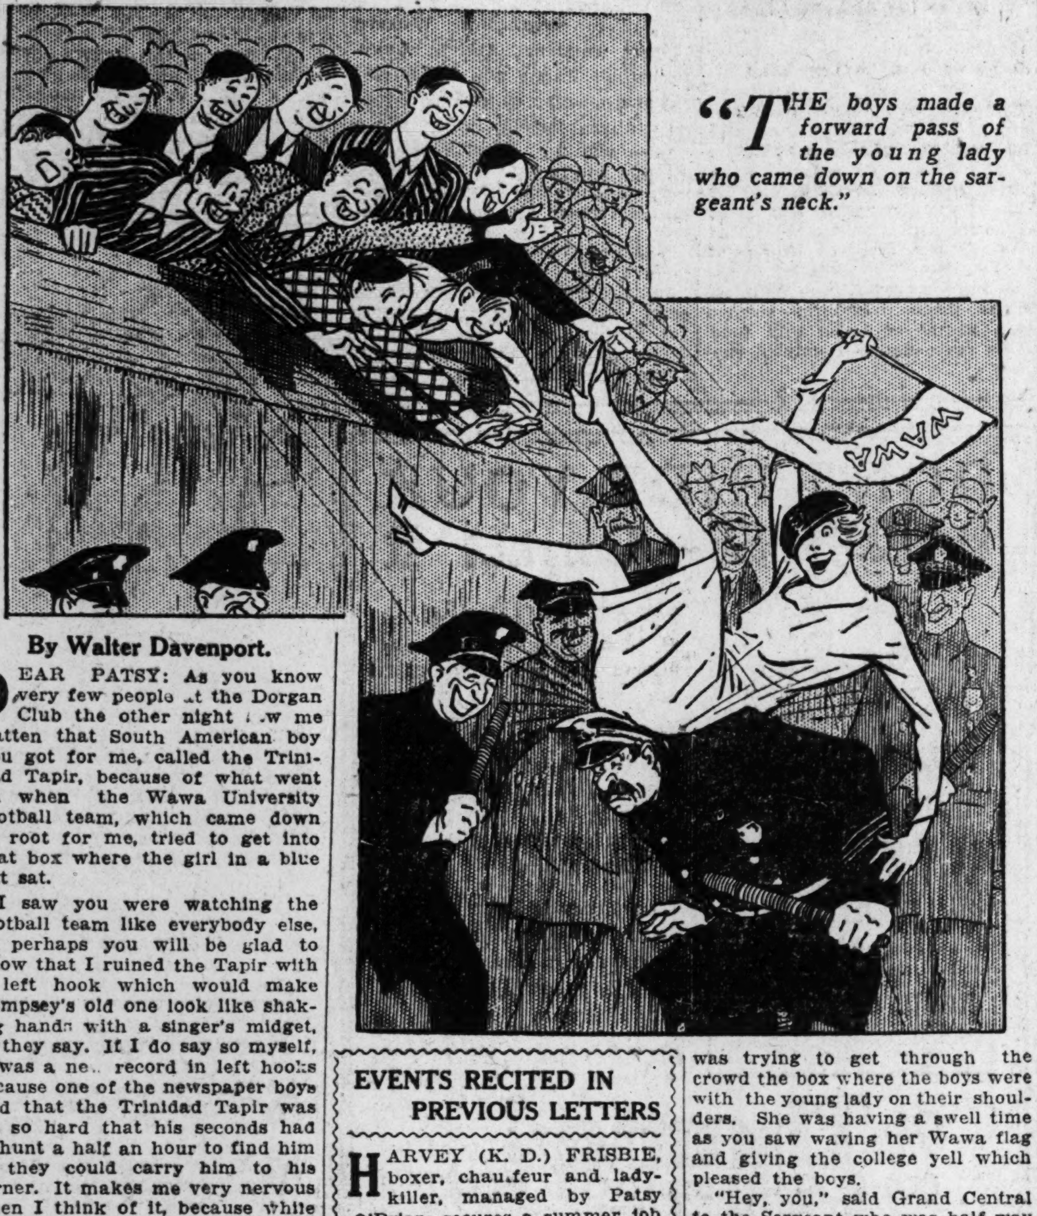
Frisbie's Fight With Tapir Ends in Riot

Girl Fan Smiles...Collegians Stampede...Enter the Police

No. 21—A Fighter's Letters to His Manager



"THE boys made a forward pass of the young lady who came down on the sargeant's neck."

By Walter Davenport.

DEAR PATSY: As you know very few people at the Dorgan Club the other night saw me flatten that South American boy you got for me, called the Trinidad Tapir, because of what went on when the Wawa University football team, which came down to root for me, tried to get into that box where the girl in a blue hat sat.

I saw you were watching the football team like everybody else, so perhaps you will be glad to know that I ruined the Tapir with a left hook which would make Dempsey's old one look like shaking hands with a singer's midget, as they say. If I do say so myself, it was a new record in left hooks because one of the newspaper boys said that the Trinidad Tapir was hit so hard that his seconds had to hunt a half an hour to find him so they could carry him to his corner. It makes me very nervous when I think of it, because while I am all right with my left hand, still in all it is my right that Tunney and Dempsey and George Godfrey and Paulino Uzcudun are afraid of. As the fellow says, I am afraid of my right myself sometimes, not that I would be silly enough to slap myself in the chin with it, but for fear the boy I hit with it when it is right will be killed. While those accidents must be expected in the fight game, still in all you do not like them to happen too often.

A Lady Starts It.

AS for what happened at the Dorgan Club, as I was making boloney meat of the Trinidad Tapir. The newspapers had it all wrong. When I told the boys at Wawa University that as their boxing professor I was going down to fight the Tapir, the whole football team and many students said they would go along and cheer.

The management would not let the football team, including Grand Central Gallagher and Two Ton Zink and Harold Alps, the hurdling half-wit, sit together, but gave them seats far apart saying it was orders from police headquarters.

Well, what happened was this. Over in a box a young lady in a blue hat was holding up a Wawa pennant because I was boxing professor at Wawa and was going to fight that night, but the boys did not understand that and thought she was for their college.

As you know the excitement began to start the minute I climbed in the ring. One of the newspaper boys who couldn't of gone to college said that the college boys with me begin to laugh as soon as they saw me but that was a college yell and when they were hollering Ha Ha Ha they were not laughing but making poetry for Wa-Wa-Wa which is how they pronounce the name of the college when they yell.

Anyway, when the bell rang the bad news for the Trinidad Tapir and the fight started the young lady whose name I did not know stood up and waved her Wawa flag and Harold Alps the captain of the team got up from where he was sitting and started to go over to where the young lady was to thank her.

No Respect for Location.

SO did Grand Central Gallagher. The trouble with Grand Central is that no matter where he is he starts playing football the minute there is any excitement whether there is a game or not. He was much further away from the young lady than Harold Alps was so he did not walk down the aisle and over like you or I would do but began to climb over people.

By the time he had walked on five or six of the spectators they began to lose their sense of humor and tried to tackle him which is what Grand Central likes especially if they try to throw him out of bounds as he says he was born out of bounds.

Two Ton Zink his pal then decided he would go with Grand Central and started from where he sat. Also Tiny Trumbull, the Wawa center, and Glider Dornick who plays right end who was sitting up in the gallery by mistake. In fact the whole team and the subs which makes 28 in all decided they would go to the box where the young lady was and help Harold Alps thank her on behalf of me and Wawa.

EVENTS RECITED IN PREVIOUS LETTERS

HARVEY (K. D.) FRISBIE, boxer, chauffeur and lady-killer, managed by Patsy O'Brien, secures a summer job as life saver at Belgravia Beach. Various adventures follow at the beach. The season is culminated by Harvey being offered a job as personal chaperon to Ralph Alps, known as the hurdling half-wit, a college boy who takes his drinking seriously. Old man Alps asks Frisbie to keep Ralph out of trouble. Harvey takes the job and when the fall term at Wawa University starts, Alps takes his guardian along with him. Frisbie is soon appointed boxing instructor and trainer for the football team. Later Patsy gets a match for Frisbie witn the Trinidad Tapir.

You will not find a nicer lot of boys anywhere than the Wawa football team but it seems the public has not gone to college and does not understand that they are full of animal spirits as they say and have to have their little fun. That is why somebody telephoned for the reserved cops who came as you know just about the time half the Wawa team got in the box where the young lady was and was lifting her on their shoulders while the rest of the team was trying to keep back the spectators who wanted to get in the box also and ask Two Ton Zink and Grand Central Gallagher, Tiny Trumbull, Glider Dornick and the rest of them what they meant.

Frisbie Finishes the Tapir.

I was having my own troubles in the ring there with the Trinidad Tapir because he did not seem to care one way or another what happened out there but was trying to sock me in the jaw while I was just holding him off with my left so I could watch the boys like everybody else.

I could of kept that up for several rounds if the cops had not of come in about that time and I could see I would be needed by the boys so I stopped using my left to keep the Tapir off and hooked it to his chin as I told you with the result that they had to take up the canvas on the ring to find him.

It would of been all right if Grand Central didn't think he knew one of the police Sergeants who was trying to get through the crowd the box where the boys were with the young lady on their shoulders. She was having a swell time as you saw waving her Wawa flag and giving the college yell which pleased the boys.

"Hey, you," said Grand Central to the Sergeant who was half way through the crowd by this time. "You look like a flatty I used to know named Hogan."

"That's me, Hogan," said Hogan. "I remember you. You used to rob clothes lines."

Grand Central got pretty sore at that and you can't blame him because it was not him that robbed clothes lines but his father and you can't blame a boy for what his old man did.

"Gentlemen," said Grand Central to the crowd, "let the sergeant through and I will entertain you with a couple of tricks you learn playing football."

The Judge Is Lenient.

SO they let the sergeant through and also all his men, but just as the sergeant was about to say something to Grand Central the boys made a forward pass of the young lady, who came down on the sergeant's neck, which was the last we saw of the sergeant until we all got to the police station, where we were wanted for disorderly conduct they said. I will admit there was a lot of good natured pushing and joshing on all sides but nothing you could call disorderly in that way.

But the young lady, whose name is Millicent Breen who works for her mother, who is a hostess in a big night club selling cigars and cigarettes dressed up as a drummer boy, was a fine sport and told the Judge it was all the fault of the cops. She also knew the Judge well from often being in the big night club where she works, with the result that he discharged us, telling us to go back to college and stay there, where there is lots of room to move around in.

"College boys oughtn't to try being in the city for at least three years after they get out," he said, "because it takes them that long to get used to moving around where it is crowded."

So that is what happened. I thought I would let you know because the newspapers had it all wrong. Please collect my end of the purse which I forgot about in the excitement and send it to me because I find that football players are pretty fast with the dice or bones and wouldn't be surprised if they were loaded from the way things have been going.

Yours truly,
K. O. FRISBIE.

Patsy Sends an Ultimatum.

DEAR FRISBIE: I am sending you a check for $750 which is your end of the loot for your fight with the Trinidad Tapir and believe me we are pretty lucky we are not paying the Dorgan Club something instead of them paying us.

At first when I asked for the dough coming to us Dorgan talked about wearing out a blackjack on us.

"Listen," he said, "what do you and that sick truck horse you manage think I am running, the A. E. F.?"

"Well, you ain't running a Bible class for deaf and dumb guys are you?" I said.

"Suppose I am," he said. "That is my business. As far as you and that headless horse you manage are concerned there won't be no more work in my club for you until he stops carrying around the piano movers' union with him no matter what college it comes from."

So I took the jack and left. Somehow I begin to think there is something to what he says. In fact between you and me I give you two weeks to quit that job you got at Wawa University and come down here and fight like a gentleman. They wouldn't stand for your mob in Chicago even.

Your manager,
PATSY O'BRIEN.

20 TEAMS PLAY IN MUNY SOCCER OPENING TODAY

Champion Killarneys Do Not Return to Defend Title — German Sport Club Enters Two Teams.

Ten games compose the opening day program of the Municipal Soccer League this afternoon. Playing in five public parks, in various sections of the city, 20 teams will engage in the opening of a season which will continue until next March. There are 21 senior teams in the league this season and one of these has drawn a bye.

Last year's champions, the Killarneys, are not returning to defend their honors. The principal reason for this failure to return to the competition is the wholesale graduation of the Killarney players to the professional league. Jim McCarthy, Benoist, Halfback Quinlan and Goaltender Reidy, who helped win the Municipal League flag last season, are now members of the Tablers of the professional circuit.

This withdrawal of the champion team is not a new situation in Municipal ranks. Last year, the Fairmount Democrats, after winning the title for the season 1925-1926, disbanded.

Apparently the strongest group this season is to be found at Sherman Park, or perhaps at Carondelet Park. The German Sports Club has grown to such proportions that two teams have been entered in the competition this season, one playing at Carondelet No. 1 and the other in the No. 2 division.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association has entered a team, coached by Phil Kavanaugh, veteran player, referee and student of the game.

It's More than a Coat When It's a "LAMBAK"
WELL dressed men have long wanted an intermediate weight overcoat, heavier than a topcoat, lighter than a heavy overcoat. The "Lambak" fulfills just this need.
The lofty California weight fabric—the new Herringbone weaves—the many smart new shades—all forecast your unqualified approval.
Priced moderately. At most good clothiers. Look for the "Lambak" label—it's a synonym for quality.

WANTS $10,000 FROM YANKS FOR SUGGESTING THEY BUY WILCY MOORE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The New York American League baseball club today was made defendant in a suit for $10,000 which John G. Walsh claims is owing him for suggesting the purchase of Pitcher Wiley Moore, who pitched the Yankees to victory in one of the last world's series games.

Edward G. Barrow, secretary of the Yankees, promised him "substantial payment" for information on pitching material, in July, 1926. Walsh declared in his action. Walsh immediately suggested Moore, who was purchased a month later for $4000 from the Greenville, S. C., club of the Piedmont League, the suit sets forth.

Walsh charges the purchase was made entirely on his suggestion after Robert Gilks, a club scout, had counseled against it. He places Moore's present value at $100,000.

The Call of the Outdoors

By ALEC MERMOD

SINCE Jan. 1 and up to October 7 the License Collector of St. Louis has sold 19,227 State-wide fishing licenses, 15,016 State-wide hunting licenses, 539 county hunting and fishing licenses, 173 nonresident fishing licenses and 33 nonresident hunting and fishing licenses. After the fees were deducted the Collector turned over to the Game and Fish Department the net sum of $52,914.45.

While the sale of fishing licenses now will fall off, the demand for hunting licenses will increase as the open season on quail is not far off, and a great many hunters put off buying a license till the last minute.

The Game and Fish Department dwells on the fact that the department is supported solely by the revenue from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses, but every once in a while a taxpayer wants to know why he should help pay for restocking the streams with fish or the woods and fields with game, when he neither shoots nor fishes.

The hunters themselves do not seem to realize the importance of buying a license, and there are a few here in the city who object to paying $2.50 for a State-wide shooting and fishing license and will either confine their shooting to one county so that they may buy a license for $1 or else will take a chance of being arrested when going into another county.

There was a time when our game and fish fund was "borrowed" by some other department to tide over a shortage, but that condition does not exist today, for every cent collected is used to carry on the expenses and to restock our streams and forests.

There are two sides to the question: If the department is not supported by the hunter and angler through the purchase of licenses, there will not be enough money to carry on the work of protection and propagation; on the other hand if the department does not give the sportsmen something for their money they will stop buying licenses. Therefore it is very apparent that it is necessary for the sportsmen to support the Game and Fish Department in every way, not only by the purchase of a license, but by observing the law, and it is necessary that the department give the sportsmen value received.

I am glad to say that under the present administration conditions seem to be very satisfactory for both sides.

Last spring the department imported and distributed some 4000 Mexican quail and each of these birds was banded so that a record could be kept showing just where each bird was released, the object of this being to enable the department to tell with some degree of accuracy just how far quail are apt to move from the cover in which they have been released.

On Killing Banded Birds.

EVERY hunter killing banded birds is requested to return all bands to the department, stating where the birds were taken.

If every hunter will do this it will be of vast help to all concerned, for it will go far toward telling why birds move from one place to another. There are several reasons why quail move; sometimes it is on account of a lack of food, again there may be too much water; insufficient cover is another factor, or it may be that vermin is a cause of a change of location. But there are cases where birds have moved from certain localities when everything seemed ideal, plenty of water and food, ample cover and few natural enemies.

Kansas Aggies Down Oklahoma

Wildcats Break Up Sooner Pass Attack, Gaining 20-14 Victory.

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kansas, Oct. 22.—A fighting crew of Wildcats from the Kansas State Agricultural College smothered the University of Oklahoma's Sooners under a 20 to 14 defeat on Ahearn Field here today. Breaking up long Sooner passes, and taking advantage of fumbles, the Aggies managed to count up a total of three touchdowns and two kicked goals.

Haskins, Oklahoma's passing star heaved pass after pass towards Sooner ends, but Coach Charles Bachman's eleven warded off counters.

The scoring began in the first quarter when Fleck picked up a blocked Sooner kick and ran 25 yards for the goal line. Householder failed to kick goal but Oklahoma was offside and it counted. A few minutes later, after a drive down the field, Haskins flipped the ball to Roy Lecrone for the first Oklahoma touchdown. A Kansas off-side penalty gave Haskins credit for the extra point.

Fumble Aids Aggies.

In the second quarter the Aggies tightened up and began to stop the Sooner line gains which featured the first period. Getting the ball on downs in the middle of the field in the third period, Holsinger of the Aggies started to skirt left end. As he was tackled the ball rolled from his arms. Edwards scooped it up and ran 40 yards for the second Aggie touchdown. Springer got away around right end a few minutes later and added the third after a 20-yard dash. Tackwell added the extra point on Springer's touchdown.

In the last quarter the Sooners attempted to beat back the Wildcats by the air route. Haskins finally tossed one long pass. Which Roy Lecrone dropped on the Aggie 3-yard line. A Wildcat had interfered with the catch and officials awarded the yardage to Oklahoma. On the next play Short hit the center of the line for the Sooners second touchdown. Haskins kicked the goal.

Twenty-two tosses by the Sooners netted only 84 yards, six being completed. The Aggies attempted 9, completed 6 and gained 70 yards. The Aggies gained 356 yards from scrimmage against 243 for the Sooners. Oklahoma drew 11 penalties for 95 yards and the Aggies 5 for 52.

District Basket League Is Being Formed by A.A.U.

Sixteen Teams Playing in Two Divisions, the Plan of A. A. U. Heads.

Plans to organize a Western District Amateur Athletic Union Basketball league will be carried out at a meeting of interested representatives Monday night, when entries will be considered. The meeting will be held at 3301 Washington avenue, and all interested in the movement are invited to attend.

The league as planned now is to include about 16 teams, divided into two divisions of eight teams each. Seven teams have applied for representation including Jefferson Barracks, Young Men's Hebrew Association, North End Rowing Club, Belleville Turners and others.

The organization will be known as the A. A. U. Basketball League. It is planned to have the division winners meet in a championship final and the winner of the district title to be sent to the national championships.

CONTEST FOR BOWLERS WITH MEDIUM AVERAGE COMES TO END TONIGHT

The final squads in the individual contest for bowlers with averages of 183 and under, which started last night at the Rogers alleys, will be rolled tonight at the hours of 7, 8 and 9 p. m.. Among the more prominent of the medium average bowlers who will roll tonight is Judge Frank B. Grodzki, newly elected president of the City Bowling Association.

Billiken Juniors Beat Chaminade

Ed McCarty's St. Louis U. High eleven strengthened its hold on first place in the Preparatory League race by defeating Chaminade yesterday, 7 to 0. The Junior Billikens have now won two games and lost none, and share a tie for the lead with Western, which has won its only league game.

Chaminade offered harder opposition than was expected and the teams battled on fairly even terms until the third quarter, when the Blue and White completed a [illegible]-yard pass that put the ball on the enemy 40-yard line. Straight football brought the ball to the six-yard line, where Bromschwig bucked the line for the score. Flannery kicked the goal.

Supper Served in Jungle at Miss McDonald's Debut Party

Fascinating South African Scene Reproduced in Temporary Building in Yard of Parents' Home at 24 Washington Terrace—350 Guests in Attendance.

A FASCINATING bit of jungle from the heart of South Africa was reproduced Friday night for the debut ball of Miss Carol McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McDonald, at their home, 24 Washington terrace.

The house itself retained the atmosphere of a formal evening party, with the gorgeous gift flowers to the debutante distributed in profusion. In the drawing room to the right pink predominated; in the hall were American beauty roses, and in the living room to the left, yellow was the outstanding color, with baskets and vases of giant chrysanthemums at vantage points. In this room stood the receiving party, adding another chapter of interesting social history to the home, for Mrs. McDonald made her debut there as Miss Grace Moon, and later was married there.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. McDonald and their daughter were Miss Cornelia Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Kelley of New York, who will make her own formal bow at a reception at her home the day before Thanksgiving, and Miss Florence Ludington, debutante daughter of Elliot King Ludington.

The jungle was enclosed in a great temporary building on the lawn surrounding the house and here supper was served for the 350 guests at 1 o'clock As if an advance guard of slaves had made ready the clearing, and entrance led from the side portico through a luxuriant avenue of palms and orange trees and descended in an aisle of make-believe flower-filled stone urns painted on green canvas walls, where white peacocks strutted. The yellow glow from hexagonal lanterns gave an eerie light.

Soft gray Spanish moss and greenery hung from the roof of the clearing and protected the jungle invaders from the elements. About the walls wild animals leered at the dancers. Here were the flashing eyes of a panther in the tall grasses, there a pair of monkeys chasing each other over a tree top. Blue herons stood one-legged beside shallow pools, and flamingos and paraqueets fluttered about. Tropical fruits there were in abundance. Ripe bananas hung from over-ripe trees, and at one end of the great space was a lily marsh with the delicate blossoms in full bloom. The lantern light was augmented by a tropical moon which hung lazily in the tropical sky, and about the floor were hundreds of electric lights half hidden in moss. At one side was built a hut through the thatched door of which fresh viands were brought. Screened from the guests by a tangled growth of palms an orchestra played weird native music.

The table for Miss McDonald and the debutante set occupied one side of the long room, its decorations clusters of yellow lilies and golden glaced pheasants, silhoutted in the long mirror surrounded by woodwardia ferns which reached its entire length. Round tables seating smaller parties filed the jungle.

The large ballroom on the third floor was redecorated for the party. The walls and rounded ceilings were shaded upward from pale blue to ivory with tiny red stencil designs as though a jester had blown soap bubbles and they splashed in colorful confusion. The room was lighted by a succession of globes about the walls each veiled in a fragile crystal star. Red velvet draped the windows and covered small gilded ballroom chairs, and the orchestra alcove was carpeted in the same tone. An adjoining room has been charmingly transformed into a sort of auxiliary rest room bordering on the Japanese, with lacquered tables and chairs.

Miss McDonald wore a girlish frock of white satin and tulle, with a spray of rhinestones across one shoulder of the satin bodice, where a chou of tulle was attached. The skirt was of billowy tulle with rhinestone trimming and a slight satin drapery at one side. She carried yellow lilies and baby's breath. Miss Kelley wore ivory taffeta and gold tulle, made en bouffant, and carried a similar bouquet. Mrs. McDonald was in champagne velvet and wore orchids.

Miss Kelley will depart next Wednesday for her home, and Miss McDonald will visit her later in the season.

Contemporary Club Speakers Chosen

THE first dinner of the Contemporary Club season will be on Friday evening, Nov. 18, at the Coronado Hotel. The speaker will be William Beebe, director of Tropical Research, New York Zoological Society, who will show extraordinary underwater motion pictures of tropic seas.

On Dec. 8, the dinner guest of honor will be Lowell Thomas, who will speak on "With Allenby in Palestine and Lawrence in Arabia."

Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, daughter of Otis Skinner, the actor, in character sketches will be the attraction at the dinner, Jan. 20, and Sir Douglas Mawson on Feb. 14, showing bird and animal motion pictures in a pictorial account of his Australasian explorations. Miss Skinner has visited in St. Louis, and is also known here socially.

The March speaker has not yet been selected. Membership in the Contemporary Club is open to those interested in the season's speakers, and may be made with Mrs. E. A. Reutner, 6810 Plateau avenue. Royall H. Switzler is chairman of the Board of Directors, other members of which are: Mrs. Dudley French, Mrs. Wilbur B. Jones, Miss Mary Hamilton, the Rev, Dr. John W. MacIvor, Dr. George T. Moore, Forrest C. Donnell, Flint Garrison and John S. Lionberger.

Debut Party of Miss Jane Pirrung

SURROUNDED by great clusters of bronze-hued chrysanthemums and masses of yellow roses, Miss Jane Pirrung, the petite titian-haired daughter of Mrs. Clifford Gaylord, made her bow to society yesterday afternoon at a tea which her mother gave for her at their home.

Miss Pirrung wore a frock of white chiffon embroidered in crystal and rhinestones, and carried an armful of Pernet roses that accentuated the deep golden shade of her hair. Mrs. Gaylord wore a beaded gown of jade green chiffon and a corsage of orchids.

The tea table was in yellow flowers with long yellow tapers. The following debutantes served coffee and ices: Miss Dorothy Bemis, Miss Katherine Smith, Miss Mary Brooks Holmes, Miss Elise Whitemor, Miss Florence Ludington, Miss Carol McDonald, Miss Kate Edmundstone Thompson, Miss Florence Jones, Miss Margaret Burkham, Miss Dorinda Kennerly, Miss Janet Gardner, Miss Kathleen Sheldon, Miss Margaret Ryan, Miss Elizabeth Clark, Miss Lorraine Grover, Miss Janet Shields, Miss Margaret Brown of Dallas, Tex.; Miss Virginia Hemenway, Miss Martha Sluder, Miss Anne Davis and Miss Lucy Turner.

Those who assisted without hats included Mrs. Gaylord's mother, Mrs. E. Gilbert Robinson of Mansfield, O.; Mrs. Frederick Dozier Gardner, Mrs. Eugene H. Angert, Mrs. Doddridge Farrell, Mrs. C. Gallord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Frank Overton Watts and Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman.

Miss Pirrung will give a buffet supper tomorrow evening at her home for Miss Cornelia Kelley of New York, who is a guest of Miss Carol McDonald.

Mrs. Skipwith to Wed George McD. Johns

MRS. WILLIAM BAGNELL of 12 Westmoreland place announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her niece, Mrs. Lionel Skipwith of Richmond, Va., and George McDearmon Johns, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Johns of "Crag Darragh," St. Louis County.

The ceremony will take place at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at Mrs. Bagnell's country home on the La Due road, and, because of mourning in the bride's family, will be quite informal, with no attendants and the guests limited to members of the immediate families.

Mrs. Skipwith was Miss Sally Johnson, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnson. She has spent much of her time for the last few years with Mrs. Bagnell, and is now her guest. She is a graduate of Bishop Robertson Hall in St. Louis.

MISS Julia Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Wells of 53 Kingsbury place, one of the special maids of honor at the Veiled Prophet's court Thursday night, was honor guest at a dinner dance given last night by her parents at the St. Louis Country Club. There were 100 guests, including many of the debutantes and a few of Mrs. and Mrs. Wells' friends who were seated at a smaller table.

Mrs. Wells wore pink velvet sewn with crystals and rhinestones, with two-tiered skirt of fringe. Miss Wells' debut gown was pale blue, with a velvet bodice embroidered with a spray of rhinestones, and a ruffled tulle skirt. She carried pink roses.

A number of other parties have been planned for Miss Wells later in the season.

EAGON-GALE ENGAGEMENT.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Mrs. Elva von Weise Eagon of 4901 West Pine boulevard and Leone C. Gale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Gale Sr. of Webster Groves.

Mrs. Eagon is a sister of Mr. Louis B. von Weise of 8 Lenox place, where the wedding will take place quietly the latter part of November. After a wedding trip Mr. Gale and his bride will take possession of their new home in Webster Groves.

Weddings and Engagements

THE First Congregational Church of Webster Groves was the setting of an interesting autumn wedding last evening, when Miss Lucy Kendrick, daughter of Mrs. A. W. Kendrick of 216 North Elm avenue, Webster Groves, became the bride of J. Robert Patterson, son of Mrs. John Q. Patterson of Chicago, formerly of Webster Groves.

The marriage service was read at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Dwight Bradley. The altar was adorned in white chrysanthemums and was lighted by cathedral candles. More than 400 guests attended.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Warren Kendrick, was attired in a gown of white satin. The bodice had a yoke of rose point lace and long sleeves with cuffs of the lace. The skirt draped in the front, fell into a fan-like train in the back. Her tulle veil was held in place by a band of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Virginia Mead was maid of honor and Miss Evelyn Jenkins, Miss Margaret Milne and Mrs. Clyde Israel Jr. were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of white taffeta trimmed with touches of silver lace and made bouffant with sashes of velvet a deeper shade than the gowns. They carried bouquets of chrysanthemums. Margaret Lemen, daughter of Mrs. Constance Lemen, was the flower girl and wore a frock of pink tulle. She carried a basket of pink pom poms.

Mr. Patterson had as his best man his brother, Everett Patterson of Houston, Tex., and Eugene Baker, Pollard Scholz, Charles Bowman, Ralph Metcalfe and Clyde Israel Jr. as groomsmen.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Warren, immediately after the ceremony. The home was decorated in chrysanthemums in autumn shades against a background of palms.

The bride gave her attendants petit point evening bags and Mr. Patterson gave his best man and groomsmen seal bill folds with gold monograms.

Mr. Patterson and his bride will make their home in Detroit, Mich.

THE marriage of Miss Marian Standish Wait, daughter of Mrs. Walter J. Wait of Suburban avenue, and Philip Harvey Reis took place at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Church of the Unity, the Rev. George Rowland Dodson officiating.

The ceremony took place in the light of several hundred cathedral tapers grouped around the pulpit in candelabra. Smilax and woodwardia ferns completed the church decoration.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Glenn W. Turner as matron of honor, and her cousin, Miss Jean Gertrude Lebens and the groom's niece, Minne Elizabeth Reis, as bridesmaids. Glenn W. Turner served as best man and Pierce J. Van Alstyne and Irving Vogel as groomsmen. Miss Audrey Gausman was flower girl.

The bride's dress was a robe of Princess lace and marquisette, heavily embroidered. Unevenness of skirt length was achieved by points of lace which fell nearly to ankle length. The veil of tulle formed a three-yard train, held in place by Princess lace and orange blossoms. The bride carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The fall shades, ranging from pale yellow to rich orange, were worn by the attendants. The matron of honor wore a gown of blonde lace over orange, and carried bronze chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids, gowned alike, wore dresses of pale orange with brilliant touches of a deeper shade in velvet. They carried yellow chrysanthemums. The flower girl in a dress of palest yellow pleated chiffon scattered chrysanthemum petals in the path of the bride.

After the ceremony a short reception was held in the Alliance room of the church, after which the relatives and bridal party assembled at the home of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Reis will be at home after Nov. 15 at 7142 Amherst avenue, University City.

The marriage of Miss Judith Adler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon J. Adler of 5523 Pershing avenue, and Milton J. Marks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marks of 5504 Delmar boulevard, took place at 6:30 Saturday evening, Oct. 15, before an improvised altar in the small ball room of Hotel Chase. Dr. Samuel Thurman officiated, assisted by Dr. Shelden Blank of Cincinnati, a cousin of the bride.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Henrietta Blank, who wore a bouffant frock of shell pink taffeta and carried a colonial bouquet. Carol Munchweiler, niece of the bridegroom, who acted as flower girl, also was dressed in pink. Leon Marks was best man for his brother.

The bride was gowned in white satin with a bertha of old point lace, which had adorned her mother's bridal gown. Her tulle veil was trimmed in more of the lace and she carried lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner, attended by immediate family and close friends, was served in the Colonial room of the Chase. The dinner was followed by an informal reception and dancing from 9:30 until midnight.

Quigley, was solemnized yesterday morning at St. Thomas Aquinas Church in Chicago. The Rev. J. Ambrose Murray, a cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony.

Miss Grace Francouer was bridesmaid and Michael Hart, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Adolph Hellman and Arthur Spink.

The bride wore a white velvet period dress and veil and carried lilies of the valley. Miss Francoeur's dress was of tan velvet. She wore a brown velvet hat and carried chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

The bridal party and members of the immediate families had breakfast at the Gramere Hotel following the ceremony. The bridegroom is a graduate of St. Louis University and was a naval officer during the war. He is a member of the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity and Delta Sigma Phi.

Miss Estelle Marie Langdale, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Langdale of 4642 Carrie avenue, will become the bride of Thomas Eugene Liston, son of Mrs. P. A. Liston of 4043 Shreve avenue, Wednesday morning. The ceremony will take place at the Holy Rosary Church and the Rev. Father McMahon will officiate. A wedding breakfast will follow at Hotel Coronado.

FOR ACTIVE WOMEN -- FOOT SAVERS

and now WOMEN are learning another secret of KEEPING YOUNG

Countless women are enjoying again the buoyant step of younger days—banishing forever foot strain and that "tired feeling"—by wearing Foot Saver Shoes.
You'll like Foot Savers from the moment you step into them. You'll like their smartness—their hint of youth and action—you'll like the way they caress your foot.
Then walk in Foot Savers. You'll find that uneasy foot consciousness slipping away. And when you have worn Foot Savers to the end of a strenuous day—you'll find your step still light—your face youthful, radiant—your spirits gay and charming.

This charming model offered in black patent and black kid.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR
A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair
Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:
"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.
These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

Eyes Strengthened 50% by Proper Eye Care, Says Doctor

Suggests Simple Home Treatment Which Quickly Relieves All Irritation and Sharpens Vision.

No longer is there any excuse for most of our eye troubles. For specialists have perfected a simple but amazingly effective treatment which not only quickly relieves burning, itching, smarting, aching eyes, but also banishes eye headaches, eye-strain and blurred vision.

This simple treatment is called the Bon-Opto system, and is now being prescribed by physicians and specialists everywhere. It is based on the latest scientific discoveries. Scientists have recently proved that 90 per cent of all eye troubles are due to weakness in certain little muscles which adjust the eye. Eye-glasses alone will not strengthen these muscles. But the Bon-Opto treatment seeps through directly to them, heals and tonics them, and soon restores them—and therefore the eyes—to their old-time strength and vigor.

Don't neglect your eyes. The discomfort felt after an automobile ride, a movie or any close work, are important danger signals. Yet every irritation and ache can be almost instantly banished by a Bon-Opto eye-bath, and more serious trouble prevented. Bon-Opto should be in every home. Your eyes are far more important than your teeth. As often as you use your tooth brush you should take your eye-bath.

So get a package of Bon-Opto. Results guaranteed. Money back without question if you are not delighted with the improvement in your eyes and sight. Bon-Opto is sold by good druggists everywhere.

Get it today of your druggist and send us your name for free booklet "Stronger Eyes and Better Sight". Valmas Drug Co., Dept 189H Rochester, N. Y.

Class in Shakspeare To Meet at Town Club

Miss Elizabeth Morse of the Morse School of Expression will give the second class lesson for St. Louis Tercentenary Shakspeare Society at the Town Club, sixth floor, Tuesday, at 2 p. m. The society will assemble at 1 p. m. for a buffet luncheon and social hour.

Following this Miss Morse will instruct the class on Act I of the comedy "Twelfth Night." The lesson Oct. 18, which opened the season for the study class, was attended by a large group of students. Mrs. C. A. Forse of Webster Groves was a guest. Miss Morse read a number of inspiring tributes to the immortal bard of Avon, Shakspeare. A general introduction to the joyous comedy, "Twelfth Night," followed. Members read excerpts interpreting the characters of the play. A general discussion concluded the work.

All future class lessons will be held at the Town Club.

Public programs the second Tuesday of the month will be held as usual in the Music Hall at Vandervoorts.

Tuesday Charity Circle.

The Tuesday Charity Circle held its first meeting of the season Oct. 4, at the home of Mrs. P. E. Ballet. To resume its charity work, a silver tea was given by Mrs. H. K. Drees, 5712 Enright avenue, Thursday, Oct. 13. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 25.

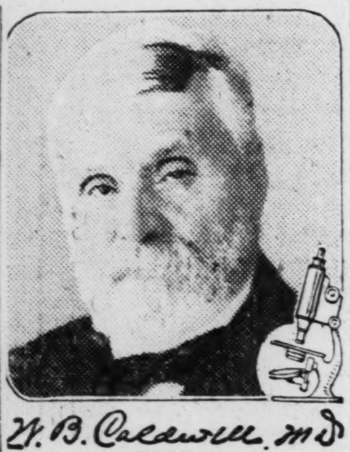
Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth, and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.



W. B. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Acid Scalp

How many carefully coiffured heads can stand the test of eyes only inches away, and reveal not a speck of dandruff? How many women can warm to the dance, and know their hair will have no taint for the partner who holds them close?

No one can be sure who has acid scalp.

If you even suspect this acid condition of the scalp, it is time for Danderine. This scientific preparation will neutralize any acidity; and dissolve all dandruff if there is any. And it always gives the hair itself a lovely softness and sheen. It will wave better, hold a wave longer, and behave better all the time if you just occasionally apply a few drops of Danderine. Try it! Every drugstore has this perfect conditioner of the scalp and hair, and a thirty-five cent bottle lasts for weeks.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everyone uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

STOMACH ULCER PAINS STOPPED OVERNIGHT!

No need to suffer another day with the agonizing pains of stomach ulcers. We positively assure you full relief without resorting to an operation.

If you or any of your friends are suffering the health-destroying ravages of stomach ulcers, or chronic acidosis, write at once for full particulars of the remarkable WOLFE'S ULCER and ACIDOSIS TREATMENT.

This treatment has been successfully used for more than 21 years, many doctors prescribing it regularly. It is now offered to the general public for the first time. It begins at once to give relief from the severe pain, vomiting and other discomforts and agonies, and from day to day the improvement is steady and increasingly rapid. No starvation liquid diet necessary. You can eat anything you wish after taking our treatment a few days.

Now you will be able to eat again as you did when a child. It is possible if you will take WOLFE'S ULCER and ACIDOSIS TREATMENT. The cost is very little and you are guaranteed your money back if it does not help you to your entire satisfaction. Write today for FREE particulars of our 15 day trial offer. "I Find It Far Superior in Quality!"

The perpetual quest for beauty keeps many of the fair sex constantly "shopping around" for a personally satisfactory face powder. Beautiful Marie Hackett, of Brooklyn, New York, has found the exquisitely textured Black and White Face Powder exactly suited to her needs; and she delights in passing on the good news of her discovery:

"Black and White Face Powder is far superior in quality to others I have been using," says Miss Hackett, "and is most satisfactory in its effect on my skin. I am always recommending it to my friends."

You, too, will find real satisfaction when you feel the caressing touch of this dainty, flower-fragrant face powder and see the way it clings for hours, giving to your skin a new and appealing loveliness.

Black and White Beauty Creations are of a quality acceptable to those who seek the best, at prices within the reach of all—25c and 50c

Don't Squeeze Blackheads —Dissolve Them

Squeezing out blackheads makes large, ugly pores. The safe and sane way to get rid of these blemishes is to dissolve them. Get two ounces of Calonite powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and every one, big or little, will disappear at once.

HAVE been asked to write somethin situation in Britain. It is difficult ly engaged as I am in the conflict o udgment on the battle and to give an front. Nevertheless, I will do my tual position as I see it.

In the 1924 election, the Liberal party encountered the worst disaster in the whole course of its career. The character of the next Parliament will depend on the extent to which Liberalism recovers its old strength. Assuming that the next general election does not take place until the spring or maybe the summer of 1929, what is likely to happen then?

One might forecast with approximate accuracy what would be the result of an election at the present moment. The existing Government is decidedly unpopular. It has disappointed every section of its supporters. It is true that governments are born to disappoint. No government can ever live up to the level of the electoral hopes it roused at the polls. There is, in the nature of things, a general and permanent disgruntlement with all governments. There is an inclination to debit every mishap to the government of the day.

Opposition Is Expected.

Governments, always and everywhere, suffer from this universal characteristic, except in countries where elections are "made" by the administration. There, careful arrangements are made to safeguard the government of the day against such human weaknesses as might damage the prospect of a favorable poll.

But to return to the present Government. There are special reasons why, for the moment, it is out of favor with the electorate. What I am going to say is not a partisan arraignment—that would be more comprehensive and trenchant. I shall confine myself to a summary of the criticisms that have appeared in the present year in the most formidable Tory journals in the Kingdom.

In the first place, the anticipations formed of recovery in trade as the result of substituting a Conservative for a Socialist government have been falsified by events. The improvement has tarried. There is even a general feeling that the government has retarded recovery by the way the labor situation has been repeatedly mishandled; by the way the burdens of industry have been added to and, particularly, by the unskillful and precipitate manner in which the vital question of the gold standard was dealt with.

In the second place, the Government has notoriously failed, from an administrative point of view. Out of a multitude of Ministers there are in the public estimation, only two outstanding success. The two Chamberlains alone can claim that they have not disappointed public opinion; one in his handling of foreign affairs, the other in his administration of the Ministry of Health. The Prime Minister has shown a deplorable lack of grip in essentials.

Churchill Injures Trade.

The success of Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill has been rarely in the realm of rhetoric and not of finance. His unfortunate management of the gold standard has had the effect—at least temporarily—of converting a favorable to an adverse trade balance. He promised a reduction of £10,000,000 ($50,000,000) a year in public expenditure. Instead of which, since his advent

Change in Balance of Power In Next British Election Is Forecast by Lloyd George Conservative Majority Will Disappear and Growth of Labor and Revival of Liberal Strength Indicates Coalition—Newly Enfranchised Younger Women May Be Decisive Factor in Voting.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.
War-Time Premier of England.
(Copyright, 1927.)

LONDON, Oct. 22.

I HAVE been asked to write something of my views on the political situation in Britain. It is difficult for anyone who is so actively engaged as I am in the conflict of parties to form an impartial judgment on the battle and to give an unbiased survey of the political front. Nevertheless; I will do my best to give an idea of the actual position as I see it.

In the 1924 election, the Liberal party encountered the worst disaster in the whole course of its career. The character of the next Parliament will depend on the extent to which Liberalism recovers its old strength. Assuming that the next general election does not take place until the spring or maybe the summer of 1929, what is likely to happen then?

One might forecast with approximate accuracy what would be the result of an election at the present moment. The existing Government is decidedly unpopular. It has disappointed every section of its supporters. It is true that governments are born to disappoint. No government can ever live up to the level of the electoral hopes it roused at the polls. There is, in the nature of things, a general and permanent disgruntlement with all governments. There is an inclination to debit every mishap to the government of the day.

Opposition Is Expected.

Governments, always and everywhere, suffer from this universal characteristic, except in countries where elections are "made" by the administration. There, careful arrangements are made to safeguard the government of the day against such human weaknesses as might damage the prospect of a favorable poll.

But to return to the present Government. There are special reasons why, for the moment, it is out of favor with the electorate. What I am going to say is not a partisan arraignment—that would be more comprehensive and trenchant. I shall confine myself to a summary of the criticisms that have appeared in the present year in the most formidable Tory journals in the Kingdom.

In the first place, the anticipations formed of recovery in trade as the result of substituting a Conservative for a Socialist government have been falsified by events. The improvement has tarried. There is even a general feeling that the government has retarded recovery by the way the labor situation has been repeatedly mishandled; by the way the burdens of industry have been added to and, particularly, by the unskillful and precipitate manner in which the vital question of the gold standard was dealt with.

In the second place, the Government has notoriously failed, from an administrative point of view. Out of a multitude of Ministers there are in the public estimation, only two outstanding successes. The two Chamberlains alone can claim that they have not disappointed public opinion; one in his handling of foreign affairs, the other in his administration of the Ministry of Health. The Prime Minister has shown a deplorable lack of grip in essentials.

Churchill Injures Trade.

The success of Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill has been purely in the realm of rhetoric and not of finance. His unfortunate management of the gold standard has had the effect—at least temporarily—of converting a favorable to an adverse trade balance. He promised a reduction of £10,000,000 ($50,000,000) a year in public expenditure. Instead of which, since his advent to office, our expenditure has increased by more than £10,000,000 a year. Our securities are down, compared with 1925.

Although Churchill's brilliant gifts of speech are admired and enjoyed, he inspires no confidence in any quarter. On the contrary, he is a source of weakness to the Government. As for the remainder of the Ministers, they are far below the average quality.

All the recent by-elections indicate a heavy drop in the Conservative polls. Few seats are regarded as safe by the Tory wire-pullers and vacancies which ought to be declared are postponed from month to month in the vain hope the prestige of the Government may recover. A calculation based on the figures of the elections fought in the last 12 months would leave the Government in a definite minority if a general election were taken today. I make no prediction, for the Government has another 18 months in which to recover.

I have seen governments, both here and in the United States of America, hopelessly unpopular in the country at one moment and then, by some stroke of luck or policy, recover with a leap. The position of the Republican party two years after the sweeping victory of President Harding induced confident predictions of a Democratic victory. We all know what happened two years later.

Reviews Present Only.

I am therefore too old an electioneering hand to build castles on the shifting sands of circumstance and popular favor. I am reviewing the present position and not the future prospects.

What about the opposition parties? In spite of the appalling blunders of the general strike, Labor is stronger than it was at the last general election. It may be difficult to explain. It is nevertheless a fact. An appeal to the country now would result in a substantial increase in the Labor poll.

All the same, the events of last year weakened the power and prestige of Labor. There is less enthusiasm for its cause, less confidence in its guidance, its leadership and its destiny than two years ago. The cocksureness has gone—the hat has not the same jaunty angle; there is not the same swagger of "our turn now" which was printed in large letters on the faces of the younger artisans, inebriated by the fumes of proletarian vodka blown in from Russia. In those days, the greetings of the blackcoated were returned with a scowl. Now it is realized the capitalist system cannot be overthrown by a frown, but that it is much more firmly rooted than was ever imagined in the young Socialist dream.

Labor's Hope Weaker.

The ease with which society disposed of the combination of the most powerful unions in Britain was a stunning revelation to old heads and hotheads alike. That lesson has changed the whole attitude of Labor towards the possibilities of an economic struggle. The jauntiness has disappeared. The intolerance of argument which had banished free speech from many industrial areas, that also is vanishing.

Year of Day-by-Day, Experimental Ocean Flights Suggested by Lieut. Maitland to Provide Data for Trans-Atlantic Service

Aviation Is on Border Line Dividing Experimental and Stabilized Development and There Is Much to Learn Before Trans-Oceanic Flying Is an Everyday Affair, He Says.

Lindbergh Succeeded Because He Was Prepared, Says Airman Who Flew to Hawaii—His Preference Is for Multi-Motored Plane as Insurance Against Failure of Engine.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.

SO far as distances covered and spectacular difficulties overcome are concerned, 1927 has been the most brilliant aeronautical year in history. Achievements of the past 10 months have far surpassed the wildest dreams of Langley and the Wright brothers, and young men who were mere babes when the airplane first got off the ground have become world famous for their trans-oceanic flights.

The 1927 trans-oceanic flying season is drawing to a close although a few flyers are waiting in the United States and in Europe for favorable weather to make one or two more long water hops over the Atlantic. These attempts, if successful, will add little to the concrete achievements of the year, which include Col. Lindbergh's nonstop flight from New York to Paris, Commander Byrd's attempt to duplicate the feat with three associates, the Chamberlin-Levine jump to Germany, the De Pinedo four-continent tour, the Hagenberger-Maitland flight to Hawaii, the Schlee-Block round-the-world attempt that ended at Tokio, and the Pan-American goodwill flight earlier in the year, to mention the principal ones.

There has been a reverse side to the picture, however, with the tragic failure of Nungesser and Coli, the Dole tragedies and the Old Glory disaster. With the glorious achievements, there have been courageous failures.

LIEUT. LESTER J. MAITLAND.

Lieut. Maitland's View of Significance of Flights.

When Bleriot was the first to fly across the English channel in 1909, people asked "Has this spectacular achievement any practical value? Is the airplane anything more than a potential military factor? What does this flight signify?"

Similar questions are being asked about the 1927 flights.

Lieut. Lester G. Maitland, who, with Albert F. Hagenberger, made the flight to Hawaii, has given the writer his views as to the significance of the year's achievements. Lieut. Maitland is now stationed in Washington as aid to F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War in charge of aviation.

"This year's successes and failures have proved that aeronautics are just on the borderline dividing experimental and stabilized development," Maitland said. "Our successes have been spectacular, but our failures have demonstrated that there is still much to learn before trans-oceanic flying becomes an everyday affair.

"From one standpoint, with these trans-oceanic flights we have bitten off more than we can chew. Col. Lindbergh's flight seemed so easy that many pilots sought to follow his example. Some did not realize that Lindbergh had had years of the best possible training for his flight and had studied every difficulty he was likely to encounter. When I was in California, I saw some of the charts and studies Lindbergh had made. I was astounded at the comprehensive and detailed way he had attacked the problem.

Successful Flights Made Only After Careful Preparation.

"The successful flights were made after long preparation by experienced pilots and navigators. For years, the Army and Navy have known that the Atlantic could be crossed by airplane. As far back as 1920, Army officers asked to be allowed to make the attempt. Lindbergh, Byrd, Chamberlin Hagenberger and myself all made a serious study of our problems, gave severe tests to our equipment. All of us were interested in the scientific and not the publicity value of the flights.

"We learned that our machines had to have the proper design and the proper equipment. We knew, for instance, that we had to give special attention to the distribution of gasoline. A one-motor plane had to carry 450 gallons of gasoline, weighing 3150 pounds—over a ton and a half. If this weight was improperly distributed at any time during the flight, the plane might get tail-heavy or nose-heavy. A constant check had to be kept during the flight to see that the gasoline weight was properly distributed.

Considers Six-Motor Flying Boat Best Machine for Long Flights.

"Do you consider the one-motor plane practicable for transoceanic flight?" the writer asked.

"Only for experimental flights," Maitland replied. "There is always the possibility that the motor will go dead. I personally favor the flying boat with six motors, and they will eventually come into use for the long flights. Two of the motors could be held in reserve. When a three-motor plane is used, one motor could be shut down after the gasoline load had lightened, and it could be held in reserve.

"Three is the proper number of men to make a transoceanic flight," Maitland continued. "There should be one navigator and two pilots, one of whom could send radio. Navigation is a much more serious problem than the layman realizes. Lindbergh had excellent results with his land inductor compass. It has not worked so well for other flyers. The navigator must understand the problems of drift and be able to make celestial observations. Some of the flights were failures because the navigators could not cope with the situation.

"All the successful flyers give as much praise to the 'turn and bank' indicator as Lindbergh gave to his compass. Flights would be absolutely impossible without this gyroscopic instrument which tells whether one is getting off the course. This instrument also tells whether or not you are still in a tailspin, which is exactly what the sense of equilibrium does not truthfully tell. After a tailspin the senses say you are still twisting when as a matter of fact your are going straight. The turn and bank indicator corrects this.

Working on Device to Permit Safe Landings Even in a Fog.

"We are now working on a landing altimeter, which will be invaluable after it is perfected. With this instrument, which is based on a magnetic and not a barometric principle, the flyer will be able to land in the fog. It will tell him just how far he is from the ground. The present instrument gives within a few feet of the distances, but it will not be perfect until it gives exact distances.

"Fog in itself presents few terrors. An experienced pilot can fly through the fog if necessary, but in most instances he can get above it or around it. It is the landing in fog that is difficult. The altimeter, we hope, will remedy that.

"What about sleet and hail?" Maitland was asked.

"As yet they are unsolved problems," he replied. "At present the only thing to do is to keep out of them. Sleet can change the contour of the wings so much that it is impossible to fly. There has been some talk of greasing the wings, but I haven't heard whether or not that was successful."

"Could the weather reports be improved?"

"Very much, Hagenberger and I were promised good weather for our trip and we had quite a few bad hours from rough weather. For hours we had to go by dead reckoning. We couldn't make celestial observations and the sea was so rough we could do nothing with our smoke bombs.

"There could be more detailed reports from ships at sea, although these would be valuable only for a rather narrow lane. The average ship captain is more concerned about fog than anything else and if it is a clear day he is satisfied with meager observations. Co-ordinated data from ships at sea would be a valuable aid to trans-oceanic flights and detailed reports will be developed as the flights become more frequent.

"From the scientific standpoint, however, as much can be learned from the flight failures as the successes. Some of these failed because of the weather, but mostly because the pilots were inexperienced and improperly equipped.

"Lindbergh's flight seemed so easy that inexperienced daredevils attempted to imitate him. Some were out for prize money, some were out for publicity. With fair weather they had no difficulties, but when the tests came they were unable to meet them. These flyers did not make a serious study of their problems and depended upon their nerve and courage. These flights disclosed that instruments must be invented that will simplify the navigation problems. There are times when celestial observations are impossible, and the flyer must have something more than dead reckoning to guide him. Drift indicators must be improved and above all, there must be better weather reports."

"What do you think should be the next step in aviation development? What should be the next goal?" the writer asked.

Hopes Scientific Experiments Will Displace Mere Stunt Flights.

Instantly, Maitland had his answer. "We must get away from the stunts and publicity," he said. "We must get down to drab, dull, gathering of scientific data. To my mind the best thing that could happen to trans-oceanic flying would be the routine flying of a couple of service 'crooks' between New York and Newfoundland, and return and between Newfoundland and Ireland and back.

"For a year or more, let a couple of experienced aviators fly over this route. They would not seek publicity or prize money but scientific facts. They would make the flights under all sorts of condition. and if the weather became too bad they could stop without any comment. Within a year or so they would have amassed a great fund of valuable data that could be relied upon by other flyers. This will probably be the trans-Atlantic route in years to come and the more we can learn about it the better—and the sooner the better.

"Eventually, when trans-Atlantic service is established, perhaps in five or 10 years, there will have to be airplane changes at these points. When we make a railroad journey of two or three thousand miles we don't expect the same engine to pull us all the way. The engines must be changed at comparatively short intervals. It will probably be the same with airplanes. One plane should not be made to pull the entire trip. There is no particularly good reason why a flight from New York to London should be made in one jump.

"What has this year's achievement demonstrated in a military way?"

"The Army and Navy are interested in aviation primarily from a national defense standpoint," Maitland replied. "The trip to Hawaii demonstrated that if necessary we could help protect the islands from the mainland. After this year's achievement, the bombing of a battleship fleet a thousand miles from land is possible. If necessary, some one could fly to London, Paris or Berlin."

"Will the five-year aviation program, approved by Congress, permit the Army and Navy to make all the developments the authorities have in mind?"

"This year's achievements have been so outstanding, and have made sucha deep impression on the country, that we feel that Congress will give us adequate appropriations," Maitland answered.

Thus another victory must be credited to the trans-oceanic flights.

Battle For and Against Fascism Is in Progress in Every Nation in The World, Mussolini Writes

Declares "We Are in the Presence of a Great Revolution"—Describes March on Rome and His Own Rise to Power.

The dictator of Italy has written the following article on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the revolution which he brought about and continues to carry on.

By BENITO MUSSOLINI.
(Copyright, 1927.)

ROME, Oct. 22.

ADVERSARIES of the Fascists have for a long time attempted to deny the revolutionary character of events which occurred toward the end of October, 1922, bringing the following arguments in support of their claims: First, there was no real resistance and there were no conflicts leading to bloodshed. Second, all the anti-Fascist parties withdrew, leaving the road open because Bolshevist danger had already disappeared when the occupation of the factories under Ciolitti ended in a soap bubble.

In face of these untrue assertions, aimed to diminish the generous bloody effort of the Black Shirts, we must never tire in affirming and riveting the facts which led to the Fascist revolution. It is false that the danger menacing our country, Bolshevist or subversive or by whatever name you choose to call it, had disappeared from the Italian horizon in the year in which the Black Shirts marched on Rome. Contrariwise it is true that the Bolshevist activity was most intense throughout Italy even after the occupation of the factories proved a failure. It is true that the Bolshevists resorted to the general strike with murderous ambushes as a challenge to a general muster of Black Shirts.

Declares Labor Alliance Was Bolshevist Body.

It is true that two years after the occupation of the factories, only three months before the march on Rome, Bolshevism still considered itself strong enough to attempt the formation of a labor alliance in order to seize power. The fundamental character of this labor alliance was anti-Fascist. It had a clear objective, namely to uproot Fascism through a tumultuous movement backed by a political parliamentary maneuver on one hand; through a general strike on the other; by assumption of power by the Socialist leader Filippo Turati. Every indication sufficed to prove that the general strike was meant to develop a supreme attempt at insurrectional movement, barring the way to the onward march of Fascism.

A bloody struggle began April 15, 1918, and reached a culminating point beginning in August, 1922, exactly four years, in which the Nation was practically in a state of general civil war.

With the utter defeat of labor's last general strike in 1922, Fascism wrote one of the bloodiest and most magnificent pages in history, breaking the last efforts of its adversaries and proving to Italians that they were able to replace even Government in order to guarantee the continuity of the nation's life. After the defeat of the Socialists and subversives, there remained two forces in Italian politics, namely the democratic Liberals and the armed Fascists.

Subversive anti-Fascism was crushed at the outset. It can never rise again. It would never dare to manifest itself. Its survivors have become fugitives from justice. All remnants of the red army appear simply non-existent, their men, newspapers and organizations smart under the terrible beating they received in August, 1922. They hardly dare breathe, gazing with a sort of stupefied resignation on an accomplished fact. There is now no such thing as the famous "appeal to the masses." Not a seditious cry is heard, not a gesture seen. Where are they hiding? Fascism will only catch a glimpse of them on the benches of the chamber where old parliamentary names and corridor intrigues are over and done with.

Duel Between Fascism and "Antiquated" Italy.

This third competitor having disappeared the duel between antiquated Italy and Fascism then became acute. Returning to Fascism's insurrection, it is a tale of the martyrdom of youthful Fascist lives. The moment between the success of insurrection and seizure of power was tense. Eleventh hour governmental combines failed. They were simply ruses to gain time. The very soul of the nation seemed in suspense. Insurrection reached its culmination in success. The Government which preceded Fascism tried to use the celebration of the Italian Armistice day as a lure to Italian patriotism in order to defeat the insurrection. But the Government and the old regime were overturned. Their carefully prepared trick to profane the tomb of the Unknown Soldier on Armistice day failed with a celebration by triumphant Fascism which lasted three months and culminated on Oct. 27, 1922.

Our insurrection went straight for its objectives while various columns concentrated in Rome. there was a general occupation all over the country. Armed Fascists took possession of all vital centers of the nation—railways, posts, prefectures, barracks and other public buildings. The proclamation of a state of siege by the old Government came when, had it been possible to succeed, would have involved enormous bloodshed.

Denies That Regular Army Could Have Beaten Fascists

The theory has been advanced that the regular army could easily have overcome the Fascist columns. This is completely unfounded. The leaders of our columns were Generals, many times decorated for their prowess in war, while the great majority of men under them were veterans. These constituted the sinews of the Fascist insurrection army which was not an amorphous crowd, which a few volleys would have sufficed to scatter, but well organized, fully armed legions, led by men of sterling valor ready to give their lives for the cause.

During the fighting from Oct. 28 to Oct. 31 there were a dozen Fascisti killed, more than fell in the taking of the Bastille, a conquest which has been exalted during the last 150 years as one of the greatest insurrectional episodes in history and which did not result in the liberation of political prisoners because there were none at the time in the Bastille but only four common malefactors.

When the insurrection was victorious there was almost an immediate departure of the Black Shirts from Rome. This great military achievement was due to Fascist discipline. There was no aftermath overshadowing the victory, such as pillaging, violence and disorder. That day was pure. The insurrection closed superbly. Having accomplished their duty, the legionnaires returned to the factories and fields from which they came. The insurrectionary period was historically closed, the revolutionary period commenced. The basis and instruments of this revolution were created with the Fascist grand council and Fascist militia. A definite break between the old and new regime has taken place irreparably.

Declares Revolution Is Deep-Rooted and Authentic.

For five years the revolution has been going on. No one further dares doubt that it is a deep-rooted, authentic revolution. There are

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

St. Louis' Gastronomical Depths.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM glad my indignant outburst against St. Louis' wretched restaurants has found some who agree with me and provoked comment. I expected some letters from people who went to a restaurant for a favorite dish but I never thought you would put your head in the noose as you did in your gourmet taking a stroll editorial. A stroll? Good grief, man, by your own showing to get a good meal in St. Louis a man has to go all over the city having a course at a time and his taxi bill alone would cost him more than a week of hotel dinners. I admit, though, it would be money better spent. Those awful hotel dinners! But one good dish does not make a restaurant, and I will acknowledge gratefully a steak I once had at Massa's and I will go all the letter writers on this subject one better by saying I once had a decent cup of coffee at the Coronado Hotel.

When one thinks of the delicacies awaiting one in New Orleans (with which I am but faintly familiar)—the nearness of St. Louis to New Orleans—the delicious cooking and good restaurants there are in so many cities in this country, it makes one sick to realize that not only is St. Louis denied all these advantages but is content to do without them.

Can't we get together and have one place where we can get good food with congenial surroundings, even on a Saturday night?

CANTAB.

A Sesquipedalian's Opinion of Reed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DEMOCRACY'S modern Moses has spoken. He promulgated his psychopoliticogitations in no uncertain platitudinous, bombastic terminology, expostulating for consideration by the humiliated proletariat of this democratic republic, his who's what for the past decade. When I first finished reading his remarkable maledictory, my first impulse was to page Diogenes and send him immediately forth throughout all Sodom to find one honest man.

Some have said of Senator Reed they honor his courage. A great philosopher once said: "Courage, without sense of right, makes rebels of the great and robbers of the poor."

I do not choose to say more.

A VASSAL.

Easy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

F. L. JOHNSON asks why the Zoo sends to foreign countries for monkeys, fish, asses and snakes and other freaks. This is easy. All of the American animals of these species are holding down fat jobs under our present Republican administration. Therefore, it is absolutely necessary to look to foreign countries to replenish our Zoo.

H. R. ROCKWELL.

Section 10,795, Revised Statutes of Missouri, Provides for Such Cases.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THERE is a very unfair law in Missouri that says there must be 15 Negro children in a school district in order to have a school provided for them. So if there are only 10 or 12 Negro children in a district they go without an education. I read an article in the daily paper stating that in McKittrick, Mo., a teacher was receiving $60 a month to teach one white child, the other four or five pupils having moved away. I think that one child was due an education, and I certainly think 10 or 12 Negro children are due an education when the Negro must pay taxes the same as whites. How are crime and ignorance among Negroes to be done away with if they are not educated? It is a very unfair law and the State has a right to give these hundreds of illiterate Negro children throughout the small towns and rural districts a chance.

E. H. BOYD.

Where People Wear but Do Not Rust.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I NOTICE from the latest report on cancer that there is an alarming increase of cases today. Allow me to state that in my 35 years of practice in Montana I found not more than a dozen cases among my patients. I have worked on the theory that the brisk circulation of the blood of people living in that altitude and the prevalence of radium in the drinking water has something to do with the good health of the people who live in that part of the country. The prevalence of ores in the ground in Montana may account to a degree for the radium in the water out there. There are many hot springs in the State where the percentage of radium is very high. At Hunter's and Chico Hot Springs especially is this true.

Nose and throat trouble, sclerosis and tuberculosis are also comparatively rare in those regions. The people there wear out rather than rust out. They frequent their hot spring resorts winter and summer, which helps to keep them physically fit the year round. I pass my findings on to younger doctors, hoping there may be something in them to benefit humanity. Living is cheap enough in those parts to make it possible for any young doctor to go out for a time and study conditions there for himself.

RETIRED.

CRITICISM OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Lord Robert Cecil, who resigned from the British Cabinet on account of his opposition to the disarmament policy of the Government, has taken the stump in England to plead for disarmament. Lord Robert asserts that there can be no assurance of peace without disarmament.

Just as Lord Robert took the platform for his disarmament campaign, Henry Wickham Steed, owner and editor of the London Review of Reviews, former editor of the London Times, in a speech in New York, assures Americans that Great Britain will never enter into competitive naval building against America. While Mr. Steed charges the British ministry with the failure of the three-power naval conference, he assumes to speak for the British people, who, he says, would not tolerate a policy of naval rivalry with the United States. He repeats in other words the common saying of British leaders that war with the United States is unthinkable.

That was the burden of the British song to the American editors on their visit to London. Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Minister, used the better part of an hour to explain the British position and to convince his hearers that Great Britain had no idea of a naval competition or war with America in its demand for a large number of light cruisers. He stated that England was willing to limit 10,000-ton fighting cruisers, but wanted a larger number of light craft, not for war but to police the lanes of British trade and to serve the far flung empire of Great Britain. He said these light cruisers would not be able in war to withstand the larger fighting craft, which could destroy them. That is true, if the large fighting craft could find them when they wanted to destroy them. So that his explanation is not entirely satisfactory. An excess of light cruisers would give England the balance of naval power.

The British Government's position on the limitation of naval armament has been battered from all sides. That and the refusal of Great Britain to sign the protocol of the League covenant, undertaking to defend any nation which was the victim of aggression by another nation, were the chief subjects of debate at the session of the League of Nations at Geneva this year. At the annual dinner of the newspaper correspondents at Vienna, Briand broke lose with an impassioned plea to the press of the world for disarmament and peace. While Briand mentioned no names, his speech was taken as directed at Great Britain. Stresemann followed with diplomatic support of Briand. Germany, being disarmed, is of course, in favor of general disarmament. Sir Austen Chamberlain felt impelled to answer for Great Britain, with a rather lame explanation. Subsequently the debate was resumed in the League Assembly, where Sir Austen made a labored defense of Great Britain.

In the Assembly, Holland with the support of the small neutral nations of Europe revived the question of the protocol. They argued that there could not be genuine disarmament until the nations had been assured of security from aggression, and the signing of the protocol would give that security.

Great Britain blocks progress in that matter by refusing to sign the protocol. She has not done it, and there is no sign of any intention to do it. Apparently she is unwilling to agree to use her army and navy to protect any nation in any part of the world that is the subject of aggression. Probably the British Government leaders think that Britain has enough on her hands and do not feel like obligating her to maintain peace everywhere with armed forces, when peace is insecure in many spots.

Great Britain occupies an unenviable prominence on the question of peace securities. To the criticism the Government has had from the outside is now added criticism and opposition from the inside, led by one of the recent members of the Cabinet.

Great Britain sincerely wants peace and friendship with America. She wants the friendly support of America, but she wants freedom to carry out her own purposes and aims. The result is that her public men are kept busy explaining and reconciling this peaceful intent with the British position, and assuring America that war with us is unthinkable and that it is far from Britain's intentions in anything she does. How long can this critical position be maintained?

MIND AND MATTER.

After philosophy had tried and failed for some 2500 years to tell us just how mind differed from matter, science has come along and performed the feat in an hour.

Speaking recently before the American College of Surgeons, Dr. Allan Craig declared that the actual value of a human body is 98 cents. Chemically, he explained, a 150-pound man contains lime enough to whitewash a fair-sized chicken coup, sugar enough to fill a small shaker, and iron enough to make a tenpenny nail, plus water. The total value of these materials is 98 cents, or approximately 60 cents a hundredweight on the hoof.

So a man is actually worth only 98 cents—as matter. Shakspeare, Goethe, Napoleon, and Darwin were each worth only 98 cents, chemically speaking. But here mind comes in to upset the careful calculations of the laboratory. Before science can put an accurate valuation upon homo sapiens, it will have to find some way of measuring mind. And this, we fear, will require more subtle means than test tubes, scales and forceps.

BISHOP BARNES AND OTHERS.

In a sermon at Westminster Abbey, Bishop William Barnes of Birmingham laid the basis for conciliation of religion with the modern developments of science. He echoed in large degree the recent remarks of Bishop Gore, another leading English clergyman. These two are supported by the celebrated Dean Inge of St. Paul's, by Dr. A. E. Garvie, moderator of the free churches of England, and by many other clergymen.

There are no such monkeyshines in England on the subject of evolution as we are witnessing in this country. England has no Tennessee, which amazed the world by forbidding the teaching of evolution in its schools and actually tried a man at Dayton for violating this imbecile law. It has no Mississippi, where the statute books likewise ignore the intellectual revolution that accompanied the publication of Darwin's "Origin of Species" nearly seventy years ago.

Still, in England there is reluctance on the part of religion to face the facts frankly. As one British clergyman said, in commenting on the Bishop of Birmingham's speech, "The truth is that the greater number of intelligent ministers have long been of that opinion, and Dr. Barnes is to be commended for denouncing the timid and obscurantist attitude which fails to take its congregations into the fullest confidence."

We should like to see Bishop Barnes' speech broadcast throughout this country. There is nothing in it to shock the truly religious man; indeed, by discarding the story of Genesis and accepting the belief that man, instead of a being who has fallen from an ideal state of perfect innocence, is a being who laboriously for a million years has risen toward spiritual understanding, Bishop Barnes has a creed infinitely more mysterious, more satisfying and even more truly spiritual to the intelligent man.

RUSZNAK'S CONVICTION.

Despite the fact that he was defended by Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and Ernest Green, president of the Missouri Bar Association, Louis Rusznak was given the maximum punishment, one year in jail and a $100 fine, on a charge of taking $5 to fix a Police Court case. The defense collapsed when its own witness, Charles Goldberg, who said Rusznak and Sam Arky, Rusznak's partner, had offered to pay his expenses if Goldberg would substantiate Rusznak's alibi, flatly denied it.

This case is of more interest than appears on the surface. For the first time a professional bondsman put on trial for grafting in St. Louis has been convicted over what the brilliant and distinguished defense counsel referred to as a measly $5 bill. This bill was accepted by Rusznak as a fixing fee in a traffic case. For the first time a rift has been made in the seeming immunity of professional bondsmen from punishment for their acts.

It is true Sam Arky, close friend of Judge Ittner and notorious courtroom character, has been barred from every court in the city as a result of his foul practices, and finally has been barred from signing bonds at police stations. It is true the Judges, heeding the numerous disclosures of irregularities and trickery on the part of professional bondsmen, have taken steps to purify the bonding business.

But there is a difference between restrictions on activity and jail sentences. Rusznak's fate we believe will be more effective in curbing professional bondsmen than any other single happening hereabouts. These wily gentry don't like jail.

MAINE STICKS TO THE PRIMARY.

A special election was held in Maine the past week on the question of repealing or retaining the direct primary. By a vote of almost two-to-one the primary was retained. The poll was: For repeal, 19,586. Against repeal, 35,357.

The efficiency of the primary system, as is well known, is now under general suspicion. Some of the objections cited in other states do not, however, obtain in Maine—at least not in the same degree. For example, the enormous expense imposed on candidates which excludes men of modest means from contesting for state offices unless financed by friendly interests. In Maine, with its small population—its electorate being about 200,000—that embargo does not exist. Indeed, the grievance of the proponents of repeal in Maine seemed to be that the primary was meaningless, that it entailed a superfluous election.

The objections to the primary system in the industrial states of large population are not merely negative; they are positive. In actual operation the primary has gravely failed. Theoretically it vests nominating power in the party rank and file. Actually it does not, for the undeniable reason that the rank and file do not exercise their power. They just don't vote.

That rule is in effect in Maine. It was flagrantly demonstrated in this latest election. Of the 200,000 qualified electors only 54,943 voted. Slightly more than 25 per cent. Against that reality the rhetoric, casuistry and perorations of our Utopians beat in vain.

The primary system in the abstract is a thing of beauty. As an electoral mechanism it is a flop. It is not adaptable to our political genius.

It seems incredible, though, that the primary system, as it now functions, will survive indefinitely. The Post-Dispatch believes that the primary is adaptable to local elections, such as municipal, county and congressional, but impracticable in the area of a state. Public opinion, we think, will ultimately reach that conclusion. When it does the primary will be restricted to its proper sphere and a delegate convention plan, securely safeguarded against the domination of special interests and the manipulations of bosses, will be devised for the nomination of candidates for state offices.

ONE BIG ISSUE.

Whatever may be alleged against Missouri politics, no one can hold that it has not developed one big issue, nor that this issue is not getting bigger as the next campaign gets nearer.

The issue is reorganization of our State government in the interest of efficiency and economy, and that it is getting bigger daily is proved by the fact that the three persons who have so far entered the race for Governor have made it their chief concern. Not long ago William R. Schneider, Republican of St. Louis, and State Senator McCawley, did so, and now Francis M. Wilson, Democrat of Platte County, has followed suit. Listen to the latter's counsel:

> I do not concede that it is the obligation of the people of this State to conduct a hospital for political parasites.
> I believe that useless and overlapping boards and bureaus should be swept from place. That issue is the paramount one before the people.

Yes, listen. And also rejoice. If every candidate for the governorship declares in favor of reorganization, the battle will be half won. It would have been half won at the last legislative session had Gov. Baker come out for the plan of the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures. But the job holders who draw their meal tickets from those 123 unco-ordinated boards, bureaus and commissions found a willing ally in the Governor, and so made their jobs secure.

When the electorate discovered how its interests had been disregarded, they set up a roar which is apparently of sufficient importance to make all gubernatorial aspirants into apostles of efficiency and economy. Therefore, we have a big issue, which is getting bigger.

WHERE THE KLAN IS MEETING IN ALABAMA.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

BIG BUSINESS IN AGRICULTURE.

From the Chicago Post.

A TELEGRAM from Topeka tells of the filing of articles of incorporation by six farmers who own about 5000 acres that are to be cultivated as a corporation enterprise. That is said to be the first company of the kind to be organized in Kansas. The success it attains will be watched with interest in all states. Farming as a big business enterprise is carried on in other States, particularly in the Northwest, with all the economies and efficiency that are characteristic of railway or other corporate management. There is in Montana, for example, a farming concern that cultivates thousands of acres in single fields and is making a success of the undertaking.

The need for co-operation among farmers is generally recognized. A means of pooling issues on marketing is conceded to be essential to the stabilization of price conditions. Co-operation in many guises has been undertaken in various parts of the country. Some of the attempts have been successful and others have not been so satisfactory. Statesmen of Washington have been studying the situation with a view to devising some legislation that will tend to insure more efficient handling of the crops. While it may be possible to accomplish much by legislative action, the real solution of agricultural problems is in the hands of the farmers.

The Kansas farmers will carry co-operation to the limit. Combining on marketing methods is only a part of battle. It is important that the tiller of the soil should get as much as possible for what he raises, but it is also important that he should be able to produce his crop at the minimum of cost. A dollar saved in raising the crop is worth just as much as a dollar gained in marketing operations.

A 6-ACRE MAP FOR SCHOOL.

From the American Magazine.

MAKING a 6-acre map of the United States in an unfertile field is the expedient adopted by Willas A. Sutton in an Alabama mountain school when he found no books available from which to teach his pupils geography. As a result his pupils learned more about that branch of study than any others he has had since have learned from the most complete school equipment.

Mr. Sutton is now head of the Atlanta, Ga., schools, in which there are enrolled more than 60,000 pupils. His resourcefulness was demonstrated when he was obliged to give up preaching because of an affected voice and took charge of a school in Clay County, Alabama, where but few of the children of the hills had ever had educational advantages.

Having no maps nor globes he took his boys to an untilled 6-acre field, dug a channel for the mighty rivers and built ranges of mountains to scale with rocks. When the "United States" was completed, every pupil who had had a hand in making it was delighted. "I'll bet you could never lose me in that country," said one boy proudly.

Applying the same methods, botany was studied from the wild flowers and from the forests, while the boys learned something of geology from the rocks and minerals. So ingenious was the plan that Mr. Sutton ultimately became head of the Atlanta schools. One of his successful plans now is to have all business and professional men and industrialists co-operate closely with the schools, throwing open courts, factories, doctors' offices and other places to the students so that they may make intelligent choices of professions before they have completed their courses.

OUR VICARIOUS AMUSEMENTS.

From the Boston Independent.

EMINENT statisticians advise us that the greatest business in the world today is the amusement business. It takes many forms from movies to prize fights or horse races or dancing—but a great deal more money is busy amusing people than is engaged in any serious industry. There is something about this fact at once absurd and pathetic.

We no longer amuse ourselves; we have to be amused by professionals. We pay $40 to see dimly two young men, a city block away, push each other around the ring. We give Mr. Tunney $1,000,000 for a possible 30 minutes' exercise and we pay a college professor—who, however, fails to amuse us—$3000 a year. We are not moved by those facts to rail at the degeneracy of the times, but we confess that our respect for human intellect, judgment and sense of values is rather shaken by the momentous affair at Soldiers Field in Chicago.

A LARGE CHEESE FAMILY.

From the New Age.

THERE are 18 distinct varieties of cheese and more than 400 names applied to these varieties—usually the names are adapted from the places in which the cheese originated—Limburger, Neufchatel Roquefort, Camembert, etc. The milk of many different animals is used in cheese-making in various parts of the world. Cow's milk is by no means the only source. Goats and sheep give their milk for cheese.

HORRIBLE THOUGHT.

From The New Yorker.

THE rumor is that, despite the President's withdrawal, C. Bascom Slemp, dealer in Southern delegates of assorted shades, is still cheerfully at work in his chosen field. The horrible thought strikes us that he may be collecting them for his own use.

ONE THING SETTLED.

From the Toledo Blade.

SOME think President Coolidge can be drafted for another term, but nobody doubts that Mr. McAdoo is definitely out of the race.

AND IN VAIN.

From the Detroit News.

They always love each other is the

The suit, if songs may be believed,

If they'd but choose a proper theme gladly I'd concur,
For she persists in loving him, while I
alas, love her.

Lloyd George Forecasts British Political Change

mph over the master class has e completely. There is a ater readiness to consider the methods of resuming the dy march of progress which effected such an improvement the conditions of labor since beginning of the nineteenth tury.

The temperature of Socialist herings is very considerably red. The burning fervor is no ger there. The crusade may ve passed the fanatical stage. er the Hermit has handed conl over to experienced warriors. at the movement has lost in or it has gained in sanity. The kpool and Edinburgh conferes showed the moderate lead- in full command. There was fatal exception.

amsay Macdonald surrendered the pressure of the extremists the question of nationalization mines. If he really intends to e effect to his pledge that naalization of mines should be first concern of a Labor Govment, then he must wait until bor obtains an independent maity, for the Liberal party would any proposals of that kind. eral and Labor co-operation uld become impracticable if amsay Macdonald persisted in his cipitate and ill-considered unking.

Trend Toward Moderation.

The levy of a surtax on unearned comes over £500 also was a cession to the left wing. But e whole trend of opinion in these o Labor conferences was toward deration of counsel. Some time o, graduality took the place of ialism in our time. Now pracality has supplanted graduality. bor is beginning to realize that e world cannot be reconstructed phrases and that for the buildg of "the city of God upon a l" you must have plans and ecifications; you must excavate; u must forge and shape your marial; then carry it there load by ad and then build it up brick by brick.

There are two reasons for this ange of mind in Labor. One is e wreck caused by extreme meases in 1926. The great union ds were scattered to the winds. e membership has decreased bstantially. The second is the vival of Liberalism.

This brings me to the third party—the Liberals. Liberalism sed through its darkest days. if the crushing defeat of 1924 re not enough, there was, on of it, the renewal in their test form, of the feuds in the rty. The party was for a time ralyzed by the dissensions. That survived at all is proof of how ep-rooted is the need for a rty with long tradition of prog- along well-considered and utious lines.

Liberals Purged in 1926.

The rupture of May, 1926, proved be a mercy—well disguised but e the less valid—to the tornted party. The suppressed asles broke out and for a mont the life of the patient was in jeopardy. But in the end, it cleansed the blood of the toxins that were poisoning the vitality of the party. The organization has been purged of the malignity and fractiousness which cursed its activities and, the heart having thus been restored to its normal condition, the whole body has been vivified. There is new sprightliness in the movements of the party.

In the country the party is going as strong as ever. Attendance and enthusiasm at its meetings indicate a new spirit. "Nothing like it since 1906 has now become the commonplace of all reports. The result is recorded in all the by-elections since the old regime was swept away and the new order has been established. Three victories—one narrow escape for the enemy—and increased polls everywhere are a welcome change from the depression that followed the route of 1924. These are unaccountable except on the assumption of a genuine revival at last.

The old sneers at the party are now seldom repeated. You never see the taunt which figured in Conservative and Socialist speeches and articles about the Liberal party being a thing of the past.

Predicts Liberal Gain.

It is now generally acknowledged that the Liberal party in all probability will be the determining factor at and after the next general election. A million and a quarter Liberal votes that were distributed between Tory and Socialist at the last election certainly will be recaptured. The nonparty vote, which is large and which, to the extent of at least 1,500,000, went to the Tory party at the last election will, at the next election, either abstain or vote Liberal.

A new element of uncertainty in the electorate will be introduced next year. Women over 30 now possess the vote. The Government is pledged to extend the franchise to all women between the ages of 21 and 30. That may add another 5,000,000 to the register. Ho will the "flapper" vote? Who knows? These incalculable young ladies may upset all forecasts. They are important and may prove to be the decisive factor in the situation.

"If I were asked to venture a prediction, I should have to promise I could do so only on the basis of present conditions. Unforeseen circumstances may arise which will alter the whole prospects of one or other of the parties. The Government may have an unexpected accession of luck which will restore its fortunes. On the other hand, it may pile disappointment on disappointment to such an extent that the Tory debacle of 1906 may be repeated.

A Deadlock His Forecast.

But on the assumption that things develop along present lines, I forecast a deadlock at the next election. The Conservatives will lose heavily and their majority will disappear. Labor will increase its numbers.

Liberalism, having now a membership which is below what it is entitled to on the basis of the votes it obtained at the polls, probably will obtain a fairer representation next time. As it will also inevitably add some millions to its poll, the party, in the next Parliament, will be a formidable group.

It is probable no party will obtain a majority independent of all other parties. A new situation thus will arise which will call for a greater display of wisdom, tolerance and statesmanship than was exhibited under similar conditions in 1924.

Fascism Issue In All Nations, Says Mussolini

changes in men and the transformation of institutions. The radical change of spirit, the moral temper of the people work out laws. The fact is that all antiquated parties, without a single exception, from liberalism to anarchy, were anti-Fascist, and constituted a counter revolution. This in itself is proof of the formidable innovation which the Fascisti introduced into Italian life. That we are in the presence of a really great revolution is further shown by the fact that the Vendeans of anti-fascism, the Bourbons of anti-fascism, the emigres of anti-fascism, all unanimously agree, as manifested in their literature, in recognizing the impossibility of a return to the old regime which fascism definitely laid in the grave. In the opinion of its enemies, therefore, fascism has accomplished something definite in the history of the world.

Sees Fascism All Over World.

That we are in the presence of a great revolution is again proved by the fact that in every country of the world a battle is being waged for or against fascism, that tendencies having strong resemblance to fascism are making their appearance in many lands and that bolshevism regards fascism as its most redoubtable enemy.

So much interest would not be aroused if Fascism were purely an ephemeral phenomenon without any future. That it is an authentic revolution is demonstrated by the fact that it has tackled the problem of the modern state as its natural function. In the creation, a new state which is authoritarian, hierarchical and organic lies the great revolutionary originality of Fascism, carrying a lesson perhaps for the whole modern world, which oscillates between the authority of state and that of the individual—between state and anti-state.

Fascism's Task Not Finished.

Like all other revolutions, the Fascist revolution has had a dramatic development, but this in itself would not suffice to distinguish it. A reign of terror is not revolution; it is only a necessary instrument in a certain determined phase of revolutions.

At a distance of five years, no Fascist entertains the delusion that his task is finished or about to end. We must say to ourselves and to each other that we shall never have a year of rest. Nineteen hundred twenty-eight, our sixth year, will not be less full of problems and difficulties than the fifth year, but it is as well that it should be so, for it keeps us awake and sharpens all our faculties. I am convinced that so long as we are not allowed to linger by the wayside we shall accept this necessity as a reward for our labors.

Don't Be Fat

Thousands Astounded by This Wonderful Easy Treatment Which Often Takes Off Fat As Rapidly As a Pound a Day

No Tedious Exercise or Diet by This Remarkable Method

Try It FREE

Many a community throughout the United States has been oddly puzzled to see one or more of its members quickly reduce from a state of awkward obesity to normal weight with a trim, youthful figure. In many cases, a change has come so rapidly, yet without any apparent reason, that the result has been the subject of common gossip. What have these men and women done? How did they accomplish this miracle and still manage to keep themselves in robust health?

The answer is given here. If you are overweight and if you seem unable to remedy the condition, do what these thousands of others have done. You will be amazed and delighted with the results.

From time to time numerous ridiculously strenuous exercises have been suggested as a means of reducing fat. Starvation diets have also had their brief day of popularity. But these methods were naturally doomed to failure for the reason that only the most determined will-power can withstand the hardships and deprivations they impose. Now, however, comes this sane, sensible treatment which adheres to all modern, scientific methods and yet accomplishes the most amazing results without either diet or exercise.

"Imagine! I took off over 60 lbs. without diet or exercise."

F. J. Kellogg's Rational Treatment for Obesity was formulated so that fat people could get rid of the useless tissue without either losing time from their leisure or going against a single inclination they might have toward food.

Through this remarkable method, excess fat is absorbed and eliminated by natural processes. And in so doing the skin, which has necessarily been stretched to cover the excess fat on face and body, does not shrink and shrivel, leaving wrinkles and unbecoming lines. It merely recedes naturally, so that to outward appearances the loss of 50 or even 100 pounds in very obese persons is apparent only in trimmer lines and more youthful appearance.

"I reduced to my normal weight—am feeling fine."

Those who have tried the F. J. Kellogg Rational Treatment report their muscles splendidly firm, their health excellent and a feeling of freedom and well-being which they little dreamed was possible—especially by such a pleasant, convenient method.

No one—man or woman—need hesitate to use the F. J. Kellogg Treatment if their aim is to reduce. No tedious exercising with its resultant discomfort—no denying yourself the foods you crave and enjoy. Because of the surprising results obtained, and the fact that reduction of weight is in most cases permanent, this sane, simple treatment is fast supplanting all rigorous and unpleasant methods.

O-O-OH! A POUND OFF EACH DAY, WONDERFUL

But do not take our word for it. Send for your free trial package, mailed in plain sealed wrapper. We want every fat person to test the F. J. Kellogg Treatment. That's what this coupon is for. Use it—Now!

BUSINESS ZONE ON LINDELL EAST OF BOYLE VETOED

Move to Open Boulevard to Commercial Houses Unconstitutional, Say City Planners.

AGREE TO WIDEN VANDEVENTER AV.

Fifty-Six-Foot Roadway From Lucky Street to Alley South of Kennerly Is Approved.

The zoning ordinance was designed to raise, and not lower, the standards of the various districts, the City Plan Commission pointed out yesterday in a statement, declaring that the movement to create a special commercial district on Lindell boulevard, east of Boyle avenue, was unconstitutional.

"The City Plan Commission of St. Louis, having been instrumental in securing the passage of the zoning ordinance and its validation by a test of the law in the Supreme Court of Missouri," the Commission announced, "is unalterably opposed to the movement now under way to change the classification of Lindell boulevard.

"The Commission desires to point out that the creation of a special district, as advocated by the sponsors of the movement, is clearly unconstitutional on the ground that it creates a special classification for a particular district, not in conformity with the city-wide basis contemplated by the ordanince.

To Raise, Not Lower, Standard.

"The Commission further desires to point out that zoning legislation is undertaken for the purpose, not of lowering the average character of a district to the minimum, but of bringing the minimum up to the average.

"It is considered that the destruction of property by the recent tornado offers an excellent opportunity for a fuller realization of the character of the district specified by the ordinance, rather than a retrogression to a lower standard."

Members of the commission have pointed out that playgrounds were woefully inadequate to congested sections of the storm area, and that the lack might economically be remedied now, in case where property has been damaged beyond repair and the city would be at expense for the site only.

They voted to recommend acquisition, by condemnation or purchase, of 295 feet on North Market street by 255 feet running back to Garfield avenue, adjoining the Baden School, Spring avenue and North Market; 100 feet on Evans avenue, with a 153-foot depth, adjoining the present 160x153-foot playground of Riddick School, Whittier and Evans avenue; and 722 by 285 feet on West Belle place near Sarah street, near a portable school for Negroes.

To Widen Vandeventer Avenue.

Widening of Vandeventer avenue from 60 to 80 feet, with a 56-foot roadway, from Lucky street to an alley south of Kennerly avenue, was decided upon for another recommendation. Vandeventer already is a 75-foot street south of Lucky. Plans call for an 80-foot street from Fairgrounds Park on the north to Shaw's Garden on the south. Vandeventer now is being made that width between Market street and Washington boulevard.

Babson Men to Hold Conference.

A discussion of business practices and conditions will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at Hotel Statler by officers of the Babson Statistical Organization of Babson Park, Mass. Ralph B. Wilson, vice president of the organization, will speak on "The Business Outlook;" Herbert N. McGill, mercantile expert, will discuss commodities and sales, and Gordon W. Herdman of the financial department, will cover the investment field.

URGES OVERLAND TO INCORPORATE

Attorney Says Nuisances Moving There Create Intolerable Conditions.

The Overland district, because of its lack of municipal control has become the dumping ground of St. Louis County, Orla M. Hill, attorney and leader in an incorporation movement for the district, declared today in a public statement.

"All the nuisances rejected by municipally controlled localities have moved to Overland," he said, "and many good citizens have located elsewhere in preference. Increasing population multiplies the nuisances, hazards, filth and other intolerable conditions.

"The population includes a number of people who are honestly and unselfishly opposed to municipal control. That class constitutes a small minority. The major portion of objectors will be found among those whose business or private practices are repugnant to good citizenship and therefore could not exist under business and social discipline for the benefit of the community."

The Wellston Kennel Club is one of the enterprises upon which the backers of the incorporation project hope to make a legal drive. In his statement Hill declared that the district for which incorporation is proposed has 12,000 inhabitants and $7,000,000 in taxable property. Hill declared himself prepared to answer publicly any of the arguments proposed against incorporation.

FRONT DRIVE CARS SEEN AS POSSIBILITY

Some Engineers Expect This Change in Design of American Autos.

By William Ullman.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—After being pushed through the rear wheels for more than 30 years, the automobile is about to undergo a metamorphosis which will leave it being pulled by the front pair, in the opinion of some automotive engineers who foresee front-wheel drive as the next radical change in automobile design.

A subject of engineering study for years, and talked about and tested in a few cases, front-wheel drive now seems about to become an actuality because the motor car designer is in a dilemma. He wants to build a less expensive car, a more efficient car, one that is more safe, comfortable and graceful. He cannot do it with rear-wheel drive beyond certain limits, so he is looking to the possibilities offered by turning the engine around in its frame and using its power through the front wheels.

Used on Racers.

Front-drive has not yet been tried in the United States save in racing cars. Europe has seen it adopted with success in several notable instances—by Voran and Rumpler in Germany, Italia in Italy, and Parville in France.

In principle, front-drive is essentially sound. Every type of vehicle, except the automobile, is pulled instead of pushed. Animals always draw the conveyances of the implements for which they provide power. Locomotives perform their tasks in front of the cars they pull. Airplanes, universally, are pullers; whereas, in the early types, planes were pushers.

The potentialities of front drive in these vital respects have been indicated in racing cars embodying this principle. Again the speedway has served as a proving ground.

First among the advantages indicated in this manner is that front-drive will be less wasteful of engine power, making possible the use of smaller motors. Smaller motors cost less to build because they require less iron and steel. They use less gasoline and oil, which means that operation costs are reduced as well as construction costs.

Less Wasteful.

Front-wheel drive will be less wasteful of power because it will be a close-coupled mechanism using the engine's output at its source. The transmission, a very short propeller shaft, and the differential will be a few inches apart instead of being stretched out the whole length of the car as now. Where power travels so short a distance it has less chance to get lost. At present, transmission and differential are from three to six feet apart. Six or seven inches will suffice in front-wheel drive, according to engineering authorities.

A small engine and a six or seven-inch propeller shaft will mean the elimination of a great deal of excess weight. Tire wear will be correspondingly less.

Just how much smaller the engine will be when front-wheel drive comes into its own is a matter of speculation. Some idea may be gathered from the fact that the little straight-eight 91½-cubic-inch motors used in racing cars embodying this type of drive have been highly successful. The bore of such engines is only 2 11-16 inches, and certainly their performance, allowing for different conditions, compares most favorably with that of passenger car motors of much larger cylinder six and larger stroke.

Greater Comfort.

Greater comfort, every motorist knows, is one of the goals toward which the car designer constantly directs his energies. Front-wheel drive is declared to hold especially bright promise in this respect. Comfort definitely is involved in the ratio of sprung to unsprung weight in a motor car and present design gives unsprung weight an uncomfortably larger margin than is desirable. For instance, the present rear axles carries the heavy differential gears, the axle shafts, the propeller shaft and the brake mechanism as well as the wheels and tires, all unsprung weight. If driving the car were to be made the function of the front axle, the rear axle would carry as unsprung weight only the wheels, tires and brakes.

Safety Features.

Safety is one of the most appealing features of front drive, and that it permits a lower body, of course, is a factor in this safety. Such a step means a lower center of gravity and a reduced center of mass, which would give the car an ability to hang to the road and would represent an amazing improvement over even what already has been done in this respect.

Front drive automatically knocks out one of the worst foes of the motorist—the skid. It is inherently free from this tendency. In addition, it permits the employment of the transmission brake in its fullest expression, thereby assuring an equalization of braking force that is absolute at all times.

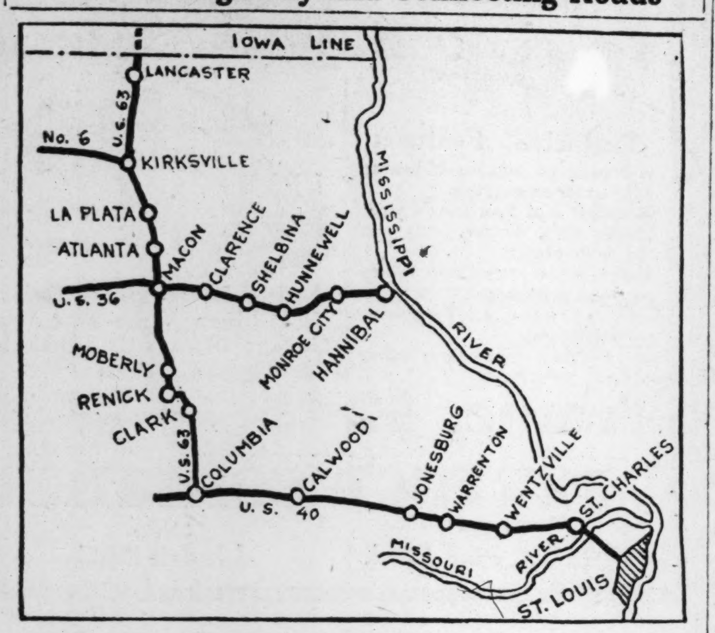
U. S. 63 Highway and Connecting Roads



FIRST ALL-WEATHER ROUTE TO IOWA OPEN

U. S. 63, Running North From Columbia, Also Opens New All-Year Route to Hannibal.

With the opening of the eight miles of paving between Clark and Renick on U. S. 63, the last detour on this highway has been eleminated and there is now for the first time an all-weather hard-surfaced route from Missouri into Iowa.

This newest routing eliminates the necessity of tourists bound, for instance, for Des Moines traveling via Illinois highways, and shortens the distance from St. Louis to the Iowa city by approximately 90 miles.

New Hannibal Route.

The hard-surfacing of U. S. 63 also opens a new all-weather route for motorists of western Missouri bound for Hannibal and Quincy via U. S. 36—the Ocean to Ocean Highway. Likewise, by late spring, 1928, it will be the feeder highway of a new hard-surfaced shortline to St. Joseph and Omaha—following the route of U. S. 36 through Chillicothe—and northeast Missouri motorists will next year use it to make connections with U. S. 24—between Moberly and Kansas City—on which hard-surfacing has already begun.

The eventual opening of all these new hard-surfaced roads will relieve traffic congestion on U. S. 40—the St. Louis-Kansas City air-line route — which now handles not only Kansas City traffic, but traffic bound for St. Joseph, Omaha and all western points.

U. S. 63 runs from south to north across entire Missouri, but its greatest value to motorists is north of Columbia—its junction with concrete U. S. 40.

The road from Columbia north was carefully logged several days ago. It is exactly 120 miles from Columbia to the Iowa line, five miles north of Lancaster, Mo. The distance from Columbia to Moberly the junction of U. S. 63 and U. S. 24, is 34 miles, to Macon—the junction of U. S. 63 and U. S 36—60 miles, to Kirksville—the junction of U. S. 63 and State No. 6—99 miles.

118 Miles to Des Moines.

Beyond Lancaster, U. S. 63 runs virtually due north to Ottumwa, Ia., and thence northwest to Des Moines. The distance between Lancaster and Des Moines is 118 miles. From the Iowa-Missouri border, U. S. 63 is hard-surfaced to seven miles beyond Ottumwa. Between this point and Oskaloosa there is 21 miles of earth road. There is also seven miles of earth between Oskaloosa and Pella. The rest of the highway is entirely hard-surfaced.

CAR RUNS 113 M. P. H. FOR FULL 24 HOURS

French 8-Cylinder Voisin Covers Total of 2724 Miles in Single Day.

A new 24-hour world's automobile speed record has just been made on the Montlhery track, in France, by an eight-cylinder sleeve valve Voisin car, which ran 2724 miles in that time, averaging 113.4 miles per hour.

Thus the Voisin beat by an average of six miles per hour the best previous 24-hour record, which, was made by a Renault six-cylinder car.

Both these records are far ahead of any 24-hour record made in this country. In fact, the Voisin ran faster by 42 M. P. H. than the car that made the U. S. record. It should be noted, as a matter of fairness, that both French cars carried special, stream-lined bodies and were tuned specially for speed, whereas the best American record for the 24 hours was made by a car that the A A A Contest Board certified as a stock model.

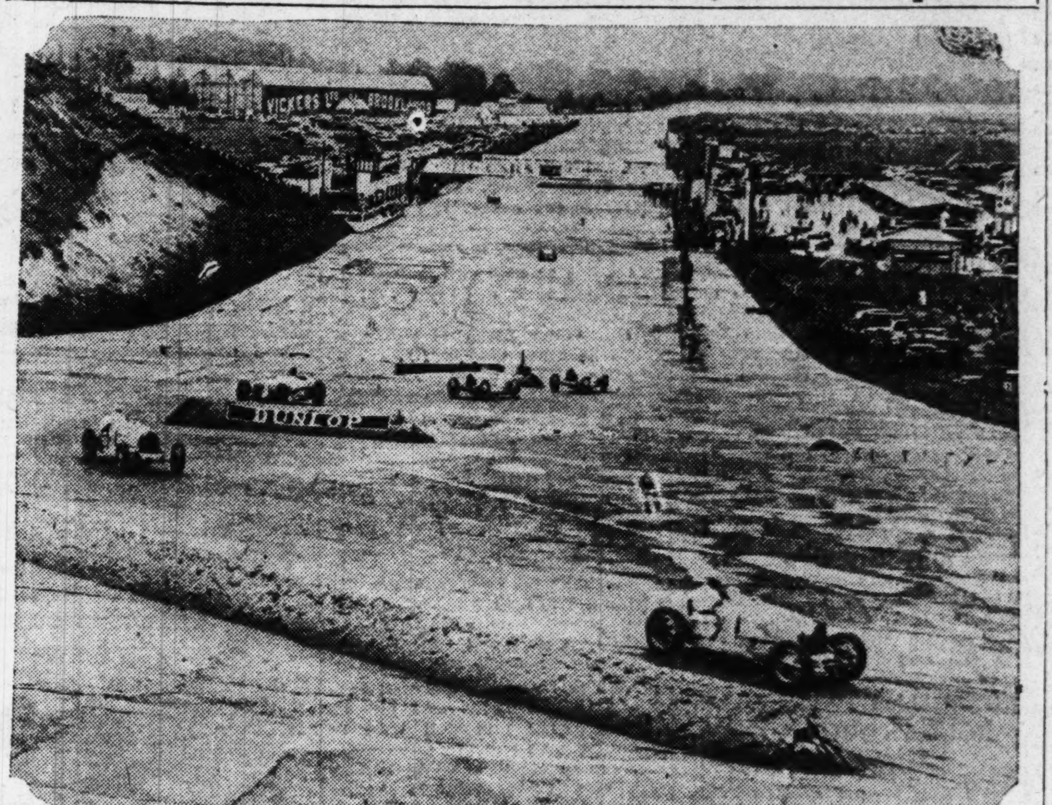
Incidentally, the Voisin ran faster the second 12 hours than the first, its average for the first half of the day being 112.825 miles per hour, the distance covered in the 12 hours being 1353.9 miles. The Voisin also set a record of 112.92 m. p. h. for 5000 kilometers, which were run in 27 hours, 30 minutes, 39 seconds.

The Voisin ran the 1000 miles in eight hours, 54 minutes, 5.11 seconds; 2000 miles in 17 hours, 43 minutes, 53.95 seconds, and 3000 miles in 26 hours, 31 minutes.

The Voisin that made these records had a straight eight engine with Knight double sleeve valves, two Zenith carburetors and Delco ignition.

The cylinder bore is approximately 3¾ inches and the bore, 5½ inches. This compares with a bore of 3½ inches and stroke of five inches in the American car which has an eight-cylinder Knight sleeve valve engine, and bores of 3¼ to 3½ inches and strokes of 4½ to five inches in other powerful American straight eight cars.

Where Brakes Counted for as Much as Car Speed



View of Brooklands track, in England, and the barriers which had to be rounded many times during the British grand prix, which was won by Benoist in a Delage car. Good brakes, which would stand the thousands of calls made on them during the 327-mile race, were even more essential than speed.

TO OPEN STATE NO. 30 CONCRETE ON NOV. 15

Slab Will Then Run From St. Louis to House Springs—Road Gravel Beyond.

Paving of State Highway No. 30 (continuation of Gravois road) from three miles beyond the bridge at Fenton to House Springs, was completed yesterday and this 6.5 mile stretch will be open to travel not later than Nov. 15, according to Sam Rudler division highway engineer at Webster Groves.

The new paving will eliminate a treacherous detour through Eureka which a number of times this year has been inundated by rising waters of the Meramec River.

Nothing this year will be done on State No. 30 beyond House Springs and to St. Clair. Hunters who range in this district will find the highway beyond the concrete rough. But it is graveled and passable virtually all year.

Another detour elimination was made this week with the opening of the new $25,000 concrete bridge over Stouts Creek on State No. 21 between Ironton and Arcadia.

Five miles of new concrete on State 47 south of Washington has also been opened to travel, and the detour from U. S. 66 at Gray's Summit to Washington has been shortened as a consequence. Formerly the detour ran through Villa Ridge. Now it goes through Labadie, thence onto the new concrete and this is taken into Washington.

STOCK COMMANDER SETS NEW RECORDS

Average Speed in Six Runs Was 75 M. P. H.—1814 Miles Made in 24 Hours.

"A Studebaker Commander has again, for the fifth time within 36 days, made a conquest of time and space. This time a fully equipped stock Studebaker Commander sport roadster skimmed around the boards of the Atlantic City Speedway for six records, first of which was the record of 1814.96 miles in 24 hours, 1440 minutes, at an average speed of 75.623 miles per hour. In so doing the Commander covered 142 more miles during the 24-hour period than did the car which previously held the record," reports the Studebaker factory.

"The second record was for 1000 miles, which the Commander clicked off in 796 minutes, 7.4 seconds at an average speed of 75.365 miles per hour, to exceed by 5.0555 miles per hour the average maintained in the old record.

"The Commander was the same one that placed first in the Atlantic City 75-mile stock car race on Sept. 5 as well as first in the 75-mile stock car race at Charlotte, N. C., on Sept. 20, and was driven by Harry Hartz, Ralph Hepburn and Jimmy Gleason.

"The four other records made by the Commander were: The five mile run at an average speed of 74.877 miles per hour, the ten mile record at an average speed of 75.062 miles per hour, the 50 mile record at a speed of 75.748 miles per hour and in addition the 12-hour record 75.136 miles per hour average speed for the 12 hours.

"At the end of the 1815 mile grind, Ralph Hepburn stepped the Commander around 10 more laps, 15 miles, at a speed of better than 82 miles per hour average to show the perfect mechanical condition of the car. No pit stops were necessary other than those made to take on oil and gasoline.

"Three of the six records made might be called 'double records' inasmuch as they were broken by both of the Commander sport roadsters entered in the race. The other Commander, driven by Harry Hartz, Eddie Hearne, and Ab Jenkins, bettered all previous stock car records for 1000 miles, for 12 hours, and for 24 hours.

"This test was sanctioned by the American Automobile Association and the cars, after the run, were pronounced strictly stock models by the technical committee."

Heads of Aircraft Firm Use Hudson Cars

FIRST ALL-WEATHER ROUTE TO IOWA NOW OPEN TO TRAFFIC

U. S. 63 starting north from Columbia is as follows: 8.8 miles good gravel, 14.8 miles nine-foot slab 14.4 miles 18-foot slab to Moberly —junction of U. S. 24 and ..3; 12 miles nine-foot slab, 14 miles good gravel, seven miles 18-foot concrete, 20 miles nine-foot concrete 10 miles 18-foot concrete, 30 miles nine-foot gravel.

U. S. 36—the Macon to Hannibal route—is virtually all hard-surfaced already. There is 15 miles of earth between Shelbina and Clarence but most of this will be graveled before the end of the year It is 66 miles fro Macon to Hannibal.

Starting west from Hannibal the motorist finds 10 miles of gravel, then 21 mi's of slab, then 11 miles of gravel and the balance of the distance into Macon is dirt.

With this route in the good condition that it is, it will not be necessary for motorists west of Columbia who want to [illegible] Hannibal to follow U. S. 40 to Wentzville, and U. S. 61 north via Louisiana. Too, U. S. 61 in inclement weather is virtually impassable, due to extensive construction at various points.

NEW MOTOR CYCLE TRUCK OF QUARTER-TON CAPACITY

A new motorcycle delivery truck of quarter-ton capacity has just been introduced by the Harley-Davidson Motor Co., whose distributer here is the Olive Cycle and Motor Co.

It is really a package truck with screen or panel type body and twin cyclinder engine. It has a tread of only 48 inches, turns in a 10-foot circle and can twist and dodge in traffic as easily as an ordinary motorcycle with side car Its delivered price in St. Louis is $488.

The truck is said to average 35 miles to the gallon of gasoline Operating cost is said to be under 3 cents per mile.

G. M. SEPTEMBER SALES HIGH

Commenting on the September sales of General Motors cars, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, says:

You'll Never Really Know Until You Drive it

An Oakland All-American flashes by... Smartness. Poise. The silence of a shadow... And instinctively you sense why everyone is saying, "That's the car!"

Sense it by the new and rakish beauty of the Fisher coachwork. By the outward air of stamina and speed. It's obviously something new and fresh and different. But you'll never really know until you drive it!

Come get a demonstration.

Come get behind the wheel. Feel the lithe and flashing change of pace—the velvet surge of power for the hills—the smooth, unruffled, top-speed gait that stamps this finer, faster Oakland truly all-American.

OPEN BRIDGE OVER KE AT NEW ORLEANS

500,000 Causeway, 14 1-2 les Long, Is Crossroads of Two Main Routes.

ial to the Post-Dispatch.

EW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—The cial opening of the $5,500,000 chartrain Bridge of New Or- is promised not later than 1. Efforts are being made, announced, to open the great on Jan. 8, the anniversary of Battle of New Orleans.

The total length of the bridge, ich is a vehicular toll causeway, 14½ miles. It spans Lake Pont- rtrain, and is called by its lders the longest bridge in the rld.

Handles Trunk Highways.

The Pontchartrain Bridge will be crossroads for two important scontinental trunk routes, one t and west and the other north south, the former being the Spanish Trail from Jackson- le to San Diego and the latter new Colonial Highway to link York and New Orleans. The gging" of the Colonial Highway started Sept. 17.

Ell T. Watson of the New Or- ans banking house of Watson, Williams & Co., is president of the dicate of New York, New Or- ans, St. Louis and Chicago banks hich is financing the enterprise. also ascribes to the Pontchar- rain Bridge distinct value as both local and through traffic link.

Locally, Watson says, the bridge will provide the first direct and venient motor communication which New Orleans has ever had with such Gulf Coast neighbors on the east as Pass Christian, Biloxi, Bay St. Louis and Gulfport. This travel is now cared for by a 30-mile detour which entails long waits as a rule at the two Chef-Rigoletes ferry crossings. On weekends and holidays these delays often extend all night, according to Watson, who says that motorists actually save time by detouring northward throughm Baton Rouge, the State capital, which takes them 200 miles out of their way.

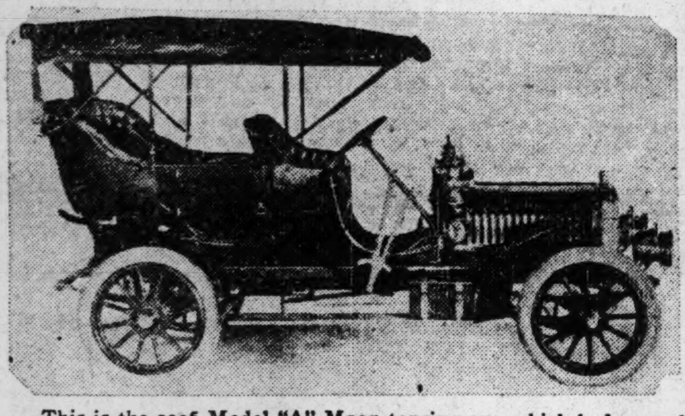
Eliminates Detour.

The Crescent City, as Watson describes it, is unfortunately placed in being hemmed in by Lake Pontchartrain on the north, by the Mississippi delta, which has no serviceable traffic routes, on the south, and by marshes on the east. It is this marsh land which the present outlet road crosses in getting to Slidell on the opposite shore of the lake. This marsh land is a notorious storm area, he says, and the existing road runs across it like a dam, so that it is often washed over during the heavier storms. The Pontchatrain Bridge was designed to save this detour by going direct to Slidell by a water causeway, and is expected to prove particularly popular all along the Gulf Coast during the racing season and Mardi Gras.

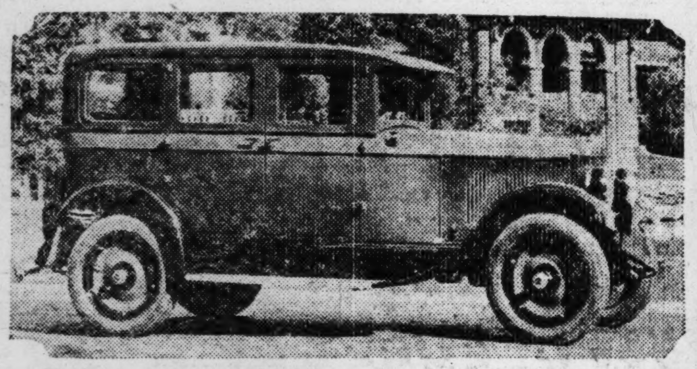
The Pontchartrain causeway is 35 feet wide, with space for three lanes of traffic, and it has been built five feet above the highest storm water ever known on the lake. A basic toll of $1.25 will be charged for a vehicle and driver, with an additional 25 cents for two passengers; a rate amounting to 10 cents a mile.

The sinking of the 1800 reinforced concrete piles, which support the Pontchartrain causeway, required careful engineering. Each concrete pile was 90 feet long, with a bottom face two feet square and weighed 25 tons. Each pile was driven by a 15-ton hammer to a penetration of 65 feet.

Moon Cars in 1906 and Today



This is the 1906 Model "A" Moon touring car, which had a 4-cylinder engine and sold at $3000. It had the old sliding gear type transmission, jump coil ignition, and was capable of 3 to 50 m. p. h. speed.



This is the 1927 model Moon sedan with 6-cylinder motor and all modern refinements.

SOUTHWEST NASH OCTOBER SALES SHOW BIG INCREASE

"October sales for the Southwest Nash Co., Nash distributer here, wil this year exceed by 20 to 25 per cent sales of October, 1926," according to J. H. Bonham, wholesale manager of the firm.

Bonham, who has just returned from a five weeks trip through Kentucky, Southern Illinois, Northern Arkansas and Missouri, the territory served by this firm, reports business better now than at any time during the past year.

"Dealers throughout the territory are optimistic,' 'said Bonham. "In Illinois the coal situation is better than it has been in a number of months, and in other parts of our territory good crops and exceptionally fine fall weather have aided business.

"St. Louis dealers likewise report unusually bood business for this time of the year.

"Throughout the territory we serve I have found bank deposits larger than at this time last year, and this is one sign of a change for the better."

New Distance Records.

Three automobile drivers in Paris, France, recently broke the world record for distance. They traveled 2723 miles in 24 hours, averaging 113 miles an hour, driving in turn.

PEERLESS' HIGH STANDING ATTRIBUTED TO VER LINDEN

"Rapid as has been the evolution of the automobile from a one-cylinder affair with a mule-tail steering apparatus to the handsome, luxurious vehicle of today, it has been only as rapid as the progressiveness of the factory processes responsible for its development," says the Peerless Motor Car Co.

"Automobile men say that the truly model plants of the country can be counted on one hand, and point to the big Peerless plant in Cleveland as an example of the industry to follow.

"Much of Peerless' present high standing is due to Edward Ver Linden, who came to Peerless nearly three years ago as president. Since that time the entire workings of the factory have been subjected to revolutionary changes, for instance, it is an unusual manufacturing procedure for the production line to work simultaneously on a car retailing in the $4000 class, and a car retailing not for above $1000, but that is exactly what happens in the Peerless Motor Car plant at Cleveland.

"Here the same engineers are constantly at work on advance designs for the luxurious Eight-69 and the three medium-priced "sixes" alike.

"The same workmen on the production line build a $3900 Peerless and a $1300 Peerless, perhaps working on a score of each every day. It is not an unusual sight to watch an Eight-69 chassis rolling along the production track on its own wheels right behind a Six-60 model.

"We give the same painstaking work to one of the lighter cars that we give to our most expensive car.

"This makes for better allround value to the purchaser. A man buying a lighter Peerless may be sure he is getting tradition. Peerless quality even though he is paying hundreds of dollars less than the price of the Peerless eight, which built up the Peerless legend of fine manufacture."

In converting waste heat to power, the new companion invention to the Super-Six principle accomplishes the ideal performance of the high-compression type motor that is sought through the use of special and costly fuels.
The Super-Six principle transforms what otherwise is destructive vibration into useful power. The companion invention converts waste heat to power. Combined they afford the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge. This makes Hudson the most economical car per pound weight in the world.
No wonder such performance results have won for Hudson its greatest triumph. Hudson offers a genuinely new kind of performance. Drive it and you will know.
There is a full line of Hudson Super-Six models on the 127-inch Super-Six chassis. And with the new 118-inch chassis, a duplicate of the larger car in all particulars save length, there is also a car for those who want such signal quality and performance in a shorter, more compact car.

SAYS GOOD CONDITIONS AID TRUCK INDUSTRY

G. M. Truck Co. Head Addresses Branch Managers at Convention Here.

Good cotton, tobacco, corn and wheat crops, activity in the steel industry in Alabama, good roads, the settling of the Illinois coal strike and healthy conditions in the building trades industry are some of the things specifically mentioned for the active business conditions of truck selling in the Southeast, the Southwest, the Middle West and the Northwest, according to branch managers of the General Motors Truck Co., who met here at a convention at the Hotel Jefferson, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 18 and 19.

Eleven branch managers who sell General Motors trucks in 13 states were at the meeting. Factory officials attending were Paul W. Seiler, president and general manager; V. G. Phillips, general sales manager; Harry Warner, factory works manager, and H. C. Bradfield, director of advertising.

The branch managers were O. H. Perkins, St. Louis; Estel Scott, Kansas City (president of the Kansas City Dealers' Association); T. B. Cockerly, Minneapolis; L. C. White, Indianapolis; C. G. Ade, Louisville; L. E. Booth, Cincinnati; C. E. Anderson, Birmingham; J. A. McDaniels, Dallas; F. W. Rosche, New Orleans; L. D. Stapleton, Atlanta; and S. L. Whitmore, Charlotte, N. C.

With the General Motors Truck Co. having a full line of trucks from one-half to [illegible] tons capacity to offer the public, it was pointed out at the meeting that the company is building not only a complete line of trucks but selling them for a price that has met with popular reception.

"The fast duty line of six-cylinder motor trucks in the light duty field powered with the Pontiac engine, and in the one and two ton class powered with the Buick engine, has met with public favor," according to Seiler. "National buyers are ordering these trucks on repeat orders by telephone and telegrams. Merchants realize the advertising value of the line and are particularly well pleased with the factory-built bodies the company is offering. In the new $8,000,000 plant under construction at Pontiac, Mich., over a quarter of a mile of space on the large acreage will be devoted exclusively to the building of bodies for trucks. This will be the largest truck body building unit in the world," Seiler said.

O. H. Perkins, St. Louis branch manager, reported that the General Motors line of trucks is being well received in the territory served by the St. Louis branch, Southern Illinois, Eastern Tennessee, Arkansas and Eastern Missouri.

Perkins also said that the introduction of fast duty trucks had increased the trading areas of the centrally located cities. He pointed out that with merchants being able to increase their delivery range with fast duty trucks that they were finding more business coming to them from greater distances than ever before.

ST. LOUIS BUICK DEALERS TO VISIT PLANT AT FLINT

One hundred and sixteen Buick dealers from the St. Louis territory, including Southern Illinois, Eastern Missouri, and Western Kentucky, will leave St. Louis Wednesday evening, Oct. 26, on a special train for a two days' inspection trip to the Buick factory at Flint, Mich., and the General Motors Proving Ground at Milford, Mich., under the auspices of the Vesper Buick Auto Co., distributer here.

The factory inspection trip is intended to familiarize dealers with recent improvements in Buick production and assembly, and a first view of Buick's new foundry, unified assembly line and drop-forging plant.

The dealers' party will stay overnight at the Flint plant.

The next day the dealers will be taken to the General Motors proving grounds at Milford, about 35 miles south of Flint.

A trip over the G. M. proving ground's roads, with its various types of highway construction, including dirt, gravel, brick, Macadam, and concrete roads—together with the new four-mile speedway, will take up the last day.

METROPOLITAN NASH DEALERS HOLD MEETING AT CORONADO

The first of a series of semimonthly meetings of metropolitan dealers for Southwest Nash Co., Nash distributer here, was held Monday, Oct. 17, at the Coronado Hotel. The purpose of the meetings, as set forth by J. H. Benham, wholesale manager of the Southwest Nash Co., is to produce closer co-operation between the various dealers.

F. N. Delavan, retail sales manager of the Southwest Nash Co., presided at the meeting. Bonham was the principal speaker.

Nash dealers at the meeting were: O. C. Hazelrigg, president of the Laclede Nash Co., Fred W. Gatermann, of South Side Nash Co., Fred W. Hensiek, Hensiek Nash Co., William H. Hartman, Hartman Nash Co., Charles Heintz, Heintz Motor Co., Thomas G Potts, East Side Nash Co., Harold Briggs, Briggs Automobile Co., Luke Lamb Jr., Lamb Nash Co., Dan Sheehan, Clegg and Sheehan Motor Car Co., and William J. MO.-PAC. CLUB INSPECTS CHEVROLET FACTORY HERE

Two hundred and forty-six members of the Missouri Pacific Club, and executives of the railway made an inspection tour of the Chevrolet Motor Car Co., manufacturing plant here Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 18. Later in the evening a banquet was held in the plant dining hall. George Stoldmann, assistant to the president of the railroad, presided.

Speakers at the meeting were A. W. L. Gilpin, regional manager, and O. E. Nonn, zone sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Car Co.

ST. LOUIS G. M. CLUB FORMED

A meeting of General Motors division executives in St. Louis, called by J. J. Hudson, branch manager here for the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, Wednesday noon, the G. M. Club was formed. The idea of the club is to promote closer co-operation between the various G. M. units in the St. Louis district.

HUDSON-FRAMPTON HOLDING SALES CLASSES FOR DEALERS

The Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., Hudson-Essex distributer here, the past week held the second of a series of semimonthly sales and service meetings for its dealers and their sales and service departments.

The meetings, held to give dealers a better understanding of sales and service methods and to bring about a closer co-operation between distributer and dealer, are in charge of Frank J. Prendergast, general sales manager; R. R. Andrews, metropolitan sales manager, and William B. Denhard, service manager of the Hudson-Frampton organizations with the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. They are held in the sales room of the firm on Locust street.

As an aid in familiarizing dealer parts of Hudson and Essex automobiles, the firm recently at a cost of $600 assembled all parts on the two makes of cars on a large display board and it is used to advantage at each meeting, according to Prendergast.

GOLDEN ERSKINE CHASSIS DISPLAYED AT PARIS SALON

"In the annual Paris automobile salon, a gold Erskine six chassis displayed in the Studebaker booth attracted interest comparable only to the acclaim this car received last year when it made world premiere at Paris show. The Erskine six chassis was entirely plated with 24-karat gold and valued at $20,000," says a factory statement.

"Exhibits of European cars showed a very noticeable trend toward six cylinder prop ian Fiat and French Peu introducing small sizes.

The Added Power of Higher Compression

Plus Willys-Knight exclusive velvety smoothness possible only with the Knight patented sleeve-valve engine, which gives sustained brilliant performance with any gas

The trend today is toward high compression. The public has been quick to appreciate the greater speed and flashier activity effected by the high compression motor.

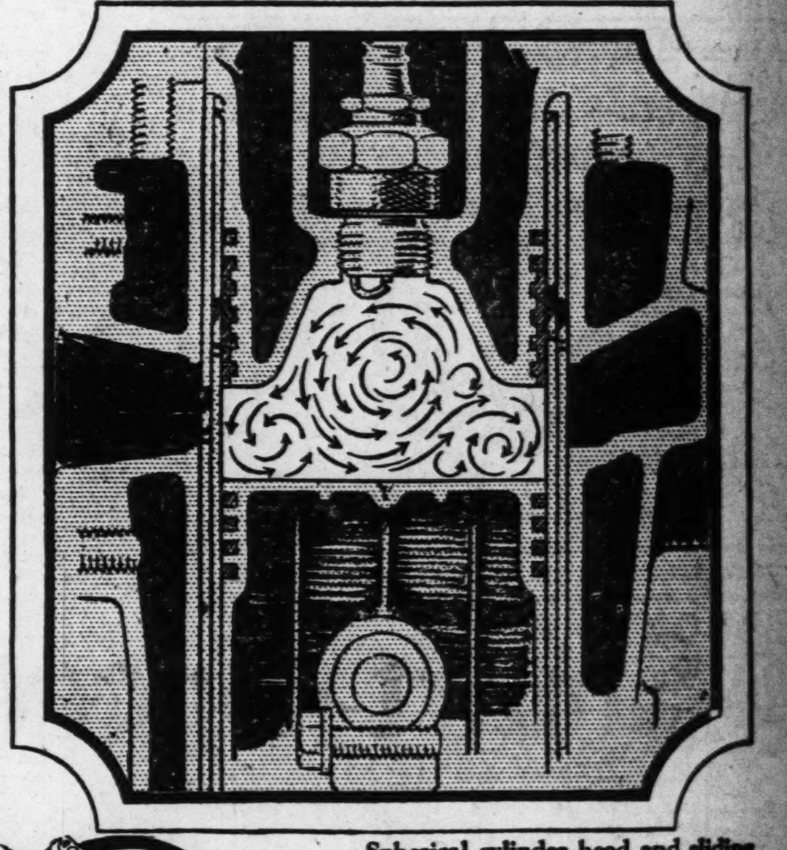
But in many engines high compression presents serious drawbacks—the need for special gas, undue wear and tear on the motor, and "knocking" even after inconsiderable mileage.

Willys-Knight offers you all the advantages of high compression with none of the disadvantages so conspicuous in other types of motors.

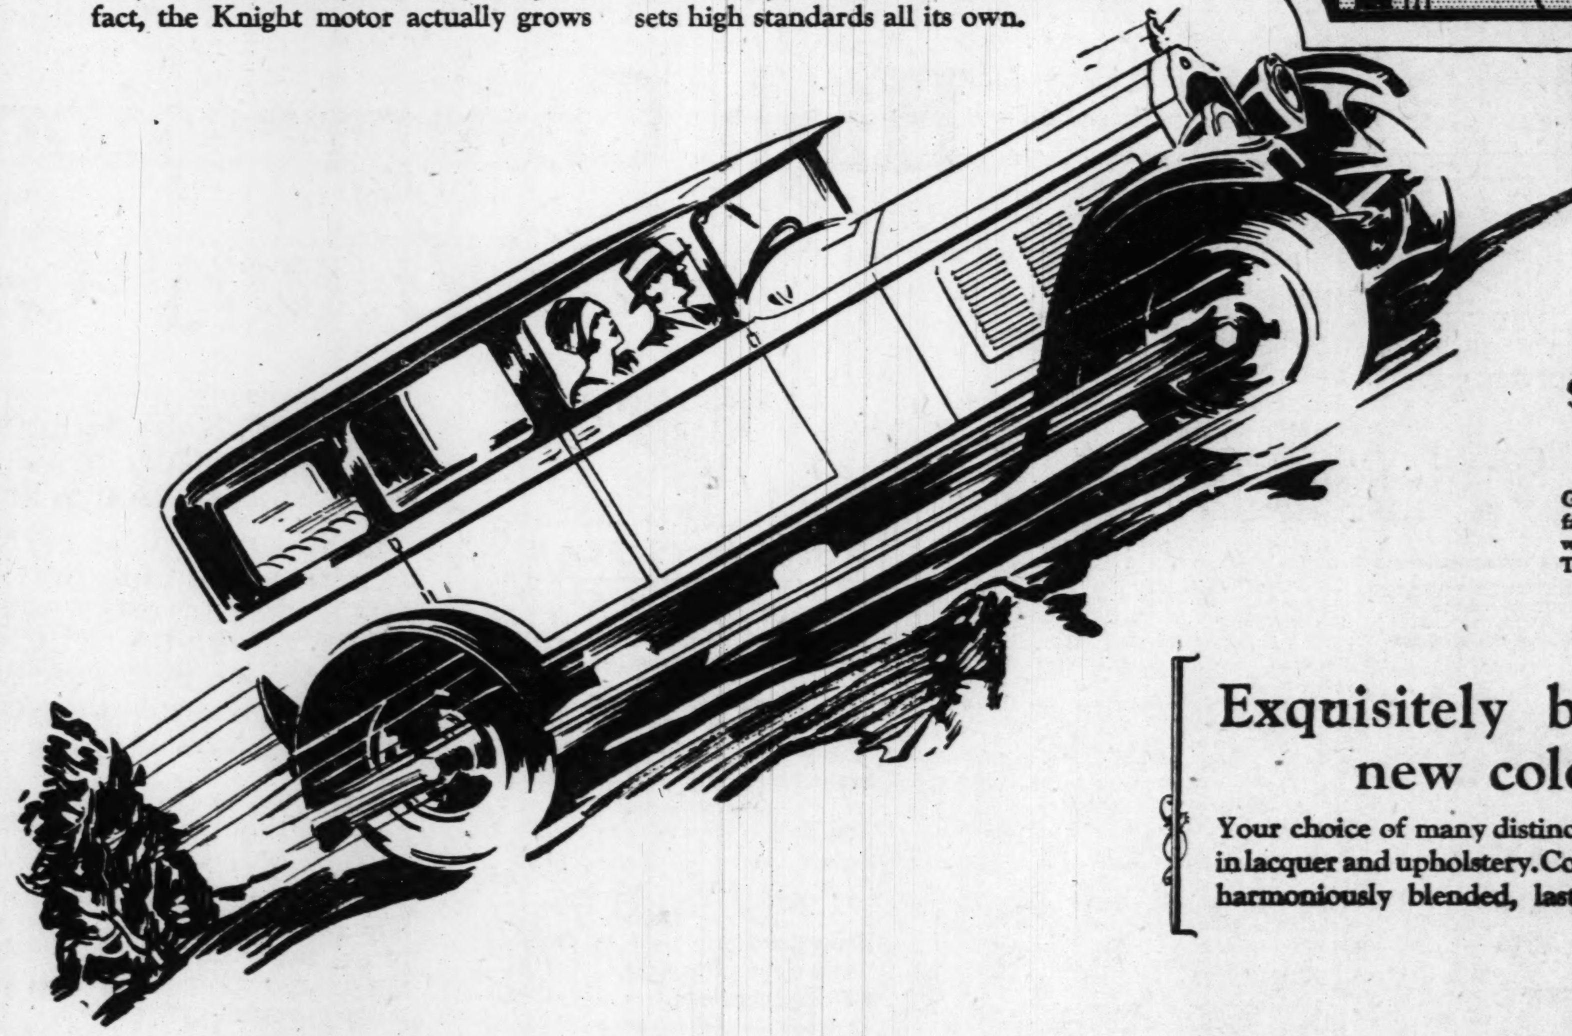
Only the Knight sleeve-valve engine, because of the fundamental principle of its design, can give highest uniform compression at all times, at all speeds—not only for 5000 miles, but indefinitely. In fact, the Knight motor actually grows even smoother and quieter with use. You always thrill to Willys-Knight's surge of silent power, smoothly and softly poured out in an even, unfailing flow.

Most great advances in motor car design rapidly become the property of all automobile manufacturers. The self-starter, lacquer finish, balloon tires and four-wheel brakes are found on many cars. But one of the most notable improvements of all time—the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine—still remains the property of a single organization.

Drive a Willys-Knight, and your enthusiasm will be added to that of its present 300,000 owners. Until you take the wheel of this finer car you have yet to learn the fullest pleasure in your motoring experience. Definitely, you owe it to yourself to see the car which sets high standards all its own.



Spherical cylinder head and sliding sleeves of patented Knight engine have always provided the most efficient compression chamber.



$1295 F.O.B Factory is all you pay for a 5-passenger, 6-cylinder Willys-Knight closed car. "70" Six, $1295 to $1495. Great Six, $1850 to $2695. Prices f. o. b. factory and specifications subject to change without notice. Willys-Overland, Inc. Toledo, Ohio.

This is the new Elysee de luxe delivery car which Herman Straus, president of Steinberg's, women's clothiers, purchased of the Elysee Motor Car Co., of Hagerstown, Md. It is the only one of its kind in St. Louis, and is the American-made product of a French automobile company.

U. S. TO TAKE OVER PIKE'S PEAK HIGHWAY

Nation Will Assume Control of Present Road and 500 Acres of Land in 1935.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Public ownership of a motor highway to the summit of Pike's Peake in Colorado, not later than in 1935, is guaranteed by the action of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine in accepting the offer of the Pike's Peak Auto Highway Co. to convey to the United States its present highway to the summit of the famous mountain, together with 500 acres of privately owned land and all structures appurtenant to the operation of the road, subject to the reservation by the company of the right of use without competition and at prevailing toll rates until the close of the season of 1935.

The offer was accepted in preference to the proposal of W. D. Corley to construct a second toll road to the summit of the peak, on the opposite side of the mountain, with the understanding that at the end of six years the new road together with the present Corley Mountain highway from Colorado Springs to Cripple Creek would become public property without cost.

In reaching his decision, Secretary Jardine expressed the belief that a single road to the peak would be sufficient to accommodate the public; that a second road would cause needless disturbance of natural conditions and involve heavy expenditures for which no economic justification existed; that the division of probable business between two competing roads might make it impossible to maintain or operate either according to proper standards, and that the construction of the proposed new road through the watershed from which the City of Colorado Springs secures its municipal water supply might be detrimental to public health.

An additional consideration is the Secretary's belief that all toll roads in national forests should be made free public highways and turned over to the States for control and maintenance as rapidly as practicable.

It is probable the State of Colorado will be willing to assume the maintenance of one highway to the peak, but quite improbable that it would undertake the maintenance of two roads serving a single objective point and class of users.

The Pike's Peak Auto Highway Co. secured a permit to construct and operate a motor toll road to the top of Pike's Peak from the Department of Agriculture in 1915. The permit provided that in 1940, or five-year intervals thereafter, the public might assume ownership of the road by paying the cost of its construction.

WHIZ ANTI-FREEZE MAKER TELLS HOW IT IS MADE

"Whiz Anti-Freeze has as its base glycerin and alcohol of proper proportion to make an ideal non-freeze solution," says the manufacturer, R. M. Hollingshead Co.

"The Whiz factory is the largest factory of its kind in the world. No other manufacturer employs so many people or devotes so large a floor space to the manufacture of similar products. Whiz products are backed by a company with experience, facilities and resources to make it right. More than 43,000,000 packages of Whiz products have been sold by over 104,000 dealers in the United States.

Whiz Anti-Freeze is the safest and most reliable preparation for preventing automobile circulating systems from freezing. It can be used with absolute safety in all automobiles including those having Knight or sleeve valve motors. It will not injure or clog the circulating system of any automobile or prevent the operation of thermostats. It will not attack aluminum or any other metal or damage rubber hose connections or gaskets. Simple directions for use are printed on every can."

MANY FOREIGN TOURISTS VISITED WEST MICHIGAN

Motor cars from 23 different foreign countries, as well as from every state in the Union, were represented in the cavalcade of tourists who visited West Michigan this summer, according to the report of James Sinke, Grand Rapids safety director and in charge of the tourists' information booth in the center of Grand Rapids.

CHEVROLET OCTOBER OUTPUT MAY REACH 100,000 UNITS

This Would Set All-Time Record—Last High Was 91,000 in May.

With a national output in excess of 51,000 units on Oct. 18, and the entire sales organization in the country entered in a great sales campaign, officials of the Chevrolet Motor Car Co. are confident that October production will meet and in all probability go greater than the last recorded high, which was 91,000 in May of this year.

"It is just possible," according to O. E. Nonn, zone sales manager at the St. Louis Chevrolet Motor Car Co. factory, "that October production will be very near the 100,000 mark, which would set a production record not exceeded in the history of the company.

"At the St. Louis plant, approximately 5000 men are being employed in the various production departments. While only one shift is being operated daily, the regular eight-hour day in many departments has been lengthened to as many as 12 hours in an effort to meet demand," according to Nonn.

Tuesday 832 units were turned "off the line" and this has been about the average for the week.

Commercial vehicle production in St. Louis is continuing high with 12-hour days established in various departments.

CHAMPION SPARK PLUGS USED BY FRANK LOCKHART

In an article appearing in this section Oct. 9, citing Frank Lockhart's achievement in breaking every one-mile dirt track record from one to 100 miles at the North Randall Track, near Cleveland, Sept. 25, it was incorrectly stated that the racing driver used AC spark plugs, whereas he used Champion Spark plugs.

"The Los Angeles speed marvel," according to R. A. Stranhan, president of the Champion Spark Plug Co., "broke more than 100 dirt track speed records. He averaged 80.826 miles an hour for the 100 miles, smashing all of Ralph DePalma's former records from one to 25 miles and all of Tommy Milton's between the 50 and 100-mile distances.

"Here are the old marks he broke and his new ones at seven representative distances:

Miles	Time	Av.	Old Av.
1	41:95	83.0	82.75
5	3:33:11	86.6	81.44
10	7:00:71	85.9	81.01
25	17:42:42	84.5	80.35
50	35:55:72	83.7	80.37
75	54:25:72	82.6	79.70
100	1:14:50	80.826	80.00

"Champion officials point out that Lockhart has, in the last three years, established nearly 200 world records with his Miller Special racing cars. He has used Champion spark plugs exclusively throughout his racing career and has credited them, in frequent dispatches to that company, with contributing heavily to his racing success."

U. S. Road Aid.

With $510,000,000 expended up to June 30, the United States Government is aiding in the construction of 170,000 miles of highway for the 20,000,000 owners of automobiles now registered. At the close of the fiscal year 60,957 miles had been completed, according to the report of the Bureau of Public Roads.

STEINBERGS BUY ELYSEE CAR FOR DELIVERY DUTY

A panel body fast delivery truck on an Elysee six-cylinder chassis with 124-inch wheelbase, said to be the only one of its kind in the Middle West has been purchased by Steinbergs, Inc., department store, for use in St. Louis. The truck, an American-made product of a French automobile company was built at the firm's United States branch at Hagerstown, Md., and, according to Herman Strauss, president of Steinbergs, cost $3300.

The hood lines of the Elysee greatly resemble another foreign car often seen here, the German Mercedes. It has a nickel radiator which protrudes at the top in a sweeping V. The top of the hood likewise is nickel, giving it a striking effect. The rest of the body and the running gear is ebony.

The drivers' compartment is open at the top, resembling a same compartment in a town car. In inclement weather a temporary leather top is provided. Upholstery is brocaded leather with satin finish.

According to Strauss, a Steinberg buyer in Paris saw a like car there and being impressed with its appearance suggested its purchase for delivery duty in St. Louis.

SOUTHWEST NASH CHIEF ON TARPON FISHING TRIP

F. C. McDonald, president of Southwest Nash Co., Nash distributer here, and a fisherman of wide repute, has established himself for the next several weeks at the Riveria Hotel, Biloxi, Miss., where most of his time is passed in fishing off the Gulf of Mexico.

In a letter to J. H. Bonham, wholesale manager of the Southwest Nash Co., received the past week, McDonald wrote that in three expeditions in Gulf waters he had been successful in obtaining large catches of channel bass, prize among which was a 76-pound fish successfully landed only after a battle lasting three hours.

Tarpon fishing, according to McDonald, has also resulted in a number of fine catches for him.

HERTZ DRIVEURSELF GETS FLEET OF NEW AUTOMOBILES

"One of the largest single consignments of automobiles ever made to one purchaser, other than a dealer, has just been completed with the arrival of a fleet of new 1928 model Buick and Chevrolet cars to be placed in service as an addition to the fleet already operated by the St. Louis Hertz Driveurself automobile rental stations," the firm reports.

Walter L. Jacobs, president of the Hertz stations operating in this city and the states of Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky and Wisconsin, together with E. L. Hudson, manager of the local stations at 3524 Washington boulevard, and 4824 Delmar boulevard, have already placed most of the new cars in service and state that the last of the large shipment will be available for rental to patrons within the next few days.

Great New Chrysler "62" at $1095 gives you more in performance, beauty, comfort, safety and long life than cars of other makes costing many hundreds of dollars more.

Impossible, you say! But a careful comparison of its features against features of sixes of other makes costing even up to $2000 will speedily convince you!

How can this be done, you ask? Chrysler's engineering and manufacturing plan of Standardized Quality, passes on to its cars of lower price the important developments of its own cars of higher price.

As a result in the "62" you get a combination of fine-car features which previously cost several hundred dollars more even in a Chrysler and which are still not available in any other make unless you pay very much more than $1095.

It's easy to convince yourself of this. See the Great New Chrysler "62." Ride in it. Test it in any way you choose. Above all, check these features with those of any six of other make even up to $2000. You will then readily understand the reason for its most sensational public preference.

Great New "62" Prices—Touring Car, $1095; Business Coupe, $1125; 2-door Sedan, $1145; Roadster (with rumble seat), $1175; Coupe (with rumble seat), $1245; 4-door Sedan, $1245; Landau Sedan, $1295; f. o. b. QUALITY AT LOW COST

MOTOR CAR OUTPUT CONTINUING HIGH

Glimpse of New Ford Shows It Lacks Model T Characteristics and Is Faster.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Oct. 22.—Output by the important plants in the city, so far as automotive vehicles are concerned, continues almost universally at high levels. The market is relied upon to strengthen in time to absorb increased production, before the end of the year. Even with the present output, it is figured that no important surplus of cars is being created.

Since the memorable happenings of five years ago, when an expected demand failed to materialize, manufacturers are exercising caution, in order to avoid stuffing the market.

Demand for Trucks.

An encouraging feature of the general situation is that business in commercial vehicles is holding up very well. Reports from those factories that either confine themselves to the commercial field or that include a big line of commercial vehicles in their product are unanimously to the effect that business is not only good but better than ever, with no signs of let-up.

Few of the plants in this territory are closing for inventory, managers report. Output is being closely watched and improved relations between factory and dealer are also being carefully guarded.

Olds Closing Down.

Olds Motor Works and Fisher Body at Lansing are closing down completely this month, to give opportunity for placing new machinery and to arrange for increased output immediately after the first of the year. Both plants will be entirely closed over a period of several weeks. The closing will affect more than 3000 employes. Oldsmobile has been going very strong for the past several months and the outlook for continuing increase in sales is reported to be very favorable.

Saturation Point Near.

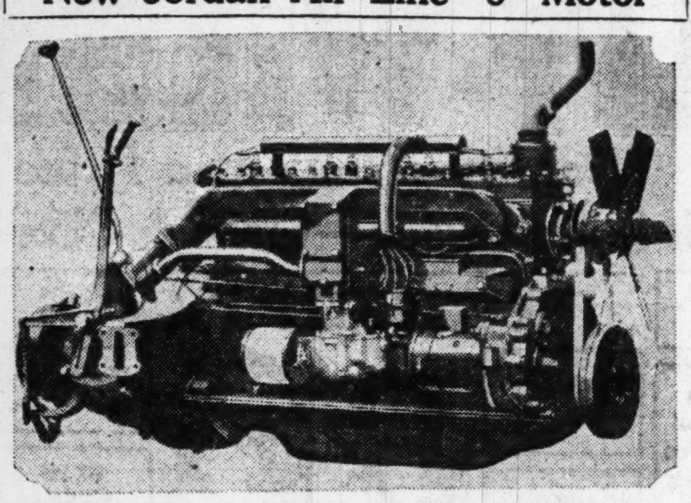
When J. H. Hunt, president of the Society of Automotive Engineers, spoke before the Detroit section of the society, he said that there were some symptoms of the approach of the saturation point. This he interprets as being a stage in the industry at which, for every new vehicle made, an old one must be scrapped. He added that under present conditions, for every two new ones made one old one must pass out of the picture.

Hunt called attention to the fact that almost every family in America now owns at least one car, and implied that further marketing would come in selling every family more than one. He reported that at the present capacity of American factories, more cars can be made, by a substantial percentage, than can be absorbed in the domsetic market. Improvements in the wearing qualities of the cars, he suggested, have added about [illegible] per cent to the average longevity since the war and this has, of course, had an important effect in the relation between the manufacture of new cars and the total scrapping of old ones, from the time standpoint. He urged the engineers to concentrate on making the product more serviceable to the owner, setting at least 10,000 miles without the necessity of adjustment of any kind as a mark to shoot at. Hunt does not look for radical changes in motor vehicles within the next five years, not because the present car is ideal, but because there is pretty general agreement among designers as to how a car ought to be built and how it ought to look.

Glimpse of New Ford.

Close observers have had an opportunity of at least a long-distance view of the new Fords, which are being run on the roads near the factory at Dearborn. Those noted show radical departure from the older designs, not only in general design of the body but in the color schemes. Three body types noted showed half a dozen color schemes, with attractive combinations of tints. The sharp angles and unattractive height of the old cars are conspicuous by their absence. A roadside view of the cars indicates that they lack the characteristic sound of the engine in the Model T, and that they are materially faster and less noisy.

New Jordan Air Line "8" Motor



This new Jordan Air Line "8" motor has a completely revamped carburation system, and is said to be capable to pushing the car 80 M. P. H.

SAYS ALLEN SHUTTER FRONT KEEPS MOTOR EVENLY HEATED

"Antifreeze solution will prevent the radiator from freezing, if it is tested frequently and should be added when the thermometer reaches the freezing point," says H. C. Merry, Inc., distributer of Allen shutter front.

"Personal comfort is provided by the car heater, which will keep the enclosed car as cozy as a living room, but the car owner who provides for personal comfort only, doesn't get much real pleasure out of cold weather driving.

"The power plant of the automobile is just as sensitive to cold weather as the human body. The automobile engine performs best when it is hot. The proper motor temperature is 190 degrees. The Allen shutter front covers the front of the radiator, keeps out the cold and holds in the heat. It is opened and closed from the driving seat by means of a positive control attached to the instrument board. The shutter front can be so regulated that the engine can be kept at the proper temperature under all climatic conditions. When the car is stopped the driver turns the control knob and the shutter closes instantly and holds the heat in ready for the next quick start. A warm engine insures quick getaway in traffic and smooth, powerful performance on the road.

"The Allen shutter front reduces crank case dilution, because a warm power plant doesn't require excessive use of the choke. The shutter front reduces gasoline and oil consumption. It prevents quick cooling of the reciprocating parts of the engine, thus preventing warpage, the cause of most repair bills in winter."

DODGE SERVICE SCHOOL HAS BEEN REORGANIZED

Dodge Brothers' factory has completely reorganized its training school for service managers and service men. The school has been in existence for several years, giving a comprehensive course in servicing Dodge Brothers' four-cylinder cars.

The reorganized course of study includes, in addition to the former instruction on four-cylinder cars, detailed study of the firm's Senior line. The school is modern in every respect and the instructors in charge are specially trained service engineers who know the proper method of performing every mechanical detail of service on both lines of cars.

"Already approximately 100 service men have enrolled for the new course of study and during the next few weeks it is expected that many dealers from all over the country will send their men to Detroit to take the course of instruction," the factory reports.

CHRYSLER SALES CORP. SIGNING MANY NEW DEALERS

"Heavy sales of Chrysler cars this summer and fall are being accompanied by a corresponding increase in dealer representation," Chrysler Sales Corporation reports.

"In one recent period of seven weeks 607 new dealers applied for and were granted Chrysler franchises. The number is said to be the largest that has ever joined one automobile organization in such a short time.

"The unprecedented rush is attributed by J. W. Frazer, Chrysler sales manager, to the general knowledge that a remarkable reception has been extended by the public to the three new models Chrysler Corporation introduced this summer. Demand for the new "52," the Great New "62" and the Illustrious New "72" is pushing all previous Chrysler sales marks to entirely new high levels, he states, while at the same time the Imperial "80," the company's representative in the luxury car class, is also enjoying a sale unprecedented in the company's history.

"The remarkable reception which has greeted the three new Chrysler models, together with the strong demand for the Imperial '80,' is bearing out our expectation of the best fall and winter business in our company's history," says Frazer. "The prospect right now is that the second six months of 1927 will far surpass the first half on our books."

OLDSMOBILE SALES SHOW CONSECUTIVE INCREASES

"For the third consecutive month Oldsmobile retail sales have broken previous records, both in domestic and export fields. The record for September showed a 14 per cent increase over that of the same month in 1926 and a gain of 21 per cent over September, 1925. This September gain follows substantial increases in August and July, both months recording larger sales than any previous August and July in the 30 years' history of the company," says an Olds Motor Works report.

"The increase in Oldsmobile export sales is going hand in hand with those in this country. During the first nine months of this year the export trade has increased 20 per cent over that of the same period of last year. This gain made by Oldsmobile is in line with the total increase of the export business of the General Motors Corporation, of which Oldsmobile is a division.

2,605,000 CARS BUILT IN PAST NINE MONTHS

National Auto Chamber Says Output of Plant Making New Model Not Included.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Announcement of nine months' automobile output of 2,605,804, drawing for space at the New York and Chicago Automobile Shows, and plea to put business principles into traffic control were the features of the members' meeting of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce held here recently.

September output was 273,309 cars and trucks, or 16 vehicles more than were made in August. None of the production figures include the output of one of the largest companies in the business which has been reorganizing its plant for a number of months preparatory to a new model.

September total this year is 13½ per cent under August, but the nine months' figure given above is 228,351 larger than same period 1926, or a gain of 9.6 per cent.

Promise of great improvement in traffic control with grade separations, wider streets, and other improvements rapidly coming, was indicated by J. J. Raskob, H. H. Rice, A. T. Waterfall, Alvan Macauley and others in discussion before the meeting, of what means might be taken to improve the efficiency of motor transport.

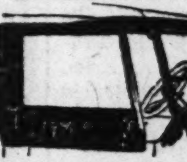
An Amazing Invention

FOR the first time, it is possible to get a glass enclosure for an open car that can be put on or taken off easier and quicker than celluloid side curtains, and that can be carried in the car.

AS USEFUL IN THE SUMMER AS IN THE WINTER

Glassmobile is carried in a shallow container when not in use, occupying about the same amount of space as ordinary curtains.



Perfect ventilation without draughts is secured simply by sliding either or both panels back from the windshield.

Anyone can put on or take off a set of Glassmobile in four minutes, without tools and from inside the car if necessary.

CRUISING the
WORLD CRUISE of the BELGENLAND

The largest, finest liner ever to circle the globe

3 swimming pools and 2 gymnasiums, a verandah cafe and trapshooting equipment. Sounds more like a country club than an ocean liner, but it is characteristic of the unique luxury of the Belgenland. She really is a rare combination of home and a smart country club.

And her world itinerary? Already tried for five years and found perfect. Returning passengers pronounce it so. This year there will be no experiments, no switching, no drastic change of place or time—no need to gild the lily.

Sailing westward Dec. 14 to 65 cities in sixteen countries. 133 days, over 28,000 miles. The perfect world cruise.

Operated by Red Star Line in conjunction with American Express Co. Apply to Red Star Line, No. 1 Broadway; or American Express Co., 65 Broadway, New York; their other offices or agencies.

The Drama Moves Out For George White's "Scandals" And "Blossom Time" Finale

Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Company Coming at Old Time Prices—Zoe Akins Has Turned Producer.

By NIE.

THE drama bows to musical shows this week with George White's "Scandals," reputed to be his biggest and best opus, starting on a two weeks' stay at the American tonight, while the aged but ever popular "Blossom Time" comes into the Shubert-Rialto for a single week. The White opera is headed by Ann Pennington and others in the cast are the Howard Brothers, Willie and Eugene, who were stars of their own shows for many years; Harry Richman, one of New York's well-known night club entertainers; Frances Williams, a song and dance artist; Tom Patricola, a high light of previous "Scandals;" Buster and John West, eccentric dancers; the Williams Sisters, singers and dancers, and Rose Perfect, a prima donna whose voice won the acclaim of the New York critics when "Scandals" was produced on Broadway. There is a chorus of seventy-five and a corps of Albertina Rasch dancers.

"Blossom Time," which is the most genuine success in the producing career of the Shuberts, is now announced as being on its farewell tour of the country.

THE performances of Eva Le Gallienne's New York Civic Repertory Theater company at the American during the week of November 7 will be watched with more than passing interest. Miss Le Gallienne, who has just been awarded a prize of $5000 by a national magazine for her contribution to art with her organization, is sending the company through the country to play at old time admission prices—$2 at night with Wednesday matinees at a dollar. If she is successful in the venture, as she should be, it is hoped by theater goers generally that other managers will see the handwriting on the theatrical wall and follow suit.

Miss Le Gallienne will offer "The Cradle Song," a pronounced New York success, for the venture here and it is frankly stated that the engagement will be a losing one unless the house is at least two-thirds full at every performance. While Miss Le Gallienne is governed by motives which seek solely to revive interest in the more elevated drama, even to the point of foregoing a profit, the operating expenses of the theater will be just as much as if higher prices were being charged and the success of the week depends on attracting larger audiences than usually turn out for similar plays.

Miss Le Gallienne, incidentally, is not to have the woman's field of producing plays to herself. Rosalie Stewart, of St. Louis, who has had one or two smashing successes in that direction, is to put on two new plays this season, and now comes word that Zoe Akins, who is well-known as a playwright and who is also a St. Louisan, is about to put on Robert E. Sherwood's drama, "The Love Nest," and that she is to produce three other plays for the Shuberts this season.

MISS LE GALLIENNE conceived the idea of establishing a repertory theater while she was touring, two years ago, in "The Master Builder" and "John Gabriel Borkman." She was impressed by the fact that the very people who would best appreciate these plays were debarred from seeing them by the high prices of admission. This condition she determined to change. She resolved to place intelligent theatrical entertainment within the reach of intelligent people—"people living on moderate incomes, who lead clean, thoughtful lives and who love what is fine," as she herself puts it. Having insufficient means of her own for embarking upon so expensive a project, Miss Le Gallienne enlisted the financial aid of Otto Kahn, Ivan Dahl, A. C. Lachman and others. The old Fourteenth Street Theater in New York was leased, and during last season eight classic and modern plays were produced in so fine a manner that nearly every seat was filled at every performance. The prices charged were very nominal. The enterprise was financially as well as artistically successful from the outset.

Miss La Gallienne will, of necessity, remain in New York to direct the productions to be made at the Fourteenth Street Theater. Her interest lies in directing rather than in acting, and she will play only occasionally.

The group of players selected for the present tour by Miss Le Gallienne and rehearsed by her includes Mary Shaw, Harry Davenport, Phyllis Rankin, Zita Johann, Mary Hone, Virginia Gregori,

Second Thoughts ON First Nights

By Alexander Woollcott.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

THE New York stage is so polyglot and (even when the language of the evening is, in a manner of speaking, English), the players and the scripts are so freely summoned from the four corners of the earth, that it is difficult for us to measure the earth-shaking crash of precedent which must have agitated Paris a few weeks ago when, for the first time in its history, "L'Illustration" published as its weekly supplement the text of an American play.

The amplitude of that gesture can hardly be appreciated in this latter-day Babel, where the Negro troupe playing "Porgy" was, quite naturally and with brilliant justification in the event, directed by a young Armenian.

Down in Thirty-fourth street a Sicilian company heave their bosoms, while in Columbus Circle the moon-faced Balieff presides sadly over the antics of Muscovite vaudeville. When the dauntless Eva le Gallienne launched her second season in Fourteenth street on Tuesday night, it was in a play from the Dutch and her program for the rest of the week raided the treasure chests of Spain and Italy. That frolic called "The Command to Love," at which, quite credibly, the District Attorney is said to be looking askance, is a typical French farce which happens to have been written by a couple of Germans. The hero, a Parisian Don Juan who works his will among the Spanish ladies, is, of course, played by a very English actor. Up at the Century they are getting ready for Reinhardt's "Midsummer Night's Dream," when we shall have the mischief of a Warwickshire Puck and the lyric ebulience of Oberon poured forth in purest German. It is the New York way.

BUT to return to Paris. Ever since I can remember the Parisian successes have been appearing in "La Petite Illustration," but this is the first time an American play has been published there. Some few American plays have, to be sure, been acted in Paris at one time or another. They did O'Neill's "The Hairy Ape," for instance, and Channing Pollock's "The Sign on the Door." Then I suppose that Jeanne d'Arc piece, which the aforesaid Miss Le Gallienne performed several summers ago for the benefit of a few stunned Parisians, would have been called an American play. It was certainly American. But the French laughed much harder at "Baby Mine," which had a vast success in the provincial cities. Now at last a comedy from Broadway receives the dignity of print.

THE play selected by "L'Illustration" for this dashing venture into the uncouth literature of the American stage is called "Le Gentleman de l'Ohio" (pronounced, as the text helpfully points out, O-a-io). And behind this unfamiliar title lurks none other than our old friend, "The Butter and Egg Man," that comedy of the theater which flourished for two seasons in America and died in London for want of Gregory Kelly. One must sympathize with the anguish of a translator who felt, reasonably enough, that if he called the piece "Le Marchand de Beurre et des Oeufs," or even "Le Cremier," the already somewhat bewildered French reader would find the title's relation to the ensuing scene a bit too puzzling.

LOUIS THOMAS made the translation, and to my not particularly expert eye and ear, he seems to have done his part nimbly and with spirit. Some of the humor he left out as untranslatable and some, I suspect, because he himself did not know what it was all about. He was evidently puzzled, for instance, by the odd custom among "les producers Newyorkais" of calling everybody "sweetheart." Then he struggled helplessly with the little jokes about such venerable local institutions as the Evening Post and Louis Mann at which the first New York audience laughed so uproariously. He decided, for reasons best known to himself, to call the Evening Post "Le Bulletin de la Maison de Retraite des Vieux Cabots" and, in a burst of inspiration, he changed Louis Mann into Belasco. But how he became so confused as to rename the battered old actress in the comedy I do not know. In the French script, her name, oddly enough, is Sylvia Field.

IT MIGHT amuse you to hear the names and local habitations of Broadway bobbing up in French. I confess to enjoying such a speech as this one:

"Allez voir demander a Sam Harris ce qu'il empoche sur 'Pluie.' Demandez a cette femme d'Abie's Irish Rose' le magot qu'elle est en train de mettre de cote. Demandez a Bill Brady combien qu'il a fait sur 'L'Homme qui revient de loin.'"

I do get a childish pleasure out, for example, of hearing the prof-

BEHIND THE SCREENS Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22.

ERNST LUBITSCH, the German director, has just been assigned to direct the next picture starring Emil Jannings, the star of "The Way of All Flesh," "The Street of Sin" and earlier successes. Lubitsch and Jannings were associated together in the picture "Passion," the success of the years just after the war which introduced Pola Negri to the American public. The forthcoming Lubitsch and Jannings picture will be based on the Russian novel, "Paul, the First," by Merejkowski. It will be filmed under the working title of "The Patriarch." Evelyn Brent has the feminine lead, and William Powell is featured in the cast. One of the first scenes shows a mob of 500 extras dressed as Russian soldiers storming a palace in Moscow.

Director Albert Rogell and his company filming the pictures' version of Harold Bell Wright's book, "The Shepherd of the Hills," have come back to the studio after two months of location work in Utah and the Ozark Mountains. Alec B. Francis, Molly O'Day, John Boles, Mathew Betz, Romaine Fielding, Otis Harlan, Joseph Bennett, Maurice Murphy, Carl Stockdale, Marion Douglas and John Westwood were on the extensive location trip. The company returned on a special train from Cedar City, Utah, the railroad station nearest the various locations used in that State. In addition to Pullmans, diner and baggage car, an animal car was part of the train. It was used to transport 10 trained animals which were part of the troupe.

Those glamorous "perfect lovers" of the screen and stage, the captivating ladies and dashing beaus of make-believe, who leave a wake of fluttering hearts behind their every appearance, have been psychoanalyzed as a group. And here's the startling result:

"They really don't know what love is"

That's the explanation offered in Photoplay magazine by Dr. Louis E. Bisch, neuropsychiatrist of New York Polyclinic Medical School, for the fact that they usually make a failure—or several failures—of their attempts at marriage.

The fact is, he maintains, that the make-believe lovers become so accustomed to playing on their emotions in their efforts to stimulate romance that they lose the capacity for heart-felt love with its accompanying sense of obligation in the face of difficulties.

While the man and woman in ordinary life are facing reality daily, and so learn to take the real problems of courtship and marriage as a matter of course, the actor lives a life of make-believe where problems are prearranged and settled beforehand, Dr. Bisch points out.

Something new in tributes was afforded Bebe Daniels recently while the comedienne was on location making exteriors for her latest comedy, "She's a Sheik." As hundreds of players were being lined up for a better sequence several miles out on the desert, near Guadalupe, 200 miles from Hollywood, an airplane suddenly appeared over the sand dunes and circled twice before dropping a huge bouquet of flowers. Attached to the blossoms was a message of welcome from the Mayor of one of the nearby towns. The Mayor's son, a student pilot, flew the plane.

Ray Rockett, who has been production manager for many First National pictures at the Burbank studio, and also in New York when the company was producing in the East, is bound for Berlin, where he will supervise German productions for First National. Rockett expects to remain in Germany about six months watching the progress made by Defina, Deutsche corporation, which is now producing pictures for the world market. Defina has already produced five pictures—"Dancing Vienna," with Lya Mara and Ben Lyon; "The Alpine Tragedy," by Richard Voss; "The Wild Man," "The Train De Luxe," and a screen version of Alphonse Daudet's novel, "Fromont Jr. and Risler Sr."

John Barrymore's next picture, "Tempest," has started in production. The story deals with the rebellious Cossacks after the Russian revolution. Slav Tourjansky will direct. Included in the cast are Vera Voronina, Barrymore's new leading woman, Louis Wolheim, George Fawcett, Feodor Chaliapin, son of the noted singer, and 18 character players of lesser importance.

Production started this week on "Sailors' Wives," a picture co-featuring Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor. It is the story of modern married life in the hectic "jazz" days. Lloyd Hughes and Mary Astor recently finished "No Place To Go," which was directed by Mervyn LeRoy.

Three First National companies returned to the West Coast studios this week, after spending some time on locations ranging from Coronado on the south to the Oregon line on the north. Colleen Moore and her company, making an untitled comedy-drama, are back from a location trip to Coronado, while Albert Rogell and a company of 60 checked in from Southern Utah, where they have been filming the screen version of Harold Bell Wright's "The Shepherd of the Hills," as told above. Milton Sills and a company of 50 returned from a month's location trip in Northern California, making "The Valley of the Giants."

Alberto Guglielmi, brother of Rudolph Valentino, is going to perpetuate the name of Valentino in the films. He has had his face remodeled by a plastic surgeon, he has shifted his name to Alberto Valentino and he is all ready to start his first feature production.

Clara Bow and Josef Swickard are together on the screen again for the first time since "Maytime." In this picture, made several years ago, both had minor parts. Now Miss Bow is being starred in "Get Your Man," her fourth starring vehicle. Swickard is cast as the father, leading man. Swickard was making personal appearance in the East when he was offered the part in "Get Your Man."

Two hundred Hollywood film extras are today putting in claims for having had the softest job in the world. They got paid for going to the theater. All they had to do was sit and watch 18 beautiful dancing girls perform under the guidance of Lina Basquette and listen to a symphony orchestra directed by Adolphe Menjou. The 200 are ready to testify that Menjou can direct an orchestra as well as he can lift an eyebrow, and that is enough to qualify him for a card in any musicians' union. The theater was constructed especially for Menjou's latest starring picture, "Serenade." In this picture the suave prince of lovers departs from his usual sophisticated roles and

Jesse Lasky Discovers That Wicked Hollywood Has Economic Conscience

It Did Not Stretch Far Enough to Allow Salary Cuts But Other Savings in Films Have Been Adjusted.

TAKE it from Jesse Lasky of Paramount—take it with a grain of salt if you prefer—the production of motion pictures has gotten around to an economical basis. "The economic conscience of Hollywood," says Mr. Lasky, who apparently discovered that Hollywood had something of the sort under cover, "has been aroused and today motion picture studios are making better pictures with an efficiency and economy that we have never seen before in this industry.

"The policies which we have adopted are beginning to bear fruit. These policies were enunciated at the convention last May when I served notice on stars and directors and studio personnel that our organization was an institution that stood for certain standards of entertainment; that this institution was bigger than any single member or group of members in it and that if an artist or director could not do things in the way we wanted them done he could seek employment elsewhere.

"Players whose box office drawing power was largely in their own imagination or in our theater advertising, have been replaced by fresh, eager personalities that fit better into our plans for the continuing growth of an institution. Directors who had lost freshness and brilliance in their treatment of stories have been dropped and in their places are young men who have a new modern manner of screen story telling which the public wants.

"The campaign against incompetence and extravagance reached its focus early in the summer when producers in Hollywood announced a reduction in salaries. Although the salary cut was abandoned it had its effect in the creation of a new state of mind throughout studios."

WITH Mr. Lasky explaining how economy has finally arrived and while movie theater managers, are shouting that admission prices will have to be raised—as they certainly will—if the show houses are to make any money with the present exhibition standards maintained, word comes from Mr. Lasky's organization of the amount of cash which must be spent on movie actresses' dresses, cash spent carefully enough in a manner to actually keep the expenses down.

Upon the shelves of the costume department, says the report, are yards and yards of material gathered from all parts of the world. Practically any kind of cloth will be found ready for use.

More than $68,000 worth of dress goods is kept on hand for the production of the stars' gowns, according to figures compiled by Frank Richardson, head of the Paramount wardrobe department.

The greatest item is $10,466.71 worth of lace, comprising yards of this dainty material in hundreds of varieties.

Woolen goods kept on hand are valued at $7,110.58. Chiffon is kept to the total of $7,655.96 while the satin stock amounts to $8,945.98.

Of metal cloth, from which many of the screen's startling gown effects are secured, there is $6223.66. Flounce material aggregates $7641.57, crepe $6698.05, net $4228.52 and taffeta $2031.77.

Velvet gives a rich effect on the screen, and the Paramount wardrobe department keeps $3878.93 of this available.

Cotton material aggregates $1024.21, georgette $372.66, jersey $279.94 and poplin and pongee $140.10.

Four hundred and eighty-three dollars' worth of lining is kept for costumes.

A supply of patterned robes, ready to be cut into dresses, is

Emil Oberhoffer Here for Symphony Rehearsals

THE arrival this morning from Minneapolis of Emil Oberhoffer, first of the five conductors of distinguished international fame who are to lead the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra through the coming season, will inaugurate 10 days of strenuous rehearsal, starting tomorrow, by the orchestra in preparation for the symphony's greatest year. The rehearsals will be held at the Musicians' Club, 3535 Pine street.

The coming week also will see the Symphony Society in its suite of offices in the Odeon, from which it was driven last spring by the fire which for a time threatened to leave the orchestra homeless.

Manager William E. Walter of the Symphony Orchestra has announced three more of the programs to be presented during the season; that to be conducted by Willem van Hoogstraten on Dec. 9 and 10 and those conducted by Eugene Goossens on Dec. 16 and 17 and March 16 and 17. Willem van Hoogstraten is a young Hollander who has won success as a guest conductor in New York and now heads the Portland Symphony Orchestra. Eugene Goossens, a young Englishman, was chosen by George Eastman to head the Rochester Symphony Orchestra, after having won a European fame as diligent. The programs are:

FIFTH SYMPHONY PAIR,
December 9 and 10.
Willem van Hoogstraten, Conductor.
Tschaikowsky Overture—Fantasia "Romeo and Juliet."
Debussy—"Fetes."
Moussorgsky—"A Night on Bald Mountain."
Brahms—Symphony No. 1 in C minor, op. 68.

SIXTH SYMPHONY PAIR,
Dec. 16 and 17.
Eugene Goossens, Conductor.
Svendsen Overture—"Carnival in Paris."
Vaughan Williams Symphony—"The Pastoral."
Wagner—"Siegfried's Rhine Journey."
Ravel—Suite No. 2—"Daphnis and Chloe."
(a) Goossens—"By the Tarn."
(b) Grainger—"Molly on the Shore."
Enesco, Roumanian Rhapsody No. 1.

LAST SYMPHONY PAIR,
March 16 and 17.
Eugene Goossens, Conductor.
Walter Gieseking, Soloist.
Overture—"Russian Easter" .... Rimsky-Korsakoff
Symphony in C Major (Jupiter) .... Mozart
Concerto for piano in A minor. .Schumann
Tone Poem—"Pan and the Priest" .... Hanson
"Nights in the Gardens of Spain" .... De Falla.
(For orchestra and piano.)
Capriccio Italien .... Tschaikowsky takes the part of a struggling musician.

Twenty thousand people filled the Hollywood Bowl recently to witness the Indian ceremonials at which Monte Blue was instated as a chief in the Navajo tribe. Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks are the only other motion picture personages who have been given this honor. Monte, who is really one-fourth Cherokee Indian, received the invitation to become a Navajo chief in true redman fashion. In the afternoon a footrunner, clad in the ancestral garments of his race, arrived at the gates of the studio, bearing the message that his chief awaited his brother, Monte Blue, who was invited to smoke the pipe of peace and take part in ceremonies which would make him a blood-brother and a chief. The same evening the ritual was completed. Several years ago Monte was honored similarly by the Nez Perz tribe of Idaho, with the name "Blue Mountain." Among the Navajos he is now "Chief Strong Eagle."

Packing 235 pounds of Tom Kennedy, not counting two 5-pound boulders which the winner tried to conceal in a 10-pound army overcoat, Tom Mix paid his bet on the Dempsey-Tunney fight while a noon-day crowd of 5000 persons on Hollywood boulevard looked on. Mix carried Kennedy on his shoulders from Grauman's Egyptian Theater to the Montmarte Cafe, where insult was added to injury by a luncheon check for 20 scribes and cameramen.

In addition to lugging Kennedy up the car tracks before a crowd of laughing, cheering spectators, Mix had to hand over $200 and the price of a new suit of clothes to the man who bet on Tunney. The latter was necessitated by the fact that Kennedy's trousers caught fire when another Dempsey supporter took a crack at the spot with a slap-stick that sported a blank cartridge in the end of it.

After a visit of several weeks in Hollywood, Katherine Young Wilson, whose engagement to Richard Barthelmess was recently announced, has departed for her home in New York where she will plan the trousseau for her wedding. The nuptials, according to present plans, will take place in New York in November, upon the completion of "The Noose" which is to be Barthelmess' next picture. Miss Wilson formerly appeared with Barthelmess in the East and their engagement was announced while the star was in New York for the opening of "The Patent Leather Kid."

Robert Kane, who recently took his production staff to Burbank, begins filming his first Hollywood production this week, "French Dressing." Lois Wilson, H. B. Warner, Clive Brook and Lilyan Tashman have been signed for the leading roles.

Following the completion of "The Spotlight," in which she is now starring with Neil Hamilton as her leading man, Esther Ralston will begin work on "The Jazz Orphan." The story is an original by Doris Anderson. "The Jazz Orphan," which is a tentative title, supplants "The Glory Girl," as the next Ralston vehicle.

Production has just started on "The Legion of the Condemned," the sequel of "Wings." The story was written by John Monk Saunders and is directed by William Wellman, the author and director of the companion piece. Gary Cooper is the star of the picture. The latest additions to the cast are Jack Geddings and Bill Stroh, American army pilots. Both author and director were aviators during the war.

TO trim the dresses, the department carries $3138.75 worth of ribbon, $4168.74 in beads, $1132.47 of buckles and ornaments, $1544.43 of fringe, $1774.14 in dress jewels, $295.46 of feathers, $411.84 worth of flowers $198.17 of fur and $309.37 worth of tassels.

For the completion of the dresses there is $7353.03 worth of banding and large amounts of boning, braids, belting cord, leather goods, shields, tape, wadding and weights.

The amount of work done by the department can be seen from the fact that the studio carries $281.99 worth of buttons, $285 worth of yarn, $114.30 worth of pins and $67.34 worth of hooks and eyes.

The thread supply is estimated at $2418.81.

Hat bodies, wire and other millinery material swells this total considerably.

The department also has a stock of $3483.97 worth of hose to go with every color dress made.

YOU probably have read that the esteemed Metro-Goldwyn organization has been having certain troubles with the more sensitive of the race-conscious Irish filmgoers. The indignant Celts have been leaving little doubt that they were annoyed, for example, by the comic antics of the film called "The Callahans and the Murphys," which played here at Loew's some months ago.

Despite the annoyance of the battling Gaels, the photoplay is still on display in some of the theaters; yet the protestors have at least one victory to their credit that possibly few of them realize. At Loew's again, a week or so ago, a picturization of Joseph Conrad's decidedly lesser novel, "Romance," was on display, under the title of "The Road to Romance," and it was in this that the triumph was to be discovered. You may remember that in the story the villain was an Irishman residing in the West Indies. If you saw the film you will recall that the Celtic protest was strong enough to cause the careful producers to change him into a Cuban.

THE most famous movie "double" of all is Ramon Novarro. Ramon started doubling for Rudy Valentino and when Rex Ingram had his first quarrel with Rudy back in the old Metro days he threatened to make a star of Ramon, and succeeded, says Photoplay magazine.

But naught was said of Ramon's double until this season when he stepped forward to take a bow as Gilbert Roland, the dashing lover of Camille. Gilbert also spent some time doubling for another Gilbert, first name John.

Then came a third—Don Alvarado stepping from the ranks of the long shots to the close-ups and better pay checks. Don has doubled for nearly all the "great lovers," Ronald Colman included.

The newest of the boys is Charles Delaney. De Mille has just put Charlie under a long time contract and his first picture will be "The Main Event." Charlie has been a lot of stars in the dangerous distance.

The Toy Players In Three Dramas

The Toy Theater Players will open their season next Thursday and Friday nights with a group of one-act plays at the Toy Theater, 455 North Boyle avenue. The first play will be "Slow But Sure," by Marian Spencer Smith. Irma Gottschalk will take the leading role, supported by the following members of the cast: Rose Hobelman, Milton Carpenter and E. Willard Blackmore.

The second play on the program will be "Comedy and Tragedy," by W. S. Gilbert. Kathryn Trautz will play the part of Clarice, supported by Hazel N. Baare, E. Willard Blackmore, Robert B. East, Milton Carpenter, Martine Fellhauer, Orville B. Suck, Herbert Clark, Kelsie O. Pylant and S. Chester Landrum.

The concluding play of the program will be "The Land of Heart's Desire," by William Butler Yeats. It will be presented with the following cast: Robert B. East, Margaret Ukley, Eben H. Hoffman Jr., Lydia Peterson, S. Chester Landrum and Marjorie Halliburton.

Chamlees Will Open
Civic Music League Season
At the Odeon Tuesday

MARIO CHAMLEE, tenor of the Metropolitan, Ravinia and San Francisco Opera companies, with Ruth Miller, soprano, will open the Civic Music League's fourth season at the Odeon on Tuesday evening of this week. Ruth Miller, who in private life is Mrs. Chamlee, and Mr. Chamlee, are expected in the city tomorrow. Mrs. Chamlee has been heard here in private recital and Mr. Chamlee in recital with the orchestra and with the Scotti Opera Company. Tuesday's program is designed to meet the request of members of the league for ensemble numbers. To that end the Chamlees will provide the St. Sulpice scene from Massenet's "Manon" in costume, Mr. Chamlee having scored one of the greatest successes of his career as Des Grieux in this opera.

The Civic Music League, with its membership of $5 admitting to the five attractions without extra charge, is showing more spontaneous response each season and making converts to good music. As no single tickets are sold to the concerts, guest tickets only being available where a member who cannot attend the concert turns back his ticket for re-sale, the public is seeing the wisdom of permanent membership to insure admittance.

In addition to the Chamlees, members will have this season "The Beggar's Opera," Paul Kochanski, one of the leading violinists of the country; Claudia Muzio, soprano, Chicago Civic Opera Company, and the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

A meeting of the Musical Research Club will be held Tuesday afternoon at the Town Club. The following program will be offered:

Voice—"In My Native Village" . . Hildach
Night .... Mary Helen Brown
Mrs. Elvira Diamond.
Accompanist—Mrs. J. L. Bowling.
Piano—Tangoe .... Albenez
The Beautiful Danube .... Strauss-Schutz-Ezler
Miss Beatrice Knetzger.
Voice—Haberna .... Carmen
Miss Helen Musick.
Accompanist—Miss Katherine McIntyre.
Violin Quartet—To A Wild Rose. McDowell
Amaryllis .... Ghys
Miss Kathrine McIntyre, Mrs. Carl Hoffman, Miss Sylvia Walden, Mrs. Jenks.
Voice—
Dawn .... Kern
Birds of The Wilderness ..... Horsman
Mrs. Richard Miles.
Accompanist—Mrs. Margery Buchannan.
Voice—
Abide With Me .... Liddle
Voce De Donna .... Ponchelli
Mrs. L. R. Meteer.
Accompanist—Mrs. J. L. Bowling.

Leading members of the musical profession, more particularly vocal teachers, will act as sponsors for the Dusolina Giannini concert which will take place at the Odeon on Thursday evening, Nov. 10, and effort will be made to enlist the interest of the vocal students in attending the concert. Giannini being regarded as an outstanding figure among the younger artists of America. Giannini will appear as soloist for the Minneapolis Orchestra on Nov. 4, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of the orchestra. When the orchestra was launched, 25 years ago, Emil Oberhoffer was conductor and Marcella Sembrich, teacher of Giannini, the soloist. Oberhoffer's program for that occasion will be repeated by the present conductor Henri Verbrugghen and Giannini will sing the song Sembrich sang 25 years ago. The latter will be a guest at the concert.

Through the courtesy of the St. Louis Symphony Society, Carl Schuricht, the young German conductor who is being brought to St. Louis to conduct four symphony concerts during the months of February and March, will also appear as guest conductor with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra this season.

Bernardino Molinari, artistic director of the Augusteo Orchestra of Rome, who is being also brought to America by the St. Louis Symphony Society as guest conductor of five midseason concerts, will appear as guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra after his engagement here.

The October meeting of the Missouri Chapter, A. G. O., will be held Monday at the First Presbyterian Church, 225 South High street, Belleville, Mrs. E. A. Alexander, organist of First Church, hostess. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock and a short business session will follow the dinner, then Julius Oetling, A. A. G. O., will give a lecture recital. He has chosen an all-American program.

Daniel R. Philippi's program for his "Hour of Organ Music" this evening from 8 to 9 p. m. in Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets includes: Prelude to Tristan and Isolde, Wagner; Spring Song, Hollins; Evening Bells and Cradle Song, Macfarlane; Intermezzo from Sixth Organ Symphony, Widor; (a) Serenade and (b) Ave Maria, Schubert; Prelude, Le Deluge, Saint-Saens; March Slave, Tschaikowsky.

The music section of the St. Louis College Club announces a concert to take place Sunday, Nov. 6, at 3:00 p. m. in the Wednesday Club auditorium. The Ukranian Choir, under the direction of Father Merenkow will sing Ukranian folk songs and Russian church music. A group of Negro women from the St. Louis public schools will sing Negro spirituals under the direction of Garcia Corneal. Mrs. Bagranoff will sing Bulgarian folk songs in costume and Mrs. Vlasek will sing Czech folk songs in costume.

The Morning Etude Music Club will open its season at the Missouri Hotel Auditorium next Wednesday at 10:15 a. m. with Mrs. B. C. Strassberger leader of the first section and the section members presenting the following program:

Piano—(a) Sonetta del Petraca ..... Liszt
(b) Etinselles (Sparks) —Moskowski
Mrs. W. H. Niel Jr.
Cello—(a) Bits .... Pepper
Miss Louise Evers.
Vocal—(a) Adelaide .... Beethoven
Mrs. Margaret W. Niemoeller.
Piano—(a) Tango .... Albeniz
(b) The Blue Danube —Strauss-Schulz Ezler
Miss Beatrice Knetzger.
Vocal—(a) Hymn to the Night Campbell-Tipton
(b) That Perfect Hour A. W. Kramer
(c) Snow Fairies . Cecil Forsyth
Mrs. Armand Pfisterer.

Noel Poepping, composer of "The Beggar Princess" will outline his composition and Miss Margaret McCoubrie, soprano, will give excerpts from the opera, accompanied by Miss Knetzger.

James Hagney, young American tenor, who will appear at the Odeon Theater on Armistice night, Nov. 11, sang at his farewell concert in Paris last Wednesday evening at the Salle des Agricultures. According to cable reports received by the American Legion Concert Committee the event was a great success.

Hagney is a former St. Louis boy, who served in the 89th Division during the war, and who remained in Paris after the Armistice had been signed to complete his vocal and operatic training and launch his artistic career. He will be assisted by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Emil Oberhoffer.

The concert will mark the climax of a program of festivities being arranged by the legion to celebrate the anniversary of the signing of the armistice. Proceeds will be devoted to the promotion of welfare of the local reconstruction hospital.

Players to Open Guild Year With "Show Boat" Play

The Players will open their season next Thursday night with a show-boat production of "The Drunkard" or "The Fallen Saved," a temperance drama which was the hit of the Boston season of 1844. The theater of the Artists' Guild on Union Boulevard and Enright avenue will be transformed for the occasion into a show-boat, "The Belle of the Des Peres," and a Negro quartet will liven up the scene with jazz and old familiar tunes. After the play itself there will be an exhibition of magic and sleight-of-hand.

"The Drunkard" depicts in glowing colors the temptation, fall and redemption of Edward Middleton, a virtuous young man, and the sufferings and loyalty of his wife and child. The drama teaches its great lesson by displaying vivid pictures of saloon-life, culminating in a great delirium tremens scene in the gutters of New York.

The Players' cast includes Mrs. Paul Funkhouser, Mrs. Hermann Von Schrenk, Mrs. Edwin Lehman, Mrs. Ray Leimkuehler, Avon Blue Jr., Joseph Rouveyrol, Edwin Lehman, Frank M. Webster, Berthoud Clifford, Clarence Beck, Warren Drescher and Alphonse McMahon. There will be two private performances for the Players and their guests on Thursday and Friday evenings, and one public performance on Saturday evening, for which tickets will be sold at popular prices.

Tomorrow the Players in combination with the Artists' Guild will begin rehearsals of "Outward Bound," their first joint production. The cast has been filled through try-outs by Frederick Kitson Cowley, the new director brought here to take charge of the winter's program.

Yiddish Players At Odeon Tonight

Madame Nellie Kessman, visiting Yiddish soubrette from New York, has been retained for a second performance at the Odeon tonight. She is now making a tour of the country before leaving for an extended trip of Europe.

The play to be presented is: "A Cantor Comes to Town," a musical comedy in three acts, in which Madame Kessman plays a male role—that of a cantor lad who chants prayers at the synagogue on Saturdays and dreams of baseball and fights on Sundays.

"Enter Madame" For W. U. Little Theater.

The Little Theater of Washington University will present as its fourth semiannual production, "Enter Madame," a romantic comedy in three acts by Gilda Varesi and Dolly Byrne, to be given at the Artists' Guild, Union and Enright avenues, on the nights of Dec. 8 and 9.

The cast follows:

Gerald Fitzgerald—Madame's husband .... Richard Smith
Mrs. Flora Preston—A widow .... Henriette Neuman
Tamamoto—Mr. Fitzgerald's servant .... Jack Danner
John Fitzgerald—His son. William Heuer
Aline Chalmers—John's fiancee Harriet Shafer
Bice—Madame's maid. . Willme Schwindeler
The Doctor—Her personal physician Lloyd Harri
Miss Smith—Her secretary Jacqueline Ambler
Archimede—Her chef .... William Ogden
Madame Lise Della Robbia. Marian Epstein

Harry R. McClain, who coached Little Theater's two successful productions of last year, will direct the play. He will be assisted by P. G. Chamberlain.

Musical Comedy at the St. Louis.

The St. Louis Theater will depart from its policy of five Orpheum Circuit acts for this week only and present a full-length musical comedy extravaganza, with a company of 30 entertainers. Produced by the Orpheum Circuit's production department, the show carries its own orchestra, scenery and electrical effects and stage crew. Marion Wilkins, a St. Louis girl, is one of the featured players in the production, which is called "Gossips of 1927." The photoplay will be "The Wise Wife" with Phyllis Haver.

Second Thoughts ON First Nights

its of "Abie" referred to as "un magot."

M. THOMAS, having been commissioned by "L'Illustration" to select an American play (I suppose with the notion that this would gratify the visiting legionnaires) was torn with indecision. He thought of Eugene O'Neill but decided that O'Neill's plays should be read as a whole. It is not known why. He thought of Clare Kummer and decided to do one of hers later. He thought of "What Price Glory" but felt that the French reader would need a profound knowledge of the United States and the American mind not to be disturbed by the conception of war and soldiers set forth in that masterpiece. It narrowed down to some piece by George S. Kaufman, who is described in the foreword as having been, at one time or another, law student, surveyor, reporter, and "marchand de lacets."

Today, says M. Thomas, "il est courieriste theatral, si l'on peut dire (puisque rien n'est pareil labas) au New York Times." And he adds "Kaufman has observed life in that tough school of American reporting which makes men of steel and rubber when it does not kill or empty them in a few years."

This last sentence arises from the common but profound misconception that anyone who works on a newspaper is a reporter. If Kaufman has been made into steel and rubber, it was in the forge of such stern and taxing as is involved in George Tyler to find out Mr. Belasco had or had swooned away at the last agers' meeting.

COMMUNITY FUND TO OPEN CAMPAIGN TO GET $1,850,000

Directors and Canvassers to Dine at Statler Tomorrow Evening Preliminary to Work.

APPEAL ISSUED BY ERASTUS WELLS

He and Alfred Fairbank Declare St. Louis Must Contribute to Uphold City's Reputation.

The Community Fund campaign to raise $1,850,000 for the support of 50 St. Louis and St. Louis County charities and welfare agencies starts tomorrow evening with a dinner at Hotel Statler for the men and women who will canvass the city within the next two weeks.

Erastus Wells, general chairman of the Community Fund, and Alfred Fairbank, campaign chairman, appealed yesterday to St. Louisans to put the fund over, citing the many successes St. Louis had achieved within the past few years.

"For some peculiar reason which no one understands," they said, "the Community Fund has failed to make its quota for a number of years. We appeal to St. Louis and to St. Louis County to make the quota this year and go gloriously over the top. We simply can't break St. Louis' glorious record and register the one failure which would hurt the reputation of this city which is now the admiration of the entire United States.

"Did ever a city take care of its own, refusing outside aid, more promptly or effectively than did St. Louis after the tornado? There was instant response to the extent of almost $900,000!

"Now here we come in the name of the Community Fund. We ask for only $1,850,000 for work which touches the very heart of the city's most vital needs. The Community Fund cares for those who have no friends for babies and for the old, the forlorn, the deserted.

"Figures are dull, but we could give you some telling of thousands treated free in hospitals where the charity work is supported by the Community Fund; we could tell of other thousands cared for in their homes by the Visiting Nurses; we could show you thousands of boys and girls in Community Fund institutions getting a normal chance instead of playing in the alleys and forming recruits for the vicious gangs."

"The Communitly Fund stands for common humanity and in Community Fund hospitals and institutions Roman Catholic and Jews as well as Protestant and men and women of no faith at all are cared for.

"Help us put over the Community Fund this year. Remember that when you give to the Community Fund you give to 50 agencies and that the Community Fund is saving you the bother and expense of 50 different campaigns."

Chairmen of the Community Fund campaign division are: Special Gifts, F. Ingram Boyd; City Division, Tom Stanion; County, Robert A. Roessel; Women's, Mrs. E. R. Kroeger; Negroes, Frank L. Williams; Commercial and Industrial, Guy W. Oliver; Manufacturing, Samuel Plant; Mercantile, Clarence R. Comfort; Public Unit, Robert Burkham; Utilities, Albert T. Perkins; Railroads, Henry T. The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made
Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. It tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Portrait for Kentucky Society.

A joint meeting of the Missouri Historical Society and the Kentucky Society of St. Louis will be held at Jefferson Memorial, Friday evening. A portrait of J. Proctor Knott, Attorney-General of Missouri from 1858 to 1861, and later Congressman from Kentucky and Governor of Kentucky, will be presented to the society by his niece, Miss Josephine Gorin. Robert G. Evans of Danville, Ky., and Attorney-General Gentry will be the speakers.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for It."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or when you even suspect the approach of constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease!

Only one word of warning; the above advice is true of genuine Castoria.* The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature is genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know as to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

Sunshine vs. Moonshine

(Written by a woman who saved her husband from the drinking evil)

My man is very good to me,
So loyal, kind and true.
He never comes home really drunk,
As other husbands do.
But sometimes, when he's "got too much,"
I wish that I were dead;
For there's no sunshine in my heart,
When moonshine's in his head.

Some folks can laugh at such a plight
Of some poor drunken fool.
To me there's naught but aching heart
And pity for Satan's tool.
And when he's had just "one too many,"
I fear that we must part:
For when there's moonshine in his head
There's no sunshine in my heart.

Within the garden of my life,
Love bloomed in every thought.
But now I fear 'tis wilting fast
And love must come to naught.
I pray before it is too late,
He'll think how oft I've said:
"There's no sunshine in my heart, dear,
When there's moonshine in your head."

* * * * * * * *

I read the book, "The National Curse,"
Sent me by Dr. Haines;
And I used the "Golden Treatment"
To break the galling chains.

The splendid manhood underneath
Is freed from Satan's snare;
Since there's no moonshine in his head,
Our hearts have sunshine there.

I gave the powder secretly,
He never even knew;
Oh, woman, do the same today,
The act you cannot rue.
Our lives are very different,
Since that first ad I read;
In our hearts are floods of sunshine,
And no moonshine in his head.

Save those near and dear to you from a life of degradation, poverty and disgrace. You can do it by cutting out this coupon.

Free Treatment Coupon

Fill in your name and address on blank lines below. Then cut out this coupon and mail it to Dr. J. W. Haines, 2012 Glenn Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio. You will receive in return enough of the treatment to prove to you that it will stop drunkenness in any form. You give it in tea, coffee or food. The drunkard will stop drinking without knowing why.

Movie Stars Rely on FARR'S

Movie stars must stay young and slim or lose their jobs.

So they slenderize and rely on Farr's as the safest way to restore the natural, original color whenever a gray spear appears.

Farr's is a common sight in the dressing rooms at the studios. It is freely used because they have proved it to be absolutely harmless, perfectly clear and clean, not sticky and will not rub off nor stain the scalp.

EMINENT EDUCATORS TO VISIT ST. LOUIS

They Will Address State Teachers' Convention Which Opens Nov. 9.

About 15,000 teachers are expected here Nov. 9 to 12 for the sixty-fifth annual convention of the Missouri State Teachers' Association. They will come from all parts of the State.

General session are to be held at the Coliseum while departmental meetings will convene in various high schools and intermediate schools. The Missouri State Teachers' Association has a membership of 23,000 and owns its own building at Columbia. The association has arranged numerous channels of aid for teachers, including group insurance plans and legislative programs.

A number of eminent educators appears on the convention program this year. Prof. George C. Blakeslee of the Yerkes Observatory will give an illustrated lecture at the opening session on "Recent Photography of the Heavens." Dr. Edwin A. Lee, president of the University of California, appears on the program with two topics: "Vocational Effectiveness" and "The Non-Collegiate Ninety." Dr. Elbert Fretwell and Dr. Sarah Sturtevant of Columbia University and Dr. George A. Works of Cornell University are among the other speakers.

DAYTON WESTMINSTER CHOIR TO GIVE PROGRAM IN ST. LOUIS

Appearance at Coliseum Nov. 4 Will Be Under Auspices of Missionary Body.

Church choirs and musical organizations in St. Louis and neighboring communities are manifesting keen interest in the appearance of the Dayton Westminster Choir in a program of choral music at the Coliseum, Nov. 4, under auspices of the Women's Missionary Federation.

The choirs of 50 St. Louis churches have arranged to attend in bodies. Among groups from the East Side will be 40 members of the Granite City Prebyterian Church and the choir of the First Presbyterian Church of East St. Louis. St. John's Methodist Church has supplied tickets to the boys and girls of the Methodist Orphans' Home. More than 200 churches and musical organizations are distributing tickets.

One of the features of the program will be an anthem, "God Is a Spirit," composed by David Hugh Jones, organist of the choir's home church.

LIBRARY GAINS OVER 1926

Books Circulated in September Show Increase of 27,000 in Total.

During September, the Public Library circulated 217,439 books, an increase of 27,019 over the same month in 1926. The 12 branch libraries lent 62 per cent of the total number of books.

The registration department reports that 3548 cards were issued to new borrowers in September. Oct. 1 there were 154,273 borrowers' cards in force, 15,842 held by men, 58,482 by women, and 50,508 by children. More than 5500 new books were acquired last month, and $1770.24 in fines were collected.

Apela Clubs to Hold Convention.

The National Association of Apela Clubs, composed of managers of office appliance organizaitons throughout the country, will open its fifth annual convention at Hotel Statler next Tuesday. The convention will last through the week.

Names of Former Soldiers Wanted.

World War Veterans of the 128th Field Artillery, Thirty-fifth Division, are urged to submit their names and addresses to a tentative committee recently formed for the purpose of organizing a permanent A. E. F. Veterans' Association of the regiment. Of the 1600 men who were members of the 128th during the war, the committee has located less than 150. Veterans of the regiment are asked to communicate with B. H. Sullivan, 1603 Ambassador Building.

Tax on Silk Stockings.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Women taxpayers are hard hit in Neustadt, Thuringia. Not content with levying a tax on shingled heads, the municipality has decided to impose taxes on silk stockings, patent leather shoes and on the carrying of canes by women.

Soprano—I Will Sing New Songs of Gladness....Dvorak
Rhoda Arnold, soprano, with orchestra.
Questions and Answers by Dr. Poling.
Benediction with chanted amen by quartet.

The National Concert Orchestra will give the second afternoon program today.

Dr. Melchiore Mauro-Coltone is to play the great organ in this evening's Capital Theater "Family" hour.

Merle Thorpe, authority on economy and politics, will be guest speaker in the Collier's Radio Hour.

In addition to a five-minute talk by Thorpe, the broadcast will bring dramatizations of several short stories and a number of crisp dialogues specially prepared for microphone presentation, as well as music by the Collier's symphonic orchestra, which has been augmented for the occasion on account of operatic selections to be heard.

Merle Thorpe, editor of the Nation's Business, the official organ of the National Chamber of Commerce of the United States, has been a feature writer on economic and political matters for many years. He is a graduate of the University of Washington and was first professor of journalism at that institution. He is author of the book, "The Coming Newspaper."

Giuseppe DeLuca, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, and the Atwater Kent Orchestra, under Nahan Franko, formerly conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, will present tonight's Atwater Kent Hour through KSD.

DeLuca is a Roman by birth and at the age of 13, his talent for singing was brought to the attention of Bartolini, famous baritone and teacher. The boy then showed indications of musical feeling to a marked degree and his voice at that time was of distinctive baritone quality. Fearing a possible change, it was not until two years later that DeLuca entered the conservatory of Santa Cecilia in Rome where he studied for five years before making his debut in "Faust."

He spent eight winters in the famous La Scala then came to America.

Monday Night Silent

There is no broadcasting scheduled for KSD tomorrow night.

Tuesday on KSD

"The Great Moments in History" program Tuesday evening will be built around the late Theodore Roosevelt. Henry Fisk Carlton in using Roosevelt as a basis for this program in recognition of his birthday on Oct. 27, has taken little known aspects of his life before becoming President, such as the beginning of Roosevelt's political career when, at the age of 22, he was sent to the State Legislature, "beating the machine," characteristic of his whole political career, the first time he sought public office.

An old barn, with spooks and eerie noises, will be the locale of "Cotton" and "Morpheus," in the Sealy Air Weavers broadcast Tuesday evening.

The musical program follows: Carry Me Back to Old Virginny, Vibraphone solo; One Alone, orchestra; At Dawning, orchestra; It Don't Do Nothing but Rain, vocal duet; Liebesfreud, xylophone solo; Two Little Pretty Birds, orchestra; Lonely, orchestra; Sometime, vocal duet; Barbara, orchestra; Carry Me Back to Old Virginny.

Broadway and the concert world will unite in the Eveready hour Tuesday evening.

A new rhapsody will be introduced, "A Study in Indigo," written by C. Maxwell Smith. It is said to be rich in the "blues" and jazz idioms that have marked the work of Gershwin and Grofe, leading composers in this field of musical endeavor.

The second new tune will be "A Letter From Dixie," originally scored for the piano.

In addition, this Eveready hour will present a new musical treatment of "Diane," a concert piece, with a small orchestra co-operating.

"Just a Memory," as sung in "Manhattan Mary," and a tune from the show, "Good News," called "The Varsity Drag," will be sung, the first by the entire Eveready group, the latter by the Revellers. They also will sing "Honolulu Moon." Virginia Rea will sing "Caro Nome" from Rigoletto.

When Harold Sanford's orchestra strikes up the opening notes of "The Cavalcade March" on Tuesday evening, another hour of "The Cavalcade" broadcasting will begin through KSD. As before, "The Cavalcade" will be a miscellaneous broadcast, bringing before the microphone well-known broadcasters.

Among those to be heard are "The Stratford Four," Mac and Lennie, T. Kirsch, 'cellist and Adam Carroll, pianist.

From 10 to 10:30 Tuesday night, KSD is to broadcast a community fund program furnished by the Boy Scouts.

Wednesday's Schedule

Betty Crocker is to give suggestions for Halloween parties in her talk over KSD in the Gold Medal Flour period Wednesday forenoon.

The Wednesday evening broadcasting is to begin with the Champion Spark Plug novelty program.

The numbers to be played follow:

Champion March; orchestra.

"Dear, On a Night Like This;" foxtrot; orchestra.

(a) "Me and the Girl Friend," trio with orchestra; (b) "Magnolia," trio with piano.

"Jalouse;" tango, orchestra.

"Old Fashioned Locket;" foxtrot, orchestra.

"Jack in the Box"; saxophone solo.

"Mickey Donahan"; trio with orchestra.

"Baby's Feet Go Pitter Patter;" foxtrot, orchestra.

"Dizzy Fingers;" piano solo with orchestra accompaniment.

"The Homeward Trail;" foxtrot, orchestra.

The third period Wednesday evening is to bring another Aeolian recital.

A 'cello solo, "Fallen Leaf," will be played by Lucien Schmit in the program of the Ipana Troubadours Wednesday evening.

The program is as follows:
Smiles.
Baby Feet Go Pitter Patter.
Just Another Day Wasted Away.
Fallen Leaf—'Cello solo.
Dolly Dimples.
Sweetheart Memories.
Summertime Sweetheart.
Song of the Troubadour—String section.
There's a Cradle in Carolina.
Sorry.
Smiles.

Vincent Lopez and his orchestra are to be heard through KSD Wednesday night, from 10 to 11 o'clock.

The Goodrich Zippers' orchestra, which will be heard through KSD Wednesday night, has been recruited from one of the best known symphonic groups that has appeared before the microphone.

Augmenting the little symphony group is the Silvertown quartet, which has been heard many times in Goodrich programs in the past.

Radio fans are to have the opportunity of guessing the identity of the musicians in the Zipper orchestra group. They have been heard many times over the air as solo artists and as a group in orchestral arrangements.

This new group will be directed by one of the best known impresarios in New York theatrical circles, a man whose name cannot be mentioned without revealing the identity of the group who are now playing as the Zipper orchestra.

Thursday Program

The violinist, Arcadie Birkenholz, who has already appeared before the microphone in the series of "Half Hours With Great Composers," is scheduled again for Thursday evening. He will play Saint-Saens' concerto No. 3, in B minor, with orchestra accompaniment.

Each quartet of the Hoover Sentinels will be represented by a selection or group in the program to be presented Thursday evening.

The program follows:
Adoration ....Borowski
Orchestra
Chanson Triste Op. 40 No. 2
Tschaikowski
Brass Quartet
Old French Gavotte
String Quartet
Minute Waltz ....Chopin
Orchestra
Old Refrain
Blue Baby
Male Quartet
Minuet in G............Beethoven
Woodwind Quartet
Pilgrim's Chorus "Tannhauser"
Wagner
Orchestra and Male Quartet

The Smith Brothers will broadcast as usual through KSD Thursday night.

From 9:30 to 10:30 Thursday night, KSD will broadcast a Navy day program from Washington. There will be music by a 30-piece orchestra from the U. S. Navy Band, singing by a glee club from the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and addresses by the Secretary of the Navy, Admiral Hilary Jones

RADIOLAS

Designed by the same engineers who planned the great broadcasting stations.

Built by the world's greatest electrical manufacturers—General Electric and Westinghouse.

Acclaimed everywhere as the finest achievements of the radio art. You haven't really heard radio until you have listened to a Radiola and RCA Loudspeaker. Let us demonstrate these wonderful instruments.

Price—You get more for your dollar in Radiolas than in any other Radio Set. You are assured of satisfaction, regardless of price. Radiolas are offered at prices that fit any purse. The lowest priced Radiola, $69.50, we believe offers the biggest value in any Radio instrument, and the lowest price at which a good set can be purchased. The finest instruments, selling at $495 to $895, are in a class by themselves—superior beyond comparison. No instruments approach them in Tone Reproduction, Reception and Selectivity.

Where to Buy—Select Your Dealer with Care

BROADCAST SCHEDULE OF KSD THIS WEEK HAS MANY FEATURES

and Commander Byrd of trans-Atlantic fame.

Friday on KSD

The third lesson in the Gold Medal Home Service cooking school will be broadcast by Betty Crocker Friday morning and will be based on recipes for what she terms, "The Three Sister Pies"—pumpkin pie, squash pie and sweet potato pie.

"The Nile," by Lebroux, a descriptive piece, will be featured in the hour's program of the Cities Service Concert Orchestra under Rosario Bourdon on Friday evening. Another feature of the hour will be bits of "Scenes Pittoresque" by Massenet, which will be presented by the strong and woodwind section of the orchestra. The Cities Service Cavaliers, who are Leo O'Rourke, Robert Stevens, John Seagle and Darrell Woodyard, will be heard in "De Coppah Moon," "An Irish Lullaby" and a new selection being arranged by Bourdon.

Other numbers programmed are:

Cities Service March	Bourdon
Fortune Teller selections	Herbert
Slavonic Dance No. 1	Dvorak
Serenade Espagnole	Chaminade
'Cello solos.
Polonaise Military	Chopin
In Beauty's Bower	Bendix
Anona	Grey

The next broadcast concert of the Whittall Anglo-Persians on the air Friday evening will be devoted largely to music written to depict the Oriental.

A particularly melodious work by Victor Herbert, "Fleurette," and "On the Road to Mandalay," by Oley Speaks, are features of the 30-minute program, which follows:

Call of the Desert.
In the Village	Ippolitow-Iwanow
Fleurette	Herbert
Slavonic Dance.	Dvorak
Mexo Tango.	Mateo
Passion	Edwards
On the Road to Mandalay	Speaks

Saturday Night

The United States Army Band is to broadcast the following concert program from Washington Saturday night:

El Capitan, March—Sousa.

Excerpts from "High Jinks"—Friml.

Tres Jolie — Waldteufel.

The Mill in the Forest—Eilenberg.

Ed Smalle, vocal comedian, and Joe Green, xylophonist, are to face the microphone in a half-hour program Saturday night.

Smalle's numbers will include "I'm Walking On Air," "Sing Me a Baby Song" and "Some Day You'll Say O. K." Green will accompany Smalle and also will play two xylophone solos.

Jessica Dragonette, famous lyric soprano, has been engaged as leading members of the "Philco Hour" cast, which is presenting every Saturday night through KSD revivals of operettas with many of the original stars in the important roles.

A company is to be formed in England to produce television receivers at a cost of about $100 each.

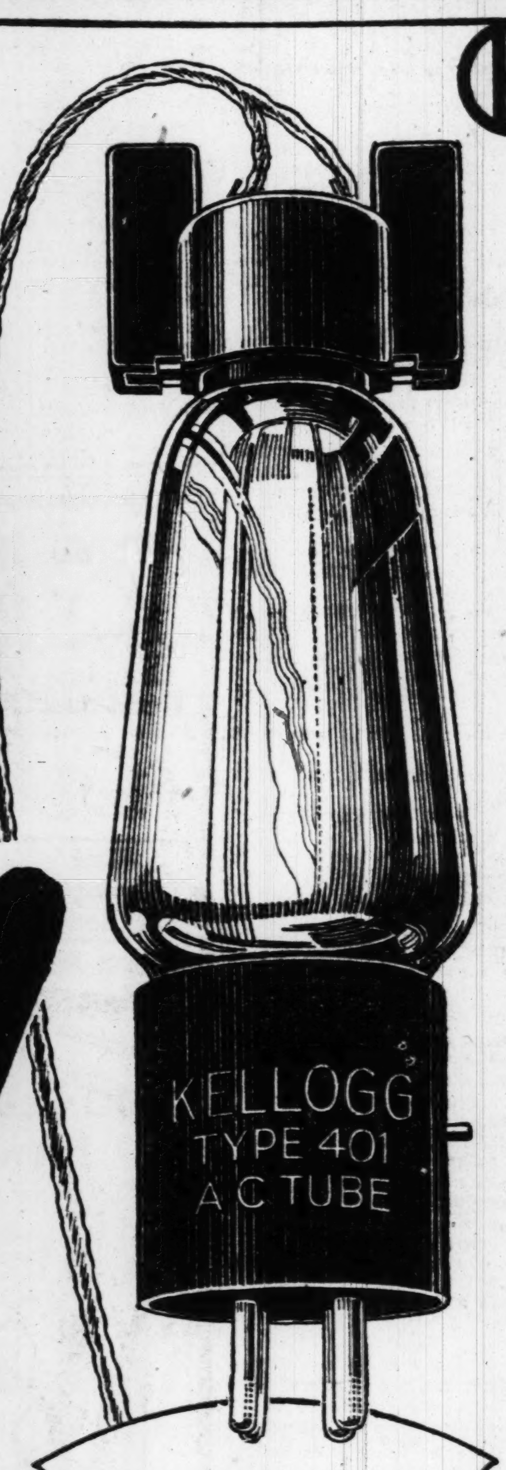
Now!



The first Radio using A. C. Tubes Throughout, including an A. C. Power Tube. A Real Electric Set—"A" Power Direct from Socket to Tube

As startling as was the announcement of steam and of air conquest is this new Battery-less and different socket-to-tube radio set. It's Electric! The radio you have waited for is here—really here! At last it is true. "A" Power Direct from Socket to Tube.

No batteries—no acid—no water—no charger—NONE! To enjoy flawless radio tone simply turn the switch. The alternating current which lights your home, when used in this new and remarkable set, gives a radio reception so flawless in tone that even those heretofore accustomed to the finest reproduction obtainable, recognize in it a distinct superiority. It is simply beyond your conception.

Hear this new Radio! See it! Try it! Marvelous!

That's the very word. We don't like to use it but it's the one which fits this most unusual radio accomplishment since radio first startled us with its reality. Only your own eyes and ears can make you know that actual electric Radio is yours to enjoy.

It is made possible through the medium of the new Kellogg A. C. Tube, including the Kellogg A. C. Power Tube, which is used with Kellogg radio. Go to the nearest Kellogg Radio dealer today. Ask to see this wonderful radio receiver which, because of the precise engineering skill used in its production, is astounding in its simplicity and accomplishments. Remember that back of this announcement are 30 years of experience in the invention and design and production of sensitive sound reproducing instruments. It was to be expected that Kellogg would reach the goal for which all radio manufacturers have striven.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN WAVE LENGTHS

Wholesale Shifting of Radio Stations Is Ordered, Effective on Nov. 1.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Less interference and heterodyning are expected to result from wholesale change in wave lengths of broadcasting stations just made by the Federal Radio Commission. The changes will become effective Nov. 1, when new 60-day licenses will be issued.

The changes are in line with the plan of the commission gradually to clear as many wave lengths as possible, to improve quality of reception.

Under the commission's plan, stations are to be classified according the service they render. Stations which are rendering a service worthy of a national audience will be given good wave lengths and allowed sufficient power to reach a large number of listeners. Broadcasters which are rendering a local service will be given wave lengths and power which will confine them to their local audiences.

The changes follow:

Battery Leads.

When disconnecting the storage battery for recharging, be sure to have the leads placed on their respective posts. If the A minus is accidentally placed on the A plus post, the set will operate poorly, but more often not at all. The reason for this usually is that the reversal of the battery leads makes the filament return to the detector tube go to the A minus side of the filament instead of the A plus, thereby blocking the detector action of that tube. The error also affects the operation of the R. F. tubes in some sets.

Battery Leads.

When disconnecting the storage battery for recharging, be sure to have the leads placed on their respective posts. If the A minus is accidentally placed on the A plus post, the set will operate poorly, but more often not at all. The reason for this usually is that the reversal of the battery leads makes the filament return to the detector tube go to the A minus side of the filament instead of the A plus, thereby blocking the detector action of that tube. The error also affects the operation of the R. F. tubes in some sets.

GLOBE AERIAL HAS WIND VANE AND LIGHTNING ROD

A novel aerial, known as the Globe, combines a non-directional aerial for radio sets with a lightning rod and wind vane. It is said to pick up signals strongly and to enable receivers to catch many station signals that are passed over when using the conventional type of aerial.

The Globe aerial consists of an aluminum globe, within which is a special solenoid coil. The signal pickup of the globe is passed through and amplified by the coil, and then is sent along the lead-in wire to the receiver. There are two lead-in wires, so that there is choice of greater or less aerial volume.

One lead-in uses only two-thirds of the coil, and is said to make for greater selectivity and for closer tuning in cases of interference.

The Globe aerial stands seven feet high, with rod and vane in bronze, the shaft in polished brass and the globe in highly polished aluminum.

It is said that this Globe aerial is not affected by heat, rain, or snow, virtually adds a crystal set to any receiver, and may be placed close to another Globe aerial without interference.

Don't confuse Balkite "AB" with so-called radio socket powers
It contains no battery in any form
For the "A" circuit Balkite "A".
Exactly like Balkite "AB" but for the "A" circuit only. Price $35.00 Enables owners of Balkite "B" to make a complete light socket installation at low cost
The new Balkite "AB" replaces both "A" and "B" batteries and supplies radio current from the light socket. It is not to be confused with so-called radio socket powers. It contains no battery in any form, no relay, nor any other accessories. It puts an end forever to run-down radio power. It delivers even uniform current to the set at all times.
This new complete unit operates only during reception. It is the most economical of all sources of radio power. There is no trickle charging when it is not in use. It requires practically no attention, is unaffected by standing idle, is entirely noiseless and has nothing to wear out or replace—a permanent piece of equipment.
Two models, 135 volts, $64.50. 180 volts, $74.50. Your dealer will recommend the one you need. Fansteel Products Company, Inc., North Chicago, Illinois

ANGLO-AMERICAN RADIO EXPERIMENT PLANNED

Engineers Start Preparing for Exchange of Broadcast Programs.

A series of conferences, to plan engineering experiments to develop international broadcasting and exchange of programs between England and America, has just been successfully completed between Capt. P. P. Eckersley, Chief Engineer of the British Broadcasting Corporation, and Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chairman of the Board of Consulting Engineers of the National Broadcasting Co.

In a joint statement, these engineers, while enthusiastic as to the possibility of developing a short wave broadcasting circuit for Anglo-American re-broadcasting, mentioned difficulties and limitations which must be overcome through the necessary experiments planned by them.

Some of the Difficulties.

"Short wave broadcast transmission for relaying programs has already yielded some occasional results of great interest and much promise," says their joint statement. "It is, nevertheless, important, in judging the prospects of regular international broadcasting, to remember that isolated amateur (or even professional) long distance receptions of short wave broadcasts are interesting, but unsafe guides as to the present capabilities of such a service, because large-scale international broadcasting to the public has some stringent requirements.

"It is necessary that the tone quality of international broadcasting be very high to avoid difficulties in understanding a foreign language or even the same language spoken with a different accent or intonation. Furthermore, international broadcasting of important events must occur accurately on schedule. Finally, as a permanent institution, international broadcasting must be in all other respects practically up to the level of the best local broadcasting.

"We propose an intensive experimental and development probut are unable to give any present guarantees of service.

The program will include erecgram to accomplish these results. tion of a powerful short wave relay broadcasting transmitter in England, installation of a special short wave relay broadcasting receiving station in England, and systematic utilization of similar facilites in the United State*l*

"We beleve that ultimately short wave development is likely to permit intercontinental broadcasting. We are so hopeful of such a result being possible that we regard the Anglo-American relay broadcasting development plan as not only justified scientifically, but also humanly necessary as a step toward another close bond of communication between the peoples of England and the United States."

Maximum Power for Tubes.

In order to obtain the maximum power output that a tube is capable of delivering, it is necessary that a sufficiently large voltage be placed on the grid of the tube to operate at its maxamium output. At the same time certain conditions, however, must be satisfied to prevent distortion in the tube itself. First, the grid must not be allowed to become sufficiently positive to draw any appreciable amount of grid current, and second, the plate current must at no portion of the cycle be allowed to fall so low that distortion be caused by curvature of the plate current curve. The imput voltage which may be applied safely to a tube without causing grid distortion is fairly well indicated by the grid bias voltage.

Radio reception is sometimes improved by having the antenna face a different direction than its present position. This applies particularly to long distance signals.

GENERAL MOTORS WILL HAVE BROADCAST HOUR

Automobile Corporation Prepares to Send Out First Weekly Program Nov. 7

General Motors is going on the air. Through the largest single hook-up of broadcasting stations used in any regular series of weekly concerts, General Motors will present an hour's program of "good music and other entertainment" every Monday evening at 8:30 to 9:30 central standard time.

The first program will be broadcast Nov. 7. At that time and each Monday evening thereafter, concerts are to be given through KSD and 27 other stations. The broadcasting will be extended later to the Pacific Coast.

"Radio offers us an opportunity," Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, says, "to express to the several million people of the General Motors family our appreciation of their good-will in a concrete and appropriate way. 'Concrete,' because radio is generally regarded as a means of entertainment and our programs will seek to bring the best of entertainment into the home, insofar as the limitations of communication through the ear alone will permit. 'Appropriate,' because through radio we can bring into the home still more of the good things of life which modern time-saving products have enabled the average family to go out to see and to hear.

"Everything we have is the result of public confidence and good-will, so if, through our broadcasting activity, we can make a gracious acknowledgment to the several millions of families who are using our products, and to the other millions who may use them in the future, we shall be amply justified in the undertaking.

"Our broadcasting hour will be kown as 'The General Motors Family Party.' It will be apportioned among the institution and its divisions. Those hours allotted to a particular division will be known as 'The Family Party,' with that division as host."

The broadcasting plan calls for an allotment of hours among the several divisions of the "Family," each of which will act as host at the "family party" each Monday evening. These divisions include Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, La Salle, Cadillac, GMC Truck and Yellow Cab and Coach, also the Fisher Body, Frigidaire and Delco-Light companies.

The stations through which the General Motors weekly Monday evening concerts are to be heard follow:

WEAF, New York; WEEI, Boston; WTIC, Hartford; WLIT, Philadelphia; WRC, Washington; WGR, Buffalo; WCAE, Pittsburg; WTAM, Cleveland; WWJ, Detroit; WSAI, Cincinnati; KSD, St. Louis; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WTMJ, Milwaukee; WOC, Davenport; WHO, Des Moines; WOW, Omaha; WDAF, Kansas City; KVOO, Oklahoma City-Tulsa; WBAP, Fort Worth; WHAS, Louisville; WSM, Nashville; WMC, Memphis; WSB, Atlanta; WBT, Charlotte; WJAX, Jacksonville; WJAR, Providence; WTAG, Worcester; WCSH, Portland, Me.

No Chicago station appears on the list for the reason that Chicago stations are closed Monday nights.

KOLSTER SPONSORS HOUR OF MUSIC ON COLUMBIA CHAIN

The hour devoted to music by famous composers Wednesday nights on the Columbia Chain is hereafter to be sponsored by the makers of Kolster radio sets and speakers. This feature is one of the big ones thus far put on the air by the Columbia System.

Last Wednesday night this hour was given over to music by the American composer, Edward MacDowell.

Outside Interference.

An electric spark somewhere in the network of the lighting or power companies is the chief source of interference outside of the receiving set. A spark in an elctric circuit is an amazing phenomenon. It is not usually a simple leap of flame from one terminal to the other, as it appears to be. It is a multitude of such leaps in both directions, an oscillating discharge, and its period can be more or less definitely controlled by the electrical constants of the circuit. That is, the "tuning" of the circuit will change the rate of oscillation. All electrical apparatus is capable of sparking.

Radio terms in English, such as "buzzer," "sets," "choke," "standard," "tube," and "tuning," are prohibited in Italy by Signor Mussolini, Minister of Marine. Only their equivalent in Italian may be used both in speaking and writing.

Radiograms of the future will be sent by the square inch instead of by the word.

CHICAGO OPERA TO BE BROADCAST WEEKLY

An Act to Be Put on Air by Chain of Stations in Balkite Hour.

Chicago's Civic Opera is to broadcast to the greater part of the nation this year, an act from an opera once a week.

The decision has been reached as a result of the experiments last season when acts of grand operas were broadcast from Chicago during performances.

Preparatory work has begun on a more elaborate scale. Musical experts and radio engineers predict a nearly perfect delivery of grand opera in millions of homes. A chain of radio stations, extending from New York to Denver and from upper Canada to the Gulf of Mexico will relay the opera.

The broadcasting is to begin in the opening week of the Chicago Civic Opera season.

As was the case last year, the technical arrangements will be in the hands of the National Broadcasting Co. The latter is acting for the Fansteel Products Co., a North Chicago corporation, which entertained last winter through what was known as the "Balkite hour." The opera broadcast will monopolize the "Balkite hour" and will be known under that name.

Capt. H. W. Angus, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co., and the same radio technicians who conducted the first experiments, Gerard Chatfield and Eugene F. Grossman are already at the Chicago Auditorium and are making the microphone and other installations. Milton J. Cross, National Broadcasting Co. announcer, who was heard in the experimental broadcasts of the garden scene from "Faust," and a part of "Il Trovatore," last year, will announce the opening opera broadcast.

Among the stations associated with the National Broadcasting Co. which are to broadcast Chicago's opera are: KSD, St. Louis; WJZ, New York; WBZ, Springfield, Mass.; WBZA, Boston; WBAL, Baltimore; WHAM, Rochester; KDKA, Pittsburg; WLW, Cincinnati; WJR, Detroit; KYW, Chicago; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WOC, Davenport; WHO, Des Moines; WDAF, Kansas City, Mo., and WOW, Omaha.

Some Facts About Static.

The difference between the static waves and the waves from radio stations is that the static is highly damped; that is, very broadly tuned, as compared with the usual ether waves. This enables sharply tuned receivers to discriminate to a certain extent in favor of the radio signals, since the sharper the receiver tuning, the narrower the band of static which is being received. But even at best this affords very little help.

GENERAL MOTORS WILL HAVE BROADCAST HOUR

Automobile Corporation Prepares to Send Out First Weekly Program Nov. 7

General Motors is going on the air. Through the largest single hook-up of broadcasting stations used in any regular series of weekly concerts, General Motors will present an hour's program of "good music and other entertainment" every Monday evening at 8:30 to 9:30 central standard time.

The first program will be broadcast Nov. 7. At that time and each Monday evening thereafter, concerts are to be given through KSD and 27 other stations. The broadcasting will be extended later to the Pacific Coast.

"Radio offers us an opportunity," Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, says, "to express to the several million people of the General Motors family our appreciation of their good-will in a concrete and appropriate way. But even at best this affords very little help.

Buried or Elevated Aerials.

The effective signals received on buried aerials are often as little as one-fifth of those which can be had on a good elevated aerial, using the same receiver and accessories, and signals, static and induction are al decreased in relatively the same proportion.

LAMBERT MURPHY SOLOIST IN NEXT MAXWELL HOUR

The Maxwell Hour, which is to be broadcast by KSD beginning next week, will feature Lambert Murphy, tenor, and a 35-piece orchestra under Nathaniel Shilkret, next Wednesday night, when he may be heard from KYW, KDKA, WJZ and other stations.

Lambert Murphy is a Harvard man and started his concert career as a Harvard senior. Appearances with the Boston Festival Orchestra and the Handel and Haydn Society were unusual feats for so young a singer. Shortly afterwards he earned the position of tenor soloist in one of New York's largest churches, a post which he held until 1911, when he joined the Metropolitan Opera Co. Later he returned to concert singing.

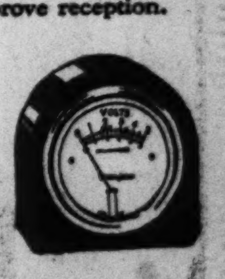
Don't blame the set for poor reception
POOR performance is often due to overloaded tubes—too frequent application of too high voltage. Get a Westinghouse Voltmeter, which will prevent prematurely worn-out tubes and greatly improve reception.



This mantel clock type voltmeter is three times more accurate than other moving-vane instruments. Jars and jolts won't disturb its action. Excellent for battery and filament testing, $4.50—at your dealer's.

The new Cabinet Portable, made for sets with plug-in jacks. Antique bronze face plate, with gilt dial and pointer—artistically designed to fit any arrangement of jacks and to become really a part of the set. At your dealer's, $6.50.

SUGGESTS PLAIN NUMBERS DESIGNATE WAVE CHANNELS

Head of Radio Manufacturers' Committee Would Simplify Set Operation.

Numbering radio broadcast channels as conveniently as telephones, houses and offices, is suggested by R. H. Langley, of the Crosley Radio Corporation, who is chairman of a committee of the National Electrical Manufacturers' Association for consideration of the matter.

In an article entitled "Meters, Kilocycles, or 'Channel Numbers'?" in the November issue of "Radio Broadcast," Langley says:

"Perhaps there is no such thing as 'the average broadcast listener.' But millions of them come pretty close to the average, and I wonder just what they think when they hear the announcer say that he is broadcasting on, say, 'a frequency of 1260 kilocycles.' In all but a very few cases, I venture to say, their thoughts have nothing to do with the meaning of these words. Last year it was a 'wavelength of 291.1 meters,' and that was even worse. Why so many numbers and so many strange words?

"Although the change from 'wave length' to 'frequency' was logical, it is still far from being simple for Mr. Average Listener to understand.

"Some manufacturers have tried to put these strange numbers on the dial of the receiver when it was built. Then, if you knew and could remember the wave length or the frequency of the station you wanted, you could set the receiver to that point. Aside from the mechanical difficulties involved in this, the complexity of the numbers themselves kept the conventional 'zero to one hundred' dial on the sets.

"The channel numbering system, of course, involves another set of numbers, which must be read from a dial and related to the wave length or the frequency or the call letters of the stations. Its merit, I believe, lies not in any essential difference from preceding systems, but in its greater simplicity.

"From a logical point of view, designating broadcasting stations by wave lengths in meters or frequency in kilocycles, is about as reasonable and technically correct as giving one's address as 'north 43 deg. 28' 37.42", east 76 deg. [illegible] 58.13."

A Dial With 96 Numbers.

There could be numbers on the dial running from 1 to 96, representing the 96 broadcast channels. Supposing the announcer says 'This is station XYZ on Channel 16.' When you want station XYZ again, you will turn to No. 16 on the dial. You will soon remember that your favorite stations are at 16, 23, 38, 67 and 84."

Trade Notes.

Walter H. Dyer & Co., Inc., has been appointed factory representative for Globe combination aerials and lightning rods.

The Blackwell Radio Service Co. gave a dinner to its sales force at the Coronado Tuesday night. [illegible] Snowden of the Beck & Corbitt Co., Fada distributer, spoke on merchandising Fada receivers and speakers.

An agreement terminating all patent litigation has been reached by the A. H. Grebe Co., Richmond Hill, N. Y., and the Hazeltine Corporation. A complete license has been granted to the Grebe Co. under all the Hazeltine and Latour patents.

These rights, and those recently obtained from the Radio Corporation of America, give the A. H. Grebe Co. complete protection.

The Grebe company is one of the pioneer manufacturers of radio equipment.

Wells-Gardner & Co., Chicago, and the Precision Products Co., Ann Arbor, Mich., have merged as the Consolidated Radio Corporation. The merging companies will continue their plants in Chicago and Ann Arbor, but the combined business will be conducted as separate units, one as the Wells-Gardner Division, the other as the Arborphone Division. The Consolidated Radio Corporation has obtained a license under the patents of the Radio Corporation of America, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., General Electric Co. and American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

to put these strange numbers on the dial of the receiver when it was built. Then, if you knew and could remember the wave length or the frequency of the station you wanted, you could set the receiver to that point. Aside from the mechanical difficulties involved in this, the complexity of the numbers themselves kept the conventional 'zero to one hundred' dial on the sets.

"The channel numbering system, of course, involves another set of numbers, which must be read from a dial and related to the wave length or the frequency or the call letters of the stations. Its merit, I believe, lies not in any essential difference from preceding systems, but in its greater simplicity.

"From a logical point of view, designating broadcasting stations by wave lengths in meters or frequency in kilocycles, is about as reasonable and technically correct as giving one's address as 'north 43 deg. 28' 37.42", east 76 deg. 18' 58.13."

A Dial With 96 Numbers.

There could be numbers on the dial running from 1 to 96, representing the 96 broadcast channels. Supposing the announcer says: 'This is station XYZ on Channel 16.' When you want station XYZ again, you will turn to No. 16 on the dial. You will soon remember that your favorite stations are at 16, 23, 38, 67 and 84."

An agreement terminating all patent litigation has been reached by the A. H. Grebe Co., Richmond Hill, N. Y., and the Hazeltine Corporation. A complete license has been granted to the Grebe Co. under all the Hazeltine and Latour patents.

These rights, and those recently obtained from the Radio Corporation of America, give the A. H. Grebe Co. complete protection.

The Grebe company is one of the pioneer manufacturers of radio equipment.

Wells-Gardner & Co., Chicago, and the Precision Products Co., Ann Arbor, Mich., have merged as the Consolidated Radio Corporation. The merging companies will continue their plants in Chicago and Ann Arbor, but the combined business will be conducted as separate units, one as the Wells-Gardner Division, the other as the Arborphone Division. The Consolidated Radio Corporation has obtained a license under the patents of the Radio Corporation of America, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., General Electric Co. and American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

PREDICTS RAPID INCREASE OF CURRENT-OPERATED SETS

Fully seven out of every 10 radio receiving sets in use by 1930 will use no batteries in any form. Instead, they will operate from the convenient home light socket the same as electric toasters, vacuum cleaners, electric stoves, washing machines and other electrical devices now in daily use in modern American homes," says Burton Greene, president of the Greene-Brown Mfg. Co., maker of the light socket radio units.

"Radio power has always been a primary factor in good radio reception," states Greene. "No matter how elaborate or expensive the reproducing mechanism of a receiving set may be, it cannot constantly provide the finest degree of clarity, nor permit the smooth undistorted volume and sweet full-tone qualities which radio set owners now demand, where the power supply depends on batteries which must grow weaker through daily service."

"That day is past, when radio buyers are influenced solely by the beauty of cabinet design, or by the name and prestige of the manufacturer. While these are still important factors, only the finest quality of reception can insure lasting radio enjoyment and satisfaction. Light socket radio power is our latest contribution toward maintaining the continued popularity of radio, as a means of home entertainment."

When He Plays on His Big Bass HORN

Here's the test of tests for a Radio "B" Power Unit. Tune your set to any full-piece orchestra.

Listen for the bass horn. Then plug in a Willard Super "B" Power Unit.

HEAR the Difference!

Note how the other instruments come out, too.

Licensed under Patent Nos. 1,455,141 and 1,635,117

The Willard Super "B" Power Unit

Plugs into your lamp socket. Supplies any type of set with steady "B" power for detector—amplifier—power tube. Gives 180 volts at 40 milli-amperes. The same "B" Unit that is used for the new Willard "A-B" Power Supply.

Ask your Lighting Company, your Radio Dealer or your Willard Service Station to demonstrate for you. Let your own ears hear the difference.

NEW COMMISSIONER ON U. S. RADIO BOARD

Pickard, Successor to Bellows, Who Resigned, Pioneer in Educational Broadcasting.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Officials in Washington say President Coolidge could not have done better than appointing Sam Pickard as successor to Henry A. Bellows on the Federal Radio Commission.

Pickard, it is said, has little radio engineering experience. But he has considerable practical experience with broadcasting. As secretary of the Radio Commission, he has been in intimate contact with the problems involved in interference and the work of clearing it up.

Educational Radio Pioneer.

Pickard is a man of convictions and he will fight for them, it is said. He will do his best toward adoption of methods which he believes will bring about decreased interference and heterodyning. He is inclined toward following engineering and practical experience rather than human factors.

Pickard was born on a Wyoming ranch and educated in Iowa and Kansas. He was one of the pioneers in educational radio. When he was extension editor of the Kansas State Agricultural College he conceived the idea of making broadcasting of real educational service to the people living in rural districts.

Through his efforts, the college station, KSAC, was installed in 1923, and a comprehensive educational program, designed primarily to help farmers solve their problems, inaugurated.

William M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, was so impressed with the results obtained by Pickard that he brought him to Washington and placed him at the head of the radio service of the Department of Agriculture, where he continued to render valuable service to the farmers through daily broadcasts from about 100 stations.

Pickard was a veteran of the World War. He served as a pilot in the Air Service with the rank of Lieutenant and was wounded in aerial combat at the front.

Bellows' Statement.

When the Federal Radio Commission assembled March 15, 1927, he was selected as secretary.

The resignation of Bellows was one of the biggest surprises official Washington has received since the commission began to function.

Speculation is general as to the underlying reasons actuating his resignation.

Here is what Bellows himself says about it:

"My sole reason for taking this step is that, as I have been holding an interim appointment, it has been necessary for me to finance myself and my family during the entire period since March 15, 1927, and I do not feel that I can further increase this economic burden.

"It is a great source of satisfaction that I have been able to share in the work of the Federal Radio Commission from its inception until now, when its policies are clearly defined and its authority is definitely established. On all the matters which have come before it, the members of the commission have worked together with extraordinary harmony, and in leaving this position I want to express my deep personal appreciation of the absolutely unfailing spirit of co-operation shown by all of my colleagues, which has made it possible for the commission to perform its exceedingly trying work of the past seven months without a single disagreement on any matter of importance."

The prevailing opinion in Washington is that Bellows would have been confirmed by the Senate, but that there might have been a long-drawn out fight on it.

The Glow Tube.

The glow or regular tube is a variation bypass unit and requires a minimum current passing through it all the time for proper operation. Then, according to the load shunted around it, the glow tube bypasses more or less current in keeping the voltage on a fixed value. In properly designed "B" eliminators, the glow tube has a definite place. Applied to existing "B" eliminators as an extra, it usually increases the current drain sufficiently to saturate the limited choke coils, resulting in excessive hum from the hertofore silent "B" eliminator. Hence a glow tube should be added only if the "B" eliminator is known to have ample chokes for the extra current drain, which usually amounts to 20 to 30 milliamperes.

For the Notebook.

Loose connections and defective tubes will cause batteries to run down.

Reduce the voltage on the power tube to prevent blasts and rumbles in the cone speaker.

Tight contacts are important for efficient radio reception. This applies especially to tubes and sockets.

FADA Radio
Which will you have?

This or

Ordinary Radio Reception
Now you get it—now you don't! Often blurred, indistinct and unfaithful.

Still time before that big game broadcast. And then years of real radio pleasure ahead. If old-type reception has made you a bit skeptical, hear Fada. But hear a Fada receiver with a Fada speaker. Only in that way can you come to know Fada Harmonated Reception—the most talked of thing in radio today. It means perfect co-ordination of receiver and speaker so that they are electrically and musically one working instrument. This also gives you the full range of all the fundamental notes and all the harmonics (over-tones) of the musical and vocal scale. There is no more need—now—to endure the slipshod and half-way in the radio sound picture . . . when you have Fada Harmonated Reception.

You've heard a lot about electric operation—but remember that a storage battery by any other name is still a storage battery.

ABOX attached to the light socket gives you "A" power, without the interference and trouble of batteries, charger or relays.

ABOX operates any receiver using up to eight tubes, at unvarying, maximum efficiency—without batteries. In this it challenges comparison for efficiency, economy and length of life.

Electric radio operation is here! Convert your own set with ABOX and get radio satisfaction and carefree operation, possible in no other way. No changes in your set are necessary to do this.

The ABOX Filter is an entirely different unit from the Eliminator, being the filter circuit alone in a small, compact unit. If you have a suitable charger, it can easily be converted into an "A" Eliminator by substituting the ABOX Filter for the storage battery. Shipping weight, 11 lbs. Price, $19.50. Slightly higher west of the Rockies.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

1928

An announcement by A. Atwater Kent

IT IS ONLY RIGHT that purchasers should share in the results of up-to-date manufacturing methods. This is the tendency of the times.

In our 15½ acre factory our production engineers and other experts, since the inception of radio, have been working out manufacturing economies, possible only with operations on a large scale.

These advancements have enabled us not only to maintain but constantly to improve the quality of Atwater Kent Radio.

Therefore the public will receive the benefits of a 20 per cent average reduction on all our radio products, beginning immediately.

The new prices are in keeping with the long established Atwater Kent policy of sharing with the public the results of economies as fast as they are put into practical operation.

300,000 PAID FOR HALF BLOCK ON CHESTNUT ST.

ract Between Nineteenth and Twentieth Streets Will Face Union Station Plaza.

ROPERTY SUITED FOR HOTEL BUILDING

rojected Savoy Plaza Hotel at Twelfth and Pine ls Expected to Cost $3,500,000.

By Berry Moore.

Clients of Henry R. Weisel, Inc., ave purchased the half block on e north side of Chestnut street tween Nineteenth and Twentieth reets. The buyers have not been nounced. The purchase has a ontage of approximately 338 feet n Chestnut with a depth of 109 et. It was owned by the Dran- eck Real Estate Co., a holding orporation of the late Sam Kennard.

The price paid, it was under- ood, was $200,000 plus a benefit sessment of $100,000 for the pro- osed Union Station Plaza, or 00,000.

Since the site will face the pro- osed plaza provided for in the 7,000,000 bond issue, and will be irtually opposite Union Station, peculation is keen as to the plans f the purchasers. A large hotel tructure is regarded as the type f building most appropriate.

Plans for Savoy Plaza.

As was told exclusively in the Post-Dispatch, plans for a 22-story hotel to cost $3,500,000 and to be nown as the Savoy Plaza, were nnounced Friday by Preston J. radshaw, architect. Negotiations have been closed for the site with a frontage of 116 feet on Twelfth boulevard and 100 feet on Pine street, embracing 45 feet, 10 inches n the corner, owned by the Essex Realty Co., W. K. Bixby, president, nd 70 feet, 9 inches adjoining on Twelfth boulevard owned by the arknight Realty Co., Walter J. Knight, president. Henry R. Wei- sel, Inc., Cornet and Zeibig and the Holbrook Blackwelder Co. han- dled the negotiations. The price was not made public.

The proposed hostelry will over- ook Twelfth boulevard on the east de, and the Memorial Plaza on the south, and virtually will be rouped with the new Court House, Bell Telephone and Missouri Pacific Buildings. It will rival, ac- cording to Bradshaw, the most elaborate hotels in the country, being to St. Louis what the Black- stone is to Chicago.

Bradshaw, W. H. Bixby, Knight nd Carl Lawton and others whose ames have not been announced, omposing a syndicate, have the roject in hand, and construction s to be started as soon as the uilding plans are completed. The ew hotel is to be operated by the Coronado Hotel Co. Bradshaw de- signed the Chase, Melbourne, Coro- ado and Mayfair, and was active n the promotion of the latter two.

Speculation on Olive Corner.

The new Missouri Pacific build- ing is under construction on the Thirteenth street side of the block. This will be 21 stories in height, with provisions for six additional stories.

The southwest corner of Twelfth and Olive street, the only section of this block now available, also is owned by the Essex Realty Co., the president of which is Bixby, who has ample resources for im- proving it on a scale with that of he remainder of the block. It has frontage on Twelfth of 93 feet 2 nches exclusive of 40 feet taken n the widening of Olive street. This includes 16 feet 7 inches frontage adjoining on the south on Twelfth, purchased by Bixby from Knight, who originally owned 70 feet 9 inches on Twelfth boulevard and who obviously let Bixby have the 16 feet in consideration of his surrendering the Twelfth and Pine treet plot for the hotel project, which will occupy the remainder of the Twelfth boulevard frontage of this block.

Bixby has not disclosed his plans for this corner, the importance of which has been appreciably in- creased with the widening of Olive street, and which forms one of the best sites in the downtown district for a structure on a pretentious cale.

Other Purchases on Twelfth.

The new 22-story hotel project s expected to give decided impetus o Pine street, the pace for which already has been set east of Twelfth boulevard by the new Bell Telephone and Paul Brown build- ings, and west of Twelfth by the Missouri Pacific building.

Several corners on Twelfth boulevard have been acquired re- cently by operators in anticipation of important developments on this thoroughfare. These include the northeast corner of Twelfth and Chestnut street, owned by the Lucas heirs, acquired under a 99- year lease by a syndicate headed

The price paid, it was understood, was $200,000 plus a benefit assessment of $100,000 for the proposed Union Station Plaza, or $300,000.

The latter was formerly owned by Marion Fuqua.

Dodge Corporation, showing a drop of 13 per cent from the preceding month, as well as a drop of 8 per cent from September of last year. During September there were 78 cities which showed increased permit valuations over their September, 1926 records, and 129 cities which showed losses from their September, 1926, totals. Shreveport, La., showed no change in permit valuations.

Building in these cities during the past nine months has reached a total of $2,542,018,900, which was a loss of 9 per cent from the amount ($2,802,110,200) reported in the corresponding period of last year.

September "honor roll" cities (those reporting more than a million dollars in permit valuations and a gain of 20 per cent or more over their previous totals) numbered 20, as compared with 24 for the preceding month. The September "honor roll" cities were: Birmingham, Denver, Tampa, Atlanta, East St. Louis, Louisville, Pontiac, St. Louis, East Orange, Elizabeth, Mount Vernon, Syracuse, Akron, Toledo, Oklahoma City, Philadelphia, Memphis, Dallas, San Antonio and Racine.

The 20 cities tabulated below (a list selected to represent as wide a geographical distribution as possible) amounted to $159,539,973 last month. This figure dropped 13 per cent from the total for Auguest of this year and 8 per cent from September of last year. Permits granted in these 20 cities during the first nine months of this year reached a total of $1,611,218,153, being a loss of 9 per cent from the amount reported in the first nine months of 1926. Nine of the 20 cities showed increases, while 11 showed decreases in comparison with their September 1926 records.

10-STORY APARTMENT FOR SKINKER ROAD

Preston J. Bradshaw has completed plans for a 10-story apartment building at the southwest corner of Skinker road and Rosebury avenue in DeMun Park. It is to be built by the Versailles Building Co., clients of the Wilson & Koontz Realty Co., which will have the management of the building.

The exterior will be classical in design, with any tendency toward formality relieved by a harmonious use of warm-colored matt brick in conjunction with terra cotta. There will be French Renaissance effects.

The ground floor will contain no apartment suites. Two entrances will provide access to this floor, which will contain two attractive lobbies, giving access to the stairs and elevators. Adjoining the building at this level will be a modern garage, sufficient to accommodate all tenants.

TYPICAL COLONIAL RESIDENCE FOR SMALL FAMILY

The Dining Room and Living Room Flank the Hall on Either Side.

This colonial residence is especially adapted to a wooded level site and therefore makes an ideal home for the small family of moderate means who desire to live in the suburbs. The walls are of common or used brick irregularly laid and then white washed. This results in a beautiful texture that is very effective when seen in contrast with the green of the foliage. The entire exterior of the building has been kept light in color, the roof being gray asbestos shingles, the color of natural cement. Contrasted with this exterior will be green blinds for the upper story and gutters and downspouts painted black.

One enters directly into a large reception hall in the center of the house and is confronted by the typical open colonial stair. At the end of the hall is a French door leading into the breakfast room which in turn has a pair of French doors leading to a flagstone terrace and a formal rose garden. A view of this garden is obtained from the hall itself.

The dining room and living room flank the hall on either side. The living room has one whole end devoted to open bookshelves and has a large fire place in white enameled wood and black marble. The dining room contains a corner china case where one might display rare pieces.

The kitchen, though small, boasts an electric sink, a recessed range and an abundance of cabinets. There is a hood over the range and a duct to carry off excess heat and fumes from cooking.

On the second floor are a master bed room and two smaller bedrooms with the bath conveniently located. Plenty of closet space is provided for all rooms together with the necessary linen closet in the hall.

The garage is handled as a separate unit in connection with the balance of the outbuildings which consist of hen houses and dog kennels together with the yards and runs for each.

All of the details about the house have been kept delicate and all of the interior woodwork done in white enamel to conform to the style of architecture. Even the hardware itself, with its small round polished brass knobs and black trimmings, is typically colonial.

Wrisberg Sells Block on Broadway.

William E. Wrisberg has sold the block of stores and apartments, 3610-12-14-16 South Broadway, 3550-52-54-56 Marine avenue and 1911-15 Miami, consisting of four stores and 16 apartments. This was sold for David H. Nation and Hilda Nation to Heyman Kessler and Jennie Kessler, who were represented by Sam H. Glassman Realty Co. Among other recent sales made by the Wrisberg office are: 3501 Humphrey, corner Arkansas, two-story and attic brick residence of 9 rooms for Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Herchenroeder to Mrs. Clara M. Schnur; 5512 Alaska, modern brick bungalow of five rooms, for Charles and Amelia Christof to George G. and Julia B. Wanke; 3959 Hartford, two-story and attic residence of 7 rooms for John E. Hubert to Samuel and Alma Dunbar; 3141 Magnolia, a two-story brick residence from William J. and Helen G. Buchanan to Joseph H. and Marie Jaschke; 3112 Brantner, an attached brick dwelling, and a vacant lot in Moritz place in St. Louis County from J. F. and M. Jaschke to W. J. and H. Buchanan.

J. I. Epstein & Son Sales.

J. I. Epstein & Son report the following sales during the past week: 411 and 413 De Baliviere avenue, two-story building with two stores on first floor and two flats, sold for John Meyers to B. TITLE ASSOCIATION TO HOLD CONVENTION

The Missouri Title Association will hold its twenty-first annual convention here tomorrow and Tuesday, with Hotel Mayfair as its headquarters.

Registration will begin at the hotel at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, and at 10 the address of welcome will be delivered by City Counselor Muench, speaking for the Mayor. The vice president of the association, C. S. Hotaling of Linneus, will respond.

James M. Rohan of St. Louis, president of the association, will make the annual address, and reports will be made by T. S. Simrall of Boonville, secretary and treasurer, and V. E. Phillips of Kansas City, for the legislative committee. A luncheon will be given at the Missouri Athletic Association, and at a one hour session beginning at 1:30, L. C. Deibel of Detroit will speak on "Title Insurance." An automobile drive will follow. A dinner will be given at Hotel Coronado at night, followed by a theater party.

Speakers at Tuesday morning's meeting will be Richard B. Hall, executive secretary of the American Title Association, and James S. Johns of Pendleton, Ore., chairman of the abstractors' section of the national association. Luncheon will be at the Mayfair, and at the afternoon session discussions will be conducted by Charles R. Hamilton of St. Louis and William H. Barnes of St. Louis County. Election of officers is last in order.

$113,297,638 OF PRUDENTIAL LOANS ARE ON DWELLINGS

James M. Franciscus, loan correspondent for the Prudential Insurance Company of America, has heard from Archibald M. Woodruff, vice president of the firm, that the Prudential's investments in real estate mortgages during the first nine months of 1927 totaled $150,791,001.

Of this total, $113,297,638.50 was loaned on dwellings and apartment houses, providing 48,699 individual homes and 981 apartment houses for the accommodation of 33,044 families in the United States and Canada. During the similar period of 1926 the loans on such properties totaled $104,403,477, showing a gain of $8,894,161.50. In the first nine months of 1926 only 30,129 families were accommodated by the loans, thus 1927 investments in this field care for an additional 2915 families.

LINDELL BOULEVARD PROPERTY IS SOLD

A sale of particular interest as showing the trend of the future regarding Lindell boulevard was made during the past week in the disposal of 80 feet on the south side of Lindell, being 3824 Lindell boulevard, the former home of Henry Semple Ames, to a client of W. H. Wooten and the Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. represented the seller. The sale was for cash.

Since the tornado there has been considerable activity on Lindell boulevard, which, in the opinion of a great many, is destined to become the future Fifth avenue of St. Louis. Many of the buildings that have been wrecked by the tornado will not be rebuilt until a decision is made by the Zoning Commission on the proposal for changing the restrictions on Lindell from multiple dwelling to semi-commercial.

The Lindell Property Owners' Association, formed a year ago, is advocating the change. Many who were formerly opposed to erection of commercial buildings before the storm are of the opinion that the boulevard is now destined to become commercial.

Restrictions in the change of zone that would compel any new buildings to be of first class construction, excluding filling stations, also would exclude front entrance driveways and all buildings would be required to be two or more stories in height with terra cotta or stone trim. With the opening of Olive street in the next six months Lindell is destined to become a boulevard of many fine structures hitherto excluded.

Sales by Feinberg & Jones.

Single flats—1431 Clara avenue, 5217 Spalding avenue, 5327-29 Labadie avenue, 5347 Terry avenue, 4928-30, 32-34, 36-38 Page boulevard, three single flats; 5815 Lotus avenue, 1429 Hills terrace. Residences—5250 Northland avenue, 5077 Minerva avenue, 4963 Page boulevard; five-acre tract and bungalow on the Creve Coeur Lake line. Bungalows—3019 North Union boulevard, 3406 Williams place, 4536 Union boulevard. Stores—1421-23-25-27-29 Cora avenue. Also several vacant lots.

Westmoreland Place Lot Sold.

Cornet & Zeibig report the sale of a lot in Westmoreland place to Ralph W. Coale. The property was sold for J. D. Wooster Lambert, and the purchaser will immediately erect a fine home, which he will occupy as a residence. Cornet & Zeibig represented all parties in this transaction.

Helpful Ideas for Want Ad Advertisers

CARE in WORDING your ad will PAY in RESULTS.

The INDEX or SUBJECT WORD should begin the first line.

In a LOST or FOUND ad the first word should be the ARTICLE or THING lost.

In HELP or SITUATION ads, the first word should be the worker's trade or profession, Barber, Architect, etc.

In FOR SALE or WANTED to BUY ads, the first word should be the ARTICLE or THING for sale, or wanted.

In an EXCHANGE ad, begin with the ARTICLE wanted: "CAMERA Wtd. in exchange for golf sticks."

In AUTOMOBILE ads begin with the MAKE of the CAR, and specify in the ad whether Touring car, Truck, etc.

In ANIMAL ads begin with kind of animal: Cow, Cat, Airedale, Bulldog, etc.

In BUSINESS or SERVICE CARDS begin with the SERVICE WORD: "HAULING WANTED" or "TUCKPOINTING DONE," etc.

In FOR RENT and BOARDING ads, begin with the Street Address.

In REAL ESTATE ads, begin with the KIND of property, i. e., Residence, Flat, Cottage, Farm, Lot, etc.

Advertisements properly indexed are arranged in alphabetical order in making up the Want columns, followed by advertisements beginning with words other than proper index or subject words, as a service to the reader.

Be SPECIFIC in stating what you HAVE or WANT. This MAXIMUM SERVICE to the reader insures BETTER RESULTS.

With your advertisement WRITTEN PROPERLY, correctly INDEXED and CLASSIFIED you WILL get RESULTS in the POST-DISPATCH, if results CAN be had through advertising.

Some appeals may require SEVERAL insertions to produce, and LOWER RATES are made on THREE and SEVEN time orders.

Food for Sober Thought

The safety, welfare and general well-being of your employes is vital to you—and your business. With an open mind in the matter—you can easily convince yourself—as FORD, GARY and SCHWAB have done. It pays dividends in actual cash.

So consider a new building for your employes that is daylight on all sides—forever—and one that is all reinforced concrete—that can be heated to 70 degrees in zero weather. It is sprinkled—further safety for your raw and finished materials—has an unusually large electric elevator, 10x23. Only 3 stories in height—a practical height for most manufacturing—not absorbing too much costly ground space—and in the rear of the building 30,000 square feet of vacant ground for expansion—or 1-story buildings.

300 feet of north light help your employes to better their work for you—on each floor—900 feet on the 3 floors. Lot 315 feet on Laclede by 178 feet on Sarah Street. Building 300 feet on Laclede by 116 on Sarah.

Insurance Rates on This Building Are Very Low—Both Contents and Actual Building—This Means Money to You—A Saving.

And the S. W. Corner of Laclede and Sarah is exact center of city. This means quicker delivery for your customers and more trips for your trucks—at no extra expense.

And the Owners Are Willing to Sell This Property
Considerably Under Its Actual Worth

SON, 28, CONFESSES MURDER OF FATHER

Shot McHenry County (Ill.) Farmer "So Mother Might Have Some Peace."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—That his mother "might have some peace on earth," William Schumacher, 28 years old, shot and killed his father, a McHenry County farmer, he confessed tonight, police announce.

The father, Christopher Schumacher, was shot in the back five times Thursday evening as he arose from a milking stool in his barn. Four of his sons were present at the time, but none saw the assailant. William had been estranged from his father for some time. His father's cruelty to William's mother, which sometimes took the form of "horsewhippings," led him to the act, William told the authorities. After the killing William drove to Barrington, in his automobile, met his girl and took her to a show.

The peculiar action of two dogs supplied authorities with the clue which led to William's arrest. The dogs failed to bark during the shooting, the other sons said, although they are vicious toward strangers.

A short time before making the confession, William had arranged to act as one of his father's pallbearers.

NEW TRIAL FOR ST. LOUISAN ACCUSED OF ROBBING PRISON

A new trial has been granted to Isadore Goldberg, junk dealer, formerly at 1508 Olive street, who was indicted in 1925 with eight other men, in connection with looting of merchandise from the Chester (Ill.) pententiary. Goldberg was convicted in the Randolph County Circuit Court, but appealed, and Friday the Illinois Supreme Court at Springfield reversed and remanded the case.

Goldberg had denied the charge, and vainly resisted extradition to Illinois.

It was alleged that Goldberg and the others, who were employes and convicts at the prison, had conspired to the end that the State was defrauded of textiles and other merchandise valued at $20,000. Goldberg was one of three persons outside the prison who were alleged to have received the stolen goods.

BOILER WORKER SHOT BY OWNER OF PLANT

Thomas Campbell Says He Fired Only to Frighten Employe, Michael Martin.

Michael Martin, a boilermaker's helper at the Campbell Boiler & Sheet Iron Works, was shot yesterday afternoon by his employer, Thomas Campbell, in an argument over a paycheck at the Campbell plant, 720 South Seventh boulevard. The bullet lodged in Martin's right side. He was treated at City Hospital and later taken to Police Headquarters for questioning.

Campbell was arrested, questioned at police headquarters and released under bond. According to Campbell, Martin had threatened him and had ignored his command to get out of the plant office, before the shooting.

Yesterday morning, Campbell said, a woman who said she was Martin's wife called at the office and said she wanted the money due him. Campbell told the woman he could not pay the money to her unless she was first identified as Mrs. Martin. The woman then left the office.

He heard no more of the affair until 4 o'clock, when Martin came into the office. Campbell said Martin threatened to beat him. Campbell said he stood the abuse for a time and then drew the revolver he is authorized to carry under a watchman's license, ordered Martin to leave the office and then fired one shot to frighten Martin.

ADDITIONAL POSTOFFICE SPACE FOR ST. LOUIS

Congressman Cochran Apprised That Federal Program Provides New Building.

Additional postoffice facilities for St. Louis now seem assured, according to word received from the Treasury Department at Washington by Congressman John J. Cochran, who announced yesterday he had been informed that the Federal building program, insofar as postoffice buildings are concerned, is being put into final form and provides for new postoffice buildings and additions in St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit.

Further information that came to Congressman Cochran was that estimates for the work in these four cities are being prepared for presentation to Congress in December through the Director of the Budget.

The immediate improvements projected for St. Louis are a new parcel post station and liberal additions to the present postoffice at Eighteenth street and Clark avenue. At present the postoffice is so crowded that part of the boiler room is being utilized for parcel post.

Msgr. Dunne Investiture Today.

The Rt. Rev. P. J. Dunne will be formally invested as a monsignor in the Catholic Church at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Father Dunne's Newsboys' Home, 3010 Washington boulevard. Archbishop Glennon will officiate. Msgr. Dunne's elevation to the rank of domestic prelate several months ago was in recognition of his work among newsboys and orphans.

SUES TO RECOVER $9810 CHECK

Dr. Bransford Lewis Says Bonds He Bought Were Not Delivered.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Dr. Bransford Lewis, 525 Clara avenue, to recover the proceeds of a check for $9810 issued by him to Mark C. Steinberg & Co., stock and bond brokers, on last Dec. 7. The petition states that Dr. Lewis gave the check, which was cashed by Steinberg & Co., in payment for 10 of the 6 per cent debenture bonds of the Central West Public Service Co., but he never got the bonds.

Mark Steinberg said yesterday the debentures were turned over by the firm to a man who was known as Dr. Lewis' agent and therefore the company did not consider itself liable.

Miller's Antiseptic Oil, Formerly Known as Snake Oil.
Goes Creeping and Crawling Down Into Creaky, Stiff and Swollen Joints, Limbering 'Em Up in a Few Minutes.

This great oil, formerly known as "Snake Oil," is the only thing of its kind yet discovered. Will penetrate the thickest sole leather in 8 minutes, there is little wonder it gives warmth to muscular rheumatic pains, neuralgia, stiff joints, chest colds, and sore throat almost like magic. Over 5 million bottles sold under absolute guarantee and less than a dozen bottles returned, a record probably never before equaled by any remedy.

Don't suffer longer, get this most penetrating oil liniment and know what it means to be free from pain. Get it at your druggist.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

W. C.—Any cotton goods should be washed free of starch before being put away for the winter. This applies to duck trousers, but for linen and seersucker such precaution is not necessary as they are usually without starch.

MRS.—One must unfailingly return a first call and this applies to calls on a newcomer in a city. Only real cause excuses failure in this. One need not pay a second visit, if continued acquaintance is not desired. Calls are returned in about two weeks, not later than three. Some very busy persons call or leave cards on friends once in a season. No appointment is made. (2) Notes of regret are not sent to those who call in your absence. Return the calls in the usual way. On going to the door you give your card to the maid. She has been instructed whether or not her mistress is "at home" to visitors. If she is seeing callers the maid will precede you into the drawing room, so her mistress may have opportunity to see the card or know who is coming in. Or you will be invited into the house, the maid taking your card to the hostess. (3) Your husband's card is left with yours when there are men, or a man, in the family, on which you call.

HALLOWEEN. — Suggestions asked for, for a party for grown-up persons at Halloween are given. On arriving the door opens without visible human effort, the entry is empty, a white cardboard hand pointing the way upstairs. Or, a guest is greeted by the hostess in the usual way, by shaking hands. Her hand comes off in his grasp and is usually dropped in dismay. This is done by holding partially concealed a white glove stuffed with damp meal and closed at the wrist by sewing. A Halloween party is necessarily informal, but a Halloween dinner may follow formal lines and be as elaborate as desired, with appropriate decorations and most of the entertainment provided at the table. Where games are played other novelties may be introduced, such as an exhibition dance by masked girls if you can get the talent, or questions answered by a person of concealed identity who knows the guests well enough to give amusing personal history. Vary the bobbing for apples game by providing small bows and arrows with which to shoot the apples, giving a prize to the best marksman. An attic is appropriate as a place for dancing at Halloween, and a masquerade dance one of the easiest ways to entertain.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

"IXL."—If the suit you outline was a replevin suit, the judgment was probably correct.

WORRIED FATHER.—You cannot be prosecuted for the debt mentioned, and, as six years have elapsed, the debt is outlawed, if it was contracted in Missouri.

FOOLISH.—The wife cannot get a divorce here unless she was a resident of Missouri for one whole year next preceding the filing of her suit. Consult a lawyer with regard to defending her suit.

IGNORANT.—In regard to the workmen's compensation act, the employer has to furnish a doctor. If, in addition, the injured man consults his own doctor, he would ordinarily have to pay the bill of the latter. It is not necessary to employ a lawyer, ordinarily. Inquire at Room 814 Pierce Building, Fourth and Pine streets.

IRISH BOY.—(1) The creditor represented by A could not levy on the piano owned by the daughter of his debtor. Household goods to the amount of $400 are exempt. (2) An osteopath can legally bring suit for a doctor's bill. (3) As to preventing C from paying B and her husband the joint note until the doctor's bill is paid, the answer is yes, the osteopath could garnishee. The law does not exempt $1500 from debt, but only $400.

MRS. GOLDBERG.—As the property asked about was owned by your father and your stepmother, she is now the sole owner of it, and may dispose of it as she pleases. As to your second question, you should take out administration in the Probate Court in order to collect any money due on the deed of trust. You and your stepmother would each receive half of it, if your father left no will. Consult a lawyer regarding this. In regard to the books, if you signed a contract to pay $21 more for them, you can be held to your contract.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

MISS MARG.—Diet is of the first importance in the cure of indigestion. If you wish to send stamped envelope we will mail a list for your guidance with general advice. Please refer to "Miss Marg."

M. WAGNER.—The only process for permanently removing hair is by the electric needle. If you wish to send your address on stamped envelope repeating the question we will recommend some one for the service. To the best of our knowledge there is no exercise which can be successfully employed to increase the height.

M. M. F.—Such a condition of the fingernails is due to lack of proper circulation of the blood. As this may be caused by something of prime importance, our advice is to see a physician. We will recommend some one if you desire to send self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A. A. A.—The following lotion should relieve the trouble. Before applying it to the face apply hot compresses 10 or 15 minutes. The lotion is: Camphor, five grains; powdered gumarabic, 10 grains; precipitated sulphur, one drachm; lime water, one ounce and rose water one ounce; mix, shake and apply at bedtime, allowing it to remain on all night. Correct constipation if present, take systematic outdoor exercise and abstain from tea, coffee and alcoholics.

L. B. A.—Any tampering with the feet in the way of operating or cutting is fraught with danger except when done by an expert and under proper antiseptic conditions. We will recommend some one for the service of correcting ingrown toenails if you wish to send self-addressed, stamped envelope.

BACHELOR.—The following hair tonic should correct falling hair: tincture of Cantharides, two oz., cologne, 1 oz., oil of lavender, one drachm; oil of rosemary, one drachm; mix and apply to scalp and roots of hair night and morning; also shampoo hair every four or five days with hot water and pure castile soap.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Carl H. Hunnius wishes to thank his many friends and relatives for their kind expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings. Special thanks to the Rev. E. L. Mars for his consoling words during my late bereavement.

I wish sincerely to thank relatives, friends and F. O. E. for their kind expressions of sympathy and for their beautiful floral offerings in my recent bereavement in losing my dear husband, Frank E. Swift. (MRS.) DOLLIE SWIFT. (c)

I extend my sincere thanks to all my friends and relatives who attended the funeral of my dear husband, Charles Merlo, who died on Sunday, Oct. 9, 1927. I also thank them for their sincere sympathy and the beautiful floral offerings.
MRS. OLGA MERLO.

We desire to thank our many relatives, friends and neighbors for their kind expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings in our recent bereavement.
MRS. ANNE GARTHOFFNER AND FAMILY.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their acts of love and sympathy during our recent loss of our dear mother, and also extend grateful thanks for the beautiful floral tributes.
Arthur A. Osterkamp, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Osterkamp and Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Osterkamp. (c)

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all who so kindly assisted and for the words of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings extended at the death of our beloved son. Especially beautiful were the kind words of the Rev. E. E. Leibner and the service of Schumacher Undertaking Co.
MR. AND MRS. F. J. SPOHRER. (c)

I herewith wish to express my sincere thanks to my relatives and many friends for their sympathy shown me in my late and sad bereavement in the loss of my dear husband and for the many beautiful floral offerings, especially the pallbearers, Tailors' Union, Local No. 11; also the Bensiek Niehaus Undertakers for their courteous and efficient service.
MRS. JOSEPH P. JAWORSKI. (c)

We desire to thank our relatives and friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us in our sad bereavement, in the loss of our beloved daughter and sister, Alberta Mildred Schulze; also Rev. Leibner, for his consoling words, the pallbearers and for the beautiful floral offerings.
MR and MRS. ALBERT H. SCHULZE AND FAMILY.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our relatives and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our last sad bereavement in the loss of our dear son and brother, John J. Dwyer. We especially thank Rev. Russell Wilbur and Rev. M. J. O'Leary for their kind services, the Police Department and especially Captain Hanna and Major Walton for their honors and respect, the pallbearers and Kriegshauser Undertaking Co., and our many friends for the beautiful floral offerings.
THE BEREAVED MRS. MARIA DWYER AND FAMILY.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our relatives and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown us in our last sad bereavement in the loss of our dear mother, mother-in-law, grandmother and great-grandmother, Augustine Le Beau Harding. We especially thank the Rev. Father Thompson of St. Mary Magdalene Church for his kind words of consolation. The ladies' sodality for their kind attendance, the pallbearers, Wacker-Helderle Undertaking Co., for their efficient service and our many friends for the beautiful floral offerings.
The bereaved children, sister, sons-in-law, daughter-in-law grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Amelia Hamm.
Past her suffering, past her pain;
Cease to weep, for tears are vain;
She who suffered is at rest,
Gone to Heaven with the blessed.
FATHER AND SON. (c)

Our mother, Sophia Rohlfing, died Oct. 22, 1926:
Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother;
It is sweet to breathe thy name;
In life we loved you dearly;
In death we do the same.
THE CHILDREN.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Bertha C. Marsh, who died six years ago today, Oct. 23, 1921. While she lies in peaceful sleep, her memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In loving memory of husband, father and grandfather, Max J. Eichel, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 19, 1926:
O, what would I give to clasp his hand,
His dear kind face to see;
To hear his voice, to see his smile
That meant so much to me;
His spirit has flown, his suffering o'er—
At the fireside he will join us no more.
THE FAMILY. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Kathryn Hinterseeller, who died Oct. 24, 1918. Sadly missed by Mattie Hinterseeller, mother, Mitzie W. Hinterseeller, sister.

In loving memory of Francis H. Krenning, who passed away Oct. 21, 1926:
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.
Sadly missed by
SON, DAUGHTER, SON-IN-LAW AND GRANDSON. (c)

In loving memory of my dear husband, Asa Wease, who departed this life Oct. 23, 1926:
Days of sadness oft come o'er me;
Tears of silence often flow.
Love shall always keep you near me,
Though you left us a year ago.
Sadly missed by his wife and nephew.
MRS. WEASE.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Henry J. Boedges, who departed this life Oct. 23, 1924:
We did not see you suffer;
We did not hear your sigh;
We only know you went away
And never said good-by.
Sadly missed by the
BOEDGES FAMILY. (c)

In loving memory of LeRoi Michael Alphonse, who departed this life five years ago, Oct. 21, 1922:
More and more each day we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by
FATHER, MOTHER AND SISTER.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Barbara Sladek, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 26, 1926.
A wonderful mother woman and aid.
One who was better, God never made;
A wonderful worker so loyal and true,
One in a million that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew;
Our wonderful mother, that mother was you.
Sadly missed by the CHILDREN.

In loving memory of Mary Moorkamp (nee Doebber), who departed this life nine years ago, Oct. 25, 1918.
What would we give to clasp her hand,
Her happy face to see
To hear her voice and see her smiles,
That meant so much to us.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER.

In memory of our dear mother, Ellen Crowley, who departed this life five years ago, Oct. 20, 1922.
Faithful and honored to the end of her days;
Upright and just in all her ways.
Forgotten to the world by some she may be,
But dear to our hearts she alays will be.
Sadly missed by
WILLIAM CROWLEY AND WIFE.

In Memory of our dear daughter and sister, Edna Beck, (nee Langsdorf) who departed her life 1 year ago Oct. 24, 1926
In the graveyard softly sleeping
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly
In her silent, lonely grave
Oh, so calmly did she leave us,
How we miss her smiling face;
She is gone, but not forgotten;
To that far-off distant place.
Sadly missed by PARENTS AND BROTHERS and all who loved her.

In loving memory of my dear husband, Herman A. Schneider, who departed this life two years ago, Oct. 21, 1925.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss him more,
As I walk through life alone.
Past his suffering, past his pain,
Cease to weep for tears are vain;
He who suffered is at rest,
Gone to Heaven with the blest.
Sadly missed by WIFE, CHILDREN, SISTER AND AUNT.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Sophie Clostermeyer, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 24, 1926:
We have longed for you, dear mother,
Through a long, weary year;
Our hearts are filled with sorrow,
Our eyes bedimmed with tears.
Oh, how we miss you, mother;
How we wish that you were here,
To cheer us as none other
And drive away all fear.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND HUSBAND.

SEALED PROPOSALS

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
Clearing Site, State Highway Building,
Jefferson City, Mo.

Sealed proposals addressed to the State Highway Commission of Missouri, Jefferson City, Missouri, endorsed "Proposal for clearing the site of the proposed Highway Building," will be received by the State Highway Commission until 10:00 o'clock a. m. of Friday, Nov. 4, 1927, at the office of the Commission in the Capitol at Jefferson City and will there be publicly opened and read immediately after that hour and date.

The work to be performed under this proposal consists of the tearing down to the ground level, and the removal from the site of all material and debris of five (5) two-story brick, one (1) two-story brick and frame, and one (1) one-story brick residence, situated in Jefferson City, Missouri, and located upon the following subdivisions of Inlots 325 and 326 in said city, to wit: Subdivisions Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, of said Inlots 325 and 326.

All the materials, fixtures and appurtenances in these houses are to become the property of the successful bidder and they must be removed in their entirety from the site as they accumulate. No materials, debris, or refuse must be allowed to remain upon the site of the houses to be torn down upon the streets and alleys adjacent to or within the block in which the houses are located, and the work will not be considered to have been performed until such materials, fixtures and debris have been removed and the sites and all affected ground made broom clean.

All proposals shall be upon forms to be furnished by the Commission.

Bidders will be required to submit a statement outlining their capabilities to perform the work, to furnish approved bond in the sum of three thousand dollars for the faithful performance of the work, and to provide liability insurance to cover both their employees and the public.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check in the sum of $500.00, payable to the "State Treasurer for credit in the State Road Fund," as a guaranty that the bidder, if awarded the contract, will execute the contract and bond.

Financial settlement will be made upon completion and acceptance of the entire work.

Time being of vital importance in the performance of this work, the contract must be fully and finally completed by the 15th day of January, 1928.

The Commission reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to let the work to other than the low bidder, if in its judgment it is deemed expedient to do so, and the lower bidders will have no recourse.

T. H. CUTLER,
Chief Engineer. (c8)

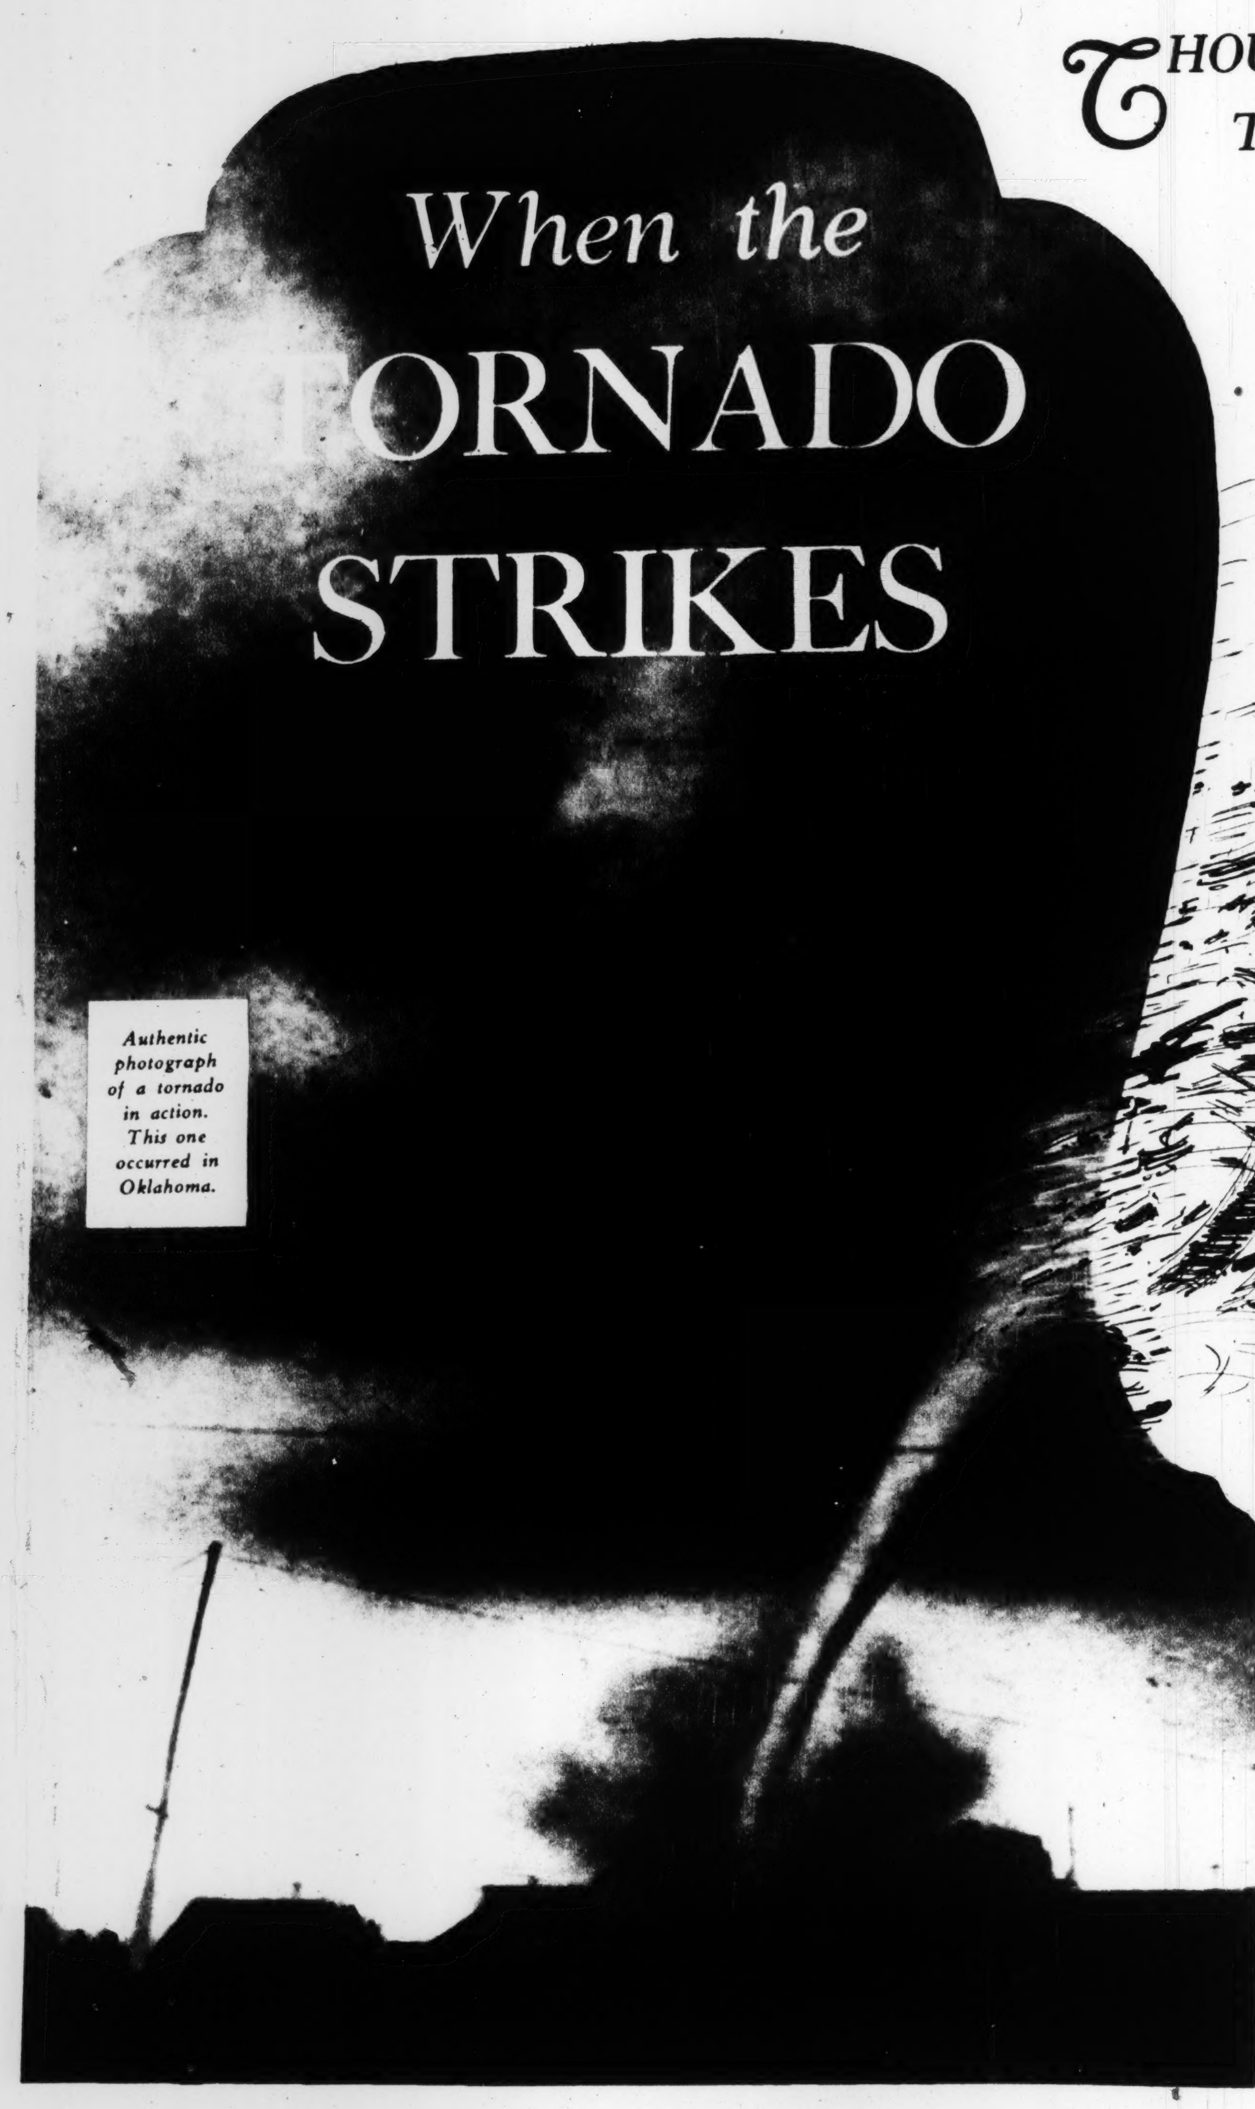
THE ENGLISH COUNTRYSIDE FROM AN AIRPLANE

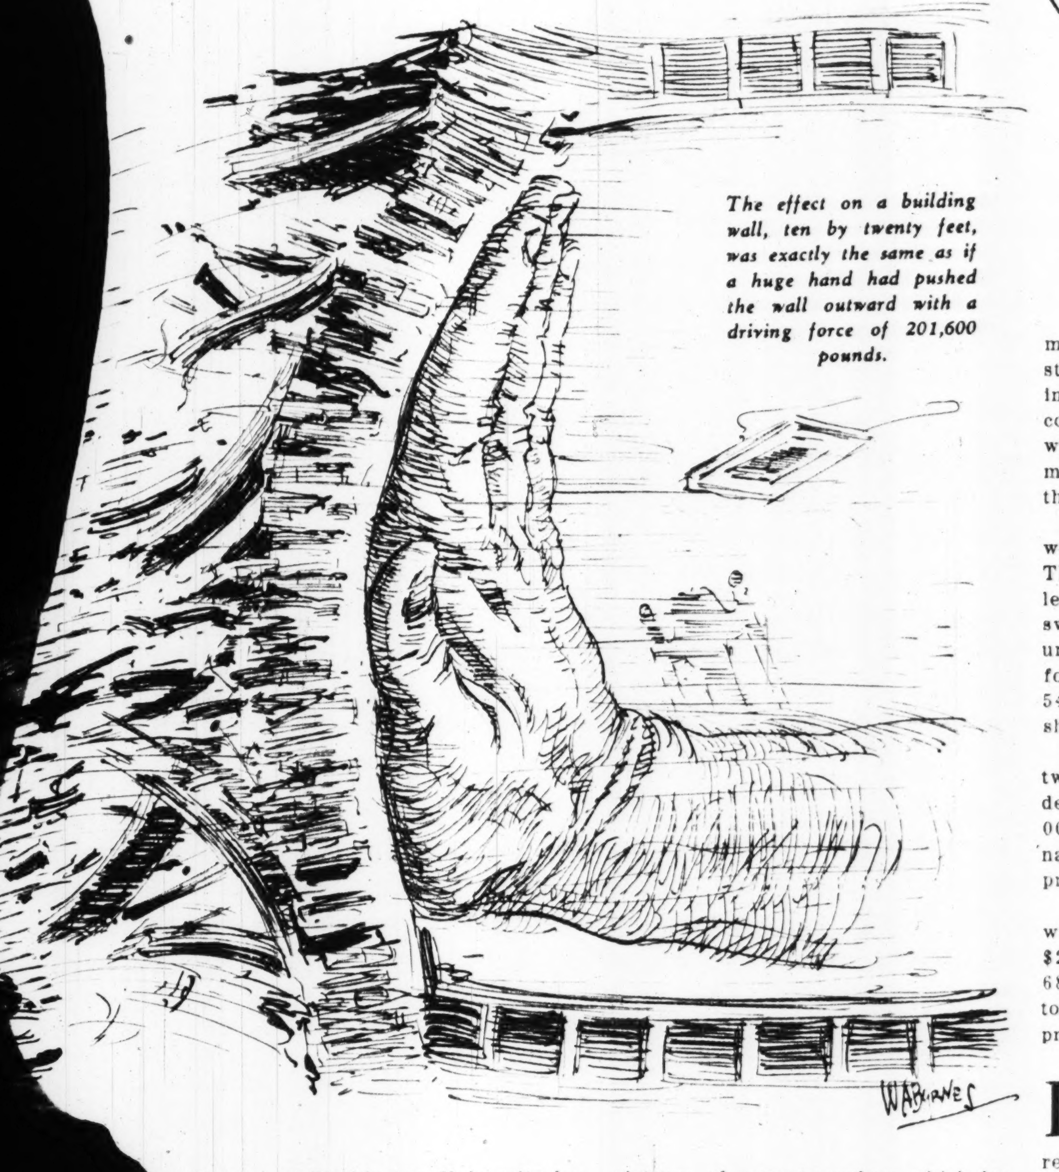
A Watercolor by D. R. Fitzpatrick From Sketches Made While Traveling by Airline From London to Paris



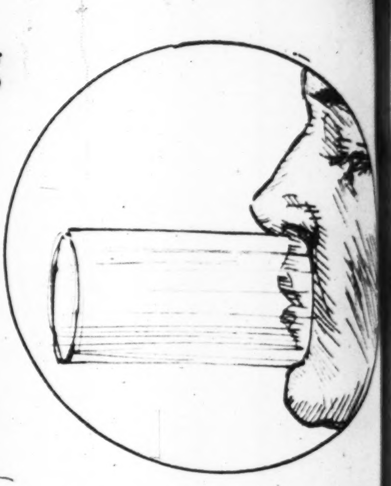
When the TORNADO STRIKES

Authentic photograph of a tornado in action. This one occurred in Oklahoma.

THOUGH Experts Are Constantly Studying This Type of Storm, Its Power Is Still Uncurbed and Its Eccentricities Are Still Unpredictable.



The effect on a building wall, ten by twenty feet, was exactly the same as if a huge hand had pushed the wall outward with a driving force of 201,600 pounds.



A homely illustration of what happens when a partial vacuum is created. By placing a glass over one's mouth and drawing in the breath, a part of the air is withdrawn and the pressure on the outside of the glass, becoming relatively stronger, keeps it pressed against the mouth unsupported.

By M. W. CHILDS
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

WITH the memory of the violence of its passing still clear, with the record of its destruction nearing completion and the eccentricities of its behavior set down, the tornado that struck St. Louis on September 29 remains, along with others throughout the world, one of those uncurbed, unpredictable phenomena of the weather.

The tornado is one of those natural occurrences about which science has comparatively little to say. And although meteorologists have devoted considerable study to the phenomenon of the tornado, they remain as doubtful today as they were 50 years ago about the possibility of predicting where it may strike or the more remote possibility of curbing its violence.

Those who are still engaged in the task of unearthing their possessions and setting their houses in order or laboriously building them up again have slight knowledge of how and why a tornado comes into being, why it occurs where it does and how tremendous is its destructive power.

In two seconds, it can and did crush walls of brick and stone as though they were made of pasteboard. In seven minutes, the recent tornado had swept across the entire city, leaving a swath as though a giant had stepped upon flimsy berry boxes.

In the second of its passing, by means of the partial vacuum which exists at the center of the swirl of winds, it produces an explosive force in the interior of buildings comparable to touching off a charge of dynamite. It was estimated that an explosive force of 201,600 pounds was exerted against a 10 by 20-foot wall during the recent tornado.

"If you could take all the tornadoes that had occurred over a period of 100 years," said Montrose W. Hayes, meteorologist in charge of the United States Weather Bureau at St. Louis, "and let each blow its hardest across an enormous proving ground, it would be probable that there would be many of greater severity than the two storms which, 31 years apart, have struck St. Louis.

"The Murphysboro tornado of March 18, 1925, for example, would be seen to be very much more severe than the two St. Louis storms. The Murphysboro tornado was, in fact, the most serious ever known, and more lives were lost in that storm than in both the St. Louis tornadoes."

CLIMATIC conditions—heat, humidity and frequently recurring areas of low atmospheric pressure—make the Mississippi Valley and the Southern and Southeastern states the ideal belt for tornadoes. Prof. Lewis F. Thomas of Washington University expresses the climatic situation with relation to tornadoes this way:

"You have probably seen a stream of water in which, between the still water in a bay or inlet and the rushing main current of the stream, there is a strip of water flecked with numerous eddies and small whirlpools.

"That is the situation we are in with regard to climate. At the North and South poles the air is very still. At the Equator there are the trade winds, blowing very swiftly in a westerly direction. In between these two belts, one of wind and one of calm, are whirling eddies of air—high and low pressure areas, as they were once called, cyclone and anti-cyclone areas. It is in the southeast section of a cyclone area that tornadoes originate."

But a very special set of circumstances must exist before a tornado can come into being. An area of low atmospheric pressure—a cyclone area with more or less gentle winds whirling in a direction opposite to that of the hands of a clock—is the first requisite. It must be a day of extreme humidity, preferably in May or June. (The meteorologists were about to formulate a rule that tornadoes never or very rarely occur in the fall when the recent storm came along and upset their theory.) There must be a layer of colder air above the lower belt of warm, moist air. The temperature must be high, well above 70.

If all these conditions exist, then things are likely to happen. The lower moist air, as it becomes heated over a cornfield, say, or a collection of tin roofs, begins to rise in a column. The colder air correspondingly begins to move down. And as the warm, moist air moves up, the moisture is condensed, heat is thereby produced and the two columns of air move faster and faster, until there is a great rotary swirl of air. Other wind is drawn in until there is a whirl of air so rapid that a partial vacuum is created at its center. (The same effect is seen when the stopper is pulled from a washbowl and the water along the sides stirred in a circulatory motion. A column of air forms at the center that reaches nearly to the bottom of the bowl.)

The storm may be classed as a tornado as soon as the funnel-shaped cloud can be seen distinctly, whether it reaches the ground or not. Dr. C. H. Farr of Washington University believes he saw the recent St. Louis tornado form. He was standing in a window of Barnes Hospital looking out toward the south. There was a great haze of mist, like smoke, over the distant Mill Creek Valley. Suddenly the circulatory movement began in this smoke-like mist and in a very short time the funnel-like nature of the wind cloud was apparent.

IT WAS at this time that the greenish-gray light that often gives warning of a tornado was apparent to many observers throughout the city. This is caused, according to Hayes, by the rays of the sun which shine dimly through the whirling cloud that carries with it moisture, dust and sediment.

Shortly after the circulatory motion began, the whirling cloud swept down upon the city, carrying with it a blinding wall of rain. The noise of the wind was deafening. Even those who were at the center of the storm scarcely realized the extent of its destruction, so terrible was the roar of its passing.

Almost immediately after it had swept over the city, the skies began to lighten. The heavy downpour of rain continued for some minutes and then gradually eased off. Shortly after 6 o'clock in the evening of the same day there was an alarm of another tornado. Dark clouds which had obscured the whole sky suddenly cleared and the city was suffused in an orange glow while simultaneously there was a deluge of rain. Another tornado had not threatened the city, however, according to Hayes. The orange light was merely the result of the rays of the sun, which had passed over the horizon, shining through an atmosphere heavily charged with moisture.

The funnels usually drop from low-hanging clouds, from one to one and a half miles high. They generally drop perpendicularly, although there are pictures of some tornadoes which lay almost parallel with the ground.

This whirling column of air moves forward — almost always from the southwest section of the cyclone area to the northeast, although one exception to this has been recorded—at a rate of from 60 to 100 miles an hour. The whirling velocity of the winds may be anywhere from 150 to 500 miles.

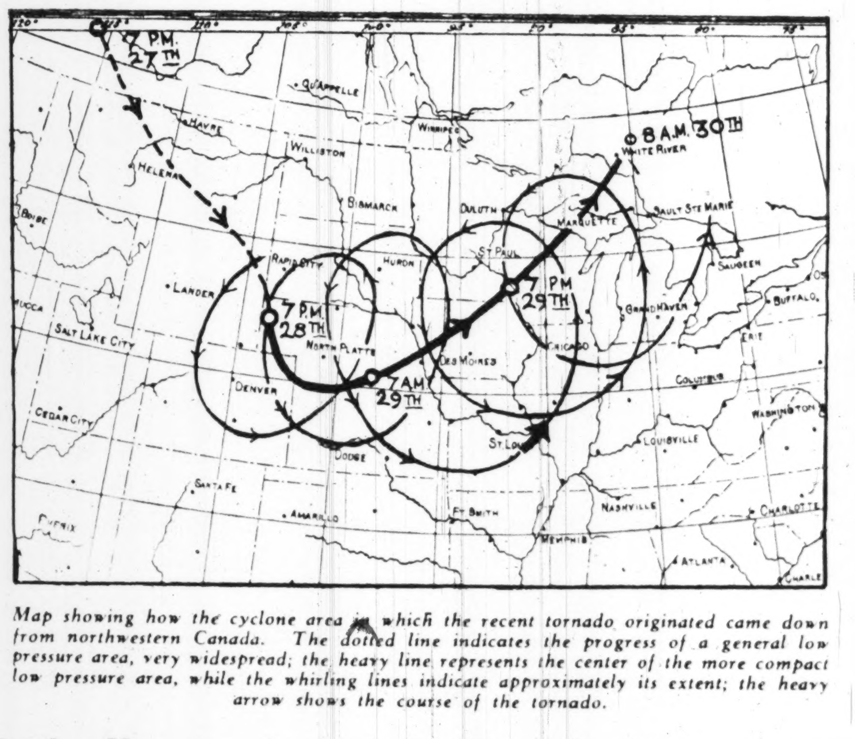
The tornado carries with it three forces of destruction.

First, there is the direct force of the wind as the storm moves forward. Then there is the rotary swirl. These two tend to work together and they are responsible for such phenomena as the unroofing of Sportsman's Park in the recent tornado. And, lastly, there is the tremendous explosive force of the vacuum that is carried at the center of the storm.

The normal air pressure is 15 pounds to the square inch. It is estimated that in the instant of its passing the recent St. Louis tornado reduced this by half, bringing an explosive pressure of seven pounds to the square inch to bear on the walls of buildings in which all the windows were closed and, in fact, on all surfaces which enclosed air at normal pressure.

In other words, the pressure on the outside of an apartment house wall was 15 pounds and the pressure on the inside was the same before the storm's passage. Then, as it swept by, the pressure on the outside of the wall was instantaneously reduced, in the partial vacuum, to seven pounds. The effect on the inside was just as though every square inch of the wall had been struck a hammer blow equivalent to seven pounds of pressure. Instantly, after the vacuum had passed by, the pressure returned to normal, that is, the pressure on the outside and the inside was again equal. One can illustrate the operation of a partial vacuum by placing an ordinary water glass over the mouth and drawing in the breath. The pressure on the outside will keep it standing against the mouth unsupported until the normal amount of air is restored to the inside.

This explosive force explains why bark was stripped from trees, why walls in a direction opposite to that from which the wind came were blown out and why frame structures were shattered in many instances into fine splinters.



Map showing how the cyclone area in which the recent tornado originated came down from northwestern Canada. The dotted line indicates the progress of a general low pressure area, very widespread; the heavy line represents the center of the more compact low pressure area, while the whirling lines indicate approximately its extent; the heavy arrow shows the course of the tornado.

ONLY two storms that could really be classed, in the definition of the United States Weather Bureau, as tornadoes, have struck St. Louis in the last 31 years. During that time, according to Professor Thomas, there have been from 1500 to 1600 cyclone areas over the city. But only in two instances were the conditions of heat and humidity exactly right to produce a tornado. Two out of 1500 times would seem to be the average.

Conditions during certain years seem to have been particularly favorable for tornadoes. The year 1884 remains the record year, according to statistics of the Weather Bureau. During that year 180 twisters were recorded, and it is probable that there were more which were unobserved, for many of the western states were at that time still thinly populated.

The pioneers were moving southwestward into Kansas and Oklahoma. They were terror-stricken at the violence of the frequent storms that swept down upon them. Official figures show 147 deaths from tornadoes for this year and a property loss of $4,544,035. But both figures probably should be much higher.

In 1917, another tornado year, 121 twisters were recorded with 508 deaths and a property loss of $15,008,000. In 1924 there were 130 tornadoes with deaths totaling 376 and a property loss of $26,120,850.

In 1925 there were 119 tornadoes which took a toll of 794 lives and $24,033,900. Of the total death list, 689 were killed in the Murphysboro tornado and $13,193,000 damage to property was done by that storm.

IN THE opinion of S. D. Flora, Kansas section chief for the United States Weather Bureau and the bureau's tornado specialist, 1927 will break all tornado records, except possibly that for the number of lives lost. During the first seven months of this year he has recorded 114 tornadoes. Up to August 1, 432 persons had lost their lives in tornadoes, and the death list from the St. Louis storm alone brings this to 510. A preliminary estimate on property damage up to August 1 was $16,000,000.

In his long study of tornadoes, many storm freaks have come to Flora's notice. A tornado in 1902, at Williamstown, Kansas, killed an entire family of six and carried them a considerable distance, dropping them in a cemetery in which other members of the family were buried.

At Holton, Kansas, a twister picked up a little girl, carried her into a tree top, where she grabbed a limb and temporarily halted her flight, broke her hold on the branch and whirled her into another tree top, from which she was rescued uninjured. An Iowa funnel cloud went over a lake and drew all the water into the sky, leaving the lake bed dry. Six tornadoes occurred in one day in California. They arose from an unusual cause—an oil tank fire on a hot, sultry day.

The color of the funnel cloud, according to Flora's observations, ranges from black to a milky white, depending on the amount of dirt and sediment carried in it. It is accompanied by a whirring, hissing noise, which is unmistakable.

IT IS impossible to forecast tornadoes, according to Hayes. There is no means of knowing with certainty where they will form or where they will strike. The panic and confusion which would result in a city from the prediction of a tornado would be almost as disastrous as the effect of the tornado itself, he pointed out. And then it probably wouldn't strike the city at all. The most the Weather Bureau permits itself, when there is the possibility of a tornado is "severe local storms." For September 29 the prediction was "severe local winds and squalls."

Willis L. Moore, formerly chief of the United States Weather Bureau, states, in his book on climates, that the bureau forecast the St. Louis tornado of May 27, 1896. The warning was issued for a general area at about 10 a. m. of the morning of the storm. Children were sent home from school and other precautions taken. There was much indignation, however, in areas where the storm did not strike, for people had spent the day in terror in basements and storm cellars. Moore issued an order forbidding tornado forecasts after this incident.

Few tornadoes occur at night, Flora states. They are practically unknown after midnight and until late in the morning, when the sun has had time to warm the atmosphere. But they obey no laws, he emphasizes. The Associated Press reported that on October 11 a tornado struck at Dell, Arkansas, late at night, and four persons were killed and 20 injured

AMERICAN commercial aviation is coming along.

A great many tourists who go to Europe and come back filled with enthusiasm over progress on the other side and with gloom for what they term the lack of it here will scoff at any such optimistic idea, but they ought to look around and be convinced. Better still, they might fly a little bit and find out for themselves.

Theirs is a curious psychology: abroad they unhesitatingly step into any sort of passenger airplane and go anywhere, bubbling over with the marvels of air transportation; at home they bemoan our lack of great flying fleets and can scarcely be coaxed into using any of the hundreds of commercial airplanes in daily use in the United States. It is a situation worth some thought.

In a general way almost everyone in the United States has been familiar with the operation of the United States air mail and many have been vaguely convinced that it is a service without equal elsewhere in the world. But it was the mail and therefore impersonal, even though it carried personal and important letters with amazing rapidity between widely separated places.

The flyers who carried the mail were a group of heroic pioneers like the riders of the pony express, but their achievements were something to read about with a pipe, beside a cheerful fire. All that is changing now.

SEPTEMBER 1 the United States Government relinquished the last of its air mail routes to private operation when National Air Transport, Inc., took over the New York-Chicago lap of the transcontinental air mail service and the overnight run between the same cities. Two months earlier, Boeing Air Transport, Inc., had assumed responsibility for seeing that the mail went through regularly and swiftly by air on the Chicago-San Francisco route.

For a year or more the various "feeder" lines to this main aerial transportation artery had been operating on the private contract basis by which they were brought into existence, the Government merely assuming responsibility for lighting the routes and providing emergency landing fields between the regular stops.

As soon as the Boeing company was awarded the Chicago-San Francisco contract it set about building its own planes in the Boeing aircraft factory at Seattle for the job it had undertaken. It was convinced that the way to promote air transportation was to carry passengers and "sell" them the flying idea on a personal contact basis, so it built a fleet of 25 airplanes which had not only the necessary mail and express compartments but a comfortable cabin for two passengers.

The plane necessarily was fairly large and needed to be fast if the idea of speedy transportation was to be lived up to, so the Boeing people placed an order for 25 Pratt & Whitney Wasp motors—400 horsepower air-cooled radial engines hitherto used only by the navy. Because these motors were of modern design and because they required no heavy radiator and water system to keep them cool, they guaranteed a greater "pay load" in service and a quicker takeoff and climb from the high airdromes which must be used on the run between Chicago and the Pacific coast.

But the air experts shook their heads.

"Boeing is biting off more than he can chew," they said. "You can't get Americans to fly—unless they're running around in Europe." This last somewhat bitterly. "Besides, you can't carry passengers at night"

THE answer to this objection must, of course, come with traffic statistics covering several months of operation in all kinds of weather. But in July, the first month of Boeing service between San Francisco and Chicago, 81 passengers were carried a total of 42,692 passenger miles; and in August, 95 passengers ran up the mileage of the same classification to a total of 60,930. And the company reports that passenger traffic is still picking up.

National Air Transport faced a different problem on the shorter New York-Chicago run and is feeling its way on the passenger question as it continues to carry the mail. This end of the transcontinental airway is admittedly the toughest part of the run, particularly that portion of it lying between New York and Cleveland, where the flying is almost entirely over moutain ranges and more different kinds of weather are encountered in a day than beset pilots on the Western run in a week. "Blind" flying through or above the clouds, with only instruments to guide the flyer, is often a necessity on this run and pilots refuse to take passengers with them under such hazardous conditions.

So N. A. T., as the New York-Chicago operator commonly is called, does not yet attempt to run a regular passenger service, but contents itself with carrying persons now and then when good weather coincides with a demand for transportation by air.

It is continuing to use, for the present, the Liberty-motored Douglas mail planes employed over the entire transcontinental route when the service was run by the Postoffice Department. Only one passenger can be taken at a time in these machines, and then he sits in an open cockpit just back of the mail and must wear a helmet and goggles, the same as his pilot.

It was exactly 31 hours and 5 minutes from the time that N. A. T. ship No. 36-Cl.,064, Pilot Earl F. Ward up, took off with me from Hadley Field, New Brunswick, New Jersey, the New York terminal of the air mail, until Jack Sharpnack, in Boeing plane No. 3288, set me down on Crissy Field, San Francisco just ahead of a dense white fog that came pouring in through the Golden Gate, blotting out landmarks and airdromes alike. Our wheels had touched Hadley for the last time at 1:45 p. m. Wednesday, September 14, and my watch, which religiously stuck to New York daylight saving time all the way across the United States, indicated 8:50 p. m., Thursday, when we glided down and settled at the California terminus. The sun and the local timepieces insisted it was only 4:50, however, San Francisco being on standard time and the mail and I having traversed three time belts on our way from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The two of us—the letters and I, to say nothing of the American Railway Company's air express, which included a package sent from Paris—had ridden with six different pilots in seven different planes, covering about 2700 miles, at an average speed of approximately 100 miles an hour. The mail does this sort of thing daily, but it was said to be the first time a passenger had ever come straight through and one of the very few times that anyone ever crossed the continent in such short order. Kelly and Macready did it several years ago in their non-stop flight from New York to San Diego, and Maughan did it later in his famous dawn-to-dusk flight.

Like all the other pilots on the way across, Ward lost no time in getting under way from Hadley Field. He had come in a half-hour or so earlier from Cleveland with the overnight air mail, delayed by bad weather reports until the morning sun began to clear the mountain tops of fog. There was time for a cup of coffee and a sandwich at a lunch counter near the field before a mechanic spun the propeller of the plane that was to take us across the mountains to Cleveland. Ward already was in flying togs and had strapped on his parachute.

"Sounds like the 1 o'clock whistle," he said whimsically as the motor burst into a roar. "I guess we'll go to work." He scanned the weather reports from along the route for a second to see what changes had occurred since he came through, and appeared to be satisfied. We both climbed in and without more ado were off. My feet were on the mail bags in front and a borrowed parachute with the name of D. C. Smith—one of the most experienced pilots in the air mail—stamped on it served as a cushion.

Ward flew low to cheat an opposing wind, always of less force near the ground than higher up, and I watched the passing landscape, picking up the landmarks by which the flyers keep their course. Once or twice I looked back, but Ward was invisible behind his huge windshield, which was painted black except at the edges to shield his eyes from the glare of lights ahead and the motor exhaust at night.

The first of the beacons which light the mail airway from New York to Salt Lake City passed at our right, atop a high ridge, three minutes after we had started. Again and again I was to see them, both at day and at night, large flashing lights every 25 miles which send a revolving beam a few degrees above the horizon, and small "blinkers," or cluster lights, also revolving slowly but not flashing, every five or six miles on the Eastern division of the run and every 10 miles on the Western end. All, of course, are placed on high points, where they can best guide the flyers.

For a while the course was above a river with a canal alongside, with frequent factories filling the otherwise clear air with a bluish haze. At 2:25 the first real mountain hove in sight ahead and the plane shot over its great rugged crest, where an outcropping of bare rock furnished a marker visible for miles, while the upflow of air from the opposing wind striking the ridge on the westward side caught and flung us high in the air as easily as a wave lifts a canoe in passing. Far at the right was a beacon tower, a dead skeleton against the sky now but ready to flash its guiding rays as soon as the sun's light should fail.

Thus on and on, climbing again to negotiate a plateau ahead and passing after a few minutes over territory that seems to be covered with a giant moss, but in reality is swathed with stunted second or third growth pines.

Then the country flattens out into rolling, wooded terrain with cleared fields becoming more and more frequent, and the heat becomes noticeably greater. We are getting into the Ohio Valley and running into the first fringes of a heat wave that is enveloping the country east of the Rocky Mountains. Also the Liberty is feeling the humidity and doing its best to turn the mail compartment and my cockpit into an oven.

AT 4:55, after shimmying along through the heat-churned air, we sighted an old Jenny training plane going in our own direction, but appearing almost to be flying backward as Ward's swifter Douglas overhauled the old gypsy "crate." We had time to catch the figures 27 on the other machine's tail and wave a greeting to the two men in it as we passed, and then the Jenny fell behind and vanished in the distance.

At 5:35 we landed in Cleveland.

George I. Myers, in plane No. 27-C 791, took the mail brought by Ward and some additional bags sent during the night by train from New York on into Chicago. Again the passenger was up front, but this time there were enough mail bags to shut off some of the heat from the motor and things were more comfortable. Besides, the air was dead calm over the flat country above which we flew and the going was smooth as Myers skirted the lake shore.

The take-off from Cleveland was at 5:55, and the plane forged ahead steadily over the fat farmlands almost unnoticed.

At 7:55 o'clock—still New York time—the sun tired of the game it had been playing with the tiny mail plane which had presumed to race it westward and went down in a glow of red resignation.

The air mail beacons underneath blazed a straight path to Chicago, which presently appeared as a great glow against the sky and quickly resolved itself into 10,000,000 separate points of light glittering below. Presently the plane was over Maywood Field, visible only by its boundary lights, and Myers brought it in to a smooth landing with only the powerful electric lights which all night mail planes carry beneath their lower wing tips.

9:05 p. m. Time to stretch one's legs, get a hot dog from an itinerant vender and make connections with the Boeing Air Transport agent and find out about reservations on the westbound plane which was to relay the mail. Fortunately, this had been arranged by the Pratt & Whitney Company, makers of the motors used in Boeing's mail planes, and a place had been reserved. More waiting, this time for the mail planes coming into Chicago from St. Louis, Detroit, St. Paul and Dallas, and then, at 10:05 p. m., into the air again for an entirely new experience—a flight through the entire night in a passenger plane.

Ralph J. Johnson, one of the oldest veterans of the central division, was at the controls of plane No. 3287 as we rose into the hot night above Chicago's bewildering maze of light and at least one of the two passengers in the comfortably upholstered cabin was glad. The other, a Chicago business man, bound for Los Angeles and due to accompany me as far as Salt Lake City, had done very little flying, he said, and consequently didn't know enough to be thankful for a good pilot.

A two-thirds moon came up behind us and soon lit up the ground sufficiently to make houses, fences, trees and roads distinguishable. The Wasp motor popped away as though it never intended to stop as the plane forged on to the West, Johnson, like Ward, flying low to keep the west breeze from holding him back more than necessary.

WE LANDED at Iowa City for a 10-minute fueling delay and I made short work of a lunch which the Boeing man in Chicago had said he would telegraph ahead for. I had flown considerably in Europe and knew of the restaurant facilities at airdromes where one may eat—for a good price—and I was amazed when the agent at Iowa City refused my money.

"It's part of the Boeing service," he said, and thereafter both the other passenger and I marveled as lunches and hot coffee were brought to our plane at every stop approximating meal time; marveled and ate and gasped as the agent at each place merely punched a ticket that we had both supposed called only for transportation.

These tickets themselves are worth a word if only for the fact that on the back of each is a printed map of the course followed by the Boeing planes, with the name of every city at which they stop. Passengers are always pulling out their tickets and referring to them to learn what the next town will be.

The fare is approximately 10 cents a mile—$200 from Chicago to San Francisco—and business men who use the route say the saving in time and comfort is worth the cost.

The plane left Iowa City at 12:45 a. m. and bucked a head wind to Omaha, where we arrived at 4 a. m.

We left Omaha after a 35-minute stop, this time with Frank Yager, in plane No. 3283, and followed the Platte River Valley west. At 5:50 a. m. a terrific thunderstorm came on the northern horizon some distance away and there was a beautiful display of lightning—forked, jagged, splash and clustered.

We landed at North Platte at 7 a. m. and left 15 minutes later. Dawn broke at 7:45, finding us over a long stretch of desolate, rough and partly irrigated land with rough ridges of rock cropping out in snaky formations.

Our pilot landed us at Cheyenne, 6200 feet above sea level (the terrain gradually had been sloping up to the

"ALIMONY PAYERS" DECLARE THEIR INDEPENDENCE

Alimony
We Won't Pay

John E. Gasteiger.

The West 37th-street and (bottom) the Ludlow street jails, new and old homes of the alimony defaulters.

NEW YORK.

THAT beautiful testimonial to masculine independence, the noble Alimony Club, that had its conception and lived its high-purposed life within the red brick walls of Ludlow Street Jail, is about to trade its manly and material existence for the more illusory life of song and story. A sad affair, many will say, as they blink the salt tear out the corner of a thoughtfully pessimistic eye. BUT NOT SO! For "A Man on Horseback" charges down the field; well aloft he carries the banner of freedom of court-belabored husbands, loud does he chant his battle hymn. And, so doing, this first Knight of the Alimony Payers' Protective Association heartens the flagging spirits of all disbursers of the hated divorce tax, he warms their bitter bosoms, he brings them promise of great liberty, of glorious days ahead, such days as will hallow the past Ludlow Alimony Club as but a pretty institution of a weaker time, a seemly ancestor of the new spirit.

John E. Gasteiger is the noble fellow mentioned above. His heart throbs for his kind, and not alone does it throb for those who are residents of Manhattan, it throbs yet more geographically, it throbs from north to south, from east to west; therefore, this worthy man will not be content to achieve greatness for the Alimony Payers' Protective Association in New York alone, he will zealously endeavor to establish his institution in every state in this Union, in every city thereof, and spread its succor to every threshold in the land.

Time was when alimony and the payment thereof were as foreign to John E. Gasteiger's soul as feminine charm is now. But time and conditions changed his pocketbook and his philosophy, jurists and his wife's petitions put him behind strong steel bars, and John E. Gasteiger, husband and father, became John E. Gasteiger, founder and president of the Alimony Payers' Protective Association.

MR. GASTEIGER emerges as the savior of the alimony-paying race. Great credit is due him, and great credit shall him be done. But the unbiased student of the history of alimony cannot but admit that, important as President Gasteiger may be in the cause of the alimony payers' uplift, the original inspiration, the fundamental urge, had its impetus in those fine spirits who first banded together within Ludlow Jail's grim walls.

It was about the time of the end of the Civil War that the Alimony Club came into being. Divorce courts were giving their verdicts, Judges were decreeing that ex-husbands and separated husbands must pay alimony. Ex-husbands and separated husbands, feeling they had paid enough, both materially and spiritually, were refusing to pay this alimony. But the courts could not allow their rulings to be spurned; they ordered the delinquent husbands to jail.

But to what jail? These one-time benedicks were not refusing to pay because they didn't want to part with so-much-a-month in gold. It was with them purely a matter of principle, and the highest sort of principle. A man who had been heckled, brow-beaten, belabored by words and sometimes by more tangible weapons, and had then decently stepped aside and allowed his spouse to get the divorce so her disposition would not be indicted and her chances to get another man to heckle, browbeat and belabor might not be impaired—such a decent fellow did not see why he should support his erstwhile torturer in luxury until she found his unfortunate successor. More, he felt conscientious scruples about the business, for, he argued, with the sums she took from him she would furbish herself in a manner that might tempt his brethren, and therefore he himself would be contributing to the future unhappiness of a fellow man, if only in a roundabout way.

So he refused to pay; as a matter of honor, as a tribute to humanity.

Now, wise jurists and wise legislators saw that those ex-husbands and separated husbands, who cried out against their verdicts and their laws, meant no malice and no disrespect to the courts. Rather, they were acting as gentlemen, scholars and philosophers. It would be utterly unfair to send them to Blackwell's, or some other such prison to be in the company of thieves and burglars. A new place of incarceration must be found for them, and that new place was Ludlow Street Jail.

AND so it came about that the red brick building on Ludlow street from time to time harbored some of America's most able, noteworthy and distinguished citizens. Sculptors, painters, playwrights, poets, financiers, actors, composers were of its clan. Always within its walls was a gathering of which any club in America or Europe might be proud. Its noble prisoners were of the very highest order. There was never lack of good conversation, life never became dull or tiresome, each day was a happy mingling of lovely souls.

Thus the Alimony Club came into being, partly by circumstance, partly by the initiative of its enforced membership. Fine fellows met other fine fellows within Ludlow's walls, all of them were there for a single purpose; it was only natural and tremendously fitting that they band together, club together, one might say, and form the famous Alimony Club.

Now, the Alimony Club was never an active institution in the sense that it set about doing things for the unfortunate members berated by wives and jurists. It was entirely what the name implied—a club. It made no move to alter or rectify conditions; rather, it accepted them and had a pleasant time doing so.

Then came the tragedy. Building inspectors came to Ludlow Street Jail, they observed it in their technical manner, they decreed its old brick walls unsound. Ludlow, the Alimony Club, would have to be on the move. The new jail, it was decided, would be at 434 West Thirty-seventh street.

And then came John E. Gasteiger with vigorous plan and magnificent aspirations.

WHEN Mr. Gasteiger was sent to the hoosegow, some 12 months ago, he, knowing that Ludlow was condemned and soon would be no more, held fond hopes of being its last member. But technicalities interfered. The authorities decreed that no more renegade husbands be delivered into Ludlow, that only those already there be of its personnel, and that for the time being nonpaying spouses would take, as their enforced abode, quarters in the jail on Raymond street. Mr. Gasteiger went to Raymond Street Jail and he kept an unusually stiff upper lip.

Gasteiger's marital career, according to that gentleman, has been a sad one. Telling his wife on arriving home one day, he says, that his business was out a neat half-million in American dollars because of losses suffered through a fire and the embezzlement of an employe, and that, therefore, it would be necessary for the Gasteigers to live a bit more cheaply—telling her this, he says, the lady promptly laughed at him.

"When I suggested," remarks Mr. Gasteiger, "that we start an economy program by trying to get along with only one or two motor cars, my wife said: 'Don't bother me with talk about such things; we can't live any differently, and I won't stand for it.' Well, this refusal on her part to be satisfied with less than the fancy living I had formerly been able to afford resulted in our separation. Although she was supported very well by her wealthy father after we parted, she hounded me for the $90 a week that New York and New Jersey courts allowed her.

"It seemed a terrible injustice to keep me from getting on my feet when she didn't need the money. I was so bitter against her for her attitude that I decided I would rather be in jail than give her a cent."

GASTEIGER is 38 years old and his wife is 36. They have two children—William, 13, and Doris, 10. Mrs. Gasteiger and the children live in Brooklyn, and Gasteiger, endeavoring to see the children, has been arrested 11 times in two years. Mr. Gasteiger says nothing would suit him better than a divorce, but his wife prefers legal separation and alimony.

The worthy president of the Alimony Payers' Protective Association is likewise the head of John E. Gasteiger, Inc., a hay and grain firm in the Produce Exchange. Gasteiger's firm did a business of $3,000,000 yearly until his troubles around the hearth and fireside began. But now his business has dwindled, his funds are well nigh exhausted and various cash bonds has he forfeited. He is just about starting all over again.

Yes, President John's life has not been rosy during the past two years that this case has dragged along in the courts. There have been hearings and petitions until Supreme Court Justice Selah B. Strong says: "The papers in the different proceedings brought in this action would fill an auto truck, and I have not attempted to go through them." And the learned jurist, musing upon the case, announced that it was his opinion that the wife of John Gasteiger and her father—one Joseph Schreiber, a furniture broker, whom the jurist described as "wealthy and able to provide his daughter with luxuries"—were "vindictive and heartless." The Court also said that President John oughtn't to be so "stubborn and contumacious."

Judge Strong made a notable effort to untangle all the multitudinous evidence in the case of Gasteiger versus Gasteiger. When he got through he, in part, summarized the business:

"Everything went well with these parties until the bankruptcy of the father of Mr. Gasteiger, for whom he was working, curtailed his income. The wife, this plaintiff, through not being sufficiently well trained or through lack of ability to play the part of a good sport by making the best of the situation by turning in and proving a helpmate to her husband and carrying on, has become discontented and fault-finding and continued at the pace already set, which proved far too extravagant under the changed circumstances."

The jurist then philosophized in this wise: That women—many women—of today are taking advantage of the laws that society has outgrown, and that they use this advantage to get quite as much alimony out of the former husband as it is in their ability to squeeze out of the poor fellow.

Gasteiger went to jail on October 26, 1926. His soul was sore with wifely injustice, great aches prevailed within his breast at laws as they were. And so, within him was born the mighty inspiration that culminated in the Alimony Payers' Protective Association.

JOHN GASTEIGER set to work. His cell he used as an office for his new league. And presently that office cell was heaped with letters from other poor fellows caught within the cruel meshes of the alimony laws, fellow sufferers who craved advice, who made inquiries, who sent him notes of sympathy. And what with answering these missives and laying plans for the furtherance of his society, President Gasteiger spent in jail a very full existence.

But he couldn't stay in jail forever. Finally, he paid his arrears of $1430, and on September 15 of this year he was released from his imprisonment.

His leave-taking of his comrades and brothers of the association was a tear-compelling spectacle. Once outside the prison walls, he turned and waved farewell to those 50 other stanch fellows crowding the barred windows so they might honor their departing chief in the manner due him.

Then, a bit belated, appeared upon this memorable and heart-rending scene the hundred tried and true members of the Queens County Alimony Club to lend their huzzahs to commemorating their leader's release.

And so escorted, his step firm, his eyes clear, John E. Gasteiger triumphantly began his journey toward that beautiful subdivision of life within which alimony may never enter because of the restrictions.

Conscientious Killer Refused to Plead Self-Defense

Benjamin H. Turner, Who Trailed His Victim Across the Country, Amazed That Court and Jury Did Not Recognize the Slaying of James D. Hallen as an "Act of Justice."

At the murder trial, Turner said he would do it "a thousand times over."

PORTLAND, Maine.

IT SEEMED hard to Benjamin H. Turner the other day when they sentenced him to prison for life on a charge of murder. Little more than 30 years of age, although worry and confinement have made him look 10 years older, the prisoner never denied that he had killed one Jame D. Hallen, an elderly swindler of benevolent aspect.

"Yes, I shot Hallen to death, and Hallen deserved it."

Such was the burden of Turner's statements after his arrest, of his testimony during the trial, of what he says today inside the gloomy walls of the State penitentiary at Thomaston. And he has turned bitter over what he calls the injustice of his punishment—the most severe penalty which can be imposed in Maine.

Rather small of stature and not impressive in appearance, Turner's face nevertheless suggests the tenacity of purpose, the relentless determination, which marked his pursuit of Hallen across more than 3000 miles and his act of vengeance five years after Hallen wronged him.

Turner insists now, as he has from the day of the slaying, that he did a service to society when his bullets ended the life of Hallen. Other people have said so, too. All of Portland and half of Maine was divided into two camps over the trial. Many of those who had been victimized by the dead man declared with emphasis that Turner should be given a reward for his crime, rather than punishment.

Clarence Darrow, the famous criminal lawyer of Chicago, has expressed the opinion that Turner's defense was inadequate. But the young man's lawyers probably did as much for him as could be done. It is not an easy task to defend a slayer who will not try to extenuate his deed in the ways recognized by law.

A CONSCIENTIOUS killer, in his own belief at least, Turner cannot understand why his "principles" did not win acquittal for him. So commendable did the shooting appear in his own eyes that even when a chance came to plead self-defense, he refused it. He would not belittle his triumph over evil, his cleansing service to his fellow men, by bringing the affair down to the level of a common brawl. Before that, he had firmly waved aside the suggestions of attorneys appointed to defend him that he plead guilty on a justification of insanity.

Turner's lawyers, when the case went to trial, used the theory of temporary insanity for the defense. But Turner himself, on the witness stand, denied that he ever was insane. Repeatedly he said that the killing of Hallen was justified by the incidents which led to the final vengeance. He stuck to it then and he does now.

Indeed, no ordinary grudge brought Turner, with a revolver in his pocket, to the front door of the Hallen home, a little more than a year ago. It is the story of a man plundered and betrayed by another, who posed as a friend—the story of a man left alone in a foreign land to save himself as best he might from the firing squad which seemed so imminent and who, held in a filthy jail, had months and months in which to nurse his plans for revenge.

Before becoming a conscientious killer, the World War had developed young Turner into a conscientious objector. He was so appalled at the idea of a soldier's life of butchery that he fled to Mexico—thereby taking a step which resulted eventually in his killing Hallen and one other man.

The first slaying by this unfortunate pacifist occurred in 1921, when he shot a Mexican in the course of an altercation over money matters. From Turner's account of the affair, it appears that the Mexican was one of a group who had swindled Turner out of several thousand dollars, his savings from his salary as an accountant for the American Smelting and Refining Company, in the City of Mexico.

WHATEVER the merits of the quarrel, Turner found himself a prisoner in the foulness of Belem prison and with every likelihood of being put to death by due process of Mexican law. The future looked pretty dark when there came to Turner's cell one day a visitor—Mr. Hallen. The visitor had a polished manner. He spoke suavely and cheerfully. His conversation betokened a man of unusual education. He was, he told Turner, a lawyer. He could get the young man out of jail, he promised.

So Turner grasped at the straw and handed over to Hallen the sum of $1200, all the money he had left. The visitor departed, beaming with kindliness and optimism. Turner went to sleep that night, amid the stenches and the other discomforts of his prison, more cheerful than in many a day. Tomorrow, perhaps, he would be free. Or in a few days—a week at most.

But that distinguished-looking, gray-haired, kindly lawyer did not return. The weeks mounted into months and the months into a total of two years, and Turner, desperate now, was still a prisoner under the shadow of death. Then some other Americans in Mexico City went to Turner's assistance. He was tried for murder and found not guilty.

And then there was just one thought in Turner's mind—to find Hallen.

HAVING been born in the Middle West, at Mystic, Iowa, where he also spent his youth, and having traveled rather generally throughout the country, he had a good geographical background to begin his search. He was quite certain, from the little information he had picked up, that Hallen had gone back to the United States. Back and forth in this country Turner traveled, always hearing the smooth, rolling accents and seeing the smiling, bland face of Hallen, acquiring a little money by working here and there to go on with the search, following this clew and that clew, always in vain.

But late in the summer of 1926 he heard, through a private detective agency he had employed, that Hallen was in Portland. Hallen had come here not long after the episode in the Mexican jail. It is believed, although it has never been definitely established, that he came to Portland because of the residence here of Mrs. Constance Kilborn. Mrs. Kilborn had commissioned Hallen to look after certain interests in Mexico City at one time and she had been influential, too, in securing Turner's release although she did not connect her "agent" with the suave "lawyer" who went off with Turner's nest egg.

At any rate, in five years Hallen had established himself as a sound and upright citizen of Portland. He seemed such a cultured man. Everyone liked him. He was an authority on Dante. Women's clubs were in the habit of turning to him to answer perplexing questions from his store of erudition. He married Mrs. Blanche McClellare, proprietress of the Kennebunk Hotel. They had a little cottage at the summer colony at Falmouth Foreside. Everyone said what a fine husband Hallen made.

It was later disclosed that the suave Mr. Hallen had been involved in a number of swindles in various parts of the country, that he had served two sentences in Sing Sing, that he had married two women for their money and then deserted them. He had run arms and ammunition through Federal blockades to South American republics, he had been involved in various shady plots and intrigues, including an attempt to reinstate the deposed Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii.

IT WAS about noon of September 8, last year, that Turner strode up the walk and knocked on the door of the Hallen cottage at Falmouth Foreside. Hallen came out on the porch.

"So it's you, is it?" he asked in his suave way. "What are you doing here?"

"You know damned well what I'm doing here," Turner answered in an even voice.

"Well, let's not talk about it here, let's walk down the road a bit," Hallen said quietly, taking the little man by the arm.

Just what was said after that will never be known. A fusillade of shots destroyed the noonday quiet of the summer colony. Hallen lay dead in the dooryard of his home.

Turner stood there, his gun still smoking by his side, the gun he had carried for just this purpose for so long, the gun he had fingered so often in anticipation. He made no attempt to flee, he even seemed surprised when they came to arrest him. The fact that they held Turner in jail for trial for murder embittered him, too. He felt that he had simply rid the world of a menace and that was all there was to it. He had many caustic things to say of "American justice."

While awaiting trial, Turner was sent to Augusta for observation by Dr. Forrest C. Tyson, State alienist. He remained at the State insane asylum there about a month, at the end of which time Dr. Tyson declared that he believed Turner to be sane but of an unusually strong ego. The alienist expressed his belief that the little man was in full possession of all his faculties, of exceedingly strong determination and convictions. He did not always think along the lines prescribed by society, Dr. Tyson added, and when he differed in opinion was inclined to take his own view rather than yield to convention.

Throughout this time Turner insisted he had done nothing wrong, and there could be little doubt of his sincerity in this belief. There was nothing wild or demoniacal in his behavior at any time. He occasionally raged against "American justice," but on the whole he was contained, rational and very evidently a little perplexed. He insisted that he was as sane as any man who walked the streets. Furthermore, he said that he had done society a great good, and he failed to see why he should be made to suffer for his act.

He rejected all offers of aid, even rudely refusing Mrs. Kilborn, who had aided in freeing him from the Mexico City jail and who had discovered, with Hallen's death, the part her "agent" had played in Turner's life.

On February 8, this year, just five months after the shooting, Turner was placed on trial. The foreman of the jury was a woman, Miss Gladys Jordan, the first woman ever to head a murder trial jury in Maine.

Turner made the task of the defense lawyers almost an impossible one. Under cross examination he insisted that he was the sole judge of the murder of Hallen. He said he would do it "a thousand times over," and from the expression on his face as he said this everyone in the courtroom knew that it was no mere boast. The amount of money Hallen had taken had nothing to do with it, he asserted on the stand; if he chose to kill Hallen it was "his (Hallen's) funeral." He repeatedly asked the Court if his act had not been justified. For the most part he was cool, self-contained, raising his voice and ruffling his hair nervously only when pressed by prosecuting attorneys on matters of "principle."

ALL the facts of his past life—his evasion of the draft, his escape to Mexico and his long search for Hallen—were brought out. Likewise, Hallen's past was bared and the good citizens of Portland stood appalled as they saw the cultured Dante scholar revealed a swindler and adventurer.

Alienists for both the State and the defense testified that Turner was of exceptionally high intelligence, with a superior moral standard. This was borne out by the straightforward way in which he offered his testimony, telling his story as he saw it, regardless of whether his testimony might influence the jury adversely. He seemed only interested in making everyone see his point of view.

At the trial, too, Mrs. Kilborn told how she had gone to Turner's aid in Mexico. She pleaded for "that poor boy," with tears in her eyes. She told how Turner had trusted the benevolent-appearing old gentleman who had come to him in jail.

At the end of six days the trial was concluded and the jury received the charge from the Judge. Within an hour the 12 men and women had filed back into the courtroom. Miss Jordan, as foreman, read out the verdict—guilty of murder in the first degree.

Turner scowled, but otherwise he gave no sign. "Well, just another sample of American justice," he remarked later when being taken back to the county jail.

In his cell, however, his attitude changed. He grew somber, refused food for 124 hours, lay silent on his cot brooding for long periods at a time and then paced the floor, muttering and swearing incoherently: "Mexico . . . shooting . . . guns . . . sin . . . innocence . . . justice . . ."—an unintelligible jumble of words.

HE WAS quieted finally by his attorneys, who had unearthed a basis for a new appeal from the verdict. They had found a man, not one of the witnesses at the trial, who stated that he had seen Hallen raise his hand against Turner before the shots were fired. This would permit a new plea of self-defense.

Turner would have nothing to do with it. He insisted Hallen had made no threatening gesture. He wanted to hear no more foolishness about self-defense. He had shot the man because he deserved to be shot, and he still wanted to know in what way he had committed "any sin."

Despite his attitude, however, attorneys took the case before an appeal court. Just the other day an adverse decision was handed down. It seemed to make little difference to Turner, only serving to heighten his bitterness. Haggard and worn, a defeated animal in a cage, he paced his cell and abused his jailers, steadfastly refusing food.

Preparations were made to take him to the State prison at Thomaston to begin his sentence. He insisted on being different to the end. On the morning that he was to go to Thomaston he broke perhaps the fondest tradition of the county jail here, thereby saddening the life of the jailer.

On the morning on which prisoners are to be taken to Thomaston it has long been the custom to give them for breakfast two boiled eggs rather than the customary fare of bread, syrup and coffee. It may not have a very deep basis in scientific dietetics or penology, but it is a nice little custom which everyone about the jail cherishes. When anyone says "he's going to have boiled eggs for breakfast" it means he's going to the State prison.

Resolutely and grimly, Turner spurned the eggs that were offered him, tasting only a little of the bread and syrup. At Thomaston he refused the special meal prepared for incoming prisoners. Moreover, so stung and angered was he, that he proceeded to go on another hunger strike, which lasted for 105 hours. The Warden is not very much disturbed by this rebellious new prisoner. It's awfully hard, he says, to be different in prison.

LENINGRAD, Russia, Tuesday, August 30.

MY WORK in Russia being finished, and hearing this morning that an English freight ship, the Jemal, would sail at 3 p. m. for London, I immediately set about getting passage, for that just suited my book. I wanted to go to London, and I wanted to go at once.

Seized upon a youth named Sandberg of the Cultural Relations Society to act as interpreter, chartered an ancient topless Fiat now in service as a taxicab, and started after an exit visa to my passport, this being required of all persons leaving Russia. Sandberg might have more English, but he has intelligence, and can talk to any comrade face to face.

Nobody ever got an exit visa in less than four days, they said. Impossible, said Derutra, the booking officer. Off to the Foreign Office. The Tchitcherin of Leningrad looks like a blond football player. He listens to my woes, then gets somebody on the telephone, ending, "Well, do it anyhow. I will take the responsibility."

Off to visa office. Miles through stone corridors of old palaces. Pay 22 rubles. Two rubles make $1. Take receipt. Other miles and make out questionnaire. Get picture for passport. Long wait. Man has not come. He arrives half hour later in a bustle, with a Russian shirt and a brief case.

Have to get passport registered. Miles of stone passages. Passport registered—5 rubles 50. Back to man. Come back at 2 p. m. Hell, that will be too late. Ship sails at 3. No use to argue.

Leave passport. Take receipt. Off to bank to get money. Two 10-pound express checks. These are studied by man playing with abacus. He calls another man. "Where is your passport?" "At visa office. Here is the receipt." "Sorry. We have to enter money drawn on passport." "Enter it on back of receipt." Calls two directors and vice president. Finally is done and I receive a brass disk labeled 216. Sit on bench and wait. Big clock ticking away. Finally get money on other side of room. Off to lunch room. Caviar and salmon sandwiches and beer. 2 p. m. Back to visa office, doubtfully. By Gosh, it is ready. Back to hotel. Get bags. Off to customs. Long, rough drive in our car of 1906. It labors on the Neva bank, finally stops. Poor driver is frantic. Runs around and blows in feed pipe. Sandberg goes for another car. Lonely, windswept, dusty street. I stay with grips. Driver finally finds he is out of gas and runs rapidly away. I never saw him again. Sandberg came back with still older car. Driver's small son, a hunchback, helped him. He agreed not a kopek if it died. It is a Benz.

Down to the first customs visa, which was to testify I had passed that way. Sandberg already had left passport there. Now 3:10. Ship to sail at 4, we learned by telephoning Derutra. German boat just arrived. Customs officer had gone to it. Sandberg goes to German ship to find him. Back in five minutes with passport. All this right on bank of Neva. Back up river to bridge. Old Benz doing noble over pits and ditches. Across bridge and through part of half-deserted city. Then down on other bank, to customs. Grips upstairs. Brief examination. Phone Derutra again. Ship now sails at 5 p. m. Get a slip from examiner. Take it and grips one-fourth mile through stone corridors to another office. Get stamp. Now 4 o'clock. Grips sealed with lead. Stop at gate to yards to get pass to enter.

I sure will be glad to get on a wholesome English freighter, away from all this Russian talk, which I do not understand.

Down between two warehouses and to the Jemal. Then something of a shock. She is not English at all, but a solid Russian ship. So here we are at 9:15, trying to poke our way out into the Finnish Gulf.

The electric light has broken down and can't be mended short of London. Candles on table and in the stateroom. Four beds in my room, but I am the only occupant. Across the ship is Cornish, an English lawyer. Only two passengers. Ship is low in the water, but engines purr like a cat. Channel well marked.

"Through Miles of Stone Passages"

"Maruska comes to my stateroom and sits on the floor"

WEDNESDAY, August 31. At Sea.

MARUSKA, the general factotum and slavey, "speaks several English," she says. Two other women on board. One quite good-looking, with yellow hair bobbed. Other a heavy person crossed on Finn with a touch of Mongolian. All soviet enterprises seem to include women. Dinner to Cornish and me was served in saloon last night. Six eggs fried, with milk, steak and potatoes awash with grease. Purple Syrian wine from Caucasus.

All cleared away and cigarettes lit when comes tea and bread and butter and biscuits slightly sweet. Another glass of tea. Very good, with lemon.

Breakfast today, black bread and white bread; excellent sausage sliced thin, and sliced cheese like American. Hot coffee and milk. Coffee and tea are served in glasses.

The ship is manned and officered by Russians. She is heavily laden. The main deck is about 12 feet above water. We are now in the Gulf of Finland, a foggy morning, with a moderate sea running, but an occasional wave breaks over the forward deck. The sailors wear wooden clogs, with no spur piece, on their bare feet. Occasionally the ship catches a quartering sea and staggers drunkenly, but, considering her size—1000 tons—she is steady and sort of resolute.

THURSDAY.

THE captain is a Lett and he knows his stuff. No yelling or shouting on this ship. The waitress, a motherly, comfortable soul, speaks no English.

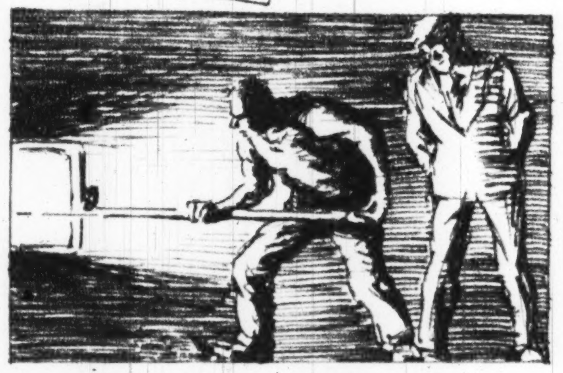
Looking through the window of his stateroom last night, I saw the captain reading a book which looks suspiciously like a Bible. What if I let the Leningrad Soviet learn of this? The cook is a moon-faced genius, with no English. When I speak to him, he smiles broadly and takes off his cap with a flourish. We are now going out of the Gulf of Finland into the Baltic. The wind has hauled around to the north and she is beginning to roll. We have a decided list to port already. There is an impressive wine list on the wall of the saloon, but when I had bought one bottle of thin table wine, the stock was exhausted.

No silly stuff about "Keep off the officers' deck" here. Go wherever you please. My room has a wash bowl, but the water does not run. Lenin's picture is the only ornament in the saloon. We have just passed a romantic-looking island. Considerable traffic in these seas. Much sailing craft.

That good garlicky sausage for breakfast, and sardines and bread and butter. We are laden with butter and eggs. Due at Kiel Canal tomorrow midnight. Soon will pick up Gottland on the starboard bow. There is no ice on this ship.

Almost the ideal day. No wind, hot sun. Occasional sailing ship passes.

Here I have the run of the ship, which is the right way to travel. I go to the chartroom and look at the charts. Go down in the belly of the ship and look at the stokers. Go on the bridge and look through the captain's glasses at the empty horizon. Go in the kitchen and look at the cook. Go in my cabin and look at my grips. Go in the washroom and look at the community towel. Go to the rail and look at the wine-dark sea. Go to my portfolio and look at the work waiting to be done. Hurriedly close portfolio. Go into the wheelhouse and look at the compass. Go out on the tip of her nose and watch the Baltic slipping under. Read a little and write a little. Sit long and earnestly in a deck chair in the sun, watching sea gulls. Not a difficult life, my masters.



I eat too much. Hours as follows: Breakfast at 8, lunch, 12; tea, 3:30; dinner, 6:30; supper, 8:30.

Night. Far lights wink on either side. Occulting lights. Light for six counts, dark for 20. Three flashes and three counts dark. One dark, six light, and so on.

FRIDAY.

THIS trip has not been all success at that. My fountain pen dried up in sight of the towers and minarets of St. Basil's, and the first night out my flashlight flivvered and my patent cigarette lighter quit cold. This steady diet of Russian food palls a little, and I take no exercise save mild walks. But I am enjoying it bully. I sleep well and rise hungry. Doubof is the cook's name. Maruska, who said she spoke several English, really speaks only a few. She was born in the Don basin, went to Kiev, married at 16, had five children when she was 25, and all died. Her husband disappeared and she drifted to Kharkov. In the revolution, her brother, with whom she lived, was poisoned by White troops and she left the Ukrain for Reval, whence she went to sea, which she has done for nine years. Is 40 and looks 60. Weighs about 80 pounds and is always in good spirits and as inquiring as a child. When she has anything to say to me, she comes to my stateroom and sits on the floor.

Brilliant sun. Few far clouds. A superlatively perfect day at sea. On our right hand is the coast of Sweden. Fisher villages bathed in sunshine. On our left the coast of Denmark in the mists. The sailors yesterday rigged two flying rings aft for sports. One lad sat forward and read a love story. He has a heart and anchor tattooed on his hand.

We pass distant islands and coasts. Rugel is now on our left hand. Sweden, 25 miles away on the right, rises in high cliffs. We pass and sight many ships. The scorching sun makes snowdrifts of the dark sea, olive green and profound blue.

I seem to have made a mistake this morning calling Marcia, Măruska. Much unexplained laughter was raised by the word. Our captain does not drink or smoke. Or speak English. No vices. But he is willing to lend his marine glasses or explain the chart. The weather forecast comes in English from a Swedish station. Clear weather ahead.

At Brunswick, or something, on the Kiel Canal.

We have stopped to take on coal. Very expeditiously by crane and bucket and funnel. Peddler comes aboard with two grips. He sells toothbrushes, chocolates, an envelope of hair shampoo, scent, bay rum and post cards depicting beautiful ladies entirely nude. The blond sailors are much interested. One young giant is lavishly tattooed, mostly in the United States, I judge, from the flags and Gibson girls.

The Elbe must be the widest river in the world. We have come down it from the tide locks at the end of the canal and the banks are barely visible. Much wider than the Yukon as I remember it. Have passed the last town, name unknown, and are, I assume, steaming out into the North Sea. Misty ahead.

I have never known such a ship as this. Since the start I have heard not a harsh word or seen a hard look. Yesterday the first mate and three seamen were playing cards on the after deck. The three women speak to the captain and the cook with the same accent and intonation. The only saluting so far has been done by the cook to me, removing his white cap in a grand manner.

When we took coal today the snappy German officers were saluting all over the ship, but they did not get much in return, except calm politeness. At this moment (8:45 p. m.) dark and the North Sea mists heavy upon us and the smooth engines throbbing away, the navigator is in the pantry having tea with the two women, while next door, in the officers' dining room, three officers and an aspirant are having high talk, laughter and tea. It reminds me of the French army. But there is a certain hardness, too. Elzea (or something, the stewardess) cut her finger badly. It was tied up, but nobody seemed to care beyond that. No one took any of her duties, and she serves the meals as usual, holding one bandaged finger stiffly before her.

We lay parallel with a German cruiser, Amazone, in a lock today, and the crews eyed each other sadly, but no wavings or greetings were exchanged in the comradeship of the sea.

SATURDAY.

A WINDLESS cloudy day. Warm as Mediterranean, although we are in the cold North Sea. A land bird like a slender sparrow is accompanying us, picking a scanty living of crumbs. We are out of the traffic now and sail through a hollow, empty sea, green-gray.

In these lands and on the seas circumscribing them, bath towels are used in public bath houses, and there only. In hotels and on shipboard, a sheet is provided, even if it be necessary to take it off your bed. This is Saturday evening, and I have just bathed. Thus do Americans carry their quaint tribal customs to far lands. You put water in the tub, cold, heartless North Sea water, then turn live steam into it till it is heated to your liking.

This is the soberest, mildest, quietest voyage in my personal history. We will reach London some time tomorrow, depending on our speed to catch the morning tide. I am unconcerned. London on Sunday is my idea of nowhere to go. Bought 250 grams of Rotterdam shag tobacco from a sailor from Hamburg, who bought it in Malmo. Cigarettes quite exhausted. It seems I should have said Marusha instead of Maruska. The "ka" suffix means "sweetie," or something similar.

Have won and collected 51 kopeks from Cornish at cribbage, at 1 and 5 kopeks a game. When you consider the difficulty of shaving, it is small wonder the Russian leaders wear mustaches and small beards. The land bird is an English chaffinch, Cornish says. We figure it has been spending its holiday on the Kiel Canal and is returning on the Jemal because it could not get passage on another boat, not because it is cheaper at all.

SUNDAY MORNING, September 4.

LYING in the River Thames, just below the Tillbury docks and just off the Clarendon Royal Hotel for Seafaring Men. We arrived about 4 a. m., the captain says. We are now waiting a tide which will let us go in to Free Trade Wharf, which, Cornish says, is hard by London Bridge. Sky overcast, with spatters of rain. Smooth clouds and a decided chill in the air. This is, I think, what they call a fine English summer day. Surely there must be a Higher Power, or else to whom can we return thanks that we do not live in England?

Immigration and customs officers have not appeared yet. Won 16 kopeks more from Cornish at cribbage this morning.

At 4 p. m., tied up at London Bridge and off the Tower of London, waiting for customs and immigration officers. Captain very smart in his town clothes and newly shaven. Second time of voyage. Two pilots, a fat and a lean, brought us up the river, between the most dreary banks in the world, past Woolrich Arsenal, which is a great factory site, and Greenwich, the naval school and longitude center for the world.

Customs officers come aboard. Two earnest workers in the cause of making Englishmen hated by all other races. Nice to me, but keenly offensive to Russian sailors, who have to show their stuff for impounding during stay in port. Quickly passed, and ashore in rowboat.

Thus ended a pleasant voyage, and the cost was exactly $26.

GROSS EXAGGERATIONS

In the Dumb Waiter.

IT GATS GRADUALLY HOOKED OFF PLUTO.

FOURTH FLOOR—Oohoo, nize baby, itt opp ali de cunnstotch putting so momma'll gonna tell you a Grick Mitt how it absconded Pluto witt Proserpina wot dey gradually got merried.

Wance oppon witt a time whan it bicame jost esteblished Griss, so was in chodge from itch Dippottament a Grick Gott. So was in chodge Hoikulizz from de dippottament from muscles. Mozz was de Gott from Wurrs witt bettles witt fights witt hoguments witt hall similar sutts from sturmy sinns witt squapples. Bekkus hed it chodge from de hootchleggers und bing wot it deedn't was in dem times bazeballs odder moofies so it was Jodge Lendis witt Weel Hays in chodge from notting.

So among de Gotts was a laty Gott wot she was entitled Cirrizz wot she was de Gottess from plenting witt coltiwating wot she tutt to de fommers fomming wot dey loined dey should teeling de soil it should jomp opp in de filds gradually whit, witt hay witt rize witt boily witt a fool line from fency froots witt frash wadgetables. So Cirrizz was de proprietor from a dudder wot she was entitled Proserpina.

So wan night, hefter sopper, it stodded in Proserpina she should putting on de het. So it sad to her de momma so:

"Noo, Nurma Telmedge, to where do you gung?"

So it henswered Proserpina, "I jost gung strulling hold ting!"

"Ho, und de doidy deeshes by de seenk'll wash maybe damsalves?"

"Ho—dees I'll do hefter I'll coming beck from de moofie, mommy!"

"Who should leeve so?? Hmmm—jost bikuss I'm a Gottess so you got to lidding a life from Riley, ha? When I was in you age we deedn't hed sotch kind lockshurry witt izz!! Seelk stockings witt stap-ins I knew from?? Avery night dences witt shows?? Billive me, wance in furr yirrs I went witt mine fodder by de Oleempic Games so was by me a peeckneek!!!"

So it sad Proserpina: "Wal, wal, dere you go agan, mommy dollink. Steel geeving yousalf write-opps, ha? Ho wal, dun't waiting opp for me. Jost livve by de table a hooker Bromo Tsaltzer—a goot one. S'lonk like annytink dirrie."

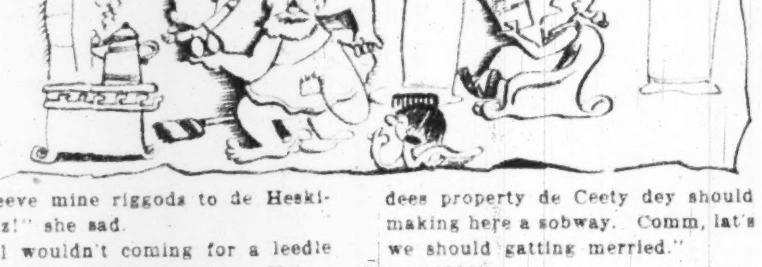
POT TWO.

So it was strulling alung gradually Proserpina by de bullywodd so it pooled opp by de coib a gudgeous uttomibill from a Rulls-Royze nature wot it was in a seeting poseetion by de whill a hendsome stranger. So he gritted her so:

"Hollo, leedle Pussybonny!!"

"Wal, wal—if it hain't hold Baldy-Locks heemsalf," she sad. "Wheech way do you gung?"

"I gung Nort," he replite.



HA HA GEEVE A LOOK A GRICK GOTT

"So geeve mine riggods to de Heskimuzz!" she sad.

"You'll wouldn't coming for a leedle speen maybe?" he hesked. "Heh—heh—By de way, mine name is Pluto—so'll be averytink streectly plutonic——ha ha ha jost a fodderly hinterest I taking by you."

So Proserpina sad: "Wal, of cuss, I dun't usual gung by strange pipple in de car, bot it's following me a beeg tremp—so jost dees once I'll gung. Stap plizze by de gezz kirro!!"

So dey was drifing alung so dey arrifed by Pluto in de keengdom wot it belunged in de kettegurry from Infoinal Rijjons. So Proserpina sad so:

"Hm—a plaze to leeve!! In a cellar!!!"

So he sad: "Cellar—me heye! You'll be soupriced wot it huffered me for dees property de Ceety dey should making here a sobway. Comm, lat's we should gatting merried."

"Merried??"

"Shure! Wait, I'll culling mine pottner he should minding de beezeness while we by de honeymoon. Hey Pincus!! Geeve dees leedle goil a hend—de future Meesus Pluto!!"

So it gafe a leff Pincus: "Ha Ha—so dey got you at lest—ha ha—Who'd hev tott de deshing Meester Pluto should joining de renks from de banadeects!!!"

So Pluto sad: "Neex, Pinky—you keeding de wrung poddy—by oss de merried life'll gonna be a deeference preposition halltogadder. Feefty-feefty—dot's oss—is no, Baby? None from de ball in conjonction witt a chain stoff for oss!! We got modern hideas. We onderstending itch odder—Dees merried beezness wouldn't gonna cott into mine hefternoons. It'll gonna be brudminded. Hop to date. I kipp opp mine clobs witt frands und she kipps hers. Sansible, co-hoperative!! Dot's wot it'll gonna be. Is no, dirrie?"

"Yath," she sad swittly.

So dey gradually got merried.

POT TREE.

So in bitwinn de minntime it was in a penic Cirrizz, wot she was roshing hitter witt titter, too witt fro, hopp wid don, she should looking for de dudder—so she culled opp by de phone a frand wot she sad so:

"Modje, dollink, you sure wot she deedn't was by you by de poddy? No?? So take plizze anodder look insite from de piano maybe. No?? She's not dere? Yi Yi Yi Yi Yi—Denks. . . . So I'll go hout agan I should looking."

So hon de way by de Meesing Poisons Bureau so she was pessing a Infoinal Rijjon so she hold dere a woice wot it was de property from Pluto wot it was spicking so:

"Yas, Prossy-dollink, it's raddy de baby's bottle——Yas dirry—ha? Wot? You brakfast?? I breenging right to de bed!!! Jost teel I put donn de broom. Yas—de deeshes I'll doong later—so soon wot I sew opp in mine pents a copple reeps!! Say—where deed you put de mocket-beg—I should gung shopping?! Ho yas——Yi Yi—wait, dollink—is crying agan de baby — — —"

So it came deshing in Cirrizz wot it gritted her Proserpina so: "Hollo, Momsy!! Dreg yousalf from de wash boiler a gin-rickety—und mitt de boy frand!! Hey, Stoopit—drop de mop und mitting de momma!! Geeve a look, ma!! We merried wot we'll gonna leeve heppily hever hefter wot I got a two-sitter Aputz Ronabout witt a dug witt tree hads yat—one bocks, one bites und de toid is dere jost to make it bodder."

Hmmmmm—sotch a dollink baby—ate opp all de cunnstotch putting.

ILLUSTRATION'S ARTLESS AID

Mr. Leacock Has Some Suggestions to Make.

HAVE you ever noticed, my dear reader—but of course you have; you notice everything—how illustrations in the picture magazines always run to certain types. Somebody starts a particular line of picture and somebody else copies it, and so it goes on till it becomes a sort of type picture. Then the subscribers begin to look for it regularly and the editor feels that he must have it.

Here is a case in point, taken from the English illustrated weeklies, the high class press that is put together "by gentlemen for gentlemen."

Every week in every paper of this class you will see a photograph of a lady in a tweed suit sitting on a camp-stool, and beside her a gentleman in a tweed suit standing up and leaning on a stick. There are probably a lot of dogs around and the picture carries some such legend as the following:

With the Yardsborough Beagles:
Lady Vera de Verest and Mr. Robinson

Why it is always these two, I don't know. You would think that Lord Vere de Verest ought to get in sometimes; and even Mrs. Robinson might have a look-in! But apparently not. Wherever they are, it is always Lady Vera de Verest and Mr. Robinson. That combination seems to have a sort of "class" to it.

And they always turn up in different places, according to the season, and the place always has a touch of the incomprehensible about it. For example, you see them in the same attitude with three or four dead partridges, or crows, lying in front of them and the legend:

With the Guns at Dumfoolish Castle:
Lady Vera de Verest and Mr. Robinson.

I've seen them depicted not only with the Beagles at Yardsborough and with the guns at Dumfoolish, but with the pigeon-traps at Monte Carlo and with the Spitz in Spitzbergen.

I imagine that they must write little letters such as:

My dear Lady Vera de Verest:

What do you say to a run over to Spain so as to get photographed with me and the bulls of Madrid? If you are on, bring your camp-stool and meet me there.

Or else, something of this sort:

Dear Mr. Robinson:

What do you say to our being photographed "with the Snakes at Darjeeling?" If we go out to India, we could arrange our schedules to meet and be photographed on the way at least three times—"with the looters on the Riviera" and "with the plagues of Egypt." So we should not miss a single week. Do come. VERA.

* * *

I suppose that here, too, as in all such cases, there is the usual tragic background of those left behind. I can imagine Lord Vere de Verest, the dignified gentleman whose home is thus made a mockery, walking across from De Vere Castle to the cottage where Mrs. Robinson lives, an open letter in his hand.

"Where are they now?" she queries gently, as he holds out the letter with a sob.

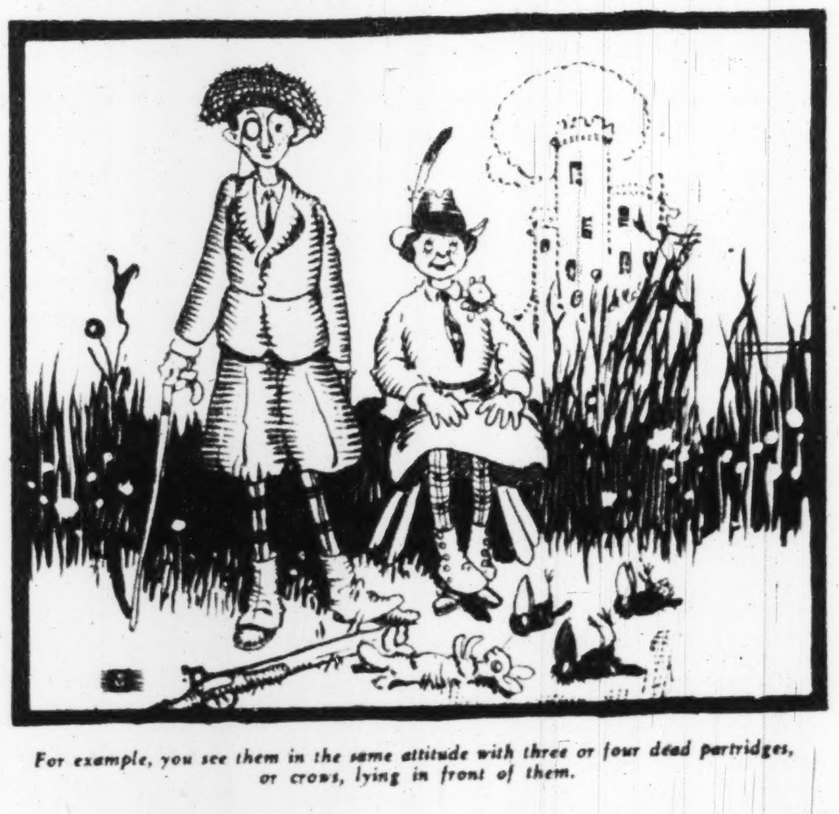
"With the snakes in Darjeeling," he answers, as friendly as he can.

"And where do they appear next?" she murmurs, a note of pain in her voice in spite of herself.

"They are to be with the Hoodoos of Madagascar," he groans.

"Edward," she says, addressing him by his Christian name for the first time in fifty years, "don't you think, dear, that we might do a little of this kind of thing ourselves? If the editor of the Stretch, and the Prattler, and the Outstander want pictures of this sort, let us see what we can do. There is a kind of little farmyard behind the cottage and I have a camera. Come out with me."

And if the week after that the illustrated press carried a picture entitled "Lord Vere de Verest and Mrs. Robinson looking at a pig sty," it would be at least as interesting as The Beagles and The Yaks and it might stop a lot of trouble.



For example, you see them in the same attitude with three or four dead partridges, or crows, lying in front of them.

Another form of magazine illustration that I can do without, or without which I can do, is the face, head and shoulders of a man done in rather smudgy ink. It has written under it: Colonel Robinson, the New Governor of the Virgin Islands, or Pilustski, Director of Poland, or perhaps "Executed last week at Sing Sing." It doesn't matter what is under it; it really is always the same picture.

Hitherto I used to wonder how this picture got into the magazines. Just by chance a few days ago, in visiting the staff of a periodical, I found the explanation. I happened in the corridor of the building to get into conversation with the very man from whom all the photographs are taken.

"You are quite right," he said to me; "they are all the same picture. It saves such a lot of time and trouble. I am just going out now to get photographed as the 'New Mikado of Japan' and then the same picture will appear on another page as 'Lloyd George, Reappointed Leader of the British Liberals,' and on the back as 'Mrs. Annie Besant, the Venerable Theosophist.'"

"Is it possible?" I said.

"Quite so. And by the way, how did you like that one of me last week called 'The New Mayor of Miami.' I thought it was a peach. And there was a dandy of me called 'Yuan Chung Chow, Leader of the Cantonese Rebels,' and the same picture called 'Admiral Ferguson, Who Will Fight Yuan Chung Chow'——"

"But stop," I said, "doesn't the public ever——"

"Nonsense!" said the man. "Why, the other day there were two pictures of me side by side—they just looked really the same. One was called 'The Oldest Father-in-Law in Europe, Jean Jacques Dubois,' and the other (used to illustrate an article on hold-ups) was labeled 'Youngest Crook That Ever Stole a Hundred Thousand.' People looked at the magazine and said what a kind face the old father-in-law had, and they looked on the other page and said that you could see it was a crook.

"Listen," he continued, "you take this week's magazine, and cover up the names and see if you distinguish which is the one called 'Venerable Scientist Speaks' and the one called 'Will Serve Ten Years.' Try to distinguish 'Lady Chatelaine Entertains the Poor' from 'Arctic Explorer Returns Home;' try to separate our 'Queen Mary Welcomes the Duke of York' from 'Boisterous Scene in a Viennese Beer Garden.' You can't. All the pictures in the magazine," he went on with an excitement that was almost violent, "are just me. I'm Queen Mary, I'm Yuan Chung Chow, I'm——"

And just at that moment a man dressed in a sort of uniform stepped up to us in a corridor and said:

"Excuse me, sir. I had lost track of this gentleman. He's under my charge. I hope he's not been disturbing you."

The man himself as he was led away was still saying, "I'm Queen Mary, I'm Thomas Edison, I'm Royal Birthday, I'm Admiral Ferguson."

MIDDLE-AGED

—BY—

Arnold Bennett

THE APHRA was sailing down the channel, and the owner (usually addressed as Jackie) and Mr. and Mrs. Proctor were on deck. The Aphra was a ketch of 125 tons, and whenever she put into a minor port, she was referred to as "the fine ketch," because no yacht of any size is allowed to put into a minor port without a complimentary adjective.

At a distance of four or five miles low, undulating hills, with an occasional cove, cliff, village, church steeple, white tape of road, were all that could be descried of that enigmatic, weird, self-sufficient isle, England. The scene was one of peace and felicity, and nobody could have guessed that a tremendous upset—moral, not physical—was about to happen.

The mainsail suddenly flapped with a report like thunder.

"This wind is getting tired of life," said the owner, who often spoke in metaphors and images, and he went and sat on the poop on the opposite side of the wheel from the captain. He was a stoutish man of 50 or more; so was the captain; the chief difference between them seemed to be that the captain had brass buttons.

In a few minutes the owner returned.

"Look here," said he. "I don't know so much about this sailing-all-night business tonight. Glass is rising. There'll soon be a dead calm. Of course, we shall carry the tide for another two hours, but, after that, with the tide against us, we shall do no good with the engine alone, especially round the Nose. Moreover, the engineers can't be expected to work all the clock round. So we'll just drop an anchor in Polpooe, and leave early in the morning, say 7:30."

"Polpooe!" cried Mrs. Proctor. "Are we near Polpooe? Why didn't you tell us? That's where Elizabeth lives."

THE atmosphere of the deck was changed in an instant; waves of excitement radiated from Mrs. Proctor and disturbed the serenity of her husband and the owner. She was a little woman, slim, lively, dynamic. Her complexion might be ruins, but not her eyes and her emotions. Though the twenty-fifth anniversary of her wedding was nigh, though she had two daughters and two sons, all of whom were adult or adolescent, and all of whom could and did attempt to give her lessons in everything, from lipsticks to politics, she still violently counted with men, and could be willful, capricious, naughty and charming as a girl.

Mr. Proctor agreed that Polpooe was where Elizabeth lived. Mr. Proctor, who knew all about women through the study of his wife—his wife being all women rolled into one—was cheerfully, if sardonically, resigned to the facts of nature.

"I must call on her tonight," announced Mrs. Proctor.

"But Tikky, why?" Mr. Proctor protested. (Her name was Marcella, and nobody, not even Mr. Proctor, knew why he called her "Tikky." By the way, her children called her Tikky, too.)

"You can't go calling on people like that!"

"Elizabeth isn't 'people.'"

"But it's only by chance we're going into Polpooe. Supposing the wind had held"——

"What's the good of supposing?" Mrs. Proctor demanded. "Men are so queer. We are going into Polpooe, and I couldn't possibly go there without calling to see Elizabeth. She'd never forgive me."

"She wouldn't know anything about it."

"But I should know, silly!"

"Good heavens!" ejaculated Mr. Proctor, and, turning to the owner: "Look here, Jackie, if I were you I should refuse to have a boat lowered."

"Jackie wouldn't be so disgusting, would you, Jackie?" Mrs. Proctor smiled at him, the smile of the unscrupulous enchantress. "Elizabeth's one of my best friends. She was a bridesmaid at my wedding. I haven't seen her for 25 years, but we write to each other every year and tell each other everything. Now don't be horrid, Jackie. And you'll have to come with me, Arthur."

Arthur Proctor groaned. Mrs. Proctor talked about Elizabeth until the yacht dropped an anchor in Polpooe.

"Oh, what a lovely place!" cried Mrs. Proctor. And it was a pleasing small port, with hills on either side, and the houses of a tiny town climbing up them.

"Oh! And there's Elizabeth's house!" cried Mrs. Proctor, pointing to a green-clad residence with a garden that ended in a long, curved, irregular flight of stone steps leading down to the sea.

"How do you know?" asked Mr. Proctor.

"From the photographs, stupid. Jackie, don't bother to have the launch lowered. We'll go in the dinghy."

Soon after the sails had been lowered, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor were rowed ashore, and presently were breasting the slope towards Elizabeth's house. Mrs. Proctor continued to laud Elizabeth, and to express her certainty that Elizabeth would be just the same as she had ever been. Nevertheless, as she entered the porch of Elizabeth's abode, Mrs. Proctor was seized with a terrible apprehension.

"It's a ticklish affair," thought she, "seeing someone you haven't seen for five-and-twenty years. I shan't know what to say to her. Supposing she's—Arthur, you're so good at small talk. Now mind you keep the conversation going."

AGES seemed to pass. Mrs. Proctor looked round at the coarsely-carved wood of the porch, at the cheap imitation stained glass in the door. She felt the nocturnal deadness of the little town. She was ashamed that her husband should see the environment in which lived the adorable Elizabeth whom she was always vaunting to him. She was about to say to him, "Nobody in. No use in waiting any longer," when the door opened, and, as she saw it opening, Mrs. Proctor had a sense of disappointment. She would have preferred that nobody should be in.

A middle-aged, rather unkempt, lanky man stood in the doorway. He had a mustache, a beard, neither of which would Mrs. Proctor have tolerated in a husband. A bony and apprehensive face! Disheveled gray hair! A brown suit that had lost both shape and pattern! One pocket bulged with a trowel; the other bulged with articles unseen—no doubt pipes and pouches and matches and things. The man must have long since ceased to care what he looked like.

"Oh! Good evening," Mrs. Proctor began.

"Good evening," said the man coldly, and added: "We don't let rooms."

"Oh, it's not that," protested Mrs. Proctor. "I—we—just called to see Mrs. Draver. I"——

"Mrs. Draver is not in," said the man, still coldly; but he did suggest: "Can I do anything?"

"Are you Mr. Draver?" Mrs. Proctor asked, with a distressing attempt at a smile, and death in her heart. Impossible that this man was the husband of the beloved Elizabeth!

"Yes," said he.

Mrs. Proctor glanced at Mr. Proctor for help, because Mr. Proctor always charmed everybody.

"Our name is Proctor," said Mr. Proctor, with the whole of his charm. "We're yachting down the coast, and, as we've put in here for the night, my wife thought"——

"Proctor? Proctor?" murmured Mr. Draver blankly.

"Yes," exploded Mrs. Proctor, impatiently. "I'm Marcella—Tikky."

"Ah, yes!" Mr. Draver seemed to be drawing up something from the depths of memory. "Ah, yes!" And then: "Yes, yes!" An original idea visited him. "Do come in," he said, as if saying: "We're in a great difficulty. Somebody must act, and I suppose I'd better act."

He went even further and shook hands.

"Come through into the garden, will you? I was just pottering about. You fond of gardening? Elizabeth's gone to the pictures with the Mayor." (A sort of naive satisfaction in the word "Mayor!") "She hasn't been out at night for months. I never go out at night myself. Doesn't suit me. Lovely view here, isn't it?"

It was a lovely view, and Mr. and Mrs. Proctor said so, with perhaps exaggerated enthusiasm.

"Elizabeth will be sorry to miss you," said Mr. Draver. "But I'll tell her you've called."

"How kind you are!" thought Mrs. Proctor in fury.

NO SUGGESTION that they should wait until Elizabeth returned from the pictures! No suggestion that they should call on her tomorrow!

"I expect you'll be leaving again early tomorrow," said Mr. Draver.

"I'm afraid we shall," said Mr. Proctor. "We mustn't miss the west-going tide. The skipper says we ought to weigh anchor not later than 8 o'clock."

"Elizabeth never gets up early," said Mr. Draver.

"Great Scott!" ejaculated Mr. Proctor, as they descended the slope towards the quay. "Great Scott!"

Mrs. Proctor ejaculated nothing at all. She was thinking: "So that's Elizabeth's life." And the thought filled her mind and devastated it.

"The whole thing is plain to me," said the owner, when he heard the story—or, rather, had heard two different stories, one from Arthur Proctor and one from Tikky.

"What's plain to you?" Mrs. Proctor demanded, quite ready for a shindy with her host and determined to tolerate playful nonsense from nobody.

"I will interpret this dark matter, lady. And you shall see a great light," Jackie smiled.

Mrs. Proctor raised a warning finger. "I don't mind what you do, as long as you don't try to be funny."

"My dear Tikky," said the owner. "Let me say that I never thought more highly of your phantom friend than I do at this moment. She is evidently a wise woman. She thinks as I do, that to search out a friend whom one hasn't seen for a quarter of a century is an act of madness. Why were you kept so long at the front door? Obviously because Elizabeth happened to see you coming up the street. She"——

"Ridiculous!" observed Tikky. "She wouldn't have recognized me."

"Not recognized you, my dear Tikky? I've known you for more than a quarter of a century, and you haven't changed in the least.

Mrs. Proctor told him not to be absurd, but, in spite of herself, she could not help believing him.

He went on: "To resume. Your Elizabeth saw you from her window. 'That's Tikky!' said she to herself, horror-struck, and ran down to her husband to tell him to lie to you. She had grasped in an instant that it would be fatal for you and her to meet again. She taught her somewhat stupid husband exactly what to say to you, and in what tone, and then she fled upstairs again, and, no doubt, leaned over the banisters to peep at you. And now she's making her husband repeat to her everything that you said in the garden and congratulating herself on having preserved her dearest illusion—yourself. For 25 years you've been growing more and more perfect in her eyes, just as she's been growing more and more perfect in yours. And she was bent on keeping you perfect. Yes, a wise woman, Elizabeth! I should have liked to make her acquaintance. Of course, her illusions about you may have been a bit damaged by what she saw of you and heard of you, but, speaking broadly"——

The oration was cut short by Mrs. Proctor snatching a handful of cigarettes from the box and wildly flinging them at her host.

"Never mind, Tikky!" Arthur Proctor soothed his wife benevolently.

The owner laughed. Husband and wife retired to their cabin. But, in the middle of the night, Tikky reflected: "Did she keep out of my way on purpose? Did she keep out of my way on purpose?"

THE next morning was marvelous. Tikky, lying on her bunk, watched a spot of earliest sunlight wander up and down the wall of the cabin as the yacht swayed very gently in the water. In the opposite bunk lay Arthur, sleeping like a child.

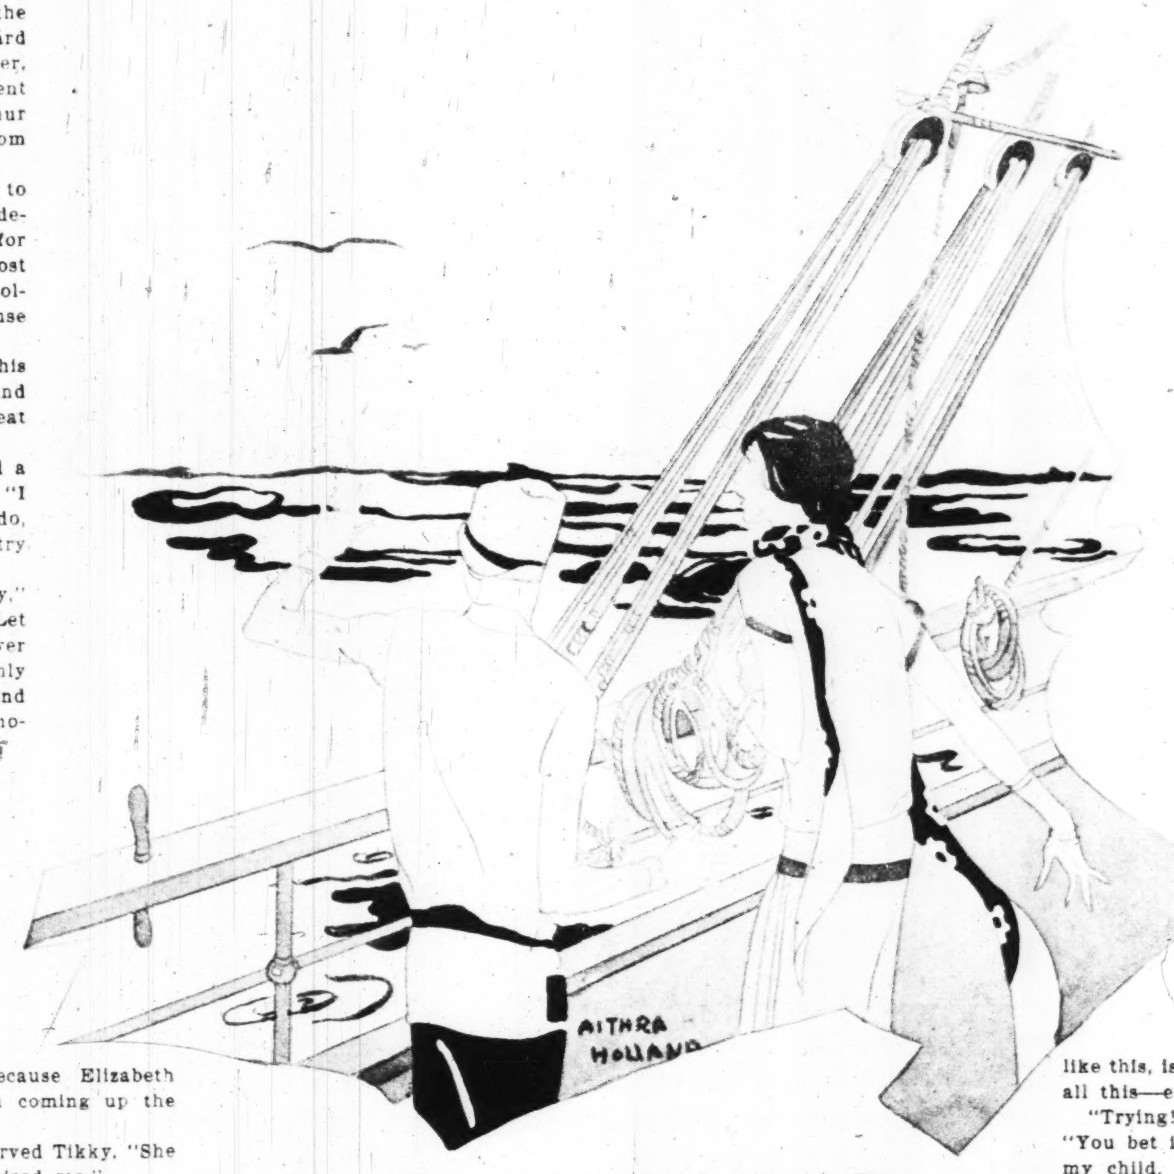
Well, Tikky had to get up. Why? Foolish creature, she wanted to gaze across the water at Elizabeth's house. She arose. She contented herself with a cold bath (for the routine of the yacht must not be disarranged), and she dressed in an athletic or sporting fashion. She sat down in the deck house. Then she gazed across the water at Elizabeth's house.

Later, glancing below, she saw Bill, the senior steward, on his way to her cabin with tea and a plate of bread.

"Here, Bill," said she. "I'll have mine here." And she took her cup and two pieces of bread.

But, instead of drinking and eating, she gazed and dreamed. Twenty-five years married? Not a bit. She was a young girl—and Elizabeth was a young girl.

Half-way between the shore and the yacht, a row-boat was approaching, with a rough-clad fisherman in it, and a woman.



"My dear, something frightful has happened. The captain didn't know you were on board, and we're at sea."

"Am I going to faint?" thought Tikky, and it seemed to her that life was leaving her as she suspected, guessed, divined that the woman was Elizabeth. She sprang up, ran onto the deck, and stood over the bulwarks. The boat was a thousand years in reaching the yacht.

"Elizabeth!"

"Tikky!"

The names were whispered, as though the women had a secret to share. The deck was deserted, the crew being now at breakfast. No gangway had been let down, because the yacht was a self-contained unit that morning and nobody had to go ashore. But Elizabeth hauled herself over the rail with the agility of a child. (It was wonderful!) The fisherman murmured that he had to pay a call at a neighboring schooner and would come back for the lady in half an hour.

"COME, come!" whispered Tikky, in agitation, and, having cruelly hugged her, led Elizabeth down the staircase. There was an unoccupied cabin, and into this Tikky pushed her friend. It was the sole place where the cronies would be safe from intrusion.

"Darling, you haven't changed a bit!"

"Nor you!"

They spoke quite sincerely. Each of these fond middle-aged creatures saw in the other a mere girl.

"Wait!" said Tikky, and skipped out of the cabin and fetched first her tea and bread and then Arthur's tea and bread (he still slept) and shut the door of the cabin. Tikky sat on the bunk and Elizabeth sat on a chair, and they drank and ate and looked at one another and gradually perceived the mature women in the girls.

"You silly!" said Elizabeth, in just her old tone. "You're crying into your tea!"

"I know I am, and I don't care!" Tikky replied gruffly, with just her tone of sturdy defiance.

"I suppose you wonder what on earth I do with myself all the year round in this little pudding-basin of a place," said Elizabeth, breaking the first little silence that had occurred in their talk. This was after they had been "at it" for some time.

"No, I don't," said Tikky, admiring Elizabeth's graphic phrase, "pudding-basin of a place"—so characteristic of her, as Tikky now recalled. "I'm jolly sure you find plenty of interesting things to do."

"That, infant, is a whopper! You know I don't," said Elizabeth calmly, and looked Tikky full in the eyes.

Elizabeth had a shrewd, tolerant, somehow negligent face. She was a large woman, not stout, but spaciously built. Her hair was still as black as coal. Although the hour was early, she wore several fine rings, and she was dressed with care.

"Is it a whopper?"

"It is a whopper. Ever since you called last night to see me, you've been adding up the situation, and you've been asking yourself what in the name of heaven I do with myself here. Me, the high-spirited young thing that used to go to two parties a night. Do you think I don't know what my reputation was?"

"Well, what in the name of heaven do you do with yourself, then? Your Jimmy is engineering in Durham. Your Anna is learning frock-making in Kensington. You were never one for reforming the poor against their will. You've nobody"——

"Except my husband," Elizabeth interrupted.

"That was what I was going to say," Tikky agreed almost guiltily, fearing lest the perspicacious Elizabeth was already reading her secret thoughts about Mr. Draver, whom Tikky certainly regarded as the dullest, flattest, stupidest, untidiest, most commonplace of males. Here, indeed, was the disconcerting problem for Tikky: how could Elizabeth stand her husband?

"Now, I'll tell you what I do. If it's fine, I sit in the garden and admire the view. And, if it's wet, I sit inside at the window and admire the view. You won't deny it's a marvelous view. Also, if I feel particularly energetic, I watch my husband gardening. As for going out at night, never in the world. Last night at the pictures was an astounding exception—one of those things you simply can't explain. It was so unusual that it was an event in my life."

"Your husband's a great gardener, isn't he?"

"Not at all, my dear. He's a gardener. He doesn't garden all the time. He reads."

"Well, you're a slothful pair."

"I shouldn't call Leonard slothful," said Elizabeth. "He's 12 years older than I. He worked a lot too hard until he retired from engineering. And his health isn't too good. If he's idle, he's earned it; but he isn't."

"I'm sure he's earned it," said Tikky, eagerly and kindly, for she had noticed a touch of genuine seriousness in Elizabeth's humorous voice.

"TIKKY," Elizabeth began in a new tone, leaning forward in the chair, "I am about to confide to you the secret of my life. I've never written it to you, because it isn't the sort of thing that sensible people write about. My husband is jealous. My Leonard is a jealous husband, fiercely and untiringly jealous."

"Oh!"

"I have to put up with any old stick of a servant, since my Leonard hates me to be human with servants. We might have kept Jimmy at home, or near home, only Leonard preferred him to go, because Jimmy and I were always so thick together. Same with Anna. I really only went to the pictures last night to defy Leonard—you see, I have to keep him within bounds. He's always been jealous of you—yes, though we only write to each other about once a year! He's always finding excuses to move your photograph off the bedroom mantelpiece. And I bet anything he was pretty rudish to you last night when you called. You see, he can't help it."

"I wouldn't say he was rude, my child," said Tikky, without conviction.

"I didn't say rude, I said rudish," Elizabeth laughed. "I had to take him firmly in hand last night. Yes, I was angry that he hadn't made you stay till I came home, or come and hiked me out of the cinema. I frightened him." Elizabeth looked grave. "We had a great scene of reconciliation, after he'd apologized. But I made him get up at 6:30 this morning and go out and find me a boat. I say, of course, I wouldn't talk this style to another soul! You know that, don't you?"

"Naturally I know you, you silly fool!" Tikky retorted blandly. "But, I say"——

"What?"

"Seeing as we're talking like this, isn't it rather trying for you, all this—er—jealousy?"

"Trying!" exclaimed Elizabeth. "You bet it's trying. But it's lovely, my child. I'm that man's passion. I'm his atmosphere. I'm his climate. I'm his life. I'm all his life. I'm the last thing he thinks about before he goes to sleep and the first thing he thinks about when he wakes up. He's in a perfect fever this very moment, because I insisted on coming off to you alone. I dress for him. I wear jewels for him—jewels that he pays for. And it's been so for 24 years. And I'm in my fiftieth year. Can you beat it, my infant? Isn't it enough? What does it matter to me in what sort of place I live? I've succeeded."

Tikky dangled her legs against the side of the bunk. Her face had the look of one to whom revelation has been vouchsafed and the dark meaning of existence rendered clear.

SUDDENLY she slipped off the bunk and seemed to be listening—or, at any rate, to be fixing one or another of her five senses on some mysterious phenomenon. She swayed slightly. The teaspoon in the cup and saucer she had placed on the table by the bunk shifted its position with a click. She dashed out of the cabin. The second steward was rubbing the walls of the corridor.

"What are we doing?" she demanded.

"We're at sea, madam."

"But I never heard the anchor chains."

"No, madam. While you were ashore last night, as there was a mooring buoy not being used, the captain thought it would save time this morning if we got the anchor then and just moored to the buoy. So we only had to cast off this morning."

Mrs. Proctor did not entirely understand these technical statements, but she thought she did, and was more than ever convinced that seamanship was an odd business.

"But the engine isn't going."

"No, madam."

"And I didn't hear the sails go up."

"No, madam. You see, there's a very nice breeze, and so the captain only hoisted the staysail, so as not to disturb anybody below."

"But"——

Mrs. Proctor did not proceed farther with the steward. She perceived in a flash how an awful thing had come about. Neither the captain nor the crew had seen Elizabeth arrive on board. They were all at breakfast. Elizabeth embarked silently, used no gangway, and her own boat had vanished—for the time being. Breakfast finished, the captain had given his orders, beautifully ignorant of the presence of a stranger on board, and the yacht had stolen away and stolen Mrs. Draver from her spouse.

Mrs. Draver appeared at the door of the cabin.

"My dear, something frightful has happened. The captain didn't know you were on board, and we're at sea."

"Well, the captain will have to put back, then," said Mrs. Draver calmly.

west all night) at 9:07 a. m. and 28 minutes later, after a Boeing breakfast, we were on our way with Harry A. Collison in plane No. 3272, over the rising plains country of Wyoming.

Within 15 minutes we had reached our first foothills, with cattle grazing in the flat stretches between them, and in 10 minutes more we went "over the 'top'" through gullies and canyons, which Collison seemed to know as well as his plane, and started down a gradual sloping plain which seemed to stretch out interminably on the other side.

Again and again Collison flushed little groups of antelope which were off like the wind beneath us, and once he maneuvered swiftly and expertly over a dodging coyote, firing twice at the frantic animal with a long-barreled "six-shooter."

At 12 Collison landed at Rock Springs, 6400 feet above sea level, telling us that we had passed over the Red Desert and Laramie Plains on the way from Cheyenne. Fifteen minutes later, having changed to his own ship, No. 3282, we were off again after Collison, like the other pilots before him, had inquired how we were enjoying the trip and promised us a "scenic ride" through the canyons ahead of us. Throughout the trip we were struck by the real interest shown by pilots in trying to make their passengers comfortable and the flight entertaining and instructive.

After a ride which combined "scenic" attractions with all the thrills of a Coney Island roller coaster, we found Salt Lake City below us in a pall of smoke. We landed at 1:45 p. m. I was just twenty-four hours out of New York City.

Thirty-five minutes later, with another Boeing meal under my belt and farewells said to my traveling companion, who was going by another air line to Los Angeles, I left Salt Lake City with Jack Sharpnack.

We were in plane No. 3288 and struck straight out across great Salt Lake itself with its surrounding barrier of brown mountains.

We were in plane No. 3288 and struck straight out across great Salt Lake itself with its surrounding barrier of brown mountains.

At 4:15, Elko, Nevada.

A fifteen-minute stop for fuel, while the heat makes little whirlwinds on the field, and Sharpnack says that in the winter a temperature of 45 below is nothing at all for Elko, then off again over more desolate mountains and still more desolate deserts and through a series of twisting mountain passes into Reno at 6:35.

Twenty minutes, a new passenger who has never been in the air and figures the expe nce is well worth the fare, and we are off again, climbing laboriously to top the first wooded mountains we have met in the West — the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevadas. Over them at last, through a pass with serpentine railroad tracks, snow-shed covered, leading up to it from the Reno side and down through rugged, winding gorges into California.

And so, at last, Mather Field, Sacramento, for a three-minute fuel stop.

At 8:03 Sharpnack took off again for San Francisco, flying over irrigated valley country until he struck the Sacramento River. We passed over this and crossed a series of rolling sand-dune hills until Oakland appeared at a distance on the left. Five minutes later, racing a huge flood of fog, which we could see for miles ahead pouring in through the Golden Gate, and we had reached our destination.

SEVERAL days later I began my return journey from Pasco, Washington, via the Varney Air Mail route to Salt Lake City.

Joe Taff, the pilot, was inclined to be pessimistic.

A lot of good pilots have a tendency in this direction and getting up before the sun is on the job doesn't improve matters. Besides, Joe is a trifle deaf from long hours behind noisy motors, and a moody breakfast of coffee and doughnuts at the only all-night restaurant in Pasco may have had a depressing effect.

"Got any more clothes?" he asked. "It's apt to get pretty cold on us and you'll get a lot of wind up there in the mail compartment. Sorry there's no seat except the mail bags." And he was off to rustle up a flying suit of his own as well as a pair of heavy gloves.

The Field Superintendent started the Wright Whirlwind motor of the little Swallow biplane in which we were to fly on the first leg of this "feeder" line out of the Northwest to the main artery of the air mail system—the transcontinental route between New York and San Francisco.

The Whirlwind, roaring to be off, had settled into a refrain which probably was to the effect that on one magneto alone it could show a sweeter herd of horsepower than any of its famous trans-Atlantic twins which got such a break on account of Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd. Just give it a chance and see!

Taff silenced the rebellious song with his throttle hand. He nodded his head and the blocks were pulled. His hand moved again in acceptance of the engine's challenge and all nine cylinders gave a ready response. We were off as the dazed red eye of the sun blinked mistily over the horizon and my watch indicated 6 o'clock. The field was half covered with floating wisps of fog, but Taff lifted his ship unhesitatingly through them and pointed its nose to the southeast. For a time the fog thickened perceptibly beneath us, clinging close to the ground where it rose from the junction of the Snake and Columbia rivers but never quite closing in solidly to shut out the earth below; presently the waterways were left behind and the fog vanished completely.

Thus on and on over prosperous-looking farming country. Boise, Idaho, the end of the run for Joe Taff, but only 240 miles on the way to Salt Lake City for me. Nine o'clock. A brief breathing spell while the mail is transferred to a new Stearman plane, also Wright-motored, the first of a fleet to replace the old Swallows. We are off again, this time with J. M. Barnes in the pilot's seat and myself luxuriously installed in a wicker chair which has been thoughtfully put into the mail bin.

Presently a little knot of farmers, or more likely their lately grown-up sons, digging and sacking a bountiful crop of potatoes in a field over which Barnes wheeled exuberantly, dropped their work and sent up a barrage of "spuds," which did credit to American throwing arms, but fortunately fell a little short of the flying target.

And on we flew, first over lifeless water and then over lifeless sand. Finally Salt Lake City and a landing at 12:25 p. m. for a good lunch and a three-hour wait on the eastbound Boeing plane carrying the mail from San Francisco with which I was scheduled to ride into Chicago.

Somehow the hum of the great Pratt & Whitney Wasp motor had a sound of complete dependability, and I settled down luxuriously to watch the matchless scenery surrounding Salt Lake City as Pilot Henry A. Boonstra pointed the plane's nose skyward and began a long climb to top the mountain ranges ahead.

With the motor laboring under the combined handicap of a good load and the thin air of high altitude, but never faltering, we topped the mountain crests hemming in the Great Salt Lake basin and set our course across the high plateaus of the Rockies.

AND then sundown in all the gorgeous hues of the West's clear air and great distances and with the perspective that only may be had of such a spectacle from an airplane. And so in the lingering twilight over the last mountain ridge and down on the air mail field at Rock Springs, Wyo., for a fifteen-minute fuel stop and weather reports which presage trouble ahead.

At 6:40 p. m., we were off once more, the faithful engine and sturdy plane lifting us quickly from a field that is 6400 feet above sea level and take-offs difficult in the rarefied air.

The weather grew thicker and Boonstra throttled his motor and went into a glide above a revolving beacon and its emergency landing field. Instinctively my hand switched out the dome light in the cabin lest the glow from the windows bother him in landing. I did not know until later that the pilot has a switch of his own for this very purpose in case he is forced to come down unexpectedly at night. But Boonstra wished only to get underneath the clouds, not to land.

A single red flare was burning on the field; it meant "bad weather ahead, proceed with caution." We flew on toward the next beacon, struggling manfully with the mists beyond the next ridge. Beside it burned two red flares.

"Come down while the coming's good," they said; orders from headquarters for this division, just over the cloud-capped ridge to the east—Cheyenne. Boonstra took a reluctant last look at the beacon beyond, a fitful flare in the mists, and obeyed. To be within 50 miles of your run's end and not go through was tough. But tougher things can happen to a man flying at night in the fog. Boonstra circled and landed.

Laramie, Wyo. Shades of the wild and woolly West. A field muddy from the almost melted snow; a field caretaker, with a cozy hut, where Boonstra and I thawed out and the pilot got final confirmation by telephone from Cheyenne that he was not to come on through; a call to the town truckman, already sworn in as a special mail carrier for such occasions, and a wild ride across the mountain through the fog to Cheyenne.

Pilot E. M. Allison was due to carry on from Cheyenne, and the weather toward Chicago was reported bad for flying. But the Field Superintendent lent me his overcoat and we started off in the middle of the night.

Almost immediately we ran into the "ceiling"—clouds scarcely a hundred feet off the ground. The lights of Cheyenne were still visible behind us, but ahead was a blank, clammy wall. Allison tried it two or three times, turning on his landing lights in a futile effort to pierce the fog, then turned back and landed.

"We'll get some ham and eggs and see what it looks like then," he said. We ate and the weather was worse. The two of us turned in on bunks provided for the air mail pilots, and a few hours' pleasant oblivion was shattered at 6:30 a. m. by Allison's hand on my shoulder.

The weather was still thick but it was daylight and he was confident we could get through to Omaha, the first stop scheduled. Fifteen minutes later we were off, Allison heading up through the thinning clouds for the open daylight above.

Our first landing was at North Platte, Neb., for a 12-minute fuel stop.

Off again then, cutting across the lazy bends of the Platte River, first under, then over, the clouds until at 11:25 a. m. we landed at Omaha and Allison's run was over. We ate a lunch and drank some hot coffee that was waiting for me and 15 minutes after landing I was off again, this time with Pilot I. O. Biffle at the controls.

AT OMAHA they told us the westbound plane had been unable to come through from Chicago, and the same story of thick weather ahead was given us when we landed in Iowa City at 1:50 p. m. for gas. Ten minutes later, we were off, however, and 15 minutes after that we met the westbound plane speeding on its way—sure indication that the weather still was clearing ahead. At 2:35 we crossed the Mississippi River under clouds that were becoming lower and lower, with now and then a drizzle of rain. The visibility steadily was growing worse, but we flew on, less than a hundred feet above the countryside. And thus the flight continued uneventfully until conditions seemed nearly impossible for flying. At this point Biffle "picked up" Maywood Field, Chicago, circled once and landed smoothly on the wet cinder runway.

Two planes were waiting to take the delayed trans-continental mail and the New York-Chicago overnight air mail east over the route operated by National Air Transport, but Wesley L. Smith, veteran pilot and superintendent of this division, shook his head when asked about taking a passenger in one of them.

"It's nearly dark," he said, "and we don't carry any passengers at night. It looks like the weather might be bad tomorrow afternoon, too, and the country between Cleveland and New York is nowhere for an airplane passenger when the weather's thick. If I were you and in a hurry I'd take a night train."

It sounded like good advice and I took it. But the train was 23 hours en route and, except for the weather, I would have been through in seven or less by plane. Aviation is like that. So is weather. But it did not delay the mail.

the phrase. "A hundred and twenty-five ton yacht does not put back. You don't ask a train to put back because somebody had boarded it by mistake, and you could not ask the Aphra to put back. If you did, Jackie would think the end of civilization had come."

Mrs. Proctor ran into her own cabin. Arthur was still sleeping heavily.

"Arthur! Arthur!" No response. Men were astounding.

She then knocked at the door of the owner's cabin. Equally no response. Mrs. Proctor flew up on deck, followed by Mrs. Draver. Yes, the Aphra was at sea. The staysails were well filled. The captain, unaware of calamity, was at the wheel. Various members of the crew were quietly cleaning brass. The ship pitched very, very gently in the smooth, glittering sea. There was something inexorable about her movement. Cry "Stop"? You could not cry "Stop." Mrs. Proctor, nonplussed, looked behind. The little pudding basin of Polpooe was getting smaller every moment. It was fading. It was like a historical event, receding irrevocably into the past, and never to be recalled. To see Polpooe from the moving ship was like reading about Polpooe.

THEN was heard the distant sound of a siren, several times sharply repeated. The captain gazed aft. All the sailors on deck ceased work and gazed aft.

"What's the fellow making a noise about?" asked the captain.

"Hadn't you better stop, skipper?" Mrs. Proctor weakly suggested, utterly unlike herself.

"Stop'm? We can't stop. She's got the tide under her. Besides"——

At this point the captain caught sight of an unknown woman, Mrs. Draver, and was transfixed with astonishment. The look on his face was so comical that Mrs. Proctor laughed the laugh of incipient hysteria. Both stewards came on deck. The cook's white-capped head appeared at the forecastle hatch.

"That's that old coal barge a-coming," said the captain. "If she wants us, she'll soon overhaul us. She's got a motor in her enough to shake her to bits. I seed her last year."

The pursuing vessel showed a foaming prow, and was visibly growing larger and larger.

"Leonard is in that barge!" exclaimed Mrs. Draver solemnly.

"Lower yer staysail!" shouted the captain.

"Lower yer staysail," repeated two deck hands, according to ritual, and the staysail came down.

"Hoist yer staysail!" the captain cried, a few minutes later. "He looks as if he was coming alongside, and I must have steering way on her."

"Hoist yer staysail," repeated the deck hands.

The staysail rose again. The coal barge bore down with the ruthlessness and the inevitability of pursuing justice. Soon could be heard the murmur of the divided white water at her prow

"Leonard's always watching in the garden with his glasses," said Mrs. Draver, clasping Mrs Proctor's hand. "He saw me come on board and the boat go away, and then he saw the yacht move off and he got excited. Hence the coal barge. He'd have chartered a steamer, if he couldn't have got anything less."

"But surely"—— Mrs. Proctor began.

"Yes, of course, infant," Mrs. Draver cut her short. "But, you see, Leonard doesn't think. He feels."

The barge, slackening speed, drew alongside. There was a shock and a great pother. The captain of the yacht bawled something in the confusion to the grimy steerer of the barge, and the steerer of the barge bawled back.

"Hi! Look out!" the captain almost screamed.

But Mrs. Draver had leaped from the yacht's rail into the vile depths of the barge; and a hatless old man had caught her by the waist and was holding her, and also kissing her.

"Well," muttered the captain. "That was a fine set-out, that was!"

The barge sheered off, and, in half a minute, was making for Polpooe. Mrs. Proctor felt lonely, for Mrs. Draver seemed to have quite forgotten her.

"Alb," said the captain to the mate. "Have a look there—see how much he's done to our paint. And swab down again here. He's left half his coal dust behind him."

LASTLY, at a distance of a quarter of a mile, Mrs. Draver turned and waved from the barge. And Mrs. Proctor waved in reply. She was smiling, and she was crying, too—not from grief at parting with her beloved friend, but from another emotion. Might it be envy, or something nobler?

(Concluded from page 8.)

It rained softly in the afternoon. Arthur Proctor took the opportunity to have more repose in his cabin. Mrs. Proctor sat in the saloon with Jackie, listening to the gentle patter of the rain on the deck above. The two men had not heard the whole truth about Elizabeth's adventure of the morning; they had heard only part of it—the mere physical events of it. Tikky had not even begun to relate the rest, because she felt the hopelessness of trying to convey its significance to those comfortable, lazy, teasing, sardonic males. How could they possibly understand?—the one a nice, heavy husband, sunk in ease and satisfaction, the other the lowest of created beings, a bachelor, profoundly decent and indifferent to women.

Jackie and Tikky were discussing housekeeping, upon which Jackie justifiably regarded himself as an authority. They sat close together; she was holding his hand in a friendly, affectionate way, for she liked Jackie while despising him. Arthur, having wakened and feeling the need of tea, strolled into the saloon.

"HULLO!" he murmured. "Here you are." Tikky did not move—even her hand. Presently she went into their cabin. Arthur followed her and carefully shut the door. She looked at him and waited.

"I say, Tikky," said he. "I think I shall have to speak to Jackie."

"Oh, what about?" cried Tikky, as it were, hopefully.

"His confounded Ceylon tea. He really ought to give us China."

"Puh!" she exploded. "Is that all?"

A little later she said: "Arthur, were you ever jealous?"

"About you?"

"Yes."

"Certainly not. Why should I be?" he asked with perfect tranquillity. "Why do you ask?"

"I won't tell you—you wouldn't even know what I meant."

"Oh, all right!"

"It isn't all right," Tikky asserted, contradictory. And she thought of Elizabeth, eternally watched and longed for, and she sighed.

You have already heard of this amazing fabric—but have you worn it?

It's different—and its difference goes back to the very spinning and weaving. There is a glistening light to its thread that gives a lasting luster. Plain Colors—and Prints—are unbelievably lovelier—they take on a rare new "bloom". The white is pure white and stays white.

Yet with all its super-threads, its most expensive method of weaving, its tub-fast colors—with all its remarkable beauty in draping, its rare softness to the touch—Light o' day is amazingly low in price!

You have only to see Light o' day, to feel its pleasant texture, and you will realize how perfect Light o' day is for street, school and "dressy" frocks; for use in ensembles—where the coat is lined with the frock fabric. You'll want to make negligees, nightdresses, pajamas, and lingerie from it, too!

Tell your favorite store that Light o' day is made by Fred Butterfield & Co., Inc., 361 Broadway, New York City, makers of the famous Lingette and Normandy Voile. Millions of yards of these fine fabrics are sold annually.

Sound Sleep—

its importance to your success

Now over a million men enjoy instant, all-night sleep that brings energetic, wide-awake days . . . by using this new Swiss food-drink

We offer you a 3-day test

Ambition. Mental alertness. The power of concentration. The energy to accomplish big things. All these qualities, which are in the make-up of every successful man, are largely the reward of sound, restoring sleep.

And now modern science has found a natural way to instant, restful sleep that restores your tired mind and body—without drugs!

Drugs, as you know, do not give you natural, restful sleep. Even the nonhabit-forming narcotics leave you "logy" and befuddled when you awake.

That is why doctors everywhere now recommend Ovaltine. Ovaltine is a pure food-beverage that puts you to sleep without drugs. And as you sleep, its special food properties act like a tonic on your system. You don't wake up feeling "logy."

Morning finds you a new man. Fresh, clear-eyed, buoyant. You have the energy to carry you right through the day and into the evening.

The 3-day test we offer here will prove all we say. Note particularly how good you feel when you get up in the morning.

Why Ovaltine brings restoring sleep

First—It digests very quickly. Even in cases of impaired digestion.

Second—It supplies your system with certain health-building essentials which are often missing from your daily fare. One cup of Ovaltine has actually more food value than 12 cups of beef extract.

Third—Ovaltine has the unusual power of digesting 4 to 5 times its own weight of other foods you eat. Hence digestion goes on speedily and efficiently. As a result frayed nerves are soothed because digestive unrest, the main cause of sleeplessness, is overcome.

This is why, when taken at night, a cup of hot Ovaltine brings sound, restoring sleep in a natural way.

Hospitals and Doctors recommend it

It is the special food properties of Ovaltine—and absolutely nothing else—that bring its wonderful results and popularity. In use in Switzerland for over 30 years. Now in universal use in England and her colonies. During the great war it was served as a standard ration to invalid soldiers.

A few years ago Ovaltine was introduced into this country. Today hundreds of hospitals use it. More than 20,000 doctors recommend it, not only for sleeplessness, but because of its special dietetic properties, they also recommend it for nerve-strain, malnutrition, backward children, nursing mothers and the aged.

A 3-day test

Just make a 3-day test of Ovaltine. Note the difference, not only in your sleep, but in your next day's energy. You tackle your work with greater vigor. You "carry through" for the whole day. You aren't too tired to go out for the evening. There's a new zest to your work; to all your daily activities. It's truly a "pick-up" drink—for any time of the day.

All druggists sell Ovaltine in 4 sizes for home use. Or they can mix it for you at the soda fountain. But to let you try it we will send a 3-day introductory package for 10 cents, to cover cost of packing and mailing. Just send in coupon with 10 cents.

Vreeland's Great, New Discovery

Brings Back Original Color to Gray Hair!

This is Vreeland, who now has discovered secret of bringing back original color to gray hair without dye, tint nor stain.

Positively NOT a Dye, Stain nor Tint

Thousands of men and women owe their full, beautiful heads of hair to Vreeland who learned the secret of growing hair on his own head. Now, he offers a discovery which gives you back the original color of your hair no matter what that color was. If it was black, it will be black again. Or if it was brown, brown it will be. It is marvelous how this magic liquid, as white and as harmless as water, brings back youthful looks to prematurely old-appearing men and women. Merely rub it on with the fingers and Presto! Back comes the color just as it was when you were 20.

Now You Can Reduce 2 to 4 Lbs. in a Night

Eat what you please
Wear what you please
Do what you please
Take no risky medicine

Send the coupon for your first three Fayro Baths

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes.

Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well groomed men.

Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs are now Brought to You

Painstaking analyses of the active ingredients of the waters from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lazy body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Lose Weight Where You Most Want to

Fayro reduces weight generally but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The regular price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. With the coupon you get 3 full sized packages and an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores," for $2.50 plus the necessary postage. Send no money. Pay the postman. Your money refunded instantly if you want it.

HERE'S PROOF
Read what Fayro Baths have done for others

"Three Fayro baths reduced my weight 11 pounds in 8 days. I feel better than I have felt for years."

"I weigh 16 pounds less and feel younger and sleep better. Fayro is wonderful."

"My double chin vanished in the magic of Fayro baths."

"My hips were always too prominent until I commenced Fayro baths. I have lost 12 pounds."

"Thank you for Fayro. I lost 14 pounds in three weeks, feel better and certainly look better."

"Since childhood my thick ankles have always been a source of embarrassment. Fayro baths have reduced them beautifully. Thank you you very much."

For obvious reasons, names are not quoted, but every letter published has been authorized and names and addresses will be given on request.

FAYRO

If each healthful bath of Fayro does not reduce your weight from 2 to 4 pounds, we will refund your money without a question. You risk nothing. Clip the coupon and mail it today.

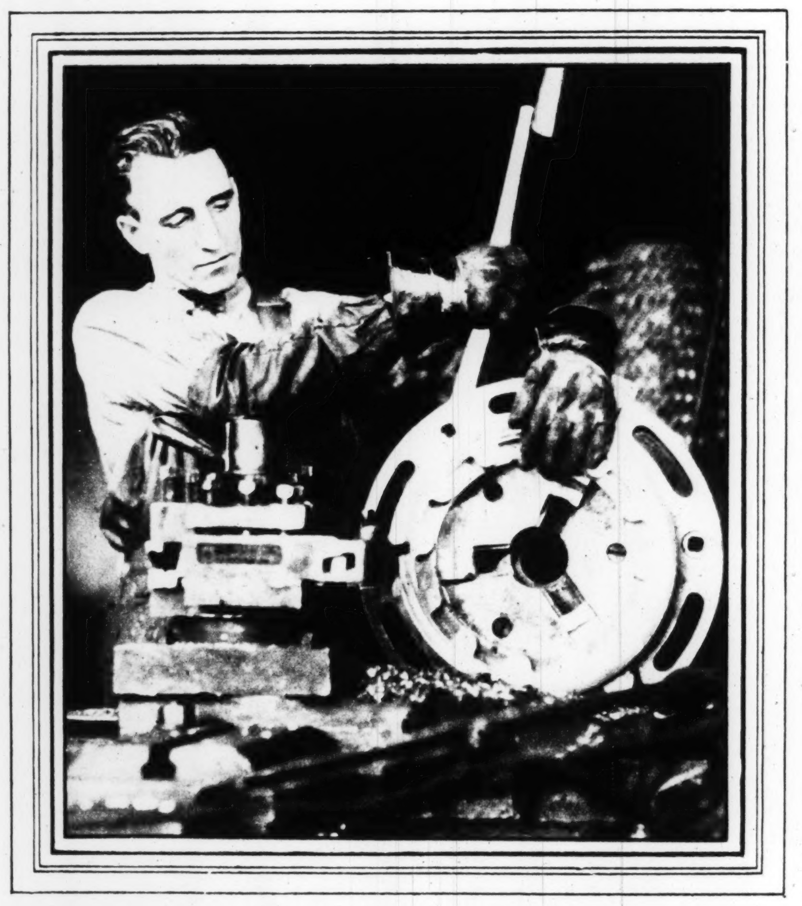
Indigestion

BANISHED BY A SIMPLE FOOD



Now . . . . "attacks the old job with a new vengeance."

No longer fettered by ill health

Buffalo, New York, May 10th

"I FACED A PROBLEM at the plant which was hard to solve. I had been ill and my vitality was low. Any attempt at eating was uninviting. And I did not seem able to digest what food I did eat. Rather than take a less exacting position and sacrifice on my earning power, I decided to build up my system. Fleischmann's Yeast was the agent employed. The results were quickly noticeable. The first indication of improvement was a desire for food. Gradually my indigestion completely vanished. Now I attack the old job with a new vengeance."

W. THAYER HENNEMAN

Chicago, Ill., April 2nd

"AS OFFICE MANAGER of a Chicago bond investment house, I am, of course, indoors most of the day. Like so many others who work in offices, I suffered from indigestion. I was in actual distress a few hours after eating. I got to consider discomfort and that unpleasant 'fullness' almost a matter of course. I tried many remedies—to no avail . . . Then, one day, a good friend advised me to eat Fleischmann's Yeast. I could do no less than give it a trial. Soon I began to feel an improvement. I kept on. The results were remarkable. Now all pain, discomfort and 'fullness' have gone as if by magic. Today I am in splendid condition."

BERNARD CAMPBELL

AS FRESH as any garden vegetable, Fleischmann's Yeast gradually cleanses the whole intestinal tract, aids digestion, makes elimination easy, regular, more complete. Order 2 or 3 days' supply at a time from your grocer. Eat one cake before each meal or between meals, plain, or drink it dissolved in water, cold or hot (not scalding), or take it in any other way you prefer. Send for our latest booklet on Yeast in the diet. Dept. N-945, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 18th

"I LIKE TO TRAVEL but life seemed nothing but worry and ill health. The trouble was indigestion, accompanied by constipation. I felt tired every morning when I woke up.

"One evening when I was particularly miserable I decided to give Fleischmann's Yeast a trial. Early the next morning I went to a grocer for a supply. I noticed improvement within a few weeks. I began to sleep soundly. My digestive troubles simply disappeared."

ANSWER THE TELEPHONE-I GUESS THAT'S MY DRESS MAKER. TELL HER TO COME TO-MORROW MORNING-
HELLO JIGGS. THIS IS CASEY KIN YOU COME DOWN TO KELLY'S POOL PARLOR TO-NIGHT?
THAT'S FUNNY THAT'S JUST EXACTLY WHERE I WAS GOIN' TO-NIGHT- YES I'LL BE THERE!
WHAT DO YOU THINK-MAGGIE! CASEY JUST CALLED AN' SAID HE AN' HIS MISSUS ARE GOIN' TO-COUNT DE STROY'S DINNER TO-NIGHT-
THOSE TERRIBLE PEOPLE! WELL I'M NOT GOING. SO THAT'S THAT. I WOULDN'T BE SEEN WITH SUCH LOW BROWS
IT WORKED!
I'VE BEEN THINKING IT OVER. WE'LL DINE AT HOME THEN GO TO THE OPERA- TELEPHONE FOR TWO SEATS!
OH, MAGGIE' HAVE A HEART: I CAN'T EVEN SLEEP AT THE OPERA!
HELLO- OPERA? THIS IS-MR- JIGGS- HAVE YOU GOT TWO GOOD SEATS? A-2 AND A-4? ALL RIGHT- KEEP THEM FOR ME!
THAT AIN'T SO GOOD!
ZIS EES MEESUS JEEGS' DRESSMAKER- WHEN SHE WAN'T ME COME OOP?
YOU DON'T SAY! A-6 AND A-8! AIN'T IT A FUNNY WORLD? I JUST GOT A 2 AN' A-4 FOR MAGGIE AN' ME!
KIN YOU BEAT IT, MAGGIE? CASEY JUST TELEPHONED HE AN' NELLIE ARE GO THE OPERA AN' THEY GOT SEATS RIGHT NEXT TO US!
IF THEY THINK I'D BE SEEN SITTING ALONGSIDE OF THEM, THEY'RE CRAZY- I'M NOT GOING OUT!
DO YOU MIND, MAGGIE IF I GIVE OUR OPERA TICKETS TO BARON BOOBEY? HE HAS NO TELEPHONE. I'LL TAKE THEM OVER TO HIM'
THAT'S A GOOD IDEA. BUT SEE THAT YOU COME RIGHT BACK!
IT'S TWO-A-M BOYS. WE CLOSE IN HALF AN HOUR!
ALL RIGHT- WE KIN GO TO RILEY'S PLACE- HE'S OPEN ALL NIGHT AN' HE'S GOT BETTER TABLES!
